Which saye, that youre fore is not able to stande before oure face, for thy fathers haue bene troyse chased in to their owne londe. And now, how wyle thou be able to abyde so greate an hoost of hoisemen and fotemen in the felde, where as is nether rocke, stonier place to fle vnto?

When Jonathas herde the wordes of Appollonius, he was moued in his mynde: wherfore he chose x. thousande men and wente out of Jerusalem, and Symon his brother met him for to helpe him: And they pitched their tentes at Joppa, but the cite keppe him forth, for Joppa was an holde of Appollonius. Then Jonathas layed sege in it, and they that were in the cite, for very feare let him in: and so Jonathas wanne Joppa. Appollonius hearinge of this, toke the thousande hoisemen, with a greate hoost of fore, and wente as though he wolde go in to Azotus, & came immediately in to the playne felde: because he had so many hoisemen, and put his trust in the. So Jonathas folowed vpon him to Azotus, & there they foughte battayll. Now had Appollonius left a thousande hoisemen behynde them pryncely in the cite. And when Jonathas knewe that soch warre was layed behynde them, they were rounde aboute the enemies hoost, and shodartes at the people from the morninge to the eueninge. As for Jonathas people, they kepte their ordie as he had commaunded them, & the enemies hoises were ener labouringe.

Then broughte Symon forth his hoost, and set them agaynst the foremen. Such hoisemen were weery already. So he discomfited them, and they fled. And they that were scattered in the felde, gat them to Azotus, and came in to the temple of Dagon that Idol, & they mighte here saue their lyues. But Jonathas set fyre vpon Azotus and all the cities rounde aboute it, & toke their goodes, and bitt vp the temple of Dagon with all them that were fled in to it.

Thus were slayne and bitt well nyxte thousande men. So Jonathas removed the hoost from thence, and broughte them to Ascalon: where he men of the cite came forth, and met him with greate worshippe. After this wente Jonathas and his hoost agayne to Jerusalem, with greate substantia of good. And when kynge Alexander herde these thinges, he thought to do Jonathas more worshippe, & sent him a colar of golde, as the vse is to be geuen vnto soch as are of the kynges nexte bloude. He gaue him also the cite of Accaron (with the londes belonginge therto) in possession.

The XI. Chapter.

And kynge of Egypte gathered a hoost, (like the sonde & lieth vpon the see shore) and many shippes: and wente aboute the shore disceate to opeyne the dome of Alexander, & to ioine it vnto his owne realme. Vpon this he toke his iourney in to Syria, & was letten in to the cities, and me came forth to meete him: for kynge Alexander had commaunded them so to do, because he was his father in lawe. Now when Ptolomy entred in to eny cite, he leste me of warre to kepe it, and this he dyd chorow out all cities. And when he came to Azotus, they shewed him the temple of Dagon and Azotus that was brennt vp, with the other thinges which were destroyed, the deed bodies cast abrode, and yf graues that they had made by the waye syde, for soch as were slayne in the felde: And tolde the kynge that Jonathas had done all these thinges, to the intent they mighte get him euell will. But the kynge sayde not a worde thereto.

And Jonathas met the kynge with great honore at Joppa, where they saluted one another, and toke their rest. So when Jonathas had gone with the kynge, vnto the warre that was called Eleutherus, he turned agayne to Jerusalem. Now Ptolomy had gotten the dominion of the cities vnto Seleucia vpon the see coast, ymaginyng wicked counsels agaynst Alexander, & sent embassours vnto Demetrius, sayenge: Come, let vs make a bonde betwixte vs, so shall I geue the my doughter that Alexander hath, and thou shalt raigne in thy fathers kyngdome. I repent that I gaue Alexander my doughter, for he goeth aboute to slaye me. And thus he slaundered Alexander, because he wolde haue had his realme.

Thus he toke his doughter from him, gaue her vnto Demetrius, and forsoke Alexander, so that his malice was openly knowne. And Ptolomy came to Antioche, where he set two crownes vpon his owne heade: the crowne of Egypte and of Asia. In the meane season was kynge Alexander in Cilicia, for they that dwelt in those places, had rebelled agaynst him. But when Alexander herde of this, he came to warre agaynst him. So kynge Ptolomy broughte forth his hoost and met him with a mightie power, and chased him awaye. Then fled Alexander in to Arabie, there to be defended, and kynge Ptolomys honoure increased. And Zabdiel the Arabian smote of Alexanders heade, and sent it vnto Ptolomy. But the thirde daye after, died kynge Ptolomy himself: and they whom he had set in the stronge holdes, were slayne of those that were within the cities. And Demetrius raigned in yf hundred and fowen and fiftie yere.

At the same tyme gathered Jonathas them that were in Jewry to laye sege vnto the castell which was at Jerusalem, and so they made many instrumentes of warre agaynst it. Then wente there certayne vngod-

ly personnes (which hated their owne people) vnto kynge Demetrius, and tolde him, that Jonathas beseged the castell. So when he herde it, he was angrie, and immediately came to Ptolomais, and wrote vnto Jonathas, that he shulde not laye sege to the castell, but come and speake with him in all the haist. Where the lesse when Jonathas herde this he commaunded to besege it. He chose also certayne of the elders and priestes of Israel, and put him self in the parell, and toke with him golde, syluer, clothinge and diuers se presentes: and wente to Ptolomais vnto the kynge, and founde him gracions.

And though certayne vngodly men of his owne people made complayntes vpon him, yet the kynge intreated him, like as his predecessours had done before: and promoted him in the sight of all his frendes, confirmed him in the hye priesthode with all the worshippe he had afore, and made him his chiefe frende. Jonathas also desired the kynge that he wolde make Jewry fre, with the thre head cities of Samaria and the londes pertayninge therto: vpon this dyd Jonathas promyse him thre talentes. Where vnto the kynge consented, and gaue Jonathas wytyng of the same, conteyninge these wordes: Kynge Demetrius sendeth greeting vnto his brother Jonathas and to the people of the Jewes. We sende you here a copy of the lettre which we dyd wyte vnto our elder Lathenus, concernyng you, that ye shulde knowe it.

Kynge Demetrius sendeth gretinge vnto Lathenus his elder. For the saichfulness that oure frendes the people of the Jewes kepe vnto vs, and for the lowynge kyndnesse which they beare towarde vs: we are determined to do them good. Wherfore we ordene all the coastes of Jewry with the thre cities, Lyda and Ramatha (which are added vnto Jewry from Samaria) & all yf lodes pertayninge there vnto, to be frely separated for soch as do sacrifice in Jerusalem: both concernyng the paymettes which the kynge toke yearly afore tyme, & yf frutes also of the earth & trees. As for other tithes & tributes he belonged vnto vs, we discharge the therof from this tyme forth. In like maner we graunte vnto the all the customes of sale and crowne taxes, which were brought vnto vs. And this fredome shal they haue firme & stedfast, fro this tyme forth for enermore. Therfore se ye make a copy of these letters, and deliuer it vnto Jonathas: that it maye be kepte vpon yf holy mount in a conuenient place.

After this, when Demetrius the kynge sawe that his londe was in rest, and that no resistauce was made him: he sent awaye all his hoost every man to his owne place, excepte an armye of straungers, whom he brought from the Isles of the heithen, wherfore all his fathers hoost had enill wyll at him. Now was there one Triphon (that had bene of Alexanders parte afore) which when he sawe that all the hoost murmured agaynst Demetrius: he wente to Eumelus the Arabian (that brought vp Antiochus the sonne of Alexander) and laye sege vpon him, to deliuer him this yonge Antiochus: that he might raigne in his fathers steade. He tolde him also what greates enill Demetrius had done, & how his me of warre loued him not: & so remayned there a longe season.

And Jonathas sent vnto kynge Demetrius, to dryue them out which were in the castell at Jerusalem and in the other refuges, for they dyd Israel greates harmes. So Demetrius sent worde vnto Jonathas, sayenge: I wil not only do these thinges for the and thy people, but at tyme conuenient I wil do both the & thy people greates worshippe. But now thou shalt do me a pleasure, yf thou wilt sende me men to helpe me: for all myne armie is gone from me. So Jonathas sent him iij. M. stronge men vnto Antioche, and they came vnto the kynge, wherfore the kynge was very glad at their commynge. But they that were of the cite (euen an Cxx. thousand men) gathered them together, & wolde haue slayne the kynge, which fled in to his court: & the citsyns kepte the stretes of the cite, and beganne to fight.

Then the kynge called for the Jewes helpe, which came vnto him all together, & wente a brode thorow the cite, and slew the same daye an C. M. men: set fyre vpon the cite, gat many spoyle in that daye, and deliuered yf kynge. So when the citsyns sawe that the Jewes had gotten their wyll of the cite, and they them selues dispoyned of their purpose: they made their supplicacion vnto the kynge, sayenge: Giunte vs peace, and let the Jewes ceasse from troublinge vs and the cite, and vpon this they cast awaye their weapons. Thus they made peace, and yf Jewes gat greates worshippe in the sight of the kynge, and in the sight of all that were in his realme, and were spoken of thorow out the kyngdome: and so they came agayne to Jerusalem with greates goodes.

So the kynge Demetrius sat in the trone of his kyngdome, and had peace in his lode

Nevertheless he dyssembled in all that he spake, & with drewe himself from Jonathas, nether rewarded him accordinge to the benefites which he had done for him, but troubled him very sore. After this came Triphon agayne with yonge Antiochus, which raigne & was crowned kynge. Then they gathered vnto him all yf men of warre, whiche Demetrius had put awaye: these sought agaynst Demetrius, which fled & turned his backe. So Triphon toke the Elephants, & wanne Antioche. And yonge Antiochus wente vnto Jonathas, sayenge: I confesse in thy presthode, & make yf ruler of iij. countrees, yf thou mayest be a frende of yf kynge.

Vpon this he sent him golden vessel to be serued in, and gaue him leue to drynke in golde, to be clothed in purple, and to wear a collar of golde. He made his brother Symon also captayne, from the coostes of Tyne vnto the borders of Egypte. Then Jonathas toke his iourney, & wente thorow yf cities by the water (of Jordane) and all the men of warre of Syria gathered the vnto him for to helpe him. So he came vnto Ascalon, and they of the cite receaued him honorably: & from thence wente he vnto Gaza, but they wolde not let him in: wherfore he layed sege vnto it, burnynge vp and spoilinge the places that were aboute the cite.

And the citsyns of Gaza submytted themselves vnto Jonathas, which made peace with them, but toke of their sonnes to pledge, sent the to Jerusalem, & wente thorow the countree vnto Damascus. Now when Jonathas herd that Demetrius princes were come in to Cades (which is in Galilee) with a greates hoost, purposinge to put Demetrius out from medlinge in the realme: he came agaynst them, and leste Symon his brother in the londe: which came to Bethsura, and layed sege to it a longe season, and discomfited them. So they desired to haue peace of him, which he granted them, & a firmam put them out from thence, toke the cite, and sent to kepe it. And Jonathas with his hoost came to the water of Genesar, & by tymes in the moynynge gat them to the playne felde of Azor.

And beholde, the hoostes of the heithen met the in the felde, & layed watch for the in the mountaynes: so yf when Jonathas came agaynst the, the other (which were layed to watch) rose out of their places, & fought, & they that were of Jonathas syde, fled every man: & there was not one of the leste, excepte Matathias the sonne of Absalemus, and Judas the sonne of Calphi the captayne of the hoost. The Jonathas rente his clothes, layed earth vpon his heade, made his prayer, & turned agayne to the in yf felde: where they fought together, and he put them to flight. Now when his owne me yf were fled, sawe this: they turned agayne vnto him, & helped him to folowe vpon all their enemies vnto their tentes at Cades. So there were slayne of the heithen the same daye, iij. M. men, & Jonathas turned agayne to Jerusalem.

The XII. Chapter.

Jonathas seyng that yf tyme was nere for him, these certaynemen and sent them vnto Rome for to stablsh to renue the frendshipe with the. He sent letters also vnto Sparta, and to other places in like maner. So they wrote vnto Rome and entered in to yf counsell, & sayde: Jonathas yf hye prest & the people of yf Jewes sent vs vnto you, for to renue yf olde frendshipe & bonde of loue. Vpon this yf Romaynes gaue the fre passpoies, & me shulde lede the home in to yf lode of Juda peaceably. And this is yf copy of the letters that Jonathas wrote vnto the Sparcians:

Jonathas yf hye prest w yf elders, prestes, & the other people of yf Jewes, sende greetynge vnto yf Sparcians their brethre. There were letters sente longe agoo vnto Onias yf hye prest, from Arius which than raigne amonge you: that ye are oure brethren, as the writinge made ther vpon specifies. And Onias increased the embassicoure that was sent, honorably, and receaued yf letters: wherein there was mencion made of the bonde of loue & frendshipe. But as for vs, we nede no soch writinges: for why, we haue the holy booke of scripture in oure bondes to oure comfort. Nevertheless we had rather sende vnto you, for the renuynge of yf brotherhode and frendshipe: lest we shulde be straunge vnto you, for it is longe, sens yf tyme yf ye sent worde vnto vs. Wherfore in yf sacrifices yf we of

fre & other ceremonies vpon yf hye solempne dayes and other we allwaye remembre you without ceassynge (like as reason is, and as it becommeth vs to thynke vpon oure brethren) yet and are right glad, of youre prosperous honoure.

And though we haue had greates troubles and warres, so that the kynges aboute vs haue soughten agaynst vs: yet wolde we not be greuous vnto you ner to other of oure louers and frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe fro heauē, so that we are deliuered, and oure enemies subdued. Wherfore we chose Numenius the sonne of Antiochus and Antipater the sonne of Jason, and senter them vnto the Romaynes, for to renue the olde bonde of frendshipe and loue with them. We commaunded them also to come vnto you, to salute you, and to deliuer you letters, concerninge the renouacion of yf brotherhode. And now ye shal do right wel, to geue vs an answer there vnto.

And this is the copy of the writinge, which Arius the kynge of Sparta sente vnto Onias: Arius kynge of the Sparcians sendeth greetynge vnto Onias the hye prest. It is founde in writinge, that the Sparcians and Jewes are brethren, and come of the generacion of Abraham. And now for so much as this is come to oure knowlege, ye shal do wel, to write vnto vs of youre prosperite. As for vs, we haue written & mynde vnto you: Oure catell and goodes are yours and yours, ours. These thinges haue we commaunded to be shewed vnto you.

When Jonathas herd, that Demetrius priences were come forth to fight agaynst him with a greates hoost the afore, he wente fro Jerusalem, & met the in the lode of Bethmeth, for he gaue them not space to come in to his owne countree. And he sent spyes vnto their tentes, which came agayne and tolde him, that they were appoynted to come vpon him in the nyght season. Wherfore when the Sonne was gone downe, Jonathas commaunded his men to watch all yf nyght, & to be ready w weapons for to fight: and set watchmen rounde aboute the hoost. But when the aduersaries herd that Jonathas was ready w his men to the battayll, they feared & were afrayed in their hertes, & kyndled fyres in their tentes, brake vp, and gat them awaye. Nevertheless Jonathas and his company knewe it not till the morninge, for they sawe the fyres burnynge.

Then Jonathas folowed vpon the, but he might not ouertake them, for they were gone out the water Eleutherus. So Jonathas departed vnto Arabia (which were called Sabadei) slewe them, & toke their goodes. He proceeded furthur also, and came vnto Damascus, & wente thorow all that countre. But Simon his brother toke his iourney and came to Ascalon and to the next stronge holdes: departing vnto Joppa, and wanne it. For he herde, that they wolde stonde of Demetrius partie: wherfore he sent me of warre in the cite, to kepe it. After this came Jonathas home agayne, & called the elders of the people together: and deuysed with the for to buyde vp the stronge holdes in Jewry, and the walles of Jerusalem, to set vp an hye wall betwixte the castell and the cite, for to separate it from the cite, that it might be alone, and that men shulde nether bye nor sell in it.

Upō this they came together for to buyde vp the cite: and for moche as the wall vpon the broke of the west syde (called Caphetheta) was fallen downe, they repayred it. And Symon set vp Abiada in Sephela, and made it stronge, settinge portes & lockes vpon it. Now when Triphon purposed to raigne in Asia, to be crowned, and to slaye the kynge Antiochus: he was afrayed that Jonathas wolde not suffre him, but fight against him. Wherfore he wente aboute to take Jonathas, and to kyll him.

So he departed, and came vnto Bethsan. Then wente Jonathas forth against him to the battayll with fourtye thousande chosen men, and came vnto Bethsan also. But whē Triphon sawe that Jonathas came with so greaue an hoost to destroye him, he was afrayed: and therfore he receaued him honorably, commended him vnto all his frendes, gaue him rewardes, and commaunded his men of warre to be as obediēt vnto him as to himself.

And saide vnto Jonathas: why hast thou caused this people to take soch trouaile, seyn

ge there is no warre betwixte vs: These sende them home agayne, & chose certain me to waite vpon the, & come thou to me pto loma: for I wil geue it the, & the other shal ge holde, men of warre and their officers. As forme, I must departe, this is only cause of my comynge. Jonathas beleued him, & dyd as he sayde, puttinge awaye his hoost, which wente in to the londe of Juda, but iij. M. by him, wherof he sente ij. M. to Galilee, & one M. wente with himself.

Now as soon as Jonathas entred into Ptoloma, the citelins sparrd the gates of the cite, and toke him, and slewe all them with the swerde, that came in with him. Then sent Triphon an hoost of fower thousande hoisemen into Galilee and in to the greaue playne felde, to destroye all Jonathas company. But when they knewe that Jonathas was taken, and all they slayne that wayed vpon him: they toke counsell together, and came forth ready to the battayll. So when they which folowed vpon them, sawe that it was a matter of life, they turned backe agayne. As for the other, they wente in to the londe of Juda peaceably, & bewayled Jonathas, & them that were with him right fore. And Israel made greaue lamentacion. Thall all the heithen & were rounde aboute them, sought to destroye the. For they sayde: now haue they no captaigne, nor eny man to helpe them. Therfore let vs overcome them, and rote out their name from amonge men.

The XIII. Chapter.

Now when Symon herde that Triphon gathered a greaue hoost, to come in to the londe of Juda, and to destroye it: and sawe that the people was in greaue fearfulness and care: he came vnto Jerusalem, and gathered the people together, & gaue the exortacion, sayenge: Ye knowe what greaue battayls I and my brethien & my thes house haue stryken for the lawe & the Sanctuary, and what maner of troubles we haue sene: thorow occasion wherof, all my brethien are slayne for Israels sake, and I am left alone. And now let not me spare my owne life in eny maner of trouble, for I am no better then my brethien: but wil avenge my people and the Sanctuary, our children and our wyues: for all the heithen are gathered together, to destroye vs of ray malice.

At these wordes the hartes of the people were kyndled together, so that they and with a loude voyce, sayenge: Then shalt thou be captaigne in steade of Judas & Jonathas thy brethien, ordre thou oure batell, & what soeuer thou commaundest vs, we shall do it. So he gathered all the men of warre, makinge haist to fynish all the walles of Jerusalem, which he made stronge rounde aboute. Then sent he Jonathas the sonne of Absalom to a fresh hoost vnto Joppa, which diuethem out & were in the castell, and remained there himself. Triphon also removed from Ptoloma with a greaue armye, to come in to the londe of Juda, and Jonathas with him in warde. And Symon pitched his tentes at Addus before the playne felde.

But when Triphon knewe that Symon fode vp in steade of his brother Jonathas, and that he wolde warre agaynst him: he sent messaungers vnto him, sayenge: Where as we haue kepte Jonathas thy brother, tis for money that he is owynge in the kynge accompte, concernynge the busynesse & he had in honde. Wherfore sende now an Calices of syluer and his two sonnes for suretie, that when he is lette forth he shal not forsake vs: and we shal sende him agayne. Therathelesse Symon knewe, that he dyssembled in his wordes: yet commaunded he the money & children to be deliuered vnto him: lest he shulde be the greater enemye agaynst the people of Israel, and saye: because he sent him nor the money and the children, therfore is Jonathas deed.

So Symon sent him the children and an hundred talents, but he dyssembled, & wolde not let Jonathas go. Afterwarde came Triphon in to the londe, to destroye it, and wente rounde aboute by the waye, & ledeth vnto Ador. But where so euer they wente, thither wente Symon and his hoost also. Now they that were in the castell, sent messaungers vnto Triphon, that he shulde make haist to come by the wyldernes, and to fode them vytales: And Triphon made ready all his hoisemen to come that same night. Therathelesse it was a very greaue snowe, so that he came not in Galaadithim. And whē he diueneye Baschama, he slewe Jonathas and his sonnes there, and then turned for to go home in to his owne londe.

Thē sente Symon for to set his brothers bed coarfe, and buried it in Modin his fathers cite. So all Israel bewayled him with greaue lamentacion, and mourned for him very longe. And Symon made vpon the sepulchre of his father and his brethien a buylde hye to lorde vnto of fre stone behynde and before: and set vp seuen pylers, one agaynst another (for his father, his mother and foure brethien) and set greaue pilers rounde aboute, with armes vpon them for a perperuall memory, and carued shippes besyde the armes: & they might be sene of men saylinge in the see. This sepulchre which he made at Modin, stonde yet vnto this daye.

Now as Triphon wente forth to walke & the kynge Antiochus, he slewe him traiterously, and raigned in his steade, crowned himself kynge of Asia, and dyd moche euell in the londe. Symon also buylde vp the castles in Jewry, makinge them stronge with hye towres, greaue walles, portes and lockes, and layd vp vytales in the stronge holdes. And Symon chose certayne men, and sente them to kynge Demetrius: to desyre him, & he wolde discharge the londe from all bondage, for Triphon had spoyled it very sore. Where vpon Demetrius the kynge answered him, & wrote vnto him after this maner:

Demetrius & I ge sendeth gretinge vnto Symon the hye prest his frende, with the elders and people of the Jewes. The golden crowne and precious stone & ye sente me to vs, haue we receaued: and are ready to make a stedfast peace with you, yee and to write vnto oure officers, for to release you, concernynge the thinges wherin we made you fire: and the appoyntment & we make with you, shal be firme and stable. The stronge holdes which ye haue buylde, shal be youre owne. As for eny ouer sight or sawte committed vnto this daye, we forgiue it, and the crownetaxe that ye ought vs also. And wher as was eny other tribute in Jerusalem, it shal now be no tribute: and loke who are made amonge you to be in oure court, let them be witten vp, that there maye be peace betwixte vs.

Thus the yock of the heithen was taken from Israel, in the hundreth and seuentie yere. And the peple of the Jewes beganne to write in their lettres and actes on this maner: In the first yere of Symon the hye prest, and prynce of the Jewes.

In those dayes wente Symon vnto Gaza, and beseged it rounde aboute, where he set vp ordinaunce of warre. And wanne a towre, which he toke. So they that gat in to the towre leapt into the cite, which was in a greaue feare: In so moche that the people of the cite rente their clothes, and clymmed vp vpon the walles with their wyues and children, besettinge Symon to be as one with them, sayenge: O rewarde vs not after thy wickednes, but by

S gracious vnto vs, and we shal do y^e seruyce. Then Symon for very pite, wolde fight no more agaynst them, but put them out of the cite, and caused the houses (wherin the ymagies were) to be clenfed: and so entred the cite with Psalmes of prayse, geuinge thankes vnto the L O R D E. So when he had cast all abhominacions out of the cite, he set such men in it as kepte the lawe of God, and made the cite stronge, and builded a dwellinge place for himself.

Now when they in the castell at Jerusalem were kepte so strately, that they coude not come forth ner into countrie, and might nether bye ner sell: they were very hungrie, and many of them famished to death. In so much that they besought Symon to be at one with them, which he graunted them. So he put them out from thence, and clenfed the castell from fylthynesse. And vpon the xxiij. daye of the seconde moneth in the Cxxij. yere they entred in to it with thankesgeuynge and brenches of palme trees, with harpes, crowdes, cymbals, and lutes, synginge psalmes and songes of prayse vnto God, for that the greate enemy of Israel was ouercome.

And Symon ordered that the same daye shulde be kepte every yere in gladnesse, and made stronge the hyll of the temple that was besyde the castell, where he dwelt himself with his company. Symon also perceauynge that Ihon his sonne was a mightie man of armes, made him captayne of all the hoostes, and caused him to dwell at Gaza.

The XIII. Chapter.

In the Cxxij. yere gathered kynge Demetrius his hoost, and departed vnto Media, to gett him helpe for to fight agaynst Triphon. Now when Arsaces the kynge of Persia and Media herde, that Demetrius was entred within his borders: he sente one of his prynces to take him alyne, and to brynge him vnto him. So he wente and slewe Demetrius hoost, toke himselfe, broughed him to Arsaces, which kepte him in warde. And all the londe of Iuda was in rest, so longe as Symon lyued: for he sought the wealch of his people, therefore were they glad to haue him for their ruler, and to do him worshippe allwaye.

Symon wanne the cite of Joppa also for an haven towne, and made it an inuincible in to the Iles of the see. He enlarged the borders of his people, and conquered them more londe: He gathered vp many of their people that were prisoners: he had the domes of Gaza, Bethsura and the castell, which he clenfed from fylthines, and there was no more that resisted him: So that every man had his grounde in peace, the londe of Iuda and the trees gaue their frute and encrease. The elders sat all in iudgment, and toke their deuysce for the wealch of the londe: the yonge men put on worshipe and harnesse vpon them. He prouyded vytayles for the cite, and made goodly stronge holdes of them: so that the same of his worshippe was spoken of vnto the ende of y^e worlde. For he made p^{er}cecthorow out the londe, and Israel was full of myrth and ioye.

Euery mā sat vnder his vyne & figgetre and there was no man to fraye them away. There was none in y^e londe to fight agaynst them, for then the kinges were overcome. He helped those that were in aduersite among his people, he was diligent to se y^e lawe kepte: as for such as were vngodly and wiche he toke the awaye. He set vp y^e Sanctuary, & encreased the holy vessels of the temple.

When y^e Romaynes and Sparcians had gotten worde, y^e Jonathas was dead, they were right fory. But when they herde y^e Symon his brother was made hye prest in his steade, and how he had worne the londe agayne wth the cities in it: they wrote vnto him in tables of laton, to renue the frendshipe & bonde of loue, which they had made with Iudas & Jonathas his breth^{er}. Which writinges were red before the congregacion at Jerusalem.

And this is the copy of the litters, that the Sparcians sent: The Senators and detesyns of Sparta sende gretinge vnto Symon y^e greate prest wth the elders, prestes, & y^e other people of the Jewes their breth^{er}: Whiche embassitours that were sente vnto y^e people, certified vs of youre worshippe, honoure and prosperous wealch: we were glad of that thinge, and haue witten the earande which they spake before the counsell of the people, namely, that Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Jason the Jewes embassitours are come vnto vs, for to renue the olde frendshipe with vs. Vpon this the people consented, that the men shulde be honorably intreated, and that the copy of their earande shulde be witten in the speciall booke of the people, for a perpetual memory vnto the Sparcians: yee and that we shulde sende a copy of the same vnto Symon the greate prest.

After this dyd Symon sende Numenius vnto Rome, with a golden shyld of a thousand pounde weight, to confirme the frendshipe with them: which when the Romaynes vnderstode, they saide: what chākes shal we recompence agayne vnto Symon & his children: for he hath stablished his breth^{er}, and overcome the enemies of Israel. Wherfore they graunted him to be fre. And all this wrote the Jewes in tables of laton, and nailed it vnto the pilers vpon the mount Sion. The copy of the writinge is this:

The xviij. daye of y^e moneth Elul in the Cxxij. yere in the thirde yere of Symon the hye prest, in the greate congregacion of y^e prestes, rulers of the people, and elders of the countrie at Asaramel, were these wordes openly declared:

For so much as there was much warre in our londe, therfore Symon y^e sonne of Mathias (come of the children of Iacob) and his brethien, put them selues in parell, and resisted the enemies of their people: that that Sanctuary and lawe might be manteyned, and dyd their people greate worshippe. Jonathas in like maner, after that he had gouerned his people and bene their hye prest: dyed, and lyeth buried besyde his elders.

After that wolde their enemies haue trodden their holy thinges vnder fote, destroyed their londe, and utterly waisted their Sanctuary. Then Symon withstode them, and fought for his people, spent much of his owne money, weapened the valeant men of his people, gaue them wages, made stronge y^e cities of Iuda, with Bethsura that lieth vpon the borders of Jewry, (where the ordinaunce of their enemies laye sometyme) & se y^e Jewes there for to kepe it.

He made fast Joppa also, which lieth vpon the see, and Gaza that bordierth vpon Egyptus, (where the enemies dwelt afore) and there he set Jewes to kepe it: and what fort was mete for the subduynge of the aduersaries, that layed betherin. Now when the people sawe the noble actes of Symon, and what worshippe he purposed to do for them, his godly behaoure, and faithfulness which he kepte vnto them, & how he fought by all waies y^e wealch of his people, because he dyd all this, therfore they chose him to be their pryncce & hye prest. And in his tyme they prospered wel by him, so y^e the heathen were take out of their londe: & they also which were in the cite of David at Jerusalem in the castell (where they wente out and dest led all thinges that were aboute the Sanctuary, and did greate harme vnto clementines) and Symon put men of the Jewes in it, for the defence of the londe and the cite, and set vp the walles of Jerusalem.

And kynge Demetrius confirmed him in his hye presthode, made him his frende, and dyd him greate worshippe. For he herde that the Romayns called y^e Jewes their frendes, louers and brethien: how honorably they receaued Symons embassitours: how y^e Jewes and prestes consented that he shulde be their pryncce and hye prest perpetually (till God rayled vp the true prophet) and that he shulde be their captayne, to care for the Sanctuary, and to set officers vpon the wortes therof, ouer the londe, ouer the weapens, ouer the houses of defence, to make prouysion for the holy thinges, and to be obeyed of every man, and all the wicynge of y^e londe to be made in his name: that he shulde be clothed in purple and golde, and that it shulde be lawfull for none of the people nor prestes to breake eny of these thinges, to withstonde his wordes, ner to call eny congregacion in the londe without him: that he shulde be clothed in purple, and weere a colar of golde: And yf there were eny which disobeyed or brake this ordinaunce, that he shulde be punyshed.

So all the people consented to allowe Symon, and to do acordynge to these wordes. Symon also himselfe toke it vpon him, and was contente to be the hye prest, the captayne and pryncce of the Jewes and prestes, and to gouerne them all. And they commaunded to make this writinge in tables of laton, and to fasten it vnto the compasse of the Sanctuary in an open place: and to laye vp a copy of the same in the treasury, that Symon and his posterite might haue it.

The XV. Chapter.

Now, kynge Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sente litters from the Iles of the see, vnto Symon the hye prest and pryncce of the Jewes, and to all the people, conteyninge these wordes: Antiochus the kynge sendeth gretinge vnto Symon the hye prest and to the people of the Jewes. For so much as certayne wicked men haue gotten the kynngdome of our progenitours, I am purposed to chalenge the realme agayne, and to restore it to the olde state.

Wherfore I haue gathered a greace hoost

and made shippes of warre: that I maye go thorow the countre, and be auenged of them which haue destroyed oure londe, and waysted many cities in my realme. And therfore now I make the fire also from all the tributes, wherof all kynges my progenitours haue discharged the, and from other customes (wher from they haue released the) what so euer they be: For I geue the leaue to smyte money of thine owne within thy londe. As for Jerusalem, I wil that it be holy and free: and all the weapens and houses of defence which thou hast buylded and kepest in thine bondes, shal be thine. Whereas any thynge is or shal be owynge vnto the kyng, I forgeue it the, from this tyme forth for euermore. And when we haue obtayned oure kyngdome, we shal do the, thy people and the temple greates worship: so that youre honour shal be knowne thorow out y whole worlde.

In the Cxxiij. yere wente Antiochus in to his fathers londe, and all the men of warre came together vnto him, so that fewe were left with Triphon. So the kyng Antiochus folowed vpon him, but he fled vnto Dora, which lieth by the see syde: for he sawe y there was myschefe communge vnto him, and that his hoost had forsaken him. Then came Antiochus vnto Dora w an hūdieth & twentye thousande men of armes vpon foote, and eight thousande horsmen. So he compassed the cite rounde aboute, and y shippes came by the see. Thys they vered the cite by londe and by water, in so much that they suffred no man to go in nor out.

In the meane season came Numerius (z they that had bene with him) from the cite of Rome, hauynge lettres witten vnto the kynges and prouyncies, wherin were conteyned these wordes: Lucius the Mayre of Rome sendeth gretinge vnto Ptolomy the kyng. The embassitours of the Jewes oure frendes beynge sent from Symon the hye priest and from the people of the Jewes, came vnto vs, for to renewe the olde frendshipe and bonde of loue, and brought a shyld of golde weyenge a thousande ponde, which we were contente to receaue of them. Wherfore we thoughte it good to wryte vnto the kynges z prouyncies, to do them no harme, nor to take parte agaynst the, their cities ner countrees nether to mayntene their enemies agaynst them. If there be any wicked personnes there fore fled from their countre vnto you, delyue them vnto Symon the hye priest, y he maye punyssh them acordynge to their owne lawe.

The same wordes wrote the Romaynes

also vnto Demetrius the kyng, to Araba, Arsaees and to all regions: as Samanes, to them of Sparta, Delo, Mida, Sydon, Caria, Samos, Pamphilia, Lycia, Carnassum, and to y Rhodes, to Jafia, Cnida, Sida, Arado, Bortyna, Brydum, to Cyprus and to Cyren. And of euery lentre they sent a copy to Symon the hye priest and to the people of the Jewes. So Antiochus the kyng brought his hoost vnto Dora the seconde tyme, to take it: where he made diuers aduaunce of warre, and kepte Triphon in, y he shoulde not come forth. Then Symon sent Antiochus two thousande chosen me to helpe him with golde, syluer and other plementes. Nevertheless he wolde not receaue them, but brake all y couenaunt which he made y Symon afore, z withdrew himself fro him.

He sent Athenobius also a frende of his vnto Symon, for to reason with him, sayynge: We withholde fro me Joppa and Gaza the castell that is at Jerusalem which are ciues of my realme, whose borders ye haue destroyed, and done greates euell in the londe, by vnyng the dominaciō in many other places of my kyngdome. Wherfore delyue now y cities which ye haue takē, w y tributes of y places y ye haue rule vpon without the borders of Jewry: Or els geue me fyue hundred talentes of syluer, yee and for the harme that ye haue done in the cities and for the tributes of the same, other fyue hundred talentes. If no, we shal come and fight agaynst you.

So Athenobius the kynges frende came to Jerusalem, and when he sawe y greates worship and honoure of Symon in golde, syluer and so greates plenty of ornaments: he marvelled, and tolde Symon as the kyng commaunded him. Then answered Symon and saide vnto him: As for vs, we haue nether ten other mens londe, ner withholde them, but only oure fathers heretage, which our enemies had vnrighteously in possession a certayne tyme. This heretage of our fathers haue we chalenged in processe of tyme. And where as thou cōplaynest concernynge Joppa and Gaza, they dyd greates harme to the people and in d londe, yet wyll we geue all talentes for them.

Nevertheless Athenobius answered him not one worde, but turned agayne wrothfully vnto y kyng, and tolde him all chek wordes, and the greates dignite of Symon with all that he had sene, and the kyng was wroth angrie. In the meane tyme fled Triphon by shippe vnto Orthosaida. Then the kyng made Cendebus captaigne of the se.

gave him an hoost of fote men and horsmen, commaunding him to remoue y hoost toward Jewry, z to buylde vp the cite of Cedron, to make vp y portes, z to warre agaynst y people of the Jewes. As for the kyng himself, he folowed vpon Triphon. So Cendebus came vnto Jammia, z beganne to vex y people, to treade downe Jewry, to take the people prisoners, to slaye the z to buylde vp Cedron: where he set horsmen z other men of warre, that they might come forth and go thorow the stretes of Jewry, like as the kyng had commaunded him.

The XVI. Chapter.

Then came Jhon vp from Gaza, and tolde Symon his father, what Cendebus had done amonge their people. Vpon this called Symon two of his eldest sonnes, Judas z Jhon, and sayde vnto them: I and my brethien z my fathers house, haue euer from oure youth vp vnto this daye, foughten agaynst the enemies of Israel: z God gaue vs good fortune to delyuer Israel oft tymes. And now for so much as I am olde, be ye in steade of me z my brother, to go forth z fight for oure people, z the helpe of God be w you. So he chose xx. M. fightingemen of the countre, with horsmen also, which wente forth agaynst Cendebus and rested at Modin.

In the mornynge they arose, z wete in to y playne felde: and beholde, a mightie greates hoost came agaynst the, both of fote men z horsmen. Now was there a water broke betwixte them, z Jhon removed the hoost towarde them. And when he sawe that the people was afrayed to go ouer y water broke, he wente ouer first himself: and the men folowed him.

Then Jhon set his horsmen z fote men in orde, the one by the other, for their enemies horsmen were very many. But when they blew vp the prestes trompettes, Cendebus fled w his hoost, wherof many were slayne, and the remnaunt gat them to their stronge holde. Judas also Jhons brother whas wounded at y same tyme. And Jhon folowed still vpon y enemies, till he came to Cedron which he buylde. The enemies fled also vnto the towries y were in y felde of Azotus, z those dyd Jhon burne vp. Thus there were slayen ii. M. men of them, z Jhon turned agayne peaceably in to Jewry.

And in the felde of Jericho was Ptolomy the sonne of Abobus made captaigne: which because he had abundaunce of syluer z golde, (for he had married the daughter of Symon the hye priest) wared proude in his mynde, z thought to conquere the lōde, ymagynenge falsed agaynst Symon z his sonnes, to destroye the. Now as Symon was goynge aboute thorow the cities, y were in y countre of Jewry, and carynge for them: he came downe to Jericho, with Matathias z Judas his sonnes, in the Cxxvij. yere, in y x. moneth called Sabat. Then Ptolomy y sonne of Abobus receaued them (but w disceate) into a stronge house of his called Doch, which he had buylde, where he made them a bandet.

So when Symon z his sonnes were merry z had dronken well, Ptolomy stode vp w his men (whō he had hyd there) z toke their weapens, entred in to the bandet house, z slewe Symon w his two sonnes, z certayne of his seruantes. Soch greates vnfaichfulnesse dyd Ptolomy in Israel, and recompensed euell for good. Then wrote this Ptolomy y same vnto kyng Antiochus, requyringe him that he shulde sende him an hoost to helpe him: z so shulde he delyue him the londe, w the cities z tributes of the same. He sent other men also vnto Gaza, for to take Jhon: z wrote vnto the captaynes to come to him, z he shulde geue them syluer, golde and rewardes. And to Jerusalem he sent other, to take it and the Sanctuary.

Ther ranne there one before, z tolde Jhon in Gaza, that his father z his brethien were slayne, and how that Ptolomy had sent to slay him also. Whē Jhon herde this, he was sore abashed, and layed hōdes of them that were come to destroye him, and slewe them: for he knowe, that they wente aboute to kyll him.

As for other thinges concernynge Jhon: of his warres, of his noble actes (wherin he behaued him self manfully) of the buyldinge of walles which he made, and other of his dedes: They are witten in the cronicle.

mes and visions, and how Hicanor perished.

The first Chapter.

he brethren of y^e Jewes which be at Jerusalem & in the lande
of Jewry, wish vnto those bre-thre of y^e Jewes that are the row out of Egypte: good fortune, healeth and peace.

God the LORDE be gracious vnto you, & thynke vpon his covenantt & he made Abraham, Isaac & Jacob his faithfull ser-uantes: and geue you all such an herite, that ye maye loue and serue him, yee and perswade me his wyll with an whole herte and of a wyllyng mynde: he opene youre hertes in his lawe and in his commandmentes, sende
you peace: heare youre prayers, be at one with you, and neuer forsake you in tyme of trouble. This is heare oure prayer for you.

What tyme as Demetrius raigned, in the Clxxxij. yere, we Jewes wrote vnto you in trouble and violence that came vpon vs.
In those yeres a fere that Jason departed out of the holy lande and kyngdome, they brent vp the portes, and shed innocent bloo-
de. Then made we oure prayer vnto y^e LORDE, and were herde: we offered, and lighted
the candels, settinge forth cakes and bish.
And now come ye vnto the feast of tabernacles
in the moneth Casleu.

In the Clxxxviij. yere y^e people y^e was at Jerusalem and in Jewry, the counsell and Judas him self, sente this wholsome saluta-cion vnto Aristobolus kynge ptolomys master, which came of the generacion of the anoyned prestes: and to the Jewes that we re in Egypte: In so moch as God hath deli-uered vs from greate perils, we thanke him hylie. In that we resisted so mightie a kynge. And why? he broughte men out of persis by heapes, to fight agaynst vs and the holy cite. For as he was in persia (namely,
y^e capayne w^{ch} the greate hoost) he perished
in the temple of Flaneas, beyng discomfited thorow the deuyc of Flaneas prestes. For as he was purposed to haue dwelt there, An-tiochus & his frendes came thither, to receaue moch moneye for a dowry. So wher Flaneas prestes had layed forth y^e moneye, he entred with a small company in to the compasse of the temple, and so they shut the temple.

Now when Antiochus entred by open gethe peny in trauance of the temple, y^e prestes stoned y^e capayne to deathe, hewed the in peces that were with him, smote of their heades, and threwe them out. In all thinges God be praysed, which hath deliuered the wicked in to oure bondes.

Where as we now are purposed to kepe
the purification of the temple vpon y^e xvij.
daye of the moneth Casleu, we thought necessary to certifie you therof: that ye also might kepe the tabernacles feast daye, & the daye of the fyre, which was geuen vs when Nehemias offered, after that he had set vp y^e temple & the altar. For what tyme as y^e fathers were led awaye vnto persia, y^e prestes (which then soughte the hono^r of God) to ke y^e fyre purely from y^e altar, & hyd it in a valley, where as was a depe drye pye: & ther
in they kepte it, because the place was viknowne to every man. Now after many yea-res when it pleased God, y^e Nehemias shul-de be sent from the kynge of persia: he sent the children of those prestes (which had hyd the fyre) to seke it. And as they tolde vs, they founde no fyre, but thicke water.

The commaundment he them to drawe it vp,
to bringe it him, & y^e offerynges withall.
Now when y^e sacrifices were layed on & ordred, the prest Nehemias commaunded to sprinkle them & the wod w^{ch} the water. Wher this was done, & the tyme come y^e Son of syon, which afore was hyd in the cloude:
there was a greate fyre kyndled, In so moch
y^e man marvelled. Now all the prestes prayed, whyle the sacrifice was a makynge.
Jonathas prayed first, and y^e other gaue an-swere.

And Nehemias prayer was after this maner: O LORDE God maker of all thin-ges, thou fearfull & stronge, thou righteous & mercifull, thou y^e art onely a gracious kynge, onely lyberall, onely iust, Allmightie and endurynge, thou y^e deliuerest Israel from all trouble, then y^e hast chosen the fathers & halowed them: receaue the offeringe for the whole people of Israel, preserue thine owne porcion, & halowe it. Gather those together, y^e are scattede abroad from vs: deliuer them
y^e are vnder the heathens bondage, loke vpon them which are despysed & abhorred, y^e the heathen maie knowe & se, how y^e thou art o^r
God: Punyshe them y^e oppresse, and proudly put vs to dishonoure. Set y^e people agayne in thy holy place, like as Moses hath spokē.

And the prestes songe psalmes of chantelgynge, so longe as the sacrifice endured.
Now when the sacrifice was bient, Nhemias commaunded the greate stones to be sprinkled w^{ch} the resydue of the water. Which when it was done, there was kyndled a flamme of the also: but it was consumed thorow
the light, & shyned from the altar. So wher this matter was knowne, it was tolde the kyng of persia, that in the place where the prestes (which were led awaye) had hyd fyre,

there appeared water in steade of fyre, & that Nehemias & his company had purified the sacrifices withall. Then the kynge conside-ryng & ponderynge y^e matter diligently, made him a temple, to proue the thinge y^e was done. And wher he founde it so in dede, he ga-ue the prestes many giftes & dyuerse rewar-des: yee he toke them w^{ch} his owne hōde, & ga-ue the. And Nehemias called the same place Nephthar, which is as moch to saye as a cleansing: but many men call it Nephthi.

The II. Chapter.

It is founde also in the writings of y^e
Jeremy the prophet, y^e he commaunded them which were caried awaye, to take fyre, as it is sayde afore. The commaunded them also, y^e they shulde not forget the lawe & commaundmentes of the LORDE, &
y^e they shulde not erre in their myndes, wher
they se ymages of syluer & golde w^{ch} their or-namentes. These & such other thinges commaunded he them, & exorted them, that they shulde not lett the lawe of God go out of their hertes.

It is wyrtten also, how the prophet (at y^e commaundment of God) charged them, to take the tabernacle & the arke w^{ch} them: & he went forth vnto the mountaine, where Moses clymmed vp, & sawe y^e heretage of God.
And when Jeremy came there, he founde an open cane, wherin he layed the tabernacle, y^e arke & the altar of incense, & so stopped the hole. There came certayne men together also folowynge him, to marke the place, but they coude not fynde it. Which when Jeremy perceaued, he reproveth the, sayenge: As for that place, it shalbe vntowne, vntill y^e tyme that God gather his people together
agayne, & receaue the vnto mercy. Then shal God shewe them these thinges, & the maiestty of the LORDE shal appeare, & the cloude also, like as it was shewed vnto Moses: & like as when Salomon desyred y^e the place might be sanctified, & it was shewed him.

For he bringe a wyse man, handled honorably & wysely: offerynge vnto God in y^e ha-lowynge of the temple, when it was syni-shed. And like as when Moses prayed vnto
the LORDE, the fyre came downe from heauen, & consumed the burnt offeringe: Even so prayed Salomon also, & the fyre came dow-ne from heauen, & consumed the burnt offerin-ge. And Moses sayde: because the synofferyn-ge was not eaten, therfore it is consumed. In like maner Salomon kepte the dedicacion

(or halowynge) eight dayes.

C In y Annotacions & wrytynges of Jeremy, were these thinges put also: & how he made a lybrary, & how he gathered out of all countrees the booke of the prophetes, of David, the epistles of the kynges, and of the prieftes. Euen so Judas also, loke what he lerned by experience of warre, & soch thinges as hath happened vnto vs, he gathered the all together, & so we haue them by vs. If ye now desyre to haue the same, sende some body to fetch them vnto you. Where as we the are aboute to celebrate the purification, we haue wrytten vnto you. Therfore ye shall do well, yf ye kepe the same dayes. We hope also, that the God (which delyuered his people, & gaue them all y heretage, kyngdome, priefthode & Sanctuary y he promised them in the lawe) shal shortly haue mercy vpo vs, & gather vs together from vnder the heauē in to his holy place: for he hath saued vs fro greates perils, & hath clenched the place.

D As concernynge Judas Machabeus & his brethren, the purification of the greates temple, the dedicacion of the auker, yee & of the warres y eorne noble Antiochus and Eupator his sonne, of the shynynge y came downe from heauen vpon those, which manfully defended the Jewes. (For though they were but fewe, yet defended they the whole londe, drave away y enemies hoost, recovered agayne the temple, y was spoken of thorow out all the worlde, delyuered the cite, doynge their best y the lawe of the LORDE which was put downe, might w all tranquillite be restored agayne vnto the LORDE, y was so mercifull vnto the.) As touchynge Jason also of Cyren, we haue vnder take cōpendiously to brynge in to one booke, the thinges y were cōprehended of him in fyue. For we cōsideringe the multitude of the booke, and how harde it shulde be for them y wolde medle with stones and actes (and that be cause of so dyuerse matters) haue vnder taken so to cōprehende the stories: that soch as are disposed to reade, might haue pleasure and pastyme therein: and that they which are diligent in soch thinges, might the better thinke vpon them: yee and that who so euer red them, might haue profit thereby.

E Nevertheless we oure selues that haue medled with this matter for the shortenynge of it, haue taken no small labour, but greates diligence, watchynge and trauayle. Like as they that make a feast, wolde sayne do other men pleasure: Euen so we also (for many mens sake) are very wel content to take the labour, where as we may fully cōprehende, the chynge that other haue truly wrytten.

For he y buyldeth an house anew, may proude for many chynge to y whole bygginge: but he that paynteth it afresche, seketh but only what is comly, and convenient to garnysh it withall. Euen so do we also in like maner. And why? he that begynneth to wryte a story for the first, must with his vnderstandinge gather the matter together, set his wordes in orde, and diligently seke out euery parte: But he that afterwarde wyll shorten it, vsch few wordes, and toucheth not the matter at the largiest. Let this be sufficient for a prologue, wyll we begyne to shewe the matter: for it is but a foolish thinge to make a longe prologue, and to be shorte in the story it self.

The iii. Chapter.

What tyme as the holy cite was inhabited in all peace and wealth, & when the lawes were yet very well kepte. (For so was it ordered by Onias the hye priefte and other goodly men, that was amies to wickednesse.) It came therto, that euen the kynges and prynces the selues of the place greates worshippe, and garnyshe the temple with greates giftes: In so much that Seleucus kyng of Asia of his owne rate, bare all the costes belonginge to the sacrifice of the offerynges. Then Symon of the trybe of Ben Jamin, a ruler of the temple, laboured to worke some myschefe in the cite, but the hye priefte resisted him.

Nevertheless when he might not come Onias, he gat him to Appollonius the sonne of Thersa (which the was chiefe lord in Celosyria and Phenices) and tolde him, y the treasury in Jerusalem was full of innumerable money, and how that the comon goodes (which belonged not vnto the offerynges) were excheadynge greates also: yee and how it were possible, that all these might come vnder the kynges power.

Now when Appollonius had shewed the kyng of the moneye, as it was tolde him: y kyng called for Heliodorus his stonde, and sent him with a commandment, to brynge him the sayde money. Immediately Heliodorus toke his iourney, but vnder colour, as though he wolde go thorow Celosyria and Phenices to vsee the cities, but his purpose was to fulfill the kynges pleasure. So when he came to Jerusalem, and was longynge receaued of the hye priefte in the cite: he tolde what was determined myng the moneye, and shewed the cause of his commynge: he axed also, yf it were so in dede. Then the hye priefte tolde him, that there was soch money layed vp for the vpholdinge of weddones and fatherlesse childre, and how that a certayne of it belonged vnto Symon Tobias a noble man: and that of all the moneye (which that wicked Symon had bewrayed) there were iij. hundred talents of syluer, and ij. hundred of golde: yee & that it were impossible for those mens meanynge to be disceaued, that had layed vp their moneye in the place and temple (which is had in worshippe thorow the whole worlde) for the mayntenance and honoure of y same. Whervnto Heliodorus answered, y the kyng had commaunded him in eny wyse, to brynge him the moneye.

C So at the daye appoynted, Heliodorus entred into the temple to ordie this matter. But there was no small feare thorow out the whole cite. The prieftes fell downe before the auker in their vestimentes, and called vnto heauen vpon him, which had made a lawe concernynge stufte geuen to kepe, that they shulde be safely preserved, for soch as cōmitte them vnto keepynge. Then who so had leted the hye priefte in the face, it wolde haue greued his herte: For his countenance and the chaunginge of his coloure, declared the inward sorowe of his mynde. The mā was all in heuynesse, and his body in feare: wher by they that looked vpon him, might perceaue the greife of his herte. The other people also came out of their houses by heapes vnto the comon prayer, because the place was like to come in to confucion. The women came together thorow the stretes, with hayre dothes aboute their bustes.

D The virgins also that were kepte in, ranne to Onias, someto the walles, other some kyd out at the wyndowes: yee they all helde their hondes toward heauē, & prayed. A miserable thinge was it, to loke vpon the comon people, & the hye priefte beyng in soch trouble. But they besought Almighty God, that the goodes which were committed vnto the, might be kepte whole, for those that had deliuered them vnto their keepynge. Nevertheless the thinge that Heliodorus was deterrmed to do, that perfourmed he in the same place, he him self personally beyng aboute the treasury with his men of warre. But the spere of Almighty God shewed him self openly, so that all they which presumed to chere Heliodorus, fell thorow y power of God in to a greates fearfuinesse & diede. For there appeared vnto them an hoise, with a terrible man syttinge vpon him, deckt in goodly aray, and the hoise smote at Heliodorus with his fore fete. Now he that sat vpon y hoise, had harness of golde vpon him.

Moreover there appeared ij. sayre and beutifull yongemen in goodly aray, which stode by him, scourged him of both the sydes, & gaue him many stripes without ceassing. With that, fell Heliodorus sodenly vnto the grounde. So they toke him vp (beyng compassed aboute with greates dardnesse) and bare him out vpo a beare. Thus he that came with so many runners and men of warre in to y sayde treasury, was borne out, where as no man might helpe him: and so the power of God was manifest and knowne. He laye still domme also by the power of God, destitute of all hope and life. And they praysed the LORDE, that he had shewed his power vpon his place and temple, which a litle afore was full of feare & trouble: and that thorow the reuelacion of the Almighty LORDE it was fylled with ioye and gladnesse.

The certaine of Heliodorus frides praied Onias, that in all haist he wolde call vpon God, to graunte him his life, which was geuynge vnto the goost. So the hye priefte considered the matter, and lest the kyng shulde suspecte that the Jewes had done Heliodorus some euill: he offred an healt hefferyng for him. Now whē y hye priefte had opteyned his peticion, the same yonge mē in the same clothynge appeared, & stode besyde Heliodorus, sayenge: Thanke Onias y hye priefte, for his sake hath y LORDE graunted the y life: therfore seyng y God hath scourged y, & gaue him prayse & thankes, and shewe euery man his might & power. And whē they had spoken these wordes, they appeared nomore.

So Heliodorus offred vnto God, made greates vowes vnto him which had graunted him his life, thanked Onias, toke his hoost, & wote agayne to y kyng. The testified he vnto euery mā, of y greates workes of God, y he had sene w his eyes. And whē the kyng axed Heliodorus who were mette to be sent yet once agayne to Jerusalem, he sayde: If thou hast eny enemy or aduersary vnto thy realme, sende him thither, & thou shalt haue him punished, yf he escape w his life: for in y place (no doute) there is a speciall power & workinge of God. For he y dwelleth in heauē, wyseth & defendeth y place: & all y come to do it harme, he punyssheth & plageth the. This is now y matter cōcerninge Heliodorus, & y keepynge of y treasury at Jerusalem.

This Symon now of whom we spake afore beyng a beryer of the money and of his owne naturall countre, reported the worst of Onias: as though he had mowed Heliodorus vnto this, and as though he had bene a brynger vp of euell. Thus was he not ashamed to call him an enemye of the realme, that was so faithfull an ouerseer & defender of the cite & of his people: yee & so feruent in the lawe of God. But when the malice of Symon increased so farre, & he saw his frendes there were certayne manslaughters committed: Onias considered the perill & might come thowow this strife, and how that Appollonius (namely the chefe lord in Celosyria and Phenices) was all set vpon tyranny, and Symons malice increased the same: he gat him to the kynge, not as an accuser of the citsyns, but as one that by him self intended the comon wealth of the whole multitude. For he sawe it was not possible to lyue in peace, nether Symon to leaue of from his foolishnesse, excepte the kynge dyd lōke thereto.

But after the death of Sclencus, when Antiochus (which is called the noble) toke the kyngdome: Jason the brother of Onias laboured to be hys priest: for he came vnto the kynge, and promised him thre hundred & x. talentes of syluer, & of the other rites lxxx. talentes. Besydes this he promised him yet an L. & L. yf he might haue the scole of y. chuldren, and that he might call them of Jerusalem Antiochians. Which when the kynge had graunted, & he had gotten the superiority: he began immediately to drawe his kinmen to the custome of the heithen, put downe the thinges, that the Jewes had set vp of loue, by Jhon the father of Eupolemius (which was sent embassidore vnto Rome, for to make the bonde of friendship and loue.) he put downe all the lawes & liberties of the lawes, and set vp wicked statutes. he durst make a fightinge scole vnder the castell, and set fayre yonge men to lerne the maners of whores and brodels.

CThis was now the begynnyng of the heithenish & straunge conuersacion, brought in thowow the vngacious and vnder the wickednesse of Jason (which shulde not be called a priest, but an vngodly personne.) In so much, that the prestes were now nomore occupied aboute the seruyce of the altier, but despyed the temple, regarded not the offrynges: yee gaue their diligence to lerne to fighte, to wistle, to leape, to daunce, & to put at stone: not settinge by the hono of the fathers, but liked the glory of the Grekes best of all: for the which they stroue periously, and were greedy to folowe their statutes, in the which lust was in all thinges to be like the, which afore were their enemies & destroyers. he be it to do wickedly agaynst the lawe of God, shal not escape unpunished: but of this we shal speake here after.

What tyme as the Olympiades games were played at Tyus (the kynge himself beinge present) his vngacious Jason for wicked men, bearinge from them of Jerusalem (which now were called Antiochians) iiij. C. drachmas of syluer for an offryng to Hercules. These had they that carried them, desyred vnder such a fastid, as though they shulde not haue bene offred, but bestowed in oher vses. Nevertheless he that sawe that, sent them to the intent that they shulde be offred vnto Hercules. But because of that which were present, they were geuen as to the makinge of shippes. And Appollonius the sonne of Nestus was sent in to Egypte, because of the noble men of the kynge people Philometor. Now when Antiochus perceived that he was put out from medlinge in the realme, he sought his owne profite, departed from thence, came to Joppa, & then to Jerusalem: where he was honorably receaued of Jason & the cite, & was brought in w. torch light and with greate prayse: and so returned his hoost vnto Phenices.

After iiij. yeare Jason sent Menelaus the fore sayde Symons brother to beare the money vnto the kynge, & to bringe him answer of other necessary matters. But he (when he was prayd of the kynge for magnificence of his power) turned the hye presthode vnto himself, layenge vp iiij. C. talentes of syluer for Jason. So whē he had gotten commaundment from the kynge, he came, hauinge nothyng but becōmech a priest, but bearinge the stomack of a cruell tyrant, & the wiath of a wyld beest. Then Jason (which had discomfited his owne brother) saynge that he himself was begyled also, was fayne to fle into the land of Ammonites, & Menelaus gat the dominion. But as for the moneye that he had promised to the kynge, he dyd nothyng therin, whē Sosstratus the ruler of the castell requyred of him. (For Sosstratus was the man, that gathered the customes) wherfore they were called before the kynge. Thus was Menelaus put out of the presthode, & Lisimachus his brother came in his steade. Sosstratus so was made lord of the Cyprians.

It happened in the meane season, that the Tharsians & Malloicians made insurreccion, because they were geuen for a present vnto the kynge Antiochus concubine. Then came the kynge in all haste, to still them agayne and to pacifie the matter, leauynge Andronicus there to be his debyce, as one mete therfore. Now Menelaus supposinge that he had gotten a right convenient tyme, stole certayne vessels of golde out of the temple, and gaue the to Andronicus for a present: and some he sold at Tyus and in the cities therby.

Which when Onias knewe of a surer eye, he repoynded him: but he kepte him in a sanctuary besyde Daphnis, that lyeth by Antioche. Wherfore Menelaus gat him to Andronicus, and prayd him that he wolde slaye Onias. So when he came to Onias, he comelled him craftely to come out of the sanctuary, geuyng him his honde with an ooth (how be it he suspecte him) and that he slewe Onias, without eny regarde of rightousnesse. For the which cause not only the Jewes, but oher nations also toke indignacion, and were displeased for the vngodly deathe of so godly a man.

And when the kynge was come agayne from Cilicia, the Jewes and certayne of the Grekes wente vnto him, complayninge for the vngodly deathe of Onias. Yee Antiochus himself also was sorry in his mynde for Onias, so that he pitied him, and he wepte, remembryng his sobernesse and manerly behauiour. Wherfore he was so kyndled in his mynde, that he commaunded Andronicus to be striped out of his purple clothinge, & so to be led thowow out all the cite, yee and the vngacious man to be slayne in the same place, wher he committed his wickednes vpon Onias. Thus the LORDE rewarded him his punishment, as he had deserued. Now when Lisimachus had done many wicked dedes in the temple thowow the counsell of Menelaus, and the voyce came abroad: the multitude gathered the togeether agaynst Lisimachus, for he had caried out now much golde.

So when the people arose and were full of displeasure, Lisimachus armed iiij. M. vntusies to defende him: a certayne tyrant beyng their captayne, which was growen both in age & woodnesse. But when the people vnderstode the purpose of Lisimachus, some gat stones, some good stronge clubbes, & some cast asshes vpon Lisimachus. Thus there were many of the wounded, some beyng slayne, & all the other chaed awaye. But as for the wicked churchrobber himself, they kylled him besyde the treasury. Of these matters therfore there was kepte a courte agaynst Menelaus.

Now when the kynge came to Tyus, they made a complaynte vnto him of Menelaus, concerninge this busynesse, & the embassidours were the. But Menelaus wente & promised Ptolemy to geue him much money, yf he wolde perswade the kynge. So Ptolemy wrote to the kynge in to a courte (where as he was set to coole him) & brought him out of the mynde in so much that he discharged Menelaus fro the accusations, & not withstandinge was cause of all myschance: and those poore men (which yf they had tolde their cause, yee before the Scythians, they shulde haue bene iudged innocent) he comended to deathe. Thus were they so one punished, which folowed vpon the matter for the cite, for the people, & for the holy vessel. Wherfore they of Tyus toke indignacion, & buried the honorably. And so thowow the covetousnesse of them that were in power, Menelaus remayned still in authorite, increasinge in malice, to the hurte of the citsyns.

In the same tyme Antiochus made him ready to go agayne in to Egypte. There were there sene at Jerusalem xl. dayes lōge) hoisne runninge to and fro in the ayre, which had rayment of golde, & speares. There were sene also whole hoostes of men weaped, & hoises runninge in an ordie, how they came togeether, how they helde forth their shildes, how they harnessed men drew out their swordes, & shot their darters. The shyne of the golde weapes was sene, & of all maner of armure. Wherfore euery man prayed, that those tokens might turne to good. Now whē there was gone forth a false rumō, as though Antiochus had bene ded: Jason toke a M. mē, & came sodely vpon the cite. The citsyns ran vnto the walles, at the last was the cite taken, and Menelaus fled in to the castell.

As for Jason, he spared not his owne citsyns in the slaughter, nether considered he what greute euell it were, to destroye the posterite of his owne kynsmen: but dyd as one that had gotten the victory of his enemies, and not of his frendes. For all this matter he not the superiorite, but at the last receaued confusion for his malice, and fled agayne like a vagabunde in to the londe of the Ammonites. Finally (for a rewarde of his wickednesse) he was accused before Archa the kynge of the Arabians: In so much that he was fayne to fle from cite to cite, beyng despyed of euery man as a forsaker of the lawes, and an abhominable personne. And at last (as an open enemy of his owne naturall countre and of the citisyns,) he was dryuen into Egypte.

Thus he & afore put many out of their owne natyue londe, perysched from home him self. He wente to Lacedemon, thinkinge there to haue gotten succoure by reason of kynrede. And he that afore had casten many one out vnburied, was throwen out him self, no man mournynge for him, ner puttyng him in his graue: so that he nether emoyed & buriall of a straunger, nether was he partaker of his fathers sepulchre.

C Now when this was done the kinge suspecte, & the Jewes wolde haue fallen from him: wherfore he came in a greate displeasure out of Egypte, & toke the cite by violence. He commaunded his men of warre also, that they shulde kyll & not spare, but slaye downe such as w stode them, or clymmed vp vpon y houses. Thus was there a greate slaughter of yonge men, olde men, women, children and virgins. In iij. dayes were there slayne lxxx. M. fourty thousande put in prison, & no lesse solde. Yet was he not content w this, but durst go in to the most holy temple (Menelaus that traytoure to & lawes & to his owne naturall countre, beyng his gyde & with his wicked hondes toke y holy vessell, which other kynges & cities had geuen thither for y garnishinge & hond of y place: the toke he in his hōdes unworthely, & defyled them.

D So madd was Antiochus, that he considered not, how that God was a litle wroth for the synnes of them that dwelt in the cite, for the which soch confusion came vpon that place. And why? yf it had not happened them to haue bene lapped in many synnes, this Antiochus (as soone as he had come) had sodenly bene punished, and shot out for his presumptio: like as Heliodorus was, whom Selenus the kyng sent to robbe y treasury. Neuertheles God hath not chosen the people for the places sake, but the place for the peoples sake: and therefore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble, but afterwarde shall it emoye the wealth of them. And like as it is now forsaken in the wrath of almighty God, so when the gracie God is reconcyled, it shall be set vp in worshippe agayne.

So when Antiochus had taken a M. and viij. C. talentes out of the temple, he gat him to Antioche in all the haile, thinkinge in his pryde, that he might make mē sale vpon the dye londe, and to go vpon y see, soch an hie mynde had he. He leste debires there to vex the people: At Jerusalem left he Philippe a Phugian, in maners more cruell the him self & set him there. At Gausim he left Andronicus & Menelaus, which were more greuous to the citisyns then other. Now as he was thus set in malice agaynst y Jewes, he sent Appollonius an hated prync, w xxiij. M. commaunding him to slaye all those y were of perfecte age, and to sell the womē, maydes & children. When he came now to Jerusalem, he fained peace, & kepte him still vntill y Sabbath daye. And then he commaunded his men to take them to their weapons (for y Jewes kepte holy daye) and so he slewe all them y were gone forth to the open playe, runninge here and there thorow the cite with his men wapened, and murthered a greate nombre. But Judas Machabens which was the tenth, fled into the wyldernes, led his life there with his company amonge the wyld beestes and vpon the mountaynes: dwellinge there and eatinge grasse, lest they shulde be partakers of the fylchynesse.

The vi. Chapter.

Uot longe after this, sent the kyng a messenger of Antioche, for to compell y Jewes to alce y ordinance of y fathers & the lawe of God, to defyle the temple y was at Jerusalem, & to call it the temple of Jupiter Olympus: & they shulde be in Gazarim, as those which dwell at y place of Jupiter the harberons. This wicked sidiō of y vngodly was heny vpon all y people: for y temple was full of voluptuousnes bebbinge & bollinge of y zeithē, of ribaudes & harlottes together. The womē wente in to y holy place, & bare in that was not lawfull. The altier also was full of vnlawfull thinges, which y lawe forbiddeth to laye vpon it. The Sabbathes were not kepte, the other solemne feastes of y londe were not regarded. To be plaine, there durst no mā be a knowe that he was a Jewe.

In the daye of the kynges byrth they were compelled per force to offere: & when y feast of Bachus was kepte, they were cōstrayned to wete garlandes of yven, and so to go aboute for the honoure of Bachus.

Moreover thorow the counsell of Ptolome, there wente out a commaundement in y newe cities of the zeithen, & they shulde inuente the Jewes in like maner: namely, to cōpell the for to do sacrifice after y lawes of y Gentiles: and who so wolde not, to put them to death. A piteous thinge was it to se. There were ij. women accused to haue circumcised their sonnes, whom when they had led rounde aboute the cite (the babes hanginge at their brestes) they cast them downe headlonge ouer the walles. Some y were crepte into denmes and had kepte the Sabbath, were accused vnto Philippe, and brient in the fire: because that for the feare of God they kepte the commaundement so stiffly, and wolde not defende them selues.

Now I beseeke all those which reade this boke, that they refuse it not for these falles of aduersite: & iudge the thinges (y are happened) for no destruccio, but for a chastenynge of y people. And why? Why God suffreth not synners longe to folowe their owne mynde, but shortly punyssheth them, it is a toke of his greate lounge kyndnes. For this gracie haue we of God more then other people, & he suffreth not vs longe to synne vnpunished like other nacions, that when the daye of iudgment cometh, he maye punyssh the in the fulnes of their synnes. If we synne, he cōuerteth vs, but he neuer withdraueth his mercy fro vs: & though he punyssh w aduersite, yeth doth he neuer forsake his people. But let this that we haue spokē now w few wordes, be for a warninge & exortacio of y heith. Now wil we come to the declaringe of the matter. Eleazar one of y principall scabes, an aged mā & of a wel fauored countenance, was cōstrained to gape w opē mouth to eate swynes flesh. But he despyng rather to dye gloriously the to liue w shame, of fob himselfe willingly to y martirdome. Now when he sawe y he must nedes go to it, he toke it patiently: for he was at a poynte w himself, & he wolde consente to no vnlawfull thinge for any pleasure of life. They y stode by beyng removed w pyre (but not a right) for y olde friendship of the man, toke him asyde pynely, and prayed him y he wolde let soch flesh be brought him as were lawfull to eate, & the to make a cōtenuaunce as though he had eaten of y flesh of y sacrifice like as the kyng.

commaunded, for so he might be deliuered from death: & so for the olde frendshipe of y man, they shewed him this kindnes. But he beganne to confide his discrete and honorable age, his noble and worshipfull stocke, and how y fro his youth vp he had bene of an honest and good conuersacion, yet & how constantly he had kepte y ordinance and lawes commaunded by God, wherfore he gaue them this answeare, and sayde:

Yet had I rather first be layed in my graue. For it becommeth not myne age (sayde he) in eny wyse to dyssemble, wherby many yonge personnes might thinke, that Eleazar beinge lxxx. yeare olde and ten, were now gone to a straunge life: and so thorow myne ypocrysy (for a litle tyme of a transitory life) they might be disceaped: by this meanes also shulde I defyle myne age, & make it abhominable. For though I were now deliuered from the tormentes of men, yet shulde I not escape the honde of almighty God, nether alyue ner deed. Wherfore I will dye manfully, & do as it becommeth myne age: Wherby I maie peradventure leaue an exāple ofstedfastnesse for soch as be yonge, yf I w a ready mynde & manfully dye an honest death, for the most worthy and holy lawes.

When he had sayde these wordes, immediately he was drawen to the tomyre. Now they that led him and were mylde a litle afore, beganne to take displeasure, because of the wordes y he sayde: for they thought he had spokē them of an hie mynde. But when he was in his martirdome, he mourned and sayde: Thou (O LORDE) which hast the holy knowlege, knowest openly: that where as I myght be deliuered fro death, I suffre the fore paynes of my body: but in my mynde I am wel contente to suffre them, because I feare the. Thus this man dyed, leauynge y memoriall of his death for an exāple, not only vnto yongemen, but vnto all y people, to be stedfast and manly.

The viij. Chapter.

It happened also that there were viij. brethren (with their mother) taken, & compelled by the kyng agaynst the lawe, to eate swynes flesh: namely w scourges and lathen whippes. And one of them which was y chiefe, sayde: What sekest thou, and what requyrest thou of vs? As for vs, we are ready rather to suffre death, then to offende the lawes of God and the fathers. Then was the kyng angrie, and had heate cauldions and brasen portes. Which when they were made hote, immediately he commaunded þe tonge of him that spake first, to be cut out, to pull the slayne out of his heade, to payre of the edges of his handes and fere: yee and that in the sight of his moether and the other of his biethren. Now when he was cleane married, he commaunded a fyre to be made, & so (whyle there was eny breath in him) to be fryed in the caudion. In the which when he had bene longe payned, the other biethren with their moether exorted him to dye manfully, sayenge: The LORDE God shal regarde the treuth, and comforte vs, like as Moses testifieth and declareth in his song, sayenge: and he wyl haue compassion on his seruantes.

B So whē the first was deed after this manner, they brought the seconde to haue him in derision, pulled the slayne with the hayre out of his heade, and axed him, yf he wolde eate swynes flesh, or he were payned in þe other membres also thorow out his body. But he answered boldly, and sayde: I will not do it. And so was he tormentēd like as y first. And whē he was enē at y geuinge vp of y goost, he sayde: Thou most vngacious personne puttest vs now to death, but the kynge of þe worlde shal rayse vs vp (which dye for his lawes) in y resurreccion of euerlastinge life.

After him, was the thirde had in derision: and when he was requyred, he putt out his tonge, and that right soone, holdinge forth his hondes manfully, and spake with a stedfast faith: These haue I of heauē, but now for the lawe of God I despyse them: for my trust is, that I shall receaue them of him agayne. In so moch that the kynge and they which were with him, marvelled at the yonge mans boldnesse, that he nothinge regarded the paynes.

C Now when he was deed also, they vexed the fourth with tormentes in like maner. So when he was now at his death, he sayde: It is better that we beyng put to death of mē, haue oure hope and trust in God, for he shal rayse vs vp agayne. As for the, thou shalt haue no resurreccion to life.

1oh. 5. c

And when they had spoken to the fifth, they tormentēd him. Then lokēd he vnto y kinge, & sayde: Thou hast power amōge mē (for thou art a mortall man also & self) to do what thou wilt, but thinke not, y God hath forsaken y generacion. Abydethe, tary styll a whyle, & thou shalt see the greates power of God, how he wil punyssh the & thy sede.

After him they brought the sixte, which beyng at the poynte of death, sayde: Be not disceaied (o kynge) for this we suffre for oure owne sakes, because we haue offendēd the God, & therfore marvelous thinges are shewed vpon vs. But thinke not thou (which takest in honde to stryue agaynst God) that thou shalt escape unpunysshed.

This excellent moether (worthy to be well reported of, and had in remembrance) same hir seven sonnes dye in one daye, and suffred it paciētly, because of the hope that she had in God: yee she exorted euery one of them in especiall, and that boldly and stedfastly, & parfitte wysdome, watynge vp hir wyssh thought with a manly stomacke, and sayde vnto them: I can not tell how ye came in my wombe, for I nether gaue you bieth ner soule, no ner life. It is not I y ioyned y members of y bodies together, but y maker of y worlde, which fashioned y byrth of mā, & began all thinges. Euen he also of his owne mercy shal geue you breath and life agayne, like as ye now regarde not youre owne selues for his lawes sake.

Now thought Antiochus that she had despyed him, therfore he let her go with her reprobous, and beganne to exorte the yongest sonne (which yet was left) not only w wordes but swore vnto him w an ooth, y he shulde make him a rich & welchymā (yf he wolde forsake y lawes of his fathers) yee and y he shulde geue him, what so euer w ere necessary for him. But whē the yonge man woldenot be moved, for all the sechinges, he called his moether, & counceled her to saue hir sonne's life. And when he had exorted her with many wordes, she promised him, that she shulde speake vnto hir sonne. So she turned hert to him (laughinge & cruell tyrante to scorn) & spake w a boylde voyce: O my sonne, haue pite vpon me, y bare y ix. monethes in my wombe, that gaue the sucke, noursched the and brought the vp vnto this age. I beseeche (my sonne) loke vpon heauen and earth and all that is therein, and conside, that God made them and mans generacion of naught: shalt thou not feare this hangman, but suffre death stedfastly, like as thy biethren haue done: that I maye receaue the agayne in the same mercy with thy biethren.

Whyle she was yet speakynge these wordes, the yonge man sayde: Whom loke ye for? Wherfore do ye tary? I wil not obey the kynges commaundement, but the lawe that God gaue vs by Moses. As for the that ymaginest all myschance agaynst the Jewes, thou shalt not escape the honde of God: for we suffre these thinges, because of our synnes.

Although God be angrie with vs a litle whyle for y chasteninge & reformation, y shal be at one agayne w his seruantes. But thou. (O shamefull & most abhominable personne.) Pryde not thy self thorow way hope, in beyng so malicious vpon y seruantes of God: for thou hast not yet escaped the iudgment of the God, which is all myghty, & seyth all thinges. My biethren y haue suffred a litle payne, are now vnder the commaund of euerlastinge life: but thou w the iudgment of God, then shalt be punysshed righteously for thy pryde.

As for me (like as my biethren haue done) I effere my soule & my body for y lawes of y fathers, callinge vpon God, y he will se one be mercifull vnto y people: yee & w payne & punishment to make the graunte, y he only is God. In me now & in my biethren y wrath of almighty God is at an ende, which righteously is fallē vpon all y people. Then y kynge beynge tyndled in anger, was more cruell vpon him then vpon all y other, & toke indig nation, y he was so lightly regarded. So this yonge mā dyed vndesiled, & put his trust stil in y LORDE. Last of all after y sonnes, was y moether put to death also. Let this now be pough spoken, concernynge y offringes, & y cruellnesse. The viii. Chapter.

B Then Judas Machabeus and they y were w him, wete pryuely in to y townes, called their kinfolkes & frens together, toke vnto them all soch as contyned yet in the faith & lawe of y Jewes, and brought forth vi. M. men. So they called vpon the LORDE, y he wolde haue an eye vnto his people, which was troddē downe of every mā: to be gracious vnto y temple, y was desyled of the vngodly: to haue compassion vpon y destruction of the cite, (which was shortly like to be laied waist) to heare y voyce of y bloude y cried vnto him: to remēbe y most vnrighteous deatches of yonge innocent children, the blasphemies also done vnto his name, & to punyssh the. Now whē Machabeus had gathered this multitude together, he was so mightie for the zeichen (for y wrath of y LORDE was turned in to mercy) he fell vpon the townes & cities vnto warres, brent them, toke the most comodious places, & slewe many of the enemies. But specially he made soch chases by night, in so moch that his manlynesse was spoken of euery where.

So when Philippe sawe that the man inuaded by litle and litle, and that the matter prospered with him for the most part: he wrote vnto Ptolomy (which was a captayne in Celosiria & Phenices) helpe him in y thinges busynes. The sent he Ticianor Patroeli (a speciall frende of his) in all y haist, & gaue him of y comon sorte of the zeichen no lesse then xx. M. harnessed men, to rote out y whole generacion of the Jewes, hauinge to helpe him one Gorgias a man of warre, which in matters concernynge battayls had greates experience. Ticianor ordered also the tribute (which the Romaynes shulde haue had) to be geuen vnto the kynge, out of the captiuitie of the Jewes, namely y. M. talentes. And immediately he sent to y cities of y see coast, requyringe the for to bye Jewes to be their seruantes & bonde men, promisyng to sell them lxxx. and ten for one talent: but he considered not the wrath of almighty God, y was to come vpon him.

When Judas knewe of this, he tolde the Jewes y were w him, of Ticianors comynge. Now were there some of them fearfull, not trustinge vnto the rightuousnes of God and fled their waye. But the other y remayned, came together & besought the LORDE, to deliuer the fro y wicked Ticianor, which had solde the or euer he came nye them: and though he wolde not do it for their sakes, yet for the couenaunt that he made w their fathers, & because they called vpon his holy & glorious name. And so Machabeus called his men together, namely aboute vi. M. exortinge them not to agree vnto their enemies, nether to be afrayed for y multitude of their aduersaries comynge agaynst them vnrighteously: but to fight manly, consideringe y reprove that they had done to the holy place without cause, how they had despyed and oppressed the cite, yee and destroyed y lawes of the fathers. For they (sayde he) trust in their weapons and boldnesse, but oure confidence is in the almighty LORDE, which in the twinklinge of an eye maye both destroye them that come agaynst vs, and all the worlde.

He exorted them also to call to remēbrance the helpe, that God shewed vnto their fathers: as whē there perished an. C. lxxxvi. M. of Sennacheribs people: And of y battaill y they had in Babilō agaynst y Galacians: how y all the Macedonias y came to helpe the, tode in feare: & how they beyng but only vi. M. slewe an. C. xx. M. thorow y helpe y was geuen them from heauen, wherby they also had receaued many benefites.

Thorow these wordes y mē toke good hertes vnto the, ready to dye for the lawe & the countre. So he set vpon every company a captain, one of his owne brethren: Simon, Joseph and Jonathas: geuyng eche one xx. C. men. He caused Esdras also to reade the holy boke vnto them, and to geue them a token of the helpe of God.

Then he himself beinge capitaine in 3 foire front of the battayll, buckled with Ticanor. And God was there helpe, in so moch that they slewe about ix. M. mē z compelled 3 more parte of Ticanors hoost to fle, they were so wounded and feble. Thus they toke the money from those that came to bye the, and folowed vpon them on every syde. But whē the tyme came vpon them, they returned, for it was the Sabbath, and therfore they folowed nomore vpon them. So they toke their weapons and spoyle z kepte the Sabbath, geuyng thanks vnto the LORDE, which had deliuered them that daye, and shewed them his mercy. After the Sabbath they distributed the spoyle to the sicke, to 3 fatherlesse, and to wyddowes, and the residue had they them selues with theirs. Whē this was done, and they all had made a generall prayer: they besought the mercifull LORDE to be at one with his seruantes.

Of those also that were with Timotheus and Bachides, which fought agaynst them, they slewe xx. M. wanne hye and stronge holdes, and deuided moo spoyle: euer geuyng an equall porcion vnto 3 sicke, to 3 fatherlesse to wyddowes z to aged persons. And when they had diligently gathered their weapons together, they layed them all in convenient places, z the remnant of 3 spoyle brought they to Jerusalem. They slewe Philarches that wicked personne, which was with Timotheus, and had vexed many Jewes. And when they helde the thankesgeuyng at Jerusalem for the victory, they brennt those that had set fyre on the portes of the temple: namely Calisthenes, which was fled in to an house: and so they gat a worthy rewarde for their wickednesse. As for that most vicious Ticanor, which had brought a thousande marchautes, to bye the Jewes, he was thorow 3 helpe of the LORDE brought downe, euen of them whom he regarded not: in so moch that he put of his glorious rayme, fled by see, and came alone to Antioche to greate shame z dishonr, which he gat thorow the destruccion of his hoost. Thus he promised the Romaines to paye the tribute, when he toke Jerusalem: began now to saye planely, that God was 3 defender of the Jewes, z therfore not possible to doo vnto them, because they folowed 3 lawes which God had made.

The IX. Chapter.

At the same tyme came Antiochus agayne with dishonoure out of Persia. For when he came to Persopolis, and vnderooke to robbe the temple and to subdue the cite, the people ranne together and defended them selues, in so moch 3 he and his were fayne to fle with shame. And so after that flight, it happened, that Antiochus came agayne with dishonoure. But when he came to Egbathana, he gat knowlege what was happened vnto Ticanor z Timotheus. Now as he was auaucinge himself in his wrath, he thought he was able to avenge the iniury that was done to them, vpon the Jewes: and therfore commaunded to make ready his charer, haistinge on his way without ceassing: the indgmet of God put vnto him, because he had spoke so proudly, that he wolde come to Jerusalem, and make it a grave of the Jewes. But the LORDE God of Israel, that seith all thinges, smote him with an invisible plague, which no man coude heale.

For as soone as he had spoken these wordes, there came vpon him an horrible paine of his bowels, z a sore grese of the tharme. And 3 was but right: for he had marred other mens bowels with dyuerse and strange tormentes, how be it he wolde in no wise ceasse from his malice. For he was yet the prouder, and more malicious agaynst the Jewes: But whyle he was commaunding to make haist in the matter, it happened 3 he fell downe violently from the charer, so 3 it brused his body, z dyd him greate paine.

And so he that thought he might commaunde 3 floudes of the see, so proude was he beyonde the condicio of man, and to see the hye mountaynes in a paye of scoldes, was now brought downe to the ground, z carried vpon an horslytter, knowlegginge manifest power of God vpon him: so that 3 wicked body of his was full of wormes, which in his payne fell quyet out of his flesh: In so moch 3 his hoost was greued with the smell and stynde of him. Thus he that a litle afore thought he might reach to the starrs of heauen, him might no man now abyde ner beare, for the vehemence of stynde.

Therfore he beinge brought from his greate pryde, began for to come to 3 knowlege of him self: for the punysshment of God warned him, z his payne increased euer more z more. And when he him self might not abyde his owne stynde, he sayde these wordes: It is reason to be obedient vnto God, z that a man desyre not to be like vnto him. This wicked personne prayed also vnto the LORDE, of whom he shulde haue obtained mercy. And as for the cite that he came vnto so haistely, to bringe it downe to the grounde, z to make it a grave for deed men: now he desyeth to deliuer it fre. And as touching 3 Jewes, whom he had indged not worthy to be buried, but wolde haue cast the out for to be deuoured of the foules and wyl beasts, sayenge, that he wolde haue destroyed both olde and yonge: Now he promyseth, to make the like 3 curesyns of Athens. And where as he had spoyle the holy temple afore, now he maketh promysse to garnish it with greate giftes, to increase the holy maner, and of his owne rentes to beare the costes and charges belonginge to the offeringes: yee and that he wolde also become a Jewe him self, to go thorow every place of the wolde, and to preach the power of God.

But when his paynes wolde not ceasse, (for the righteous indgmet of God was come vpon him) out of a very despayre he wrote vnto the Jewes a lettre of intercession, containinge these wordes: The kynge and prynces of the Jewes, moch health and good prosperite.

If ye and youre children fare well, and if all thinges go after youre mynde: we geue greate thankes. In my sicknesse also do I remembre you louyngly: for as I came out of Persia, and was taken with sore disease: I thought it necessary to care for the common wealthe. Whether despayre I in my self, but haue a good hope to escape this sickness.

But consideringe that my father led an hoost some tyme in 3 hyer places, z shewed who shulde raigne after him, that if there happened any cotroversy, or any harde thinge were declared, they in the londe might knowe their chiefe lord, 3 there shulde be no insurreccion: Agayne, when I pondre by myself, how that all 3 mightie men and neighbours rounde aboute, are layge waite, and lette but for oportunitie to do harme: I haue ordered that my sonne Antiochus shal raigne after me, whom I oft commended to many of you, when I was in the hyer kyngdomes, and haue wytten vnto him as it followeth hereafter. Therfore I praye you and requyre you, to remembre the benefices that I haue done vnto you generally and in especiall. For I hope that he shall be of sober z louyng behauiour, and if he folowe my deuice, he shal be indifferent vnto you.

Thus that murthurer and blasphemour of God was sore smytte: and like as he had intreated other men, so he dyed a miserable death in a straunge countre vpon a mountayne. And his body dyd Philippe (that was with him) carry away: which fearynge the sonne of Antiochus, wente into Egypte to peolomy Philometor.

The X. Chapter.

Antiochus now z his company (thorow the helpe of the LORDE) wanne the temple and the cite agayne, destroyed the altars and chapels that the heithen had buylded thorow the stretes: clenched the temple, made another altar of bricke stone, and after 4. yeares they offered sacrifices, set forth the incense, the lightes and shewe bled. When that was done, they fell downe flat vpon the grounde, and besought the LORDE, that they might come nomore into soch trouble: but if they synned eny more agaynst him, he him self to chasten them with mercy, and not to come in the bondes of those aleautes and blasphemous men.

Now vpon the same daye that 3 strangers poluted the temple, it happened that on the very same daye it was clenched agayne: namely, the xxij. daye of the moneth called Casleu. They kepte viij. dayes in gladnesse, like as in the feast of the tabernacles: remembryng that not longe afore, they helde the feast of 3 tabernacles vpon the mountaynes and in denes like beasts. And to 3 same token they bare grene bowes, braunches and palmes before him that had geuen them good fortune to clense his place. They agreed also together, and made a statute, 3 every yeare those dayes shulde be solemnly kepte of all the people of the Jewes.

Now Antiochus then (that was called the noble) dyed, it is sufficiently tolde. Now wil we speake of Licanor the sonne of that wicked Antiochus, how it happened with him: and so with few wordes to comprehend the aduersite that chaunced in 3 warres. When he had taken in the kyngdome, he made one Lysias (which had bene captayne of the hoost in phenices and Syria) ruler over the matters of the realme. For promy that was called Macron, beyng a ruler for the Jewes (and specially, to syt in iudgment for soch wronge as was done vnto them) undertoke to deale peaceably with them. For the which cause he was accused of the frendes before Licanor: and when he was suspecte to be a traytoure (because he had left Cyperus, that Philometor had committed vnto him: and because he departed from noble Antiochus, that he was come vnto) he poisoned himself, and dyed.

Now when Gorgias was gouernoure of the same places, he toke straungers and undertoke oft tymes to warre with 3 Jewes. Moreover the Idumeans that helde the strong holdes, receaued those that were dryen from Jerusalem, and toke in honde to warre also. But they that were with Machabens, besought and prayed vnto the LORDE, that he wolde be their helper: and so they fell in to the stronge holdes of the Idumeans, and wanne many places by strength: Soch as came agaynst them they slew, and kyled no lesse (of all together) then twentye thousande. Neuerthelesse some (no lesse then myn: thousande) were fled in to two stronge towres, hauynge all maner of ordinaunce to withstonde them.

Then Machabens leauynge Symon, Josephus, Zachaus and those that were with them, (which were very many) wente to besege the, and to fight where most nede was. Now they that were with Symon beyng led with conuousnesse, were intreated for money, thorow certayne of those that laye in the towres: toke lxx. M. drachmas, and let some of them escape. But when it was tolde Machabens what had happened, he called 3 captaynes of the people together, accusynge those persones, that they had sold the biethen for money, and let their enemies go. So he slewe those traytours, and immediately wente in honde with the 2 towres. And when they had ordred them selues manly with their weapons and bondes, they stode in 2 castels moche the twelue thousande.

Now Timotheus whom the Jewes had overcome afore, gathered a multitude of strange people, broughte an hoost also of hoisemen of the Asians, to wyne Jewry by strength. But when he drewe nye, Machabens and they that were wth him fell to their prayer, sprenckled ashes vpon their heades, beyng geyded wth hayre cloth about their loines, fel downe before y^e altar, and besought the LORDE that he wolde be mercifull to them, but an enemy vnto their enemies, and to take parte agaynst their aduersaries, accordinge as it is promised in the lawe. So after the prayer, they wente on further from the cite: and when they came nye the enemies, they prepared them selues agaynst them.

And by tymes in the mourynge at 4 halfe of the daye, both the hoostes badled together. The one parte had the LORDE for their refuge, which is the geuer of prosperite, strengch and victory. The other had a ma istomad, which is a captayne of warre. The battayll now beyng greete, there appeared vnto the enemies from heauen v. men vpon horsback with byrdels of golde, leuynge the Jewes, and two of them hauynge Machabens betwixte them, 3 kepte him safe on enery syde wth their weapons, but shot darts and lighteninges vpon the enemies. where thorow they were confounded with blindnesse and so sore afrayed, that they fell downe. There were slayne of fore mentwene thousande and fyue hundred, and sixe hundred hoisemen. As for Timotheus him self, he fled vnto Gazar a very stronge holde, where Cereas was captayne. But Machabens and his company layed sege to it cherfully iij. dayes. Now they that were within, trustinge to the strength of the place, cursed and blamed exceedingly, and made greete cryinge with wicked wordes. Neuerthelesse vpon the fift daye in the mourynge, x. yongemen of Machabens company, beyng set on fyre in their myndes because of the blasphemy: came manfully vnto the wall, and with bolde stomakes they and their other companions clymmed vp vpon the towres, and set fyre vpon the portes, and to burne those blasphemous persones quyte. Two dayes were they destroyenge the castell, which when they founde Timotheus (that was crepte in to a corner) they kyled him, and slewe Cereas his brother in like maner with Appollophanes. When this was done, they sung psalmes, with prayses and thankesgeuynges vnto the LORDE, which had done so greete thinges for Israel, and gotten them the victory.

The XI. Chapter.

Of longe after this, Lysias the kynges stowarde and a kynsman of his, (which had the gouernaunce of his matters,) toke sore displeasure for the thinges that had happened: and when he had gathered lxx. M. men of fote with all the hoost of the hoisemen, he came agaynst the Jewes, thynkyng to wyne the cite, to make it an habitacon for the heithen, and the temple wolde he haue to be an house of latre, like as the other goddes houses of the heithen are, and to sell 3 prestes office enery yere. For consideringe the power of God, but was wyde in his mynde, trustinge in y^e multitude of fote meⁿ, in thousandes of hoisemen, and in his lxxx. Elephantes.

So he came in to Jewry and then to Bethsura a castell of defence lyenge in a narrow place, v. furlonges from Jerusalem and wanne it. Now when Machabens and his company knew that the stronge holdes were taken, they fell to their prayers with wepyng and teares before the LORDE: and all the people in like maner besought him, that he wolde sende a good angell to deliuer Israel. Machabens him self was the first that made him ready to the battayll, exortynge the other that were with him, to ioperde them selues and to helpe their biethen. And when they were goynge forth of Jerusalem together with a ready and wyllynge mynde, there appeared before the vpon horsbacke a man in whyte clothinge with harness of golde, shakynge his speare. Then they prayesed 3 LORDE all together, which had shewed them mercy, and were consoled in their mynde so much that they were ready, not only to fight with men, but with y^e most cruell bestes, yee and to runne thorow walles of yren.

Thus they wente on wyllingly hauynge an helper from heauⁿ, and the LORDE mercifull vnto them. They fell mightely vpon their enemies like lyons, brought downe x. M. fote men, xvi. C. hoisemen, put all 3 other to flight, many of them beyng wounded, and some gat away naked. See Lysias him self was fayne to fle shamefully, and so to escape. Neuerthelesse the man was not without vnderstandinge, but considered by him self that his power was mynished, and pondered how 3 Jewes beyng defended by the helpe of Allmyghty God, were not able to be overcome: wherfore he sent them worde, and promised, that he wolde consente to all thinges which were reasonable, and to make the kyng their frende. To the which prayer of Lysias Machabens agreed, setynge in all thinges the comon wealch: and what so euer Machabens wrote vnto Lysias concerninge the Jewes, the kyng graunted it. For there were lettres writte vnto y^e Jewes from Lysias conteynyng these wordes:

D Lysias sendeth greeting to the people of the Jewes. Ihon and Absalon which were sent from you, deliuered me wrytinges, and requyred me to fulfill the thinges concernynge their earande. Therefore I like what might be graunted, I certified & kynge therof: and what so ever was convenient, I agreed thereto. If ye now wyll be faithfull in the matters, I shal endeavour my self hereafter also to do you good. As concernynge other thinges by every article therof: I have committed them to youre messangers, and to those whom I sent vnto you, to comon with you of the same, fare ye well. In the hundredth and xliij. yere, the xliij. daye of the moneth Diocorinthios.

Now the kynge's lettre conteyned these wordes: Kynge Antiochus sendeth greeting vnto his brother Lysias. For so much as our father is now deed, our wyll is, that they which are in our realme, lyue without eny insurreccion, and every man to be diligent in his owne matters. We vnderstande also, that the Jewes wolde not consent to our father, for to be brought vnto the custome of the Gentiles, but stiffly to kepe their owne statutes: for the which cause they requyre of vs also, to let them remayne still by their owne lawes.

E Wherefore our minde is, that this people shalbe in rest: we have concluded and determined also, to restore them their temple agayne: that they maye lyue accordinge to the vse & custome of their forefathers. Then shal we do vs a pleasure therfore, if thou sende vnto them & agre with them: that when they are certified of our mynde, they maye be of good chere, and like to their owne wealthe.

And this was the lettre, that the kynge wrote vnto the Jewes: Kynge Antiochus sendeth greeting vnto the counsell and the other people of the Jewes. If ye fare well, we haue our desyre: as for vs, we are in good health. Menelaus came and tolde vs, how & your desyre was to come downe to your people, which are with vs.

Wherefore these that wyll come, we geue them fre libertie, vnto the xxx. daye of the moneth of Apull, that they maye vse & meates of the Jewes and their owne lawes, like as afore: and none of them by eny manner of wayes to haue harme, for thinges done in ignorance. Menelaus whom we haue sent vnto you, shal comon with you at large, fare ye well. In the Cxliij. yere, the xv. daye of the moneth of Apull.

The Romaynes also sent a lettre, conteyn-nyng these wordes: Quintus Mamius & Titus Mamilius embassatours of the Romaynes, sende greeting vnto the people of the Jewes. Like what Lysias the kynge's man hath graunted you, we graunte you the same also. But as concernynge the thinges which he referred vnto the kynge, sende hither some with speede: and p̄dure the matter diligently amonge youre felues, that we maye cast & best to youre profit, for we must departe now vnto Antioche. And therefore wyte shortly agayne, that we maye knowe youre mynde. Fare well. In the hundredth xliij. yere, & xv. daye of the moneth of Apull.

The XII. Chapter.

When these covenantes were made, Lysias wente vnto the kynge, and & Jewes tyllid their grounde. But Timotheus, Appollonius the sonne of Gemes, Jerome and Demophon & proude, Nicanoz & caprayne of Cyprus, and they that laye in those places: wolde not let them lyue in rest and peace. They of Joppa also dyed even soch a shamefull dede: They prayed & Jewes that dwelt amonge them, to go with their wyues and children into the shippes which they had prepared, & dyd with them, as though they had ought them no will. For so much then as there was gone forth a generall proclamaciō therow, & because of peace, they consented thereto, and suspecte nothynge: but when they were gone forth into the depe, they drowned no less then ij. C. of them.

When Judas knew of this cruell shew vnto his people, he commaunded those that were with him to make them ready, & praynge them to call vpon God the righteous iudge: w̄ere forth agaynst those murderers of his brethren, set fyre in & haue by night, burnt vp & shippes, and those that escaped from the fyre, he sette with the sword. And when he had done this, he departed: though he wolde come agayne, and rote out all them of Joppa. But when he had geue worde that the Jamnites were mynde to do in like maner vnto & Jewes which dwelt amonge them, he came vpon the Jamnites by night, and set fyre in the haven with the shippes: so that the light of the fyre was seen at Jerusalem, vpon a ij. C. & xl. furlonges.

Now when they were gone from thence ix. furlonges, in their iourney towards Timotheus: v. thousande men of force and hundredth horsmen of the Arabians sought with him. So when the batell was earnest, and prospered with Judas thorow the helpe of God: & residue of the Arabians beyng overcome, besought Judas to be at one with them, and promised to geue him certayn pastures, & to do him good in other thinges. Judas thynkynge that they shulde in dede be profitable concernynge many thinges, promised them peace: wherupon they shote bondes, and so they departed to their homes. Judas wente also vnto a cite, which was very fast keppe w̄ brydges, fenced round aboute with walles, & dyuerse kyndes of people dwellinge therein, called Caspin.

E They that were within it, put soch trust in the strength of the walles, & in their store of vntales: that they were the slacker in their doynges, cursinge and reuylinge Judas with blasphemies, and speakynge soch wordes as it becommeth not. But Machabees callynge vpon the greates p̄ynce of & wolde (which without eny battayll rammes or ordinaunce of warre, dyd cast downe the walles of Jericho, in the tyme of Joshephiman fully vpon the walles, toke the cite, and thorow the helpe of the LORDE made an exceedinge greates slaughter: In so much that a lake of ij. furlonges brode which laye therby, semed to flowe with the bloude of the slayne.

Then departed they from thence vij. C. and furlonges, and came to Taraca vnto & Jewes that are called Tabianei. But as for Timotheus, they coude not get him there: for (not one matter dispatched) he was departed from thence, and had lefte certayne men in a very stronge holde. But Dosithus and Sosipater which were captaines with Machabeus, slewe those & Timotheus had lefte in the house of defence, even x. M. men. And Machabeus prepared him with & x. M. men & were aboute him, set them in ordre by companies, and wente forth agaynst Timotheus, which had with him an C. and xx. M. men of force, ij. M. and v. C. horsmen.

When Timotheus had knowlege of Judas commynge, he sent the women, children and the other baggage vnto a castell called Carnion. (For it coude not be wonne, & was harde to come vnto, the wayes of the same places were so narrow) and when Judas's company came first in sight, the enemies were smytten with feare, thorow the presence of God, which seyth all thinges: In so much & they sleynge one here, another there, were rather discomfited of their owne people, & wounded w̄ the strokes of their owne swordes. Judas also was very earnest in folowynge vpon them and punysshynge those vngodly, and slewe xxx. M. men of them. Timotheus also himself fell in to the bondes of Dosithus & Sosipater, whom he besought with many prayers, to let him go with his life: because he had many of the Jewes fathers and brethren in prison, which (if they put him to death) might be disapoynted. So when he had promised faithfully to deliuer them agayne accordinge to the condicion made, they let him go without harme. for the health of & brethren. And when Judas had slayne xxx. M. he wente from Carnion.

Now after & he had chased awaye and slayne his enemies, he remoued the hoost towarde Ephrona stronge cite, wherin dwelt many dyuerse people of the heithen, and & stronge yonge men keppe the walles, defendynge the mightely. In this cite was much ordinaunce, and prouysion of dartes. But when Judas and his company had called vpon Allmighty God, (which w̄ his power breaketh the strength of the enemies) they wanne the cite, and slew xxx. M. of them & were within. From thence wente they to the cite of the Scythians, which lieth vij. C. furlonges from Jerusalem. But when & Jewes which were in the cite testified, that the cite syns dealte lowyngly with them, yee and intreated them kindly in & tyme of their aduersite, Judas and his company gaue them him (which made them his people, and ever defended his owne porcion with euident to lens) that he wolde preserve them still. So at the commaundement of the capayne, they remoued from thence, and came to a towne called Bessasan. And Symon Judas brother fell in honde with Nicanor, but thorow the sodane commynge of the enemies, he was afrayed.

Nevertheless Nicanor hearinge the manlynes of them that were with Judas, and y bold stomackes that they had to fight for their naturall countre, durst not pious the matter with bloudsheddinge. Wherefore he sent Possidonius, Theodocius & Mathias before, to geue and to take peace. So when they had taken longe aduysment there vpon, and the capayne shewed it vnto the multitude: they were agreed in one mynde, to haue peace. And they appoynted a daye to sye vpon these matters quyetly amonge them selues, & stoles also were brought and set forth. Nevertheless Judas commaunded certaine men of armes to waite in conuenient places, lest there shulde sodenly aryse any euell chorow the enemies. And so they commoned reasonably together.

Nicanor, whyle he abode at Jerusalem, ordred himself not vnrasonably, but sent awaye the people that were gathered together. He loued Judas ever with his hert, and fauoured him. He prayed him also to take a wyfe, and to brynge forth children. So he married, lyued in rest, and they led a comon life. But Alcimus perceauynge the loue that was betwixte them, and how they were agreed together, came to Demetrius, and tolde him that Nicanor had taken straunge matters in honde, and ordeined Judas (an enemy of the realme) to be the kynges successoure. Then the kyng was sore displeased, and chorow the wicked accusations which Alcimus made of Nicanor, he was so prouoked, that he wrote vnto Nicanor, sayenge: that he was very angrie for the frendshipe and agreement, which he had made with Machabeus. Nevertheless he commaunded him in all the haist, that he shulde take Machabeus prisoner, and sende him to Antioche.

Which lettres when Nicanor had sente, he was at his wittes ende, and sore grieved, that he shulde breake the thinges, wherein they had agreed: specially, seynge Machabeus was the man, that neuer dyd him harme. But because he might not withston-

de the kyng, he sought oportunitie to fulfil his commaundement. Notwithstandinge when Machabeus sawe that Nicanor beganne to be charlish vnto him, and that he intreated him more roughly then he was wonte, he perceaued that such vntyndnes came not of good, and therefore he gathered a few of his men, and withdrew himself fro Nicanor. Which when he knewe that Machabeus had manfully prevented him, he came in to the greate and most holy temple, and commaunded the prestes (which were doynge their vsuall offeringes) to deliuer him the man. And when they sware that they coude not tell, where the man was wh he sought, he strecthed out his honde, and made an oath, sayenge: If ye wyll not deliuer me Judas capayne, I shall remoue this temple of God in to the playne felde, I shal breake downe the altar, and consecrate this temple vnto Bachus. After these wordes he departed.

Then the prestes lift vp their honde towarde heauen, and besought him that was ever the defender of their people, sayenge: Thou O LORDE of all, which hast nede of nothings, woldest that the temple of thy habitation shulde be amonge vs. Therfore now (O most holy LORDE) kepe this house ever undefyled, which lately was defiled. Now was there accused vnto Nicanor, one Razis an Alderman of Jerusalem, a loue of the whole cite, and a man of good reputa which for the kynde hert that he bare vnto the people, was called a father of y Jewes. This man oft tymes (when the Jewes were mynded to kepe them selues undefyled) defended and deliuered them, beyng commasted fastly to spende his body and his life for his people.

So Nicanor wylling to declare the hate, that he bare to the Jewes, sent fyue hundred men to take him: for he thought, if he gat him, he shulde brynge the Jewes in grante decaye. Now when the people beganne to rushe in at his house, to breake the doore, and to set fyre on it: he beyng now taken, wolde haue defended himself with his sword: chosynge rather to dye manfully, then to yelde himselfe to those wicked doers: and because of his noble stocke, he had rather haue bene put to extreme cruelte.

Notwithstandinge what tyme as he myssed of his stroke for haist, and the multitude fell in violently betwixte the doers: he tane boldly to y wall, & cast himself downe

manfully amonge the heape of them, which gaue soone place to his fall, so that he fell vpon his bely. Nevertheless whyle there was yet breath within him, he was kyndled in his mynde: and whyle his bloude gushsed out exceedingly (for he was very sore wounded) he tane thorow the myddest of y people, and gat him to the toppe of a rocke. So when his bloude was now gone, he toke out his owne bowels with both his hondes, and threw them vpon the people: callinge vpon the LORDE of life and spiere, to rewarde him this agayne, and so he dyed.

The XV. Chapter.

Now when Nicanor knewe that Judas was in the countre of Samana, he thought with all his power to strike a felde with him vpon a Sabbath daye. Nevertheless the Jewes that were compelled to go with him, sayde: O do not so cruelly and vntyndly, but halowe y Sabbath daye, and worshipe him that seyth all thinges. For all this, yet sayde the vngacions personne: Is there a mightie one in heauen, that commaunded the Sabbath daye to be kepte? And when they sayde: yee the lyvinge God, the mightie LORDE in heauen commaunded the seuenth daye to be kepte, he sayde: And I am mightie vpon earth, to commaunde them for to arme them selues, and to perfourme the kynges busynesse. Notwithstandinge he might not haue his purpose.

Nicanor had denyfed with greate pryde to ouercome Judas, and to brynge awaye y victory. But Machabeus had ever a fast confidace and a perfecte hope in God that he wolde helpe him, and exorted his people, not to be afrayed at the commynge of the heithen: but allwaye to remember the helpe that had bene shewed vnto them from heauen, yee and to be sure now also, y Almightie God wolde geue them the victory. & espaske vnto them out of the lawe and prophetes, puttinge them in remembrance of the battayls, that they had striken afore, & made them to be of a good corage.

So when their hartes were plucte vp, he shewed them also the disceatfulnesse of the heithen, and how they wolde kepe no countenance oath. Thus he weapened them not with the armour of shyld and speare, but with wholsome wordes and exortacions. He shewed them a dreame also, wherethorow he made them all glad, which was this: He thought that he sawe Onias (which had bene hys priest, a vertuous & louynge man, sad, and of honest conuersacion, well spoken, and one that had bene exercised in goodlynes fro a childe) holdinge vp his hodes towarde heauen, and prayenge for his people. After this there appeared vnto him another man, which was aged, honorable and glorious. And Onias sayde: This is a loue of the brethren, and of the people of Israel. This is he that prayeth much for the people, and for all the holy cite: Jeremy the prophet of God. He thought also y Jeremy helde out his right hode, and gaue him (namely vnto Judas) a swearde of golde, sayenge: Take this holy swearde, a giste from God, wherewith thou shalt smyte downe the enemies of the people of Israel.

And so they were wel comforted thorow the wordes of Judas, and toke corage vnto this, so that the yonge men were decremed in their myndes to fight, & to hyde styfly at it. In so much that in the thinges which they toke in honde, their boldnesse shewed the same, because the holy cite and the temple were in parell: for the which they toke more care, then for their wyues, children, brethren and kynnsfolkes. Agayne, they that were in the cite, were most carefull for those which were to fight. Now when they were all in a hope that the iudgment of the matter was at hand, and the enemies drew nye, the hoost beyng set in aray, the Elephantes and horsmen every one stondinge in his place: Machabeus considered the commynge of the multitude, the ordinaunce of dyuerse weapens, the cruelnesse of the beestes, and helde vp his honde towarde heauen, callinge vpon the LORDE that doth wonders, which geueth not the victory after the multitude of weapens and power of the hoost (but to them that please him) accordinge to his owne will. Therfore in his prayer he sayde these wordes:

O LORDE, thou that biddest sende thine angell in the tyme of Ezechias kyng of Judas, and in the hoost of Sennacherib slewest an hundred and fyue and foure score thousand: sende now also thy good angell before vs (O LORDE of heauens) in the fearfulness and drede of thy mightie arme, that they which come agaynst thy holy people to blaspheme them, maye be afrayed. And so he made an ende of his wordes. Then Nicanor and they that were with him, drew nye with shawmes and songes: but Judas and his company with prayer and callinge vpon God.

4. Reg. 19. E. Esh. 37. 1 Mac. 9. 2. Ma. 9.

With their hondes they smote, but with their hertes they prayed vnto the LORDE, and sene no lesse then xxxv. M. me: For thorough the present helpe of God they were gloriously comforted.

Now when they left of, and were turning agayne with ioye, they vnderstode that Ulicanor himself was slayne with the other. Then they gave a greete shout and a crye, praylinge the almighty LORDE with a loude voyce. And Judas (which was ever ready to spende his body and life for his citsyns) commaunded to smyte of Ulicanors heade, with his arme and honde, and to be brought to Jerusalem. When he came there, he called all the people, and the prestes at the altar with those that were in the castell, and shewed them Ulicanors heade, and his wicked honde, which he had presumptuously holden vp agaynst the temple of God. He caused the tongue also of that vngodly Ulicanor to be cut in litle peces, and to be cast to the foules, and the cruell mans honde to be hanged vp before the temple. So euery man gaue thanks vnto the LORDE, saing: blessed be he, that hath kept his place vndefyled.

As for Ulicanors heade, he hanged it vp vpon the hye castell, for an euident and playne token of the helpe of God. And so they agreed all together, to kepe that daye holye, namely the xiiij. daye of the moneth Adar, which in the Syriack language is called the next daye before Mardocheus daye. Thus was Ulicanor slayne, and from that tyme forth the Jewes had the cite in possession. And here wil I now make an ende.

- Chap. I. The genealogy of Christ, and marriage of his mother Mary. The angell sanctifyeth Josephs mynde.
- Chap. II. The tyme & place of Christes byrth. The wyse men of the orient presentes Christ. Christ flyeth into Egypte, the yonge chylde is slayne. Christ turneth in to Galilee.
- Chap. III. The baptye, preachinge and office of Ihon, and how Christ was baptyed of him in Jordan.
- Chap. IIII. Christ fasteth and is tempted: he calleth Peter, Andrew, James and Ihon, & healeth all the sicke.
- Chap. V. In this Chapter and in the two next folowinge is conteyned the most excellent and longynge Sermon of Christ in the mount: Which sermon is the very keye that openeth the vnderstandinge in to the lawe. In this fifth chapter specially he preacheth of the VIII. beatitudes or blessings, of manslaughter, wrath and anger, of aduouerie, of swearinge, of suffringewronge, and of loue euen towardes a mans enemies.
- Chap. VI. Of Almes, prayer and fasting. He forbyddeth the carefull scyng of worldly thynges.
- Chap. VII. He forbyddeth foolish and temerarious iudgment, reproueth ypocrysie, exorteth vnto prayer, warneth to beware of false prophetes, and so concludeth his sermon.
- Chap. VIII. Christ clenseth the leper, healeth the captraynes seruante and many other diseases: helpeth Peters mother in lawe, stilleth the see and the wynde, and dryneth the deuels out of the possessed in to the swyne.
- Chap. IX. He healeth the palsy, calleth Matthew from the custome, answereth for his disciples, healeth the woman of the bloude yssue, helpeth Jarius doughter, geneth a blind man their sight, maketh a deaffe man to speake, dryneth our deuill.
- Chap. X. Christ sendeth out his XII. Apostles to preach in Jewry, geneth them a charge, teacheth them, & comforteth them agaynst persecucion and trouble.
- Chap. XI. Ihon baptist sendeth his disciples vnto Christ, which geneth them their answer, rebuketh the vnthriftfull cities, and longynge exorteth men to take his yock vpon them.
- Chap. XII. The disciples plucke the eares of come, he crucifeth them, healeth the dried hande, helpeth the possessed that was blinde and deaffe, rebuketh the vnfaithfull that wolde nedes haue tokens, and sheweth who is his brother, sister and mother.
- Chap. XIII. The parable of the sede, of the tares, of the mustarde sede, of the leuen, of the treasure hydd in the felde, of the perles, and of the net.

- Chap. XIII. Ihon is taken and headed, Christ seeth frute thousande men with v. loaves and two fishes, and appeareth by night vnto his disciples vpon the see.
- Chap. XV. Christ excuseth his disciples, and rebuketh the scribes and pharises for transgressinge Gods comendement thorow their owne tradicions. The thynge that goeth into the mouth defyleth not the man: He deliuereth the woman of Cananees daughter, healeth the multitude, and with v. loaves and a fewe litle fishes feedeth iiij. M. men, besyde women & chylde.
- Chap. XVI. The pharises requyre a token. Iesus warneth his disciples of the pharises doctrine. The confession of peter. The keyes of heauen. The faithfull must beare the crosse after Christ.
- Chap. XVII. The transfiguracion of Christ vpon the mount of Tabor. He healeth the lunaticke and payeth tribute.
- Chap. XVIII. He teacheth his disciples to behaue, and harmlesse, to avoyde occasiōs of euill, and one to forgiue anothers offence.
- Chap. XIX. Christ geueth answer concerninge marriage, & teacheth not to be carefull as to loue worldly riches.
- Chap. XX. Christ teacheth by a similitude that God is better vnto no man, and how he is alwaye callinge me to his labour. He teacheth his disciples to be lowly, & geueth a. blind men their sight.
- Chap. XXI. He rydeth in to Ierusalem, dryneth the marchauntes out of the temple, curseth the figge tre, and rebuketh the pharises with the multitude of the s. sonnes and of the husbandmen, that slew sochas were sent vnto them.
- Chap. XXII. The mariage of the kynges sonne. Tribute to be geue to the Emperoure. Christ confuteth the opymion of the Saduces concerninge the resurreccio, and answereth the scr. be vnto his questyon.
- Chap. XXIII. Christ crieth wo ouer the pharises, scribes and ypocrites, and prophecieth the destruction of Ierusalem.
- Chap. XXIII. Christ sheweth his disciples the destruction of the temple, the ende of the worlde, the tokens of the latter dayes, and warneth the to wake, for the worlde shal sodely perishe.
- Chap. XXV. The X. virgins, the talentes deliuered to the seruantes, and of the generall iudgment.

- Chap. XXVII. The resurreccio of Christ. The hyeprestes geue the souldiers large moneye, to saie that Christ was stolle out of his graue. Christ appeareth to his disciples, and sendeth them forth to preach and to baptyse.

The gospell of S. Mathew.

The first Chapter.

This is the booke of the generacion of Iesus Christ s. sonne of Dauid, the sonne of Abrahā. Abrahā begat Isaac: Isaac begat Jacob: Jacob begat Judas & his brethren: Judas begat Phares & Zarah of Thamar: Phares begat Zesrom: Zesrom begat Aram: Aram begat Aminadab: Aminadab begat Naasson: Naasson begat Salmon: Salmon begat Boos of Rahab: Boos begat Obed of Ruth: Obed begat Jesse: Jesse begat Dauid the Kyng: Dauid the Kyng begat Salomon, of her that was the wyfe of Dyr: Salomon begat Roboam: Roboam begat Abia: Abia begat Asa: Asa begat Josaphat: Josaphat begat Joram: Joram begat Osias: Osias begat Joatham: Joatham begat Achas: Achas begat Ezechias: Ezechias begat Manasses: Manasses begat Amon: Amon begat Josias: Josias begat Jechonias and his brethren aboute the tyme of the captiuyte of Babylon. And after the captiuyte of Babylon, Jechonias begat Salathiel: Salathiel begat Zorobabel:

of S. Mathew. Ho. ij.

Zorobabel begat Abiud: Abiud begat Eliachim: Eliachim begat Azor: Azor begat Sadoc: Sadoc begat Achin: Achin begat Eliud: Eliud begat Eleasar: Eleasar begat Matthan: Matthan begat Jacob: Jacob begat Joseph the husbande of Mary, of who was borne that Iesus, which is called Christ.

All the generacions from Abrahā to Dauid are fourtene generacions: From Dauid vnto the captiuyte of Babylon, are fourtene generacions. From the captiuyte of Babylon vnto Christ, are also fourtene generacions.

The byrth of Christ was on thys wyse: When his mother Mary was married to Joseph & before they came together, she was founde with chylde by s. holy goost. But Joseph her husbande was a perfect man, and wolde not bringe her to shame, but was mynded to put her awaie secretly. Neuertheles whyle he thus thought, beholde, the angell of the LORDE appered vnto him in a dreame, saynge: Joseph thou sonne of Dauid, feare not to take vnto the Mary thy wyfe. For that which is conceaued in her, is of s. holy goost. She shall brynge forth a sonne, and thou shalt call his name Iesus. For he shall saue his people from their synnes.

All this was done, & the thynge might, be fulfilled, which was spoken of the LORDE by the prophet, saynge: Beholde, a mayde shall be with chylde, and shall brynge forth a sonne, and they shall call his name Emanuel, which is by interpretacion, God with vs.

Now when Joseph awoke out of slepe he did as the angell of s. LORDE bade hym, and toke his wyfe vnto hym, and knewe her not, tyll she had brought forth hir fyrst borne sonne, and called his name Iesus.

The II. Chapter.

When Iesus was borne at Bethlee in Iury, in the tyme of Herodes the Kyng: Beholde, there came wyse men from the east to Ierusalem, saynge: Where is the new borne kyng of the Iues? We haue sene his starre in the east, and are come to worship him.

When Herode & his kyng had herde this, he was troubled, & all Ierusalem with hym, and he gathered all the hye priestes and scribes of s. people, & asked of them, where Christ shulde be borne. And they sayde vnto to hym: at Bethleem in Iury. For thus it is witten by the prophet: And thou Bethleem in the londe of Iury, art not the leest amonge the Princes of Iuda. For out of y shall come vnto me the caprayne, that shall gouerne my people Israel.

B Then Herod pryncely called the wyse men, and diligently enquired of them, what tyme the starre appered, and sent them to Bethleem, saying: Goe, and searche diligently for the chylde. And when ye haue founde hym, bringe me worde agayne, that I maye come and worshippinge hym also.

When they had heard the kynge, they departed: and lo, the starre which they sawe in the east, went before them, tyll it came, and stode ouer the place where the chylde was. When they sawe the starre, they were maruelously glad: and went into the house, and found the chylde with Mary his mother, and kneeled downe and worshipped hym, & opened ther treasures, and offred vnto hym gyffes: gold, fransysence and myrr. And after they were warned of God in a dreame, that they shuld not go agayne to Herod, they returned into their awne countre another waye.

C When they were departed: beholde, the angell of the LORDE appered to Joseph in a dreame, sayinge: arise, and take the chylde and his mother, and fflye into Egypte, and abyde there tyll I brynge the worde. For he rod wyl seke the chylde to destroye hym. The he arose, and toke the chylde and his mother by night, and departed into Egypte, and was there vnto y deeth of Herod, that the thinge mighte be fulfilled which was spote of the LORDE, by the prophet, which sayeth: out of Egypte haue I called my sonne.

Then Herod perceauynge y he was disceaued of the wyse men, was excedynge wroth, and sent forth, and slue all the chydren that were in Bethleem, and in all the coastes there of, as many as were two yere olde and vnder, accordynge to the tyme which he had diligently searched out of the wyse men.

Then was y fulfilled which was spoken by y prophet Jeremy sayinge: On y hilles was a voyce herde, greate mournynge, wepyng, & lamentacion: Rachel wepyng for her chydren, and wolde not be comforted, because they were not.

When Herode was deed: beholde, an angell of the LORDE appered in a dreame to Joseph in Egypte, sayinge: arise and take the chylde and his mother, & go into y londe of Israel. For they are deed, which soughte the chylde's life. And he arose vp, and toke y chylde and his mother, & came into the londe of Israel. But whē he herde that Archelans did raygne in Iury, in y rowme of his father Herode, he was astryde to go thither. Notwithstandinge after he was warned of God in a dreame, he turned asyde into the parties of Galile, and went and dwelt in a cite called Nazareth, to fulfill y which was spoken by the prophetes: he shalbe called a Nazarete.

The III. Chapter.

In those dayes Jhon the Baptyst came and preached in the wilderness of Iury, sayinge: Amende youre selues, the kyngdome of heuen is at honde. This is he, of whom it is spote by y prophet Esay, which sayeth: The voyce of a cryer in y wilderness, prepare the LORDES waye, and make his pathes straight.

This Jhon had his garment of camels heer, and a lechre girdell aboute his loynes. His meate was locustes and wyld honey. Then went out to hym Jerusalem, and all Iury, and all the region rounde aboute Jordan, and were baptised of him in Jordan, confessynge their synnes.

Now when he sawe many of the pharises and of y Saduces come to hys baptim, he sayde vnto them: ye generacio of vipers, who hath certified you, that yeshal escape y vengeance to come? Bewarre, brynge forth due frutes of penance. Thinke not now, to saye in your selues, we haue Abraham to oure father. For I saye vnto you, that God is able of these stones to rayse vp chydren vnto Abraham. Euen now is the areput vnto y rote of the trees: therfore euery tre which bringeth not forth good frute, shalbe hene downe, and cast into the fyre.

I baptise you with water to repentance: but he that cometh after me, is myghtier than I, whose shues I am not worthy to beare. He shall baptise you with y holy goost & w fyre: which hath also his fan in his hand, and will pouрге his floore, and gadre the wheet into his garner, & will burne y chaffe with vnquenchable fyre.

Then came Jesus from Galile to Jordan, vnto Jhon, to be baptised of hym. But Jhon forbade hym, sayinge: I haue nede to be baptised of the: and comest thou to me? Jesus answered & sayd vnto hym: Let it be so now. For thus it becommeth vs to fulfill all righteounes. Then he suffered hym. And Jesus as sone as he was baptised, came straight out of the water. And lo, heuē was opene ouer hym: and Jhon sawe the spirite of God descende lyke a done, and lyght vpon hym. And lo, there came a voyce fro heuē saying: This is that my beloued sonne, in whom is my belyte.

The III. Chapter.

Then was Jesus led awaye of the spirite into wilderness, to be tempted of the denyll. And when he had fasted fortye dayes and fortye nightes, he was a sterward an hungred. And the tēpter came to him and sayde: yf thou be the sonne of God, commaunde, that these stones be made bred. He answered & sayde: yt is wrytten: Man shall not lyne by bred onlye, but by euery worde that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

Then the denyll toke hym vp into the holy cite, and set hym on a pynacle of the temple, and sayde vnto hym: yf thou be y sonne of God, cast thy sylfe downe. For it is wrytten: he shall geue his angels charge ouer the and with their handes they shal holde the vp, that thou dashe not thy fore agaynst a stone. And Jesus sayde vnto hym: it ys wrytten also: Thou shalt not tempte thy LORDE God.

Agayne, the denyll toke hym vp and led hym into an excedynge hye mountayne, and shewed hym all the kyngdomes of the world, and all the glorie of them, and sayde vnto hym: all these wil I geue the, yf thou wilt fall downe and worship me. Then sayde Jesus vnto hym: Auoyde Satā. For it ys wrytten: thou shalt worship the LORDE thy God and hym onely shalt thou serue.

Then the deuill lest hym, and beholde, the angels came and ministred vnto hym. When Jesus had herde that Jhon was taken, he departed into Galile and lest Nazareth, and went and dwelt in Capernaum, which is a cite apon the see, in the coastes of zabulon and Neptalim, y the thinge mighte be fulfilled which was spoken by Esay the prophet, sayinge: The londe of zabulon and Neptalim, the waye of the see beyonde Jordan, and Galile of the Gentyle, the people which sat in darknes, sawe a greatelyght, & to them which sat in the region & shadowe of deeth, lyght is begone to shyne.

From that tyme forth beganne Jesus to preach, and to saye: Amende youre selues, y kyngdome of heauen is at honde.

As Jesus walked by the see of Galile, he sawe two brethren: Simon which was called Peter, & Andrew his brother, castinge a net into y sea, for they were fishers, and he sayde vnto them: foloweme, & I will make you fishers of me. And they strayght waye leste their nettes, and folowed hym.

And when he wēt forth from thence, he sawe other two brethren, James the sonne of zebede, and Jhon his brother, in the ship with zebede their father, mendynge their nettes, and called them. And they without tarynge leste y shyp and their father, and folowed hym.

And Jesus went aboute all Galile, teaching in their synagoges, and preachinge the gospel of the kyngdome, and healed all maner of sitnes, & all maner dyseases amonge the people. And his fame spied abroad through out all Siria. And they broughte vnto hym all sick people, that were taken with diuers diseases and gripinges, and the y were possessed with deuils, & those which were lunatyke, and those that had the palsy: & he healed the. And ther folowed hym a greate nombre of people, from Galile, & from the ten cities, and from Jerusalem, and from the regions that lye beyonde Jordan.

The V. Chapter.

When he sawe the people, he went vp into a mountayne: and when he was set, his disciples came to hym, and he opened his mouth, and taughte them, sayinge: Blessed are the poore in spiete: for theirs is the kyngdome of heuē. Blessed are they that mourne: for they shalbe comforted. Blessed are the meke: for they shal inheret the erth. Blessed are they which hunger & thurst for rightewesnes: for they shal be filled. Blessed are the mercifull: for they shal obteyne mercy. Blessed are the pure in herte: for they shal se God. Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shalbe called the chydren of God. Blessed are they which suffre persecucion for rightewesnes sake: for theirs is the kyngdome of heuen. Blessed are ye when men reuyle you, and persecute you, and falsly say all manner of yuell saynges against you for my sake. Reioyce and be glad, for greate is youre reward in heuē.

For so persecuted they the prophetes which were before youre dayes.

We are y salt of the earth, but and yf the salt hane lost his saltnes, what can be salted therwith? It is thence forth good for nothyng, but to be cast out, and to be trodden vnder fote of men. We are the lighe of the world. A cite that is set on an hill, can not be hid: nether do men lyght a candell, and put it vnder a bushell, but on a candlestick, and it lighteth all that are in the house. Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good workes, and glorify you re father which is in heaven.

Thinke not, that I am come to destroye the lawe, or the prophetes: no, I am not come to destroye them, but to fulfill them. For truly I saye vnto you: till heauen and earth perishe, one iott or one tytle of the lawe shall not escape, tyll all be fulfilled.

Whosoever breaketh one of these least co- mandmentes, and teacheth me so, he shall be called the leest in the kyngdome of hea- ven. But whosoever obserueth and teacheth the same shall be called greate in the kyngdo- me of heauen.

For I saye vnto you: excepte your righ- teresnes exceede the righteuesnes of the Scribes and pharises, ye can not entre in to the kyngdome of heauen.

Ye haue herde, how it was sayde to the of the olde tyme: Thou shalt not kyll. For whosoever killeth, shall be in daunger of iudgement. But I saye vnto you: whoso- ever is angrie with his brother, is in daunger of the iudgement. Whosoever sayeth vnto his brother: Racha, is in daunger of y^e cou- sell. But whosoever sayeth: thou foole, is in daunger of hell fyre.

Therefore when thou offrest thy gift at the altare, and there remembreth that thy brother hath ought agaynst thee: leaue there thyne offrynge before the altare, and go thy waye first, and reconcyte thy selfe to thy bro- ther, and then come and offre thy gyfte.

Agre with thine aduersary quicklye, why le thou art in the waye with hym, lest that aduersary deliuer the to the iudge, and the iudge deliuer the to the minister, and then thou be cast into prison. I saye vnto the ve- rely: thou shalt not come out thence, till thou haue payed the vermost farthinge.

Ye haue herde, how it was sayde to them of olde tyme: Thou shalt not committe ad- uoutrie. But I saye vnto you, that whoso- ever loketh on a wyfe lustinge after her, hath committed aduoutrie with hir already in his hert.

Wherefore yf thy right eye offende the, plucke hym out, and cast him from the. Bet- ter it is for the, that one of thy membres pe- rishe, then that thy whole body shoulde be cast into hell. Also yf thy right honde offen- de the, cut hym of, and cast him from the. Better it is that one of thy membres perishe, than y^e all y^e body shoulde be cast into hell.

It is sayde: whosoever putteth awaye his wyfe, let hym geue her a testimonyall of the divorcement. But I saye vnto you: whoso- ever putteth awaye his wyfe (except it be for fornicaciō) causeth her to breake marry- mony. And whosoever marryeth her that is deuorced, breaketh wedlocke.

Agayne, ye haue herde, how it was say- de to the of olde tyme: Thou shalt not for- sweare thy selfe, but shalt perfoame thyn ooth to God. But I saye vnto you: sweare not at all, nether by heauē, for it is Gods seate: nor yet by the earth, for it is his foote- stole: nether by Jerusalem, for it is the cyte of y^e greate kinge: nether shalt thou sweare by thy heed, because thou canst not make one heer whyte or blacke: But your com- municacion shalbe, yee, yee: nay, nay. For what soener is more then that, commeth of euil.

Ye haue herde howe it is sayde: An eye for an eye, a toth for a toth. But I saye vnto you: that ye resist not euell. But whoso- ever geneth the a blowe on thy right cheeke, turne to him the other also. And yf any man will sue the at the lawe, and take awaye thy coate, let him haue thy cloake also. And who so compelleth the to go a myle, go wth hym twayne. Geue to hym that ageth: and from hym that wolde borowe, turne not awaye.

Ye haue herde, how it is sayde: thou shalt loue thyne neyghboure, and hate thyne enemy. But I saye vnto you: loue your enemies. Blesse the that curse you: Do good to the that hate you: Praye for the which do you wronge and persecute you, that ye maye be the chyldren of your father which is in hea- ven: for he maketh his sonne to aryse on the euil and on the good, and sendeth his raine on the iust and vniuste. For yf ye loue them which loue you, what rewarde shall ye ha- ue? Do not the Publicans eno^g so? And yf ye be frendly to your brethren only: what sin- guler thyng do ye? Do not the Publicans also lyke wyse? Ye shall therefore be perfect, euen as your father in heauē is perfect.

The VI. Chapter.

Take heed to your almes, that ye ge- ue it not in the sight of men, so the intent that ye wolde be sene of cham- orels, ye get no rewarde of your father which is in heauen. When soener therfor thou givest thine almes, thou shalt not make a trompet to be blown before the, as the hypocrites do in the synagoges and in the stretes, for to be playsted of me. Verely I saye vnto you: they haue their rewarde. But whē thou doest almes, let not thy lefte hande knowe, what thy righte hande doth, that thine almes maye be secrete: and thy father which seith in secrete, shall rewarde the openly.

And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as y^e hypocrites are. For they lone to stō- de and praye in the synagoges, and in the comers of the stretes, to be sene of men. Ve- rdy I saie vnto you: they haue their rewar- de. But when thou prayest, entre in to thy chamber, and shut thy dore to the, and praye to thy father which is in secrete: and thy fa- ther which seith in secrete, shall rewarde the openly.

And when ye praye, bable not much, as y^e heathen do: for they thinke that they shal be herde, for their much babylnges sake. Be not ye lyke them therfore. For your father knoweth where of ye haue nede, before ye are of him. After this maner therfore shall ye praye:

O our father which art in heauen, ha- lowed be thy name. Thy kyngdome come. Thy wyll be fulfilled vpon earth as it is in heauen. Geue vs this daye our dayly bred. And forgie vs our dettes, as we also for- gae our detters. And lede vs not in to tem- ptacion: but deliuer vs from euell. For thyne is the kyngdome, and the power, and the glorie for euer. Amen. For yf ye forgiue o- ther men their trespasses, your heavenly father shall also forgiue you. But and ye will not forgiue me their trespasses, nor I, will your father forgiue you your tres- passes.

Moreouer when ye fast, be not sad as y^e hypocrites are. For they disfigure their fa- ces, that they myght be sene of men to fast. Verdy I saye vnto you: they haue their re- warde. But thou, whē thou fastest, annoynt thyne heed, and wash thy face, that it ap- peare not vnto men, that thou fastest: but vnto thy father which is in secrete: and thy father which seith in secrete, shal rewarde the openly.

Set that ye gather you not treasure vpon the earth, where rust and mothes corrupte, and where theues breake through and stea- le. But gather you treasure together in hea- ven, where nether rust nor mothes corrupte, and where theues nether breake vp nor yet steale. For where your treasure is, there is your herte also.

The eye is the light of the body. If thy- ne eye then be synge, all thy body shalbe ful of light: But and yf thyne eye be wycked, all thy body shalbe full of darckenes: Where- fore yf the light that is in the, be darckenes, how greate then shall that darckenes be?

No man can serue two masters. For ether he shall hate the one and loue the other: or els he shall leane to the one, and despise the other: Ye can not serue God and mammon. Therfore I saye vnto you: benot ye carefull for your lyfe, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drinke: nor yet for your body, what ye shal put on. As not the lyfe more worth the meate, and the body more of value then ray- met: Beholde the foules of y^e ayer: for they sowe not, nether reepe, nor yet cary in to the barnes: and yet your heavenly father feedeth the. Are ye not much better the they?

Which of you (though he toke thought therfore) coulde put one cubit vnto his sta- ture? why care ye then for rayment? Consi- der the lylies of the felde, how they growe. They labour not, nether spynne. And yet for all that I saye vnto you, that euen Salo- mon in all his royaltie was not arrayed lyke vnto one of these. Wherefore yf God shd clothe the grasse, which is to daye in the felde, and to morowe shalbe cast in to the fowace: shal he not much more do the same vnto you, o ye of lytle fayth?

Therefore take no thought, sayinge: what shall we eat, or what shall we drinke: or where with shall we be clothed? After all such thynges do the heithen seeke. For your heavenly father knoweth, that ye haue nede of all these thynges. Seke ye first the kyngdome of heauen and the righteousnes therof, so shal all these thynges be ministred vnto you.

Care not then for the morow, for the mo- row shall care for it self: Every daye hath ynough of his owne trauayll.

The VII. Chapter.

Obge not, that ye be not indged: For as ye iudge, so shal ye be indged. And with what measure ye mete, with the same shall it be measured to you agayne. Why seist thou a moate in thy bro- thers eye, and perceauest not the beame y^e is yn thine awne eye? Or why suest thou to y^e brother: holde, I wil plucke the moate out of thyne eye, and beholde, a beame is in thyne awne eye. Hypocrite, fyrst cast out the beame out of thyne awne eye, and then shalt thou see clearly, to plucke out the moate out of thy brothers eye.

Geneothat which is holy, to dogges: nether cast ye youre pearles before swyne, lest they treade them vnder their fete, & the other turne agayne and all to rente you.

Are, and it shalbe geuen you: Seke, and ye shall fynde: knocke, and it shalbe opened vnto you. For whosoever wille receaue it, and he that sekerh, fynderh: and to hym I knocke, it shal opened. As there eny man amonge you, which yf his sonne axed hym bread, wolde offer him a stone? Or yf he axed fische, wolde he proffer hym a serpent? yf ye then which are euell, can geue youre chyldren good gyftes: how moche more shall youre father which is in heauen, geue good thynges to them that are hym?

Therefore what soeuer ye wolde that man shulde do to you, euē so do ye to them. This ys the lawe and the Prophetes.

Enter in at the straye gate: for wyde is the gate, and broad is the waye, that leadech to destruccyon: & many there be, which go in therat. But straye is the gate, and narrowe ys the waye, which leadech vnto lyfe, and fewe there be that fynde it.

Beware of false prophetes, which come to you in shypes clothinge, but inwardly they are rauenynge wolues. Ye shall knowe them by their frutes. Do men gather grapes of thornes? or figges of thistles? Euen so euery good tree bryngeth forth good frute. But a corrupte tree, bryngeth forth euyl frute. A good tree can not bryng forth bad frute: nother can a rotten tre bryng forth good frute. Euery tre that bryngeth not forth good frute, shalbe hewen downe, and cast into the fyre. Wherfore by their frutes ye shall knowe them.

Not all they that saye vnto me, LORDE LORDE, shall enter in to the kyngdome of heauen: but he that doth the will of my father which ys in heauen.

Many shall saye to me in that daye: LORDE, LORDE: haue we not prophesied in thy name? haue we not cast out deuyls in thy name? haue we not done many grete dedes in thy name? And then will I knowle ge vnto them: I neuer knewe you, Departe fro me, ye workers of iniquite.

Whosoever therfore heareth of me these saynges, and doeth the same, I wyll lyfē hym vnto a wyse man, which buylt hys house vpon a rocke: Now whan abundaunce of rayne descended, and the wyndes blew, and bet vpon that same house, it fel not, because it was grounded on the rocke. And who soeuer heareth of me these saynges, &

both the not, shalbe lyfēd vnto a folysh mā, which buylt his house upon the sonde: Now whan abundaunce of rayne descended, & the wyndes blew, & bet vpon hys house, it fell, and great was the fall of it.

And it came to passe, that when Iesus had ended these saynges, the people were astonnyed at hys doctryne. For he taught them as one hauynge power, and not as the Scribes.

The VIII. Chapter.

Then he was come downe from the mountayne, moche people folowed him. And lo, there came a leper, and worshiped him, sayinge: LORDE, yf thou wylt, thou canst make me cleane. And Iesus put forth hys honde, & touchyd him, sayinge: I wyl, be thou cleane: & immediately his leprosie was clenched. And Iesus sayde vnto hym: Se thou tell no mā, but go and shew thy selfe to the priesse, and offer the gyfte that Moses commaunded, in witness to them.

When Iesus was entred into Capernaum, there came vnto him a Captaine, & besought hym, sayinge: Syr, my seruante lyeth sicke at home of the palsye, and ys greuously payned. Iesus sayd vnto hym: I wil come & heale him. The Captaine answered and sayde: Syr, I am not worthy, that thou shouldest come vnder my rofe, but speake the worde only, and my seruante shalbe healed. For I my selfe also am a mā subiect to & auctoute of another, & haue souldiers vnder me. Yet whā I saye to one: go, he goeth, and to another: come, he cometh: & to my seruante: do this, he doeth it. When Iesus hearde that, he marvelled, and sayde to them that folowed hym: Verely I say vnto you: I haue not founde so grete fayth: no nor in Israel. But I say vnto you: Many shall come from the east and west, and shall rest with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the kyngdome of heauen: and the chyldren of the kyngdome shalbe cast out in to vetter darcknes: there shalbe wepinge & gnashing of teth. And Iesus sayd vnto the Captaine: go thy waye, and as thou believest, so be it vnto the. And his seruante was healed the same houre.

And Iesus went in to Peters house, and sawe hys wyues mother lyinge sicke of a feuer: so he touchyd her hande, and the feuer left hir: and she arose, and ministered vnto them.

When the enen was come, they brought vnto him many that were possessed with deuyls. And he cast out yf spirites with a worde, & healed all that were sicke, that yf thinge might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, sayinge: he roke on him oure infirmites, and bare oures' Ines.

When Iesus sawe moche people about him, he commaunded to go ouer the water. And there came a scribe and sayde vnto hym: master, I wyl folowe the, whither so ever thou goest. And Iesus sayde vnto him: the foxes haue holes, and the byrddes of the ayer haue nestes, but yf sonne of mā hath not wher- onto rest his heede. Another that was one of his disciples, sayde vnto hym: Syr, geue me leue fyrst, to go & burye my father. But Iesus sayde vnto him: folowe thou me, and let the deed burie their deed.

And he entred in to a shyppe, & his disciples folowed him. And beholde, there arose a grete tempest in the see, in so moche that the shippe was couered with waves, & he was a slepe. And his disciples came vnto him, and awoke hym, sayinge: LORDE, saue vs, we perishe. And he sayde vnto them: why are ye fearfull, o ye of lytell faith? Then he arose, and rebuked the wyndes and the see, & there folowed a grete calme. And the men marueyled and sayde: what mā is this, that both wyndes and see obey hym?

And when he was come to yf other syde, into the countre of the Gergesites, there met hym two possessed of deuyls, which came out of the graues, and were out of measure feared: so that no man myght go by that waye. And beholde, they cryed out sayinge: Oh Iesus sonne of God, what haue we to do with the? Art thou come hither to torment vs, before the tyme be come? And there was a good waye off from them a grete heerd of swyne feedinge. Then the deuyles besought hym, sayinge: yf thou cast vs out, suffre vs to go oure waye into the heerd of swyne. And he sayde vnto them: go youre wayes. Then they went out, and departed in to the heerd of swyne. And beholde, yf whoale heerd of swyne was caryed with violēce headlinge in to the see, and perished in the water. The herdmen fled and wente their wayes in to the cyte, and tolde euery thinge, & what had forned vnto the possessed of the deuyls. And beholde, all the cyte came out and met Iesus. And when they sawe hym, they besought hym, for to departe out of their wylls.

The ix. Chapter.

Then entred he in to a shipp, and passed ouer and came in to his awne cyte. And lo, they brought vnto him a man sicke of yf palsie, lyinge in his bed. And when Iesus sawe the faith of the, he sayde to the sicke of yf palsie: my sonne, be of good cheare, thy synnes are forgiven the. And beholde, certeyne of the scribes sayde in them selues: this man blasphemeth. But when Iesus sawe their thoughtes, he sayde: wherfore thinke ye euill in youre hertes? Whether ys it easier to saye: thy synnes be forgiven yf, or to saie: arise and walke? But that ye maye knowe, that the sonne of man hath power to forgene synnes in earth, the sayde he vnto the sicke of yf palsie: arise, take vp thy bed, and go home. And he arose and wente home. When yf people sawe it, they marueyled, & glorified God, which had geuē soch power vnto men.

And as Iesus passed forth from thence, he sawe a man syt a receyvinge of custome, named Mathew, & sayde vnto him: folowe me. And he arose, and folowed him. And it came to passe as he sat at meate in the house: beholde, many publicans and synners came and sat downe also with Iesus and hys disciples.

When the Pharises sawe that, they sayde to hys disciples: why eateth youre master with publicans and synners? When Iesus herde that, he sayde vnto them: The whole nede not yf phisicis, but they that are sicke. Go and learne, what that meaneth: I haue pleasure in mercy, and not in offerynge. For I am not come to call the righteous, but yf synners to repentance.

Then came the disciples of Ihon to hym sayinge: why do we & yf pharises fast so oft: and thy disciples fast not? And Iesus sayde vnto the: Can the weddinge chylde mourne as longe as the bridegrome is with them? The tyme will come, when the bridegrome shalbe taken from them, and the shall they fast. No man peceth an olde garment with a pece of newe clothe. For then taketh he awaye the pece agayne from the garment, & the rent ys made greater. Neither do men put newe wyne in to olde vessels, for then the vessels breake, and the wyne runneth out, & yf vessels peryshe. But they poure newe wyne in to newe vessels, and so are both saued together.

Whyle hethys spake vnto them, beholde there came a certayne ruler, and worshiped him, sayinge: My daughter is enē now deceased, but come and lay yf honde on her, and she shall live. Jesus arose and followed hym with hys disciples. And beholde, a woman which was diseased wth an yssue of bloude xij. yeres, came & hynde hym, and touched the hem of hys vesture. For she sayde in her silfe: yf I maye touche hy: even his vesture only, I shalbe safe. And they sayde vnto hym: yee, LORDE. Then touched he their eyes, sayinge: accordinge to your sayth, be it vnto you. And their eyes were opened. The x. Chapter.

Mar. 9. b
Luc. 9. b
a. 2. to. a

And he called his xii. disciples vnto hym, & gaue them power ouer vncleane spytes, to cast them out, & to heale all maner of sickneses, and all maner of deseases.

The names of the xii. Apostels are these: The first, Simon called Peter: & Andrew his brother. James the sonne of Zebede, and Iohn his brother. Philip and Bartolomeu. Thomas, and Mathew the publican. James the sonne of Alpha, and Lebbeus the wyse called Taddeus. Simon of Cana, and Judas Iscariot, which also betrayed hym.

These twelue sent Jesus, and commanded them, sayinge: Go not in to the wayes & leade to the heithen, and in to the cities of the Samaritans enter ye not. But go rather to the lost shepe of the house of Israel. And preach, sayinge: The kyngdome of heaue is at hande. Heale the sick, cleanse the leper, raise the deed, cast out the devils. Frely y^e haue receaued, frely geue againe. Possesse golde, nor siluer, nor brasse yn your girdels, nor yet scrip towardes your iorney: nether two cotes, nether shues, nor yet a staffe. For the workman is worthy of his meate. In what soeuer cite or towne ye shall come, enquire in it, who is mete for you, and there abyde, tyll ye go thence.

And whē ye come in to an house, salute y^e same. And yf the house be mete for you, y^e peace shal come vpon it. But yf it be not mete for you, y^e peace shal turne to you againe.

And yf no man wil receaue you, ner hunt youre preachinge, departe out of that house or that cite, and shake the dust of your feete. Truly I saye vnto you: it shall be easer for y^e londe of Sodoma and Gomora in daye of iudgment, then for that cite.

Beholde, I sende you forth as shepe amonge welues. Be yetherfore wyse as serpents, and innocent as doves. Beware of men, for they shall deliuer you vnto the counsels, and shal scourge you in their synagoges. And y^e shal be brought before prynces and kynge for my sake, in witnes to them and to the gentyle.

But when they deliuer you vp, take thought how or what ye shall speake, for y^e shalbe geuen you, euen in that same houre what ye shall saye. For it is not yet that tyme, but the spyte of your father which spyteth in you.

The brother shal deliuer the brother to death, and the father the sonne. And the childe shall aryse agaynst their fathers & mothers, & shal helpe them to death: & y^e shal be hated of all men for my names sake. But he y^e endureth to the ende, shalbe saved.

When they persecute you in one cite, flye in to another. I tell you for a tyme, y^e shal not synnyll the all the cities of Israel, tyll y^e some of man come. The disciple is not aboue the master, nether the seruaunt aboue the LORDE. It is ynough for the disciple, to be as his master, and the seruaunt as his LORDE. If they haue called the good mā of the house Belzebul, how much more shal they call them of his housholde so? Feare them not therfore.

There is nothinge hyd, that shal not be openly shewed: and nothinge secrete, that shal not be knowne. What I tell you in darke, that speake ye in light: and what ye heare in the eare, that preach ye vpon the house topper.

And feare ye not them that kyll the body, and be not able to kyll the soule. But rather feare hy, which is able to destroye both soule and body in to hell. Are not two sparowes solde for a farthinge? Yet both they are none of thē light vpon the grounde with your father. And now are all y^e hayres of your head tolde. Feare ye not therfore: y^e are of more value then many sparowes.

Therfore whosoever knowlegeth me before my father which is in heauen. But who soeuer denyeth me before me, him wil I also denie before my father which is in heauen.

Thynke not that I am come to sende peace vpon earth. I came not to sende peace, but a swerde. For I am come to set a man against his father, and the daughter agaynst hir mother, & the doughter in lawe agaynst her mother in lawe: and a mans foes shalbe they of his owne housholde.

Who so loueth father and mother more than me, is not mete for me: and he that lo- ueth sonne or doughter more then me, is not mete for me. And he y^e eateth not his crosse and foloweth me, is not mete for me. Who synneth his life, shal lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake, shal synnde it.

He that receaueth you, receaueth me: & who so receaueth me, receaueth him y^e sent me. He that receaueth a prophet in the name of a prophet, shal receaue a prophetes rewarde. He y^e receaueth a righteous man in the name of a righteous man, shal receaue a righteous mans rewarde: And who receaueth vnto one of the least of these litte of colde water onely to drinke, in the name of a disciple, verely I saye vnto you: he shal not lose his rewarde.

The XI. Chapter.

And it came to passe, whā Jesus had made an ende of commaunding his twelue disciples, he departed thence, to teach and to preach in their cities.

Luc. 7. b

When Iohn beinge in prison herde of the workes of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and sayde vnto him: Art thou he y^e shal come, or shal we loke for another? Jesus answered and sayde vnto thē: Go your waye and tell Iohn agayne, what ye se and heare. The blynde se, and the lame go: the lepers are cleansed, and y^e deaf heare: the deed aryse ageyne, and the gospel is preached to the poore: and blessed is he, that is not offended at me.

Or what are ye gone out for to se? Wolde ye se a man clothed in soft rayment? Beholde, they that weare soft cleythinge, are in kinges houses, But what are ye gone out for to se? A prophet? Yee I saye vnto you, and more thē a prophet. For this is he, of whō it is written: Beholde, I sende my messenger before thy face, which shal prepare thy waye before the.

Verely I saye vnto you: Amonge y^e children of women arose there not a greater then Iohn the baptist. Not withstandinge he that is lesse in the kyngdome of heauen, is greater then he. From the tyme of Iohn baptist hither to, y^e kyngdome of heauen suffereth violence, and the violent plucke it vnto them. For all the prophetes and the lawe prophesied vnto Iohn. But where vnto shal I liue this generation? It is like vnto childe which syt in the market, and call vnto their felowes, & saye: we haue pyped vnto you, and ye wolde not daunse: we haue morned vnto you, & ye wolde not wepe. For Iohn came nether eatinge nor drynkinge, & they saye: he hath the devyll. At 3 sametyme Jesus answered, and sayd: I praye the (O father and LORDE of heauen and earth) that thou hast had these thinges from the wyse and prudent, and opened the vnto babes. Euen so father, for so it pleased the. All thinges are geuen ouer vnto me of my father: and no mā knoweth the sonne, but the father: neher knoweth eny man the father, saue the sonne, and he to whom the sonne wil open it. Come vnto me all ye that laboure and are laden, and I wil ease you. Take my yock vpon you, and lerne of me, for I am meke and lowlye of herte, and ye shal fynde rest vnto youre soules: for my yock is easy, and my burden is light.

The XII. Chapter.

At the same tyme were Jesus thorow the corne vpon the Sabbath, and his disciples were hongrie, and beganne to plucke of the eares of the corne, and to eate. When 3 pharises sawe this, they sayd vnto him: Beholde, thy disciples do that, which is not lawfull to do vpon the Sabbath. He sayde vnto them: haue ye not red what Dauid did, whan he was hongrie, and they also 3 were with him? How he entered in to the house of God, and ate the shew breads which were not lawfull for him to eate, neher for the 3 were with him, but onely for the prestes? Or haue ye not red in the lawe how that the prestes in the temple breake the Sabbath, and yet are blamelesse? But I saye vnto you: 3 here is one greater then the temple. But yf ye wylt what this were (I haue pleasure in mercy, and not in offeringe) ye woldendur haue condemned innocentes: For the sonne of man is LORDE euen ouer the Sabbath.

And he departed thence, and wente in to their synagoge: and beholde, there was a mā which had his hāde dried vp. And they axed him, sayenge: Is it lawfull to heale, vpon the Sabbath? because they might accuse him. But he sayde vnto the: Which of you is it, yf he had a shepe falle in to a pytte vpon the Sabbath, that wolde not take him, and lift him out? And how much is a man better then a shepe? Therfore it is lawfull to do good vpon the Sabbath. Then sayde he to the mā: Stretch forth thine hande. And he stretched it forth: and it was whole agayne like vnto the other.

Then wente the pharises out, and he was a counsell agaynst him, how they might destroye him. But whā Jesus knewe therof, he departed thence, and moche people folowed him: and he healed them all, and charged them, 3 they shulde not make him knowne: that the thinge might be fulfilled, which was spoken by Esay the prophet, which sayeth: Beholde, this is my seruant, whom I haue chosen: and my beloued, in whom my soule delieth: I wil put my spiete vpon him, and he shal shewe iudgment vnto the heathen. He shal not stryue, ner crye, neher shal eny man heare his voyce in the streete. A brosed rede shal he not breake, and flar that beginneth to burne shal he not quench, till he sende forth iudgment vnto victory. And in his name shal the heathen trust.

Then was there brought vnto him one possessed (of a deuill) the which was blinde and donne, and he healed him: in so moche 3 blinde and donne both spake and sawe. And all the people were amased, and sayde: Is not this the sonne of Dauid? But whā the pharises herde that, they sayde: He denyeth the deuyls out none other wyse, but thorow Beelzebub the chiefe of the deuyls. Neuertheles Jesus knewe their thoughtes, and sayde vnto them: Euery kyngdome is dyded within it self, shalbe desolate: and euery cite or house dyded in it self, maye not contynue. So yf one Sathan cast out another, the is heat variance within him self: how maye then his kyngdome endure? But yf I cast out deuyls thorow Beelzebub, thorow whom do youre childre cast them out? Therfore shal they be youre iudges. But if I cast out the deuyls by the spiete of God, then is the kyngdome of God come vpon you. Or how ca a man entre in to a strong mans house, and violently take awaye his goodes, excepte he first bynde the strong mā, and the spoyle his house? he that is not me, is agaynst me: and he 3 gathereth not me, scattereth abroad. Therfore I saye vnto you: All synne and blasphemy shalbe forgiven vnto men, but the blasphemy agaynst the spiete shal not be forgiven vnto men. And whosoener speaketh a worde agaynst the sonne of man, it shalbe forgiven him.

whosoener speaketh agaynst the holy gooste, he shal not be forgiven him, neher in this worlde, ner in the worlde to come.

Either make the tre good and his frute good also, or els make the tre euill and his frute euill also. For the tre is knowne by the frute. Oye generaciō of vipers, how can ye speake good, whan ye youre selues are euill? For of y abundance of y hert y mouth speaketh. A good man out of the good treasure of his hert, bringeth forth good thinges: and an euill man out of his euill treasure, bringeth forth euill thinges. But I saye vnto you, that of euery dyell worde that mā haue spoken, they shal geue accomptes at 3 daye of iudgment. Out of thy wordes thou shalt be iustified, and out of thy wordes thou shalt be condemned.

Then answered certayne of the scribes and pharises, and sayde: Master, we wolde sayne se a tokē of the. And he answered and sayde vnto the: This euill and aduouteuous generaciō seeketh a tokē: and there shal no tokē be geuen the, but the tokē of y prophete Jonas. For as Jonas was thre dayes and thie nightes in the Whalles bely, so shal the sonne of mā be thre dayes and thie nightes in the hert of the earth. The men of this generaciō, and shal condemne it: for they dyd penaunce acordinge to 3 preachinge of Jonas. And beholde, here is one greater then Jonas. The quene of the south shal arise in the last iudgment with this generaciō, and shal condēne it: for she came from the vtmost partes of the earth, to heare 3 wysdome of Salomon: And lo, here is one greater then Salomon.

Whan the vncleane spiete is gone out of man, he walketh thorow dry places, seekinge rest, and fyndeth none. The saierth he: I wil turne agayne in to my house, fro whence I wote out. And whan he cometh, he fyndeth it emptye, sweppe and garnyshe. Then goeth he by his waye, and taketh vnto him seuen other spites worse then himself: and whan they are entered in, they dwell there: And the ende of that man is worse then the begynnyng. Euen so shal it go with this euill generaciō.

Whyle he yet talked vnto the people, beholde, his mother and his brethre stode without besyng to speake to him. Then sayde one vnto him: Beholde, thy mother and thy brethre stonde without, and wolde speake to the. Neuertheles he answered and sayde vnto him that tolde him: Who is my mother? and who are my brethre? And he stretched forth his hande ouer his disciples, and sayde: Beholde my mother and my brethre. For who soener doth y wyll of my father which is in heauē, the same is my brother, sister and mother.

The XIII. Chapter.

At the same daye wente Jesus out of 3 house, and sat by the see syde, and moche people resorted vnto him: so 3 he wote in to a shyppe and satt him downe, and all the people stode vpon the shore. And he spake many thinges vnto the in symilitudes, sayenge: Beholde, The sower wente forth to sowe: and as he sowed, some fell by the waye syde: Then came the foules, and ate it vp. Some fell vpon stony grounde, and anone it sprong vp, because it had no depeth of earth: But whan the Sonne arose, it caught heate: and for so moche as it had no rote, it withered awaye. Some fell amonge the thornes, and the thornes grewe vp, and chokēd it. Some fell vpon good grounde, and gaue frute: some an hundred fold, some sixtie fold, some thirtie fold. Who so hath eares to heare, let hi heare.

And the disciples came vnto him, and sayde: Why speakest thou to the by parables? He answered and sayde vnto the: Vnto you it is geuen to knowe the mystery of the kyngdome of heauen, but vnto them it is not geuen. For whoso hath, vnto him shal be geue, and he shal haue abundaunce. But whoso hath not, from him shalbe taken awaye, eue that he hath. Therfore speake I vnto the by parables, for with seynge eyes they se not, and with hearinge eares they heare not, for they vnderstonde it not. And in them is fulfilled y prophete of Esay, which sayeth: Ye shal heare in dede, and shal not vnderstonde: and with seynge eyes shal ye se, and not perceaue. For 3 hert of this people is waxed grosse, and their eares are thicke of hearinge, and their eyes haue they closed, lest they shulde once se w y eyes, and heare w the eares, and vnderstode w the hert, and turne, that I might heale them.

But blessed are youre eyes, for they se: and youre eares, for they heare. Verely I saye vnto you: Many prophetes and righteous men haue desyred to se 3 thinges that ye se, and haue not sene the: and to heare the thinges that ye heare, and haue not herde the. Heare ye therfore the parable of the sower. Whan one heareth 3 worde of the kyngdome, and vnderstondeth it not, the euill man cometh, and plucketh it awaye: that is sowne in his hert: and this is he 3 is sowne by the waye syde. But he 3 is sowne in the stony grounde, in this: whā one heareth the worde, and anone with ioye receaueth it: neuertheles he hath no rote in him, but endureth for a season: whā trouble & persecucion aryseth because of the worde, immediatly he is offended. As for him that is sowne amonge & thornes, this is he: Whā one heareth the worde, & the carefullnes of this worlde, & the disceatfullnes of riches choke the worde, & so he becometh unfructfull. But he & is sowne in the good grounde, is this: whan one heareth the worde, and understondeth it, and bringeth forth frute: and some geueth an hūdrath folde, some fiftie folde, and some thirtie folde.

Marc. 4. c. Another parable put he forth vnto the, & sayde: The kyngdome of heauē is like vnto a man, & sowed good sēde in his felde. But whyle he slepte, there came an enemye, and sowed tares amonge & wheate, & wente his waye. Now whā the blade was sprōge vp & brought forth frute, the & tares appeared also. Then came the seruantes to & housholder, & sayde vnto him: Syr, sowedest thou good sēde in & felde? & he answered: yea. Whence the & hath it tares? & he sayde vnto the: that hath the enemye done. The & sayde & seruantes: wile thou then & we go & weede the out? & he sayde: No, lest whyle ye weede out & tares, ye pūcke vp the wheate also wth the. Let the both growe together tyll the harvest, and in tyme of harvest I will saye vnto the reapers: Gather & tares first, & bynde the in sheues to be bitt: but gather the wheate in to my barn.

Marc. 4. c. Another parable put he forth vnto the, and sayde: The kyngdome of heauen is like vnto a graine of mustarde sēde, which a man toke, and sowed it in his felde. Which is the leest amonge all sēdes. But whan it is growne, it is the greatest amonge herbes, and is a tre: so that the bydes vnder the heauen come and dwell in the braunches of it.

Luc 11. b. Another parable spake he vnto the: The kyngdome of heauē is like vnto leue, which a woman toke, and myrte it amonge thre peckes of meale, tyll all was leuened.

Marc. 4. d. All soch thinges spake Iesus vnto & people by parables, & without parables spake he nothinge vnto the: & the thinge might be fulfilled, which was spokē by & prophet, sayenge: I wil open my mouth in parables, and wil speake out the secretes from the begynnyng of the worlde.

Psal. 77. a. Then sent Iesus the people awaye, and came home. And his disciples came vnto hi, and sayde: Declare vnto us & parable of & tares of & felde. Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them: he that soweth the good sēde, is the sonne of man: the felde is the worlde: & good sēde are the children of the kyngdome: The tares are the children of wickednes: & enemye that soweth the, is the deuill: & harvest is the ende of the worlde: & reapers are & angels. So like as & tares are weeded out, and bren in the fyre, euē so shal it go in & ende of this worlde. The sonne of man shal sende forth his angels, & they shal gather out of his kyngdome all thinges & offende, & the & do iniquyte, & shal cast the in to a fowmace of fyre, there shalbe waylinge and gnashinge of teth. The shal the righteous shyne as the Sonne, in the kyngdome of their father. Who so hath eares to heare, let him heare.

Agayne, the kyngdome of heauen is like vnto a treasure hyd in the felde, which a mā founde and hid it, and forioye therof he wote & solde all & he had, and bought & felde.

Agayne, the kyngdome of heauen is like vnto a marchand, & sought good pearles: & whā he had founde a precious pearle, he wote and solde all that he had, & bought it.

Agayne, & kyngdome of heauē is like vnto a nett cast in to & see, wherewith are takē all maner of fyshes: & whā it is full, mā drawe it out vnto & shore, & syt & gather & good to the vessels, but cast the bad awaye. So shal it be also in & ende of & worlde. The angels shal go out, & sener the bad frō the righteous, & shal cast the in to a fowmace of fyre, there shalbe waylinge & gnashinge of teth.

And Iesus sayde vnto them: haue ye vnderstōde all these thinges? They sayde: yea. LORDE. Then sayde he vnto the: Therfor every scribe taught vnto & kyngdome of heauen, is like an housholder, which bringeth out of his treasure thinges new and olde.

And it came to passe whā Iesus had ended these parables, he departed thence, and came into his owne countre, and taught the in their synagoges: in so moch, that they were astonied and sayde: Whence cometh such wysdome & power vnto him? Is not this the carpenters sonne? Is not his mother called Mary? and his brethren James & Iohes, and Symon and Jude? And are not all his sisters here with us? Whence hath he the all these thinges? And they were offended at him. But Iesus sayde vnto the: A prophet is nothere lesse sett by, the at home & amonge his owne. And he dyd not many miracles there, because of their vnbeloue.

The XXII. Chapter.

Mat that tyme Herode & Tetrarcha heard of & fame of Iesu, & sayde vnto his seruantes: This is Iho & baptist. he is ryisen agayne frō the dead, therfor are he dedes so mightie. For Herode had takē Iho bounde hi, & put him in prison for Herodias sake his brothers philips wife. For Iho sayde vnto him: It is not lawfull for & to have her. And sayne wolde he have put him to death, but he feared the people, because they helde him for a prophet.

But whan Herode helde his byrth daye, the daughter of Herodias daunced before the, and that pleased Herode well, wherfor he promysed her with an ooth, & he wolde geue her what soeuer she wolde aske. And she (beyng instructed of hir mother afore) sayde: geue me Ihon baptistes heade in a platter. And the kyng was sorry. Nevertheless for & ooth sake, & the & sat with him at & table, he commaunded it to be geuen her, and sent, & beheaded Ihon in the prison. And his heed was brought in a platter, and geuen to the damsell, & she brought it vnto her mother. Then came his disciples, and toke his body, and buried it, and wente and tolde Iesus.

Whan Iesus herde & he departed thence by shippe in to a desert place alone. And whā the people herde therof, they folowed him on fote out of & cities. And Iesus wote forth, and sawe moch people, and had pytie vpon them, and healed their sick. But at euen his disciples came vnto him, & sayde: This is a desert place, and & night falleth on: let & people departe from the, that they maye go in to the townes, and bye them vytales. But Iesus sayde vnto them: They wote not go awaye, geue ye the to eate. The & sayde they vnto him: We haue here but fyue loanes and two fyshes. And he sayde: bringe the hither. And he commaunded & people to syt downe vpon the grasse, and toke & fyue loanes and two fyshes, and looked vnto warde heauen, and gaue thankes, and brake and gaue the loanes vnto the disciples, and the disciples gaue them to the people. And they all ate, and were suffised. And they gathered vp of the broken meate that remayned ouer, twolue baskettes full. And they & ate, were aboute a fyue thousande men, besyde women and children.

And straight waye Iesus made his disciples to entre in to a shippe, & to go ouer before hi, tyll he had sent & people awaye. And whan he had sent the people awaye, he wote vp into a mountayne alone, to make his prayer. And at euen he was there him self alone. And & shippe was already in & myddest of the see, & was tost wth waves, for the wynde was contrary. But in & fourth watch of & night Iesus came vnto the, walkinge vpon the see. And whan his disciples sawe him goinge vpon the see, they were a frayd, sayenge: It is some spere, and cried out for feare. But straight waye Iesus spake vnto them, and sayde: Be of good cheare, it is I, be not a frayd.

Peter answered him, & sayde: LORDE, yf it be thou, byd me come vnto the vpon & water. And he sayde: come on & waye. And peter stepte out of the shippe, & wote vpon the water, to come vnto Iesus. But whan he sawe a mightie wynde, he was a frayd, & began to synke, & cried, sayenge: LORDE, helpe me. And immediatly Iesus stretched forth his hande, & caught him, & sayde vnto him: O thou of litle faith, wherfore doubtest thou? And they wente in to the shippe, & the wynde ceased. Then they that were in & shippe, came & fell downe before him, & sayde: Of a trueth thou art & sonne of God. And they shipped ouer, & came in to the lōde of Genazareth. And whā & mā of & place had knowledge of hi, they sent out in to all that countre rounde aboute, & brought vnto him all that were sicke, & besought him, that they might but touch the hemme of his vesture onely: & as many as touched it, were made whole.

The XV. Chapter.

Then came vnto him the scribes and pharises from Ierusalem, sayenge: Why do thy disciples transgresse & tradicions of the elders? for they wash not their hōdes whan they eate bread. He answered & sayde vnto the: Why do ye transgresse the comaundement of God, because of youre owne tradicions? For God comaunded, sayenge: Honour father & mother: & he & curseth father & mother, shal dye the death. But ye saye: Every man shal saye to father or mother: The thige & I shulde helpe & withal, is geue vnto God. By this is it come to passe, that no man honoureth his father or his mother eny more. And thus haue ye made the comaundement of God of none effecte, for youre owne tradicions. He ypoctites, full well hath & saye prophesied of you, & sayde: This people draweth nye vnto me wth their mouth, & honoureth me wth their lippes, howbeit, their hert is farre from me. But in wayne do they serue me, whyle they teach soch doctrynes as are nothinge but the commaundementes of men.

And he called & people to hi, & sayde vnto the: heare & vnderstōde: That which goeth in to the mouth, defyleth not the mā: but & which cometh out of the mouth, defyleth &.

Then came his disciples, & sayde vnto him: Knowest thou & the pharises were offended, whan they herde this sayenge? He answered, and sayde: All plantes which my heauenly father hath not planted, shal be

Then answered Peter z sayde vnto him:
Declare vnto us this parable. And Iesus sayde vnto the: Are ye yet the without vnderstandinge? Perceane ye not, 3 what soe uer goeth in at 3 mouth, descēderh downe
in to 3 bely, z is cast out into the draughte?
But the thinge that proceedeth out of the mouth, cometh frō 3 hert, z that defyleth y
mā. For out of y hert come euell thoughtes murthur, breakyng of wedlocke, whordome theft, falsē witnessē, blasphemy. These are 3 thinges that defyle a man. But to eate w vnto ashen houndes, defyleth not a man.
C And Iesus wente out from thence, z departed in to the coastes of Tyre of Sidon.
And beholde, a womā of Canaan wōte out of 3 same coastes, z cried after him, sayēge:
O LORDE, thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy vpon me. My doughter is sore vexed w a deuell. And he answered her neuer a worde.
The came his disciples vnto him, z besought him, sayēge: Seide her awaye, for she crieth after us. But he answered, z saide: I am not sent, but vnto the lost shepe of the house of Israel. Notwithstandinge she came z fell downe before him, z sayde: LORDE, helpe me.
He answered z sayde: It is not good, to take the childrens bried, z to cast it vnto dogges.
It is trueth LORDE (sayde she) Neuertheles
the whelpes eate of the crommes, that fall frō their lordes table. Then answered Iesus z sayde vnto her: O womā, greate is y faith be it vnto the, euē as thou desyrest. And hir doughter was made hole at 3 same houre.
And Iesus departed thēce, and came nye vnto the see of Galile, and wente vp in to a mountayne, and sat downe there. And there came vnto him moch people, hauinge with them, lame, blynde, dōme, crepell, and ether
many, and cast them downe at Iesus fete.
And he healed thē, in so moch that the people wōddied, to see the dōme speake, the crepell whele, the halt to go, z the blynde to se. And they praysed the God of Israel.
D And Iesus called his disciples vnto him,
z sayde: I haue cōpassion vpon the people,
for they haue cōsynned w me now thre day-es, z haue nothinge to eate, z I wil not let thē departe fastyng, lest they perishe in 3 waye. And his disciples sayde vnto him:
Whence shulde we get so moch bried in the wyldernes, that we mighte sacrificie so moch people? And Iesus sayde vnto thē: How many loaves haue ye? They sayde: seue, z a few litle ffishes. And he cōmaunded 3 people to set downe vps the grounde, and toke 3 seue loaves, z the ffishes, z gaue thankes z brake thē, z gaue thē to his disciples, z 3 disciples gaue thē vnto the people. And they all ate, z were suffsed. And they toke vp of the bried meate 3 was left, seuen baskettes full. And they 3 ate, were foure thousande mē, beside women and childien. And whan he had sent awaye the people, he wente in to a shippe, z

came in to the parties of Magdala.
The XVI. Chapter.
Then came the pharises z Saduces z
vnto him, z tēpted him, requyringe
him to shewe thē a tokē from heauē.
But he answered, z sayde: A cū ye saye: It wil be saye wedder, for 3 skye is red. And in 3 moynyng, ye saye: It wil be foule wed-der to daye, for the skye is red, z gloomish.
O ye ypocrites, ye can discerne the fashion of 3 skye: can ye not thē discerne the tokē
of these tymes also? This euell and aduouerous generaciō seeketh a tokē, z there shal no
tokē be geue thē, but the tokē of 3 prophet Jonas. So he left thē, and departed.
And whā his disciples were come to the other syde of the water, they had forgotten to take bried w them. Iesus sayde vnto thē:
Take hede z beware of the leuē of 3 pharises z of the Saduces. Thē thought they in thē selues, sayēge: We haue takē no bried w
us. Whē Iesus perceaued 3, he sayde to thē:
O ye of litle faith, why are ye combrēd in y
minde (because ye haue takē no bried w you)?
Do ye not yet perceaue? Remembre ye not those fyue loaves, whē there were fyue thou-sandē mē, and how many baskettes toke ye vp? Neether 3 seue loaves whan there were foure thousande mē, z how many baskettes toke ye vp? Why perceaue ye not then, 3 I spake not to you of bried, whē I saide: beware of 3 leuē of 3 pharises z of 3 Saduces?
Thē understode they, how 3 he had not thē
beware of the leuē of bried, but of 3 doctryne of the pharises and of the Saduces.
Then came Iesus in to the coastes of the cite Cesarea philippi, z axed his disciples z saide: Whō do mē saie, 3 3 sonne of mā is?
They sayde: Some saye, 3 thou art Ihs the baptist, Some 3 thou art Elias, Some 3 thou art Jeremy, or one of 3 prophetes. He saide to thē: But whō saye ye 3 I am? Thē answered Symō Peter and saide: Thou art Christ 3 sonne of y luyngē God. And Iesus answered, z saide vnto hi: Blessed art thou Symō 3 sonne of Jonas, for flesh z blōde hath not opened 3 vnto the, but my fater 3 is in heauē. And I saie to 3: Thou art peter, z vps this rocke wil I build my churche

gacion: and y gates of hell shal not preuaile agaynst it. And the keyes of heauen wil I geue vnto the: Whatsoeuer thou shalt byn-de vpon earth, shalbe bounde also in heauen:
z whatsoeuer thou shalt loose vpon earth, shalbe loosēd also in heauē. Thē charged he his disciples, that they shulde tell no mā
that he was Iesus Christ.
From that tyme forth beganne Iesus to shew vnto his disciples, how that he must go vnto Ierusalem, and suffre many thinges of the elders, and of the hye prestes, and of the scribes, and be put to death, and ryse againē the thirde daye. But Peter toke him asyde, and beganne to rebuke him, sayenge:
LORDE, sanoure thy self, let not this happen vnto the. Neuertheles he turned him about, z sayde vnto Peter: Auoyde fro me Sathā, thou hindrest me, for thou sanourest not y thinges that be of God, but of men.
Thē sayde Iesus vnto his disciples: If anyman wil folowe me, let him forsake himself, z take vp his crosse, and folowe me. For who so wil saue his life, shal lose it: but who soloseth his life for my sake, shal fynde it.
What helpeth it a man though he wanne
the whole worlde, and yet suffred harme in his soule? Or what can a man geue, to redeme his soule withall? For it wil come to pass, that the sonne of mā shal come in the glory of his fater with his angelo, and then shal he rewarde euery one acordinge to his deedes. Verely I saye vnto you: there stonde here some, which shal not tast of death, tyll
they se 3 sonne of mā come in his kingdome.
The XVII. Chapter.
And after sixe dayes Iesus toke Peter James, and Iohn his brother, and broughte them vp in to an hye mountayne out of the waye, and was transfigured before thē: z his face shone as y Sonne,
and his clothes were as whice as the light.
And beholde, there appeared vnto thē Moses and Elias talkinge with him. Thē answered Peter, and sayde vnto Iesus: LORDE, hatis good beyngē for us. If thou wilt, let us make here thre tabernacles: one for the, one for Moses, and one for Elias. Whyle he yet spake, beholde, a bright cloude ouershadowed them: and lo, there came a voyce out of the cloude, sayenge: This is my deare sonne, in whom I deelyte, heare him. Whan 3 disciples herde that, they fell vpon their faces, and were sore afrayed. But Iesus came and touched them, and sayde: Arise, and be not afrayed. And whan they looked vp,
they sawe no man, but Iesus onely.

And whā they came downe frō y mountayne, Iesus charged them, and sayde: Tell
no man of this vision, tyll the sonne of man berysen agayne from 3 deed. And his disciples axed him, and sayde: Why saye the scribe bes then, that Elias must first come? Iesus answered and sayde vnto them: Elias shal come first in dede, and bunge all thinges or. It agayne. But I saye vnto you: Elias is come all ready, z they knewe him not, but haue done vnto him what they wolde. Euē
so shal also the sonne of man suffre of them.
Thē the disciples perceaued, that he spake
vnto them of Iohn the baptist.
And whan they were come to the people, there came vnto him a certayne man, and kneled vnto him, and sayde: LORDE, haue mercy vpon my sonne, for he is lunatike, z sore vexed. He falleth oft tymes in to 3 fyre, and oft in to 3 water: and I broughte him
vnto thy disciples, and they conde not hea-le him. Iesus answered, and sayde: O thou faithles and frowarde generacion, how lon-ge shal I be with you? How longe shal I suffre you? Bringe him hither to me. And Iesus rebuked him, and 3 deuyl wōte out of him, and 3 childe was healed, euē that same houre.
Thē came the disciples vnto Iesus secretly, z sayde: Why conde not we cast him out? Iesus sayde vnto them: Because of you-re vnbeleue. For I saye verely vnto you: If ye haue faith as a grane of mustarde seede, ye maye saye vnto this mountayne: Remoue hence to yonder place, and he shal remoue, nether shal eny thinge be vnpossible vnto
you. How beit this kinde goeth not out, but by prayer and fastyng.
Whyle they occupied in Galile, Iesus sayde vnto them: it wil come to passe, that the sonne of man shalbe deliuered in to the hon-des of men, and they shal kyll him, and the thirde daye shal he aryse agayne. And they were very sory. Now whā they were come to Capernaum, they that receaued 3 tribute money, came to Peter, and sayde: Doth youre master paye tribute? He sayde: yee.
And when he was come home, Iesus pre-uented him, and sayde: What thinkest thou Symon? Of whom do the kynges of the earth take toll or tribute? Of their childien, or of straungers? Thē sayde Peter to him:
Of straungers. Iesus sayde vnto him: Thē are 3 childien fre. Neuertheles lest we offen-de them, go thy waye to the see, and cast thi ne angle, and take the ffish that first cometh vp, and whan thou hast opened his mouth,

The XVIII. Chapter.

At the same tyme came the disciples vnto Iesus, and sayde: Who is the greatest in the kyngdome of heauen? And Iesus called a childe vnto him, and set him in the myddest amonge them, and sayde: Verely I saye vnto you: Excepte ye turne and become as children, ye shal not entre into the kyngdome of heauen. Whosoener therfore humbleth him self as this childe, & same is the greatest in y^e kyngdome of heauen. And who so receauech such a childe in my name, receauech me. But who so offendeth one of these litle ones which beleue in me, it were better for him, that a mylstone were hanged aboute his neck, and he drowned in the depth of the see.

Wo vnto the wolde because of slanders. For there must slanders come: but wo vnto that man, by whom slander cometh. But yf thy hande or thy foot offendeth thee, cutt it off, and cast it from thee. It is better for y^e to entre in vnto life lame or crepell, than y^e thouldest haue two hōdes or two feet, and be cast in to everlastinge fyre. And yf thine eye offendeth thee, plucke it out, & cast it from thee. Better it is for the to entre in vnto life with one eye, than to haue two eyes, and to be cast in to hell fyre.

Take heed, & ye despyse not one of these litle ones. For I saye vnto you: their angels do alwaye beholde the face of my father which is in heauen: for the sonne of man is come to saue that which is lost. How thinke ye? If a man haue an hundred shepe, and one of the be gone astraye, doth not he leaue the nyentie and nyene in the mountaynes, and goeth, and seeketh that one which is gone astraye? And yf it happen that he fynde it, verely I saye vnto you: he reioyseth more ouer it, then ouer the nyentie & nyene which wete not astraye. Euen so is it not the will before your father in heauen, that one of these litle ones shulde per. the.

If thy brother trespass agaynst the, go and tell him his fault betwene the and him alone. If he heare the, thou hast wonne thy brother. But yf he heare the not, then take yett with the one or two, that in the mouth of two or thre wytnesses, every matter maye be stablyshed. If he heare not them, tell it vnto the congregacion. If he heare not the congregacion, holde him as an heithen and publican. Verely I saye vnto you: what soeuer ye shal bynde vpon earth, shalbe bounde also in heauen: & what soeuer ye loose vpon earth, shalbe loosed also in heauen. Agayne, I saye vnto you: If two of you shal agree vpon earth (for what thinge soeuer it be) they wolde desyre) they shal haue it of my father which is in heauen. For where two or thre are gathered together in my name, there am I in the myddest amonge them.

Then came Peter vnto him, & sayde, LORD, how oft shal I forgive my brother, & trespasseth agaynst me? Seue tymes. Iesus saide vnto hi: I saye not vnto y^e seue tymes, but seuentie tymes seuen tymes. Therfore is y^e kyngdome of heauen likened vnto a kyng, which wolde reken wth his seruautes. And whan he beganne to reken, one was brought vnto him, which ought him ten thousand pounds. Now whā he had nothinge to paye his lord, commaunded him to be solde, & his wife & his childre, & all y^e he had, & payment to be made. Then the seruante fell downe, & besought him, sayenge: Syr, haue pacēce wth me, and I wil paye the all. Then had he lorde ptye on that seruante, & discharged him, and forgave him the debt.

And the same seruante wete out, & founde one of his felowes, which ought him an hūdrich pens, and layed hande vpon him, and toke him by the throte, and sayde: paye me that thou owest. The felowe fell downe, and besought him, sayenge: haue pacēce wth me, and I wil paye the all. Therfore, he wolde not, but wente and cast him into prison, tyll he shulde paye the debt. Whan his felowes sawe what was done, they were very sorry, and came and tolde their lord all that had happened. Then his lord called for him, and sayde vnto him: O thou wicked seruante, I forgave the all this debt, because thou praydest me: shuldest not thou then haue had compassion also vpon thy felowe, euen as I had ptye vpon the? And his lord was wroth, and deliuered him vnto the saylers, tyll he payed all that he ought. So shal my heauenly father do also vnto you, yf ye every one of you fre your hertes, & forgue not his brother his trespasses.

The XIX. Chapter.

At it came to passe, whā Iesus had ended these sayenges, he gat him self to Galile, & came to y^e coastes of Ierusalem beyonde Iordane, & moch people folowed him, and he healed them there.

Then came vnto him the pharisees & tempted him, & sayde vnto him: Is it lawfull for a man to put away his wife for any cause? He answered & sayde vnto the: Ye ye not red, how y^e he which made (man) at the begynnyng, made the mā & womā, & sayde: For this cause shal a mā leaue father & mother, & cleue vnto his wife, & they two shalbe one fleshe. Now are they not twaynerthen, but one fleshe. Let not man therfore put a sinder, & which God hath coupled together.

Then sayde they: Why dyd Moses then commaunde to geue a testimonyall of denouement, & to put her away? He sayde vnto the: Moses (because of y^e hardnes of y^e hertes) suffred you to put away youre wyues: Therfore fro the begynnyng it hath not bene so. But I saye vnto you: Whosoer putteth away his wife (excepte it be for fornicacion) and marieth another, breaketh wedlocke. And who so marieth her & is denoced, commytteth aduoutrye.

Then sayde his disciples vnto him: If y^e water be so betwene mā and wife, the is it not good to mary. But he sayde vnto them: All me can not cōprehende y^e sayenge, saue they to whō it is geue. For there be some gelled, which are so borne from their mothers wombe: and there be some gelded, wth are gelded of men: & there be some gelded, which haue gelded the selues for the kyngdome of heauen sake. He that can cōprehende it, let him comprehend it.

Then were brought vnto him yōge children, & he shulde put his hondes vpon the, & praye. And y^e disciples rebuked them. But Iesus sayde: Suffre y^e childre, & forbyd the not to come vnto me, for vnto such belōgeth the kyngdome of heauen. And whā he had layd his hōdes vpon the, he departed thence.

And beholde, one came vnto him, and sayde: Good master, what good shal I do, & I maye haue the euerlastinge life? He sayde vnto him: Why callest thou me good? there is none good, but God onely. Therfore, if thou wilt entre into life, kepe y^e commandētes. The sayde, he vnto him: Which? Iesus saide: Thou shalt not kyll: thou shalt not breake wedlocke: thou shalt not steale: thou shalt beare no false wytnes: Honour father and mother: and thou shalt loue thy neyghboure as thy self. Then sayde the yōge mā vnto him: All these haue I kepte fro my youth vpon what lack I yet? Iesus sayde vnto him: If thou wilt be perfecte, go thy waye and sell that thou hast, & geue it vnto the poore, and then shalt haue a treasure in heauen, and come and folowe me. Whan y^e yōge man herde y^e word, he wente awaye sorry, for he had greatesse possessions.

Iesus sayde vnto his disciples: Verely I saye vnto you: it shalbe harde for a rich man to entre in to the kyngdome of heauen. And morouer I saye vnto you: It is easier for a Camell to go thorow the eye of a neble, than for a rich man to entre in to the kyngdome of heauen. Whan his disciples herde that, they were exceedingly amased, and sayde: Who can the be saved? Therfore Iesus behelde them, and sayde vnto them: With men it is vnpossyble, but with God all thinges are possyble.

Then answered Peter & sayde vnto him: Beholde, we haue forsake all, and folowed the: What shal we haue therfore? Iesus sayde vnto the: Verely I saye vnto you: that when the sonne of man shal syt in the seate of his maiesty, ye which haue folowed me in the new byrth, shal syt also vpon twolue seates, and iudge y^e twolue trybes of Israel. And who so euer forsaketh houses or bretheren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or londes, for my names sake, the same shal receaue an hundred fold, and inheret euerlastinge life. But many that be the first, shalbe the last: and the last shalbe the first.

The XX. Chapter.

The kyngdome of heauen is like vnto a housholder, which wete out early in the mornynge, to hyre labourers in to his vnyarde. And whā he had agreed with the labourers for a peny a daye, besent the in to his vnyarde. And aboute y^e thirde houre he wente out, and sawe other stondinge ydle in the market place, and sayde vnto them: Go ye also in to my vnyarde, & what soeuer is right, I wil geue it you. And they wete their waye. Agayne, he wete out aboute the sixte and nyent houre, and dyd likewise. And aboute the eleuent houre he wete out, and founde other stondinge ydle, and sayde vnto them: Why stande ye here all the daye ydle? They sayde vnto him: because seno man hath hyred us. He saide vnto the: Go ye also in to my vnyarde, and loke what is right, ye shal haue it. Now whan enen was come, the lord of the vnyarde sayde vnto his steward: Call the labourers, and geue them their hyre, begynnyng from the last vnto y^e first. Then they that were hyred aboute the eleuent houre, came and receaued every man a peny. But whan the first came, they supposed that they shulde receaue more: and they also receaued every man a peny. And whan they had receaued it, they murmured agaynst the housholder, and sayde: These last haue wrought but one houre, and thou hast made the equal vnto vs, which haue borne the burthen and heat of the daye. He answered and sayde vnto one of them: frende, I do & no wronge: desirest thou agree with me for a peny? Take that thine is, and go thy waye. I wil geue vnto this last also, like as vnto the. O haue I not power, to do as melistech with my ne owne? Is thine eye euell, because I am good? So the last shal be the first, & the first the last. For many are called, but few are chosen.

And Jesus wente vp to Jerusalem, and toke the twoluedisciples asyde in the waye, and sayde vnto them: Beholde, we go vp to Jerusalem, and the sonne of man shal be deliuered vnto the hye prestes and scribes: & they shal condemne him to death, and shal deliuer him vnto y^e heithen, to be mocked to be scourged, and to be crucified. And the thirde daye he shal ryse agayne.

Then came vnto him the mother of Zebedees childre with hir sonnes, fell down before him, and desired a certayne thinge of hi. And he saide vnto her: What wilt thou? She sayde vnto him: Let these two sonnes of myne sit in thy kyngdome: the one vpon thy right honde, & the other vpon thy left honde. But Jesus answered, and sayde: Ye wote not what ye aske. Maye ye drynke the cuppe, that I shal drynke? & to be baptised with the baptyme, that I shal be baptised withall? They sayde vnto him: Yee that we maye. And he sayde vnto them: My cuppe truly shal ye drynke, & with the baptyme I shal be baptised withall, shal ye be baptised: Nevertheless to sit vpon my right honde & on my left, is not myne to geue, but vnto the for whome it is prepared of my father.

When the ten herde that, they disdayned at the two brethien. But Jesus called them vnto him, and sayde: Ye knowe that y^e prynces of the worlde haue domynacion of the people, and the greatest exercise power amonge the. It shal not be so amonge you. But who so euer wyl be greete amonge you, let him be youre mynister: & who soeuer wyl be chiefe, let him be youre seruaunt: Euen as the sonne of man came, not to be serued, but to do seruyce, and to geue his lifeto a redempcion for many.

And when they departed from Jericho, much people folowed him: and beholde, two blyndemen sat by the waye syde: And when they herde that Jesus passed by, they cried & sayde. O LORDE, thou sonne Dauid, haue mercy vpon vs. But y^e people rebuked the, that they shulde holde their peace. Neuer theles they cried the more, & sayde: O LORDE, thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy vpon vs. And Jesus stode styll, and called them, and sayde: What wil ye, & I shal do vnto you? They sayde vnto him: LORDE, that oure eyes maye be opened. And Jesus had compassion vpon them, and touched their eyes: & immediatly their eyes receaued sight. And they folowed him.

The XXI. Chapter.

Now whan they drew nye vnto Jerusalem, and were come to Bethphage vnto mount Oliuete, Jesus sent two of his disciples, and sayde vnto them: Go in to the towne that lyeth before you, & anon ye shal fynde an Asse bounde, and his foale with her: lowse them, and brynge the vnto me. And yf eny man saye ought vnto you, saye ye: the LORDE hath nede of the. And straight waye he wil let them go. But all this was done, that the thinge might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the prophet, sayenge: Tell the daughter of Sion: beholde, thy kyng cometh vnto y^e mete, sitting vpon an Asse and a foale of y^e Asse vnto the yocke. The disciples wente, and dyd as Jesus commaunded them, and brough the Asse and the foale, & layed their clothes vpon them, and set him thereon. But many of the people spred their garmentes in the waye: other cut downe boughes from the trees, and strawed them in the waye. As for the people that wente before and that came after, they cryed and sayde: Hosanna vnto the sonne of Dauid. Blessed be he that cometh in the name of the LORDE, Hosanna in the height.

And whan he was come into Jerusalem, & all the cite was moued, and sayde: Who is this? And the people sayde: This is Jesus y^e prophet of Nazareth out of Galile. And Jesus wente in to the temple of God, and cast out all them that bought and solde in the temple, and ouerthrew the tables of the money changers, and the seates of them that solde dones, and sayde vnto them: It is wrytten: My house shal be called y^e house of prayer, but ye haue made it a denne of marchanters. The blynde also and y^e lame came vnto him in the temple, and he healed them.

But whan the hye prestes and the scribes sawe the wonders that he dyd, and the children crienge in the temple and sayenge: Hosanna vnto the sonne of Dauid, they disdayned, and sayde vnto him: Hearest thou what these saye? Jesus sayde vnto them: Yee. haue ye neuer red: Out of the mouth of very babes and sucklinges thou hast ordeyned prayse. And he left them there, and wente out of the cite vnto Bethania, and there abode ouer night.

But in the mornynge as he returned in to the cite, he hūgred. And in the waye he sawe a fygge tre, and came vnto it, and founde nothinge thereon, but leaues onely, and sayde vnto it: Neuer frute growe on the from hence forth. And immediatly the fygge tre withered awaye. And whan his disciples sawe that, they marueyled, and sayde: How is y^e fygge tre withered awaye so soone? Jesus answered and sayde vnto them: Verely I saye vnto you: If ye haue faith & doute not, ye shal not onely do this with the fygge tre, but yf ye shal saye vnto this mountayn: Avoyme, and cast thy self in to the see, it shal be done. And what soeuer ye are in prayer, yf ye beleue, ye shal receaue it.

And when he was come in to the temple, the chiefe prestes and the elders of the people came vnto him (as he was teachinge) & sayde: By what auctorite doest thou these thinges? and who gaue thee this auctorite? Jesus answered and sayde vnto them: I wil aske worde of you also: which yf ye tell me, I in like wyse wil tell you, by what auctorite I do these thinges. The baptisme of Ihs, whence was it: from heauē, or of men? Then thought they amonge them selues, and saide: If we saye it was from heauē, then shal he saye vnto us: Why dyd ye not then beleue him? But yf we saye it was of men, the fear we the people: For enery mā helde Ihs for a prophet. And they answered Jesus, & sayde: We can not tell. Then sayde he vnto them: Neither tell I you, by what auctorite I do these thinges. But what thinke ye? A certayne man had two sonnes, and came to the first, and sayde: Go thy waye my sonne, & worke to daye in my vynyarde. He answered and sayde: I wil not, but afterwarde he repented, and wente. He came also vnto the seckde, and sayde likewise. And he answered and saide: I wil sye. And wete not. Whether of them twayne dyd the wil of the father? They sayde vnto him: the first. Jesus sayde vnto the: Verely I saye vnto you: The publicans and harlottes shal come in to the kyngdome of God before you. For Ihs came vnto you, and taught you y^e right waye and ye beleued him not: but the publicans & harlottes beleued hi. As for you, though ye sawe it, yet were ye not moued with repentance, that ye might afterwarde haue & leued him.

Heare another parable. There was a certayne housholder which planted a vynyarde, and hedged it rounde aboute, and dygged a wyne presse in it, and built a tower, and let it out vnto husbandmen, and wente in to a straunge countre. Now whā the tyme of the frute drew neare, he sent his seruautes to the husbandmen, to receaue the frutes of it. Then the husbandmen caught his seruautes: one they bett, another they kyled, the thirde they stoned. Agayne, he sent other seruautes, moore then the first, and they dyd vnto them in like maner. At the last he sent his owne sonne vnto them, and sayde: they wil stode in awe of my sonne. But whē the husbandmen sawe the sonne, they sayde amonge the selues: This is the heyre, come, let us kyle hym, and cate his inheritance vnto oure selues. And they caught him, and thrust him out of the vynyarde, & slew him. Now whē the lord of the vynyarde cometh, what wil he do wth those husbandmen? They sayde vnto him: He wil cruelly destroye those euell personnes, & let out his vynyarde vnto other husbandmen, which shal deliuer him the frute at tymes conuenient.

Jesus sayde vnto the: Dyd ye neuer rebe in the scriptures: The same stone which the buylders refused, is become the heade stone in the corner? This was the LORDES doynge, & it is maruelous iⁿ oure eyes Therefore I saie vnto you: The kyngdome of God shal be take fro you, & shal be geue vnto the heithen, which shal brynge forth y^e frutes of it. And who so fallerh vps this stone, shal be brokē in peces: & loke vps whom it fallerh, it shal grynde him to poulder. And when the hye prestes & pharises herde his parables, they perceaued, that he spake of them. And they wente aboute to take him, but they feared y^e people, because they helde hi for a prophet.

The XXII. Chapter.

Now Jesus answered, and spake vnto the agayne by parables, & sayde: The kyngdome of heauen is like vnto a kynge, which married his sonne. And sent forth his seruautes, to call the gesses vnto the mariage, & they wolde not come. Agayne, he sent forth other seruautes, and sayde: Tell the gesses: Beholde, I haue prepared my dymmer, myne oxen and my fed catell are kyled, and all thinges are readye, come to the mariage. But they made lighte of it, and wente their wayes: one to his husbandrye, another to his marchandise. Also for the remnant, they toke his seruantes, and intreated the shamefully, and slew the. When the kynge herde that, he was wroth, and sent forth his warryers, and destroyed those murtherers, and set fyre vpon their cite. Then sayde he vnto his seruantes: The mariage in dede is prepared, but the gastes were not worthy. So youre waye out therefore into 3 hye wayes, and as many as ye fynde, byd them to the mariage. And the seruantes wese out into the hye wayes, and gathered together as many as they coude fynde, both good and bad, & the tables were all full. Then the kynge wese in, to se the gastes, and spyed there a man that had not on a weddinge garment, and sayde vnto him: Frende, how camest thou in hither, & hast not on a weddinge garment? And he was euen spechlesse. Then sayde the kynge vnto his seruantes: Take and bynde him hande and fote, & cast him into 3 vtter darcknes: there shal be waylinge and gnashinge of teth. For many be called, but few are chose.

Then wente the pharises, and toke counsell, how they might tangle him in his wordes, and sent vnto him their disciples with herodes officers, and sayde: Master, we knowe that thou art true, and teachest the waye of God truly, and carest for no man: for thou regardest not the outwarde appearance of me. Tell us therefore, how thinkest thou? Is it lawfull to geue tribute vnto the Emperoure, or not? Now whā Jesus perceaued their wickednes, he sayde: O ye hypocrites, whye tēpre ye me? Shew me 3 tribute money. And they toke hi a peny. And he saide vnto the: Whose is this ymage and superscription? They sayde vnto him: The Emperours. Then sayde he vnto them: Geue therfore vnto the Emperour, that which is the Emperours: and geue vnto God, that which is Gods. When they herde that, they marueyled, and left him, & wete their waye.

The same daye there came vnto him the Saducees (which holde that there is no resurrection) and axed him, and sayde: Master, Moses sayde: If a man dye, hauynge no childen, his brother shal marry his wife, & raise vp sēde vnto his brother. Now were there with us sēdē brethien. The first married a wife, and dyed: & for somoch as he had no sēde, he left his wife vnto his brother. Like wyse the secōde, and thirde vnto the sēdēth. Last of all the woman dyed also. Now in the resurrection, whose wife shal she be of the sēnē? For they all had her. Jesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Ye erre, and vnderstō denot the scriptures, ner the power of God. In the resurrection they shal neither marry, ner be married, but are as the angels of God in heauen.

As touching the resurrection of the dead, haue ye notred, what is spoken vnto you of God, which sayeth: I am the God of Abraham, and 3 God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? Yet is not God a God of the dead, but of the lyuynge. And whan the people herde that, they were astonnyed at his doctrine.

When the pharisees herde, that he had stopped the mouth of the Saducees, they gathered them selues together. And one of them (a Scribe) tēpted him, and sayde: Master, which is the chiefe commaundment in the lawe? Jesus saide vnto him: Thou shalt loue the LORDE thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soule, and with all thy mynde: this is the pryncipall and greatest commaundment. As for the secōde, it is like vnto in: Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy self. In these two commaundmentes hangeth all the lawe and the prophetes.

Now whyle the pharises were gathered together, Jesus axed them, and sayde: What thinke ye of Chust? Whose sonne is he? They sayde vnto him: Dauides. He sayde vnto them: How then doeth Dauid in spirit, call him LORDE, sayenge: The LORDE sayde vnto my LORDE: Syt thou on my right honde, tyll I make thine enemies thy fote stole. If Dauid now call him LORDE, how is he then his sonne? And no man coude answer him one worde, nether durst any man axe him eny mo questio, fro that daye forth.

The XXIII. Chapter.

Then spake Jesus vnto 3 people and 3 to his disciples, and sayde: The scribes & pharises are set downe vpon Moses seate. Therefore what soeuer they bid you obserue, that obserue and do, but after their workes shal ye not do, for they saye do not. For they bynde heavy and intollerable burthens, and layethen vpon mens shoulvers: But they them selues wil not beare at them with one of their syngers. All their workes do they to be sene of men. They sit abroad their phylateries, and make large borders vpon their garmentes, and loue to syt vppermost at the table, and to haue the chiefe seates in the synagoges, and loue to be saluted in the market, and to be called of men Rabbi.

But ye shal not suffice youre selues to be called Rabbi, for one is youre master, euen Chust, and all ye are brethien. And call no man father vpon earth, for one is youre father, which is in heauē. And ye shal not suffice youre selues to be called masters, for one is youre master, namely, Chust. He that is greatest amonge you, shalbe youre seruant. For who so exalteth him self, shal be brought lowe: and he that humbleth himself, shalbe exalted.

Now vnto you Scribes and pharises, ye hypocrites, that shut vp the kyngdome of heauen before men: Ye come not in youre selues, nether suffre ye them to enter, that wolde be in.

Now vnto you Scribes and pharises, ye hypocrites, that deuoure wyddowes houses, and that vnder the couloure of prayngelonge prayers, therfore shal ye receaue 3 greater damnacion.

Now vnto you Scribes and pharises, ye hypocrites, which compassse see and lōde to make one proselyte: and whan he is become one, ye make of him a childe of hell, two folde more then ye youre selues are.

Now vnto you blyndegydes, which saye: Who so ever sweareth by the temple, that is nothinge: but who so ever sweareth by the golde of the temple, he is giltye. Ye foolles & blynde, whether is greater? the golde, or the temple that sanctifieth the golde? And who so ever sweareth by the altare, that is nothinge: but who so ever sweareth by the offeringe that is vpo it, he is giltye. Ye foolles and blynde, whether is greater? the offeringe, or the altare that sanctifieth the offeringe? Therefore who so sweareth by the altare, sweareth by the same, and by all that is thereon: and who so sweareth by the temple, sweareth by the same, and by him that dwelleth therein. And who so sweareth by heauen, sweareth by the seate of God, and by him that syteth thereon.

Now vnto you scribes and pharises, ye hypocrites, which tye the Mynt, Anyse and Temmyn, and leaue the waightier matters of the lawe behynde: namely, iudgment, mercy, and sayeh. These ought to haue bene done, and not to leaue the other behynde. O ye blynde gydes, which strayne out a gnat, but swalowe vp a Camell.

Now vnto you scribes and pharises, ye hypocrites, which make cleane the vter syde of the cuppe and platter, but within are ye full of robbery and excessse. Thou blynde pharise, cleanse first the in syde of the cup-pe and platter, that the out syde maye be cleane also.

Now vnto you scribes and pharises, ye hypocrites, which be like vnto paynted Sepulcres, that appeare hentyfull outwarde, but within they are full of deed mens bones and all fylthines. Euen so are ye also: Outwarde ye appeare righteous vnto men, but within ye are full of ypocrisy and iniquyte.

Now vnto you scribes and pharises, ye hypocrites, which buylde the tombes of the prophetes, and garnyshe the sepulcres of the righteous, and saye: If we had bene in our fathers tyme, we wolde not haue bene partakers with them in the bloude of the prophetes. Therefore ye be wytnesses vnto youre selues, that ye are the children of them, which slew the prophetes. So to fulfill ye also the measure of youre fathers. O ye serpentes, O ye generacion of vipers, how wyl ye escape the damnacion of hell?

Therefore beholde, I sende vnto you prophetes and wysemen, and scribes, and some of them shal ye kylle and crucifye, and some of them shal ye scourge in youre synagoges, and persecute them from cite to cite: that vpon you maye come all the righteous bloude which hath bene shed vpon 3 earth, from the bloude of righteous Abel, vnto 3 bloude of Zachary 3 sonne of Barachias, whom ye slew betwene the temple and the altare. Verely I saye vnto you: All these thinges shal lichte vpo this generacion. O Jerusalem Jerusalem, thou that slayest the prophetes, and stonest them that are sent vnto the: how oft wolde I haue gathered thy children together, euen as the henne gathereth hir chickens vnder hir wynges, and ye wolde not? Beholde, youre habitation shal be left vnto you desolate. For I saye vnto you: Ye shal not se me hence forth, tyll ye saye: Blessed be he, that cometh in the name of the LORDE.

The XXIII. Chapter.

And Jesus wente out and departed from the temple, and his disciples came me vnto him, to shew him the buyldinge of the temple. But Jesus sayde vnto them: Se ye not all these thinges? Verely I saye vnto you: there shal not be left here one stone vpon another, 3 shal not be cast downe. And as he sat vpon the mount Olivete, his disciples came vnto him secretly, & saide: Tell us, whē shal these thinges come to passee: and which shal be the token of thy co-mynge, and of the ende of the worlde: Jesus answered and sayde vnto them: Take hede, that no man disceane you. For there shal many come in my name, and saye: I am Christ, and shal disceane many.

Ye shal heare of warres, and of 3 noyse
of warres: take hede, and be not ye troubled.
All these thinges must first come to passe,
but the ende is not yet. For one people shal ryse vp agaynst another, and one realme a-gaynst another: and there shal be pestilence, honger, and earthquakes here & there. All these are the begynnynges of sorrowes.

Then shal they put you to trouble, & shal
kylle you, and ye shal be hated of all people for my names sake. There shal many be offended, and shal betraye one another, and shal hate one the other. And many false prophetes shal aryse, and shal disceane many: and because iniquyte shal haue the vpper han-de, the loue of many shal abate. But whoso endureth vnto the ende, 3 same shal be saved.
And this gospell of the kyngdome shal be preached in all the worlde for a wytnes vnto
all people, and then shal the ende come.

Whan ye therefore shal see the abhomination of desolacion (wher of it is spokē by Daniel the prophet) stonde in the holy place (who so readeth it, let him marke it well) the which be in Jeruys, flye vnto 3 mountaynes: and let him which is on the house toppe, not come downe to fet eny thinge out of his house: and let him which is in 3
felde, not turne back to fetch his clothes.
But wo vnto them that are with childe, and to them that geue suck in those dayes. But praye ye, that youre flight be not in 3 wynter, ner on the Sabbath. For then shal there be greates trouble, such as was not from the begynnynges of the worlde vnto this tyme, ner shal be. Yee and excepte those dayes shal be shortened, there shulde no fleshy be saued: but for 3 chosens sake those dayes shal be shortened.

Then yf eny man shal saye vnto you: lo, here is Christ, or there, beleue it not. For there shal aryse false Christes and false prophetes, and shal do greates tokes and wonders:
In so much, that yf it were possible, the very chosens shulde be brought in to erreure. Be-holde, I haue tolde you before. Wherfore yf they shal saye vnto you: Beholde, he is in the wilderness, go not ye forth: Beholde, he is in the chamber, beleue it not. For like as the lihtenynge goeth out from the East, and shyneth vnto the west, so shal the commynge of the sonne of man be. For wher euer a deed carcase is, there wyl the fowles be gathered together.

Immediately after the trouble of the same tyme, shal the Sonne and Moone lye theire light, and the starres shal fall from heauen, and the powers of heauen shal moue: and then shal appeare the token of the sonne of man in heauen: and then shal all the kynreds of the earth mourne, and they shal see the sonne of man come in the cloudes of heauen with greates power and glory. And he shal sende his angels with 3 greates voce of a trompe, & they shal gather together his chosens from the four wyndes, from one ende of the heauen to the other.

Learn a similitude of 3 fygge tre. Whan his braunche is yet tender, and his leaues spronge, ye knowe that Sommer is nye. So likewyse ye, whan ye see all chynge, be ye ready, that it is nye euen at the doores. Verdy I saye vnto you: This generacion shal not passe, tyll all these be fulfilled. Heauen and earth shal perishe, but my wordes shal not perishe. Nevertheless of that daye & houre knoweth no man, no not the angels of heauen, but my father onely. Euen as it was in the tyme of Noe: so shal the comynge of the sonne of man be also. For as they were in the dayes before 3 floude: they ate, they dronke, they married, and were married, vnto
the daye 3 Noe entred in to the shippe,
and they regarded it not, tyll the floude came and toke them all awaye: so shal be the comynge of the sonne of man be. The shal two be in the felde: the one shal be recei-ued, and the other shal be refused: Two shal be grynnyng at the Wyll, the one shal be re-ceaved, and the other shal be refused: Two in the bed, the one shal be receaved, and the other refused.)

Watch therefore, for ye knowe not what houre youre LORDE wil come. But be sure of this, that yf the good man of the house knewe what houre the these wolde come, he wolde surely watch, and not suffice his house to be broken vp. Therefore be ye ready also,
for in the houre that ye thynke not, shal the sonne of man come. Who is now a faithfull and wyse seruaunt, whom his lord hath made ruler ouer his household, that he may geue them meate in due season. Blessed is 3 seruaunt, whom his lord (whan he cometh)
shal fynde so doynge. Verdy I saye vnto you: he shal set him ouer all his goodes. But and yf the euell seruaunt shal saye in his he-tush, it wil be longe or my lord come, and

The gospell

begynne to smyte his felowes, yee and to eat and drynke with the dronken: The same seruautes lord shal come in a daye, whā he loketh not for him, and in an houre that he is not ware of, and shal hew him in peces
and geue him his rewarde with ypocrytes:
there shal be waylinge and gnashynge of teth.

The XXV. Chapter.

Then shal the kyngdome of heauen
be like vnto ten virgins, which toke their lampes, and wente forth to mete
the brydegome. But fyue of them were foolish, and fyue were wyse. The foolish toke their lampes, neuertheles they toke none oyle with them. But the wyse toke oyle in their vessels with their lampes. Now whyle the brydegome taried, they slombered all and slepte. But at mydnight there was a crye made: Beholde, the brydegome cometh, go youre waye out for to mete him. Then all those virgins arose, and prepared their lam-
pes. But the foolish sayde vnto the wyse:
geue vs of youre oyle, for oure lampes are gone out. Then answered the wyse, and sayde:
Noe so, lest there be not ynough for vs and you, but go rather vnto them that sell, and bye for youre selues. And whyle they wente to bye, the brydegome came: and they that were readye, wente in with him vnto the ma-riage, and the gate was shut vp. At 3 last came 3 other virgins also, and sayde: LOR-DE LORDE, opē vnto vs. But he answered, and sayde: Verdy I saye vnto you: I knowe
you not. Watch ye therefore, for ye knowe neither the daye ner yet the houre, whan 3 sonne of man shal come.

Like wyse as a certayne mā ready to take his iourney in to a straunge cowntre, called his seruautes, and deliuered his goodes vnto the. And vnto one he gaue fyue talentes, to another two, and to another one: vnto euery man after his abyltye, and straight waye departed. Then he that had receaved the fyue talentes, wente and occupied with the same, and wanne other fyue talentes.
Likewyse he 3 receaved two talentes, wanne other two also. But he that receaved 3 one wente and dygged a pyt in the earth, and hidd his lordes money. After a longe season the lord of those seruautes came, and rekened with them. Then came he that had re-ceaved fyue talentes, and brought other fy-ue talentes, and sayde: Syr, thou deliuerdest vnto me fyue talentes: Beholde, with them
haue I wonne fyue talentes mo. Then sayde his lord vnto hi: wel thou good & faithfull

of S. Mathew. Jo. xiiij.

seruaunt, thou hast bene faithfull ouer litle,
I wil set the ouer much: entre thou in to the ioye of thy lord. The came he also that had receaved two talentes, and sayde: Syr, thou deliuerdest vnto me two talentes: Beholde,
I haue wonne two other talentes with the.
His lord sayde vnto him: Wel thou good and faithfull seruaunt, thou hast bene faith-full ouer litle, I wil set the ouer much: entre thou in to the ioye of thy lord.

Then he that had receaved the one talēt,
came and sayde: Syr, I knewe that thou art
an hard man: thou reapest where thou hast not sowed, and gatherest where thou hast
not strowed, and so I was afrayed, and wēte and hidd thine talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast thine owne. But his lord answered, and sayde vnto him: Thou euell and slouthfull seruaunt, knewest thou that I reape where I sowed not, and gather where I strawed not? Thou shuldest therefore haue had my money to the chaungers, and then at my comynge shuldest I haue recea-ued myne owne with vantage. Therefore take the talent fro him, and geue it vnto him that hath ten talentes. For who so hath, to him shal be geuen, and he shal haue abundauce. But who so hath not, fro him shal be takē awaye euen that he hath. And cast
the vnprofitable seruaunt in to vtter darck-nes: there shal be waylinge and gnashynge of teth.

But whan the sonne of man shal come
in his glory, and all holy angels with him,
then shal he syt vpon the seate of his glory.
And all people shal be gathered before him:
and he shal separate them one from another
as a shep herde deuydeth the shepe from 3 goates. And he shal set 3 shepe on his right bonde, and the goates on the lefte. Then shal the kyng saye vnto them that shal be on his right bonde: Come hither ye blessed of my father, inheret ye 3 kyngdome, which is prepared for you from the begynnynges of the worlde. For I was hongrie, and ye ga-ue me meate: I was thurstie, and ye gaue me drynke: I was harbourlesse, and ye lodged me: I was naked, & ye clothed me: I was sicke, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came vnto me.

Then shal the righteous answer him, &
saye: LORDE, what sawe we the hōgrie, and fed the? Or thurstie, and gaue the drynke?
When sawe we the harbourlesse, and lodged the? Or naked, and clothed y? Or what sawe we 3 sicke or in prison, and came vnto the?
And the kyng shal answer and saye vnto
C C

them: Verely I saye vnto you: Loke what ye haue done vnto one of the least of these my brechren, the same haue ye done vnto me.

Then shal he saye also vnto them that shalbe on the left hande: Departe fro me ye cursed in to the euerlastinge fyre, which is prepared for the deuell and his angels. For I was hogrie, and ye gaue me no meate: I was thurstye, and ye gaue me no drynke: I was herbourlesse, and ye lodged me not: I was naked, and ye clothed me not: I was sicke and in prison, and ye visited me not.

Then shal they also answer he, and saye: LORDE, when sawe we the hogrie, or thurstye, or herbourlesse, or naked, or sicke, or in prison, and haue not mynistred vnto the? The shal he answer them, and saye: Verely I saye vnto you: Loke what ye haue not done vnto one of the least of these, the same haue ye not done vnto me. And these shal go in to euerlastinge payne, but the righteous in to euerlastinge life.

The XXVI. Chapter.

And it came to passe whā Jesus had fynished all these wordes, he sayde vnto his disciples: Ye knowe, that after two dayes shalbe Easter, and the sonne of man shalbe deliuered to be crucified.

Then assembled together the hye prestes and the scribes, and the elders of the people in to the palace of the hye prest which was called Caiphas, and helde a counsell, how they might take Jesus by disceate, and kyll him. But they sayde: Not on the holy daye, lest there be an vpioure in the people.

Now when Jesus was at Bethany in the house of Symon the leper, there came vnto hi a woman, which had a boxe with precious oynment, and poured it vpon his heade, as he sat at the table. Whan his disciples sawe that, they disdayned, and sayde: Where to serueth this waist? This oynment might haue bene wel solde, and geue to the poore. Whē Jesus perceaued that, he sayde vnto them: Why trouble ye the woman? She hath wrought a good worke vpon me for ye haue allwaye the poore with you, but me shal ye not haue allwayes. Where as she hath poured this oynment vpon my body, shē dyd it to bury me. Verely I saye vnto you: where so euer this gospell shalbe preached thorow out all the world, there shal this also that she hath done, be tolde for a memoriall of her.

Then one of the twolue, called Judas

(Iscariot) wente vnto the hye prestes, and sayde: What wil ye geue me, and I shal deliuer him vnto you? And they offered hi thirtie syluer pens. And from that tyme forth, he sought oportynyte to betraye him.

The first daye of swete bried came the disciples to Jesus, and sayde vnto him: Where wilt thou that we prepare for the, to eate the Easter lambe? He sayde: Go in to the cite to soch a man, and saye vnto him: The Master sendeth the worde: My tyme is at hande, I wil kepe myne Easter by the with my disciples. And the disciples dyd as Jesus had appoynted them, and made ready the Easter lambe.

And at euen he sat downe at the table with the twolue. And as they ate, he sayde: Verely I saye vnto you: One of you shal betraye me. And they were excedinge sorrowfull, and beganne every one of them to saye vnto him: Syr, is it I? He answered and sayde: He that deppeth his honde with me in the dyshe, the same shal betraye me. The sonne of man goeth forth, as it is wyrtten of him: but wo vnto that man by whō the sonne of man shalbe betrayed: It had bene better for that mā, yf he had neuer bene borne. The Judas that betrayed him, answered and sayde: Master, is it I? He sayde vnto him Thou hast sayde.

And as they ate, Jesus toke the bried, gaue thankes, brake it, and gaue it to the disciples, and sayde: Take, eate, this is my body. And he toke the cuppe, and thanked, and gaue it the, and sayde: Drynke ye all therof, this is my bloude of the new testament, that shalbe shed for many for the remis-sion of synnes. I saye vnto you: I wil not drynke hence forth of this frute of the vyne tre, vntill that daye that I shal drynke it new with you in my fathers kyngdome.

And whan they had sayde grace, they wente forth vnto mount Oliuete. Then sayde Jesus vnto them: This night shal ye all be offended in me. For it is wyrtten: I wil synye the shepherde, and the shepe of the flocke shalbe scattered abrode. But after that I ryle agayne, I wil go before you in to Galile. Peter answered and sayde vnto him: Though all men shulde be offended in I, yet wyl I neuer be offended. Jesus sayde vnto hi: Verely I saye vnto I: This same night before I cock crowe, shalt thou denie me thryse. Peter saide vnto him: And though I shulde dye with the, yet wil I not denie

the Liewyse also sayde all the disciples.

Then came Jesus with them into a felde which is called Gethsemane, and sayde vnto the disciples: Syt ye here, whyle I go yonder & praye. And he toke with him Peter, and the two sonnes of Zebede, and beganne to wrete sorrowfull and to be in an agony. Then sayde Jesus vnto them: My soule is heuyen vnto the death. Tary ye here, and watch with me. And he wente forth a litle, and fell flat vpon his face, and prayed sayenge: O my father, yf it be possible, let this cuppe passe fro me: neuertheles not as I wil but as thou wilt. And he came to his disciples, and founde the a slepe, & sayde vnto Peter: What? coude ye not watch with me one houre? Watch & praye, that ye fall not in to temptacion. The spiete is wyllinge, but the flesh is weak.

Agayne, he wete forth the seconde tyme and prayed, sayenge: O my father, yf this cuppe can not passe awaye fro me (excepte I drynke of it) thy will be fulfilled. And he came, and founde them a slepe agayne, and their eyes were heuy. And he left them, and wente forth agayne, and prayed the thirde tyme, sayenge the same wordes. Then came he to his disciples, and sayde vnto them: Slepe on now, and take youre rest. Beholde, the houre is come, & the sonne of man shalbe deliuered in to the bondes of synners: Arise, let us be goynge. Beholde, he is at hand, that betrayeth me.

Whyle he yet spake, lo, Judas one of the twolue came, and with him a greete multitude with swerdes and stanes, sent fro the hye prestes and elders of the people. And he that betrayed him, had geuen them a tokē, sayenge: Whom so euer I kysse, that same is he, laye hōdes vpon him. And forth withal he came to Jesus, and sayde: Hail master, and kysed him. And Jesus sayde vnto him: Stande, wherfore art thou come? Then came they, and layed hōdes vpon Jesus, and toke him. And beholde, one of them that were with Jesus, stretched out his honde, and smote his swerde, and stroke a seruaunt of the hye prestes, & smote of his eare: Then sayde Jesus vnto him: Put vp I swerde in to his place. For all that take the swerde, shal perishe with the swerde. Or thinkest thou that I can not praye my father now, to sende me more then twolue legions of angels? But how the shulde the scriptures be fulfilled? For thus must it be.

In the same houre sayde Jesus vnto the multitude: Ye are come out as it were to a murthurer with swerdes and stanes for to take me. I sat daylie teachinge in the temple amonge you, and ye toke me not. But all this is done, that the scriptures of the prophetes might be fulfilled. The all the disciples left him, and fled. But they that toke Jesus, led him to Caiphas the hye prest, where the scribes and the elders were gathered together. As for Peter, he folowed him a farre of vnto the hye prestes palace, & wente in, and sat with the seruantes, that he might see the ende.

But the hye prestes and the elders, and the whole counsell sought false wytnesse agaynst Jesus, that they might put him to death, and founde none. And though many false wytnesses stepte forth, yet founde they none. At the last there stepte forth two false wytnesses, & spake: He sayde: I can breake downe the temple of God, and buylde it agayne in thre dayes.

And the hye prest stode vp, and sayde vnto him: Answerest thou nothinge, vnto it, that these testifie agaynst the? Neuertheles Jesus helde his tonge. And the hye prest answered, and sayde vnto him: I charge the by I lyuynge God, that thou tell us, yf thou be Christ the sonne of God. Jesus spake: Thou hast sayde it. Neuerthelesse I saye vnto you: From this tyme forth it shal come to passe, that ye shal see the sonne of man syttinge vpon the right hande of the power (of God) and commynge in the cloudes of the heauen.

Then the hye prest rente his clothes, and sayde: He hath blasphemed, what neede we eny mo wytnesses? Lo, now haue ye herde his blasphemy: What thinke ye? They answered, & sayde: He is gylty of death. Then spytted they in his face, & smote him with fistes. Some smote him vpon the face, and sayde: Prophecie vnto us thou Christ, who is it, that smote the?

As for Peter, he sat without in the palace. And there came vnto him a damsell, and sayde: And thou wast with Jesus of Galile also. Neuertheles he denyed before the all, and sayde: I can not tell what thou sayest. But whan he wete out at the doore, another damsell sawe him, and sayde vnto them that were there: This was also with Jesus of Nazareth. And he denyed agayne, and sware also: I knowe not the mā. And after a litle whyle, they that stode there, stepte forth, and sayde vnto Peter: Of a trouth thou art one of them also, for thy speech betrayeth the. Then begane he to curse and to swear: I knowe not the man. And imme-diatly the cock crew. Then thought Peter vpon the wordes of Iesus, which sayde vnto him: before the cock crow, thou shalt de-nye me thrise. And he wente out, and wepte bitterly.

The XXVII. Chapter.

UPON the morow, all the hye prestes
and elders of the people helde a coun-cell agaynst Iesus, that they might put him to death, and bounde him, and led him forth, and deliuered him vnto Pontius Pilate the debyte.

When Judas which betrayed him, sawe
this that he was condemned vnto death, it repented him, and brought agayne the thirtie syluer pens to the hye prestes and the elders, and sayde: I haue done euell, in that I haue betrayed innocēt bloude. They sayde: What haue we to do with þ? Se thou thereto. And he cast the syluer pens in the tēple, and gat him awaye, and wente and hanged him self.

So the hye prestes toke the syluer pens,
and sayde: It is not lawfull to put them in to the Gods chest, for it is bloud money. Ne-uertheles they helde a counsell, and bought with the a potters felde, for to burye straūgers in. Wherfore the same felde is called the blondfelde vnto this daye. Then was that fulfilled, which was spoken by Jeremy the prophet sayenge: And they toke thirtie syluer pens, the pryce of him that was solde, whom they bought of the children of Israell: and these they gaue for a potters felde, as the LORDE commaunded me.

AS for Iesus, he stode before the debyte,
and the debyte axed him, and sayde: Art thou the kynge of the Jewes? And Iesus sayde vnto him: Thou sayest it. And whā he was accused of the hye prestes and elders, he answered nothinge. Then sayde Pylate vnto him: Hearest thou not, how sore they accuse the? And he answered him not one worde: in so much that the debyte marueled exceedingly.

At that feast, the debyte was wote to de-liuer a prisoner fre vnto the people, whom they wolde. And at the same tyme he had a notable prisoner called Barrabas. And whā they were gathered together, Pylate sayde vnto them: Whether wil ye, that I geue lōse vnto you? Barrabas, or Iesus which is called Christ? For he knewe well that they had deliuered him of enyue. And whā he sat vpon the iudgment seate, his wife sent vnto him, sayenge: Haue thou nothin-ge to do with that righteous man, for I haue suffred many thinges this daye in a dreme because of him.

But the hye prestes and the elders persuaded the people, that they shulde axe Bar-bas, and destroye Iesus. Then answered the debyte, and sayde vnto the: Whether of these two wyl ye? I geue lōse vnto you. They sayde: Barrabas. Pylate sayde vnto them:
What shal I do then with Iesus, which is called Christ? They sayde all: let him be crucified. The debyte sayde: What euell hath he done the? Neuertheles they cried yet more and sayde, let him be crucified. So whā Pylate sawe, that he coude not helpe, but that there was a greater vproure, he toke water,
and washed his handes before the people,
and sayde: I am vngiltie of þ bloude of this righteous man. Se ye therto. Then answered all the people, and sayde: His bloude come vpon vs, and vpon oure children. Then gane he Barrabas lōse vnto the, but called Iesus be scourged, and deliuered him to be crucified.

Then the debytes sendyers toke Iesus, and toke him to the comon hall, and gathered the whole multitude ouer him, and stryped him out of his clothes, and put a purple robe vpon him,
and placed a crowne of thorne, and set it vpon
his heade, and a rede in his hāde, and knel-led before him, and mocked him, and sayde: halle kynge of the Jewes. And spytted vpon him, and toke þ rede, and smote him vpon the heade. And whā they had mocked hi, they toke the robe of him ageyne, and put his owne clothes vpon him, and led him forth, þ they might crucifie hi. And as they were goinge out, they founde a man of Cyren called Symon: him they compelled to beare his crosse.
And when they came vnto the place called Golgatha (that is to saye by interpreta-cion a place of deed mens sculles) they gaue him to drynke, veneger myrre w gall. And whā he had tasted therof, he wolde not drynke.

So whā they had crucified him, they parted his garmētes, and cast lottes ther-for: that the thinge might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the prophet: They haue parted my garmētes amonge the, and cast lottes vpon my vesture. And there they sat, and watched hi. And aboue ouer his heade, they put vpon the cause of his death in wytinge namely: This is the kynge of the Jewes.

Then were there two murderers crucified with him, the one of the right han-de, and the other on the left. They that wente by, reyled him, and wagged their heades and sayde: Thou that breakest dow-ne the temple of God, and buyldest it in thre dayes, helpe thy self. If thou be the sonne of God, come downe from the crosse. The hye prestes also in like maner with the scribes & elders, laughed him to scorne, and sayde: he hath helped other, and can not helpe him self. If he be the kynge of Israel, let him come downe now from the crosse, and we wil beloue him. He trusted in God, let him deli-uer him now, yf he wil haue him. For he hath sayde: I am the sonne of God. The murderers also that were crucified with him, cast the same in his teche.

And from þ sixte houre there was darck-nes ouer the whole earth vnto the nyenth houre. And aboute the nyenth houre, Iesus cried with a loude voyce, and sayde: Eli, Eli, Lamma asabechani: that is, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? But some of the that stode there, when they herde þ sayde: He calleth Elias. And immediatly one of them ranne, and toke a spōge, and fylled it with veneger, and put it vpon a rede, and gaue him to drynke. But þ other sayde: holde, let se whether Elias wyl come, and deliuer him. Iesus cried agayne with a lou-de voyce, and gaue vpon the goost.

And beholde, the vale of the temple was rent in two peces, from aboue tyll beneth,
and the earth quaked, and the stones rent,
and the graues opened, and many bodies of the sayntes that slepe, arose, and wete out of the graues after his resurreccion, and came in to the holy cite, and appeared vnto many.

But the capteyne and they that were
with him, and kepte Iesus, when they sawe
the earthquake and the thinges that were done, they were sore afrayed, and sayde: Ve-rely this was Gods sonne. And there were many women there loyng to a farre of,
which had folowed Iesus from Galile, and had mynistred vnto him: amonge whom was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and Ioses, and the mother of the children of Zebede.

At even there came a rich man of Arima-thea, called Ioseph, which was also a disciple of Iesus. He wete vnto Pylate, and axed the body of Iesus. Then commaunded Pylate that the body shulde be geue him. And Ioseph toke the body, and wrapped it in a deane lymen cloth, and layed it in his owne
new sepulchre, which he had hewen out in a rocke, and rolled a greete stone to the dore of the sepulchre, and wente his waye. And there was Mary Magdalene and þ other Mary,

syttinge ouer agaynst the sepulchre.

The next daye that foloweth the daye of preparynge, the hye prestes and pharises came together vnto Pylate, and saide: Syr, we haue called to remembraunce, that this disceauer sayde whyle he was yet a lyuer: After thre dayes I wyl ryse agayne. Commaunde therfore that the sepulchre be kepte vnto
the thirde daye, lest peradventure his disciples come, and steale him awaye, and saye
vnto the people: he is risen from the deed, and so shal the last error be worse the the first. Pylate sayde vnto them: There haue ye watchmē, go youre waye, and kepe it as ye can. They wete and kepte the sepulchre w watchmen, and sealed the stone.

The XXVIII. Chapter.

UPON the euenynge of the Sabbath
the holy daye, which dawneeth þ morow
of the first daye of þ Sabbathes, came Mary Magdalene and þ other Mary,
to se þ sepulchre. And beholde, there was made a greete earthquake: for the angell of the LORDE descended from heauen, and came and rolled backe þ stone from the dore, and sat vpon it. And his countenance was as þ lightenyng, and his clothinge whyte as snowe. But þ watchmē were troubled for fear of him, and became as though they were deed.

The angell answered, and sayde vnto þ women: Be not ye afrayed. I knowe that ye seke Iesus that was crucified. He is not here. he is risen, as he sayde. Come, and se
the place, wherethe LORDE was layed, and go your waye soone, and tell his disciples, that he is risen from the deed. And beholde, he wyl go before you in to Galile, there shal ye se him. Lo, I haue tolde you.

And they departed from the graue in all the haist with feare and greete ioye, and ran-ne to tūge his disciples worde. And as they were goinge to tell his disciples, beholde, Iesus met them, and sayde: God speke you.
And they wente vnto him, and helde his fete, and fell downe before him. The sayde Jesus vnto them: Be not afrayed: go youre waye and tell my brethien, that they go in to Galile, there shal they se me.

And whā they were gone, beholde, certaine of the watchmen came in to the cite, & tolde the hye prestes euery thinge that had happened. And they came together with the elders, and helde a counsell, and gaue fouers money ynough, and sayde: Saye ye

his disciples came by night, and stole him away, whyle we were a slepe. And yf this come to the debytes eares, we wyl styll him, and brynge it so to passe, that ye shal be safe. And they toke the money, and dyd as they were taught. And this sayenge is noyed amonge the Jewes vnto this daye.

The eleven disciples wente vnto Galile in to a mountayne, where Iesus had appoynted them. And whan they sawe him, they fell downe before him: but some of them doubted. And Iesus came vnto them, talked with them, and sayde: Vnto me is geue all power in heauen and in earth. So ye youre waye therfore, and teach all nacions, and baptysse them in the name of the father, and of the sonne, and of the holy goost: and teach them to kepe all thinges, what soener I haue commaunded you. And lo, I am with you euery daye vnto the ende of the worlde.

Chap. X. Christ geueth his answer concerninge mariage, and that it is harde for the rich to come in to heauen: reproveth the dyspayne of his disciples, lerneth the to be meke, and restoreth blynde Barthimew to his sight.

Chap. XI. Christ rydeth in to Jerusalem, dyspayneth the marchauntes out of the temple, cures the syge tree, and confoundeth the pharises.

Chap. XII. He rebuketh the synne and vthankfulness of the Jewes with a goodly similitude, taketh the in their owne disceitfull questions, exhorteth to beware of their doctryne and luyngge, and commendeth the good wyll of the poore wyddowe.

Chap. XIII. He warneth his disciples to beware of false teachers and disceauers, comforteth them agaynst the trouble for to come, telleth them of the horrible destruction of Jerusalem, of his commyngge, and ende of the worlde.

Chap. XIII. The Magdalene annoynteth Christ. They eate the easter lambe, and the supper of the LORDE. Christ is taken, and brought in to Caiphas house. Peter denyeth him.

Chap. XV. The crucifixion of Christ, and how he was buried.

Chap. XVI. The resurrection of Christ, which appeareth vnto Mary Magdalene and to his disciples, whom he sendeth forth in to the worlde to preach the gospell, and ascendeth vp in to heauen himself.

The gospell of S. Marke.

The first Chapter.

This is the begynnynge of the gospell of Iesus Christ the sonne of God, as it is wyrtte in the prophetes. Beholde, I sende my messanger before thy face; which shal prepare thy waye before the. The voyce of a cryer is in the wyldernes: prepare the waye of the LORDE, make his pathes straight.

Ihon was in the wyldernes, and baptysed, and preached the baptyme of amendement, for the remyssion of synnes. And there wente out vnto him the whole londe of Jewry, and they of Jerusalem, and were all baptysed of him in Jordan, and knowledged their synnes.

Ihon was clothed with Camels heer, and with a letheron girdell aboute his loynes, and ate locustes and wylde hony, and preached, and sayde: There cometh one after me, which is stronger then I: before whom I am not worthy to stoupe downe, and to lowse vp y lachet of his shue. I baptise you with water, but he shal baptise you with the holy goost.

And it happened at the same tyme, that Iesus came out of Galile from Nazareth, and was baptysed of Ihon in Jordan. And as soone as he was come out of the water, he sawe that the heauens opened, and the goost as a doue comyngge downe vpon him. And there came a voyce from heauē: Thou art my beare sonne, in whom I delyte.

And immediatly the spere droue him in to the wyldernes: and he was in the wyldernes fourtyc dayes, and was tempted of Sa-than, and was with the wylde beestes. And the angels mynistred vnto him.

But after that Ihon was taken, Iesus came in to Galile, and preached the gospell of the kyngdome of God, and sayde: the tyme is fulfylled, and the kyngdome of God is at hande: Amende youre selues, and belue the gospell.

So as he walked by the see of Galile, he sawe Symon and Andrew his brother, casting their nettes in the see, for they were fyshers. And Iesus sayde vnto the: Solowe me, and I wil make you fyshers of me. And immediatly they left their nettes, and folowed him.

And when he was gone a lytle further from thence, he sawe James the sonne of Zebede, and Ihon his brother, as they were in the shyppe mendyngge their nettes. And anone he called them. And they left their father Zebede in the shyppe with the hyred seruauntes, and folowed him.

And they wente in to Capernaum, and immediatly vpon the Sabbathes, he entred in to the synagoge, and taught. And they were astonnyed at his doctryne: for he taught them as one hauyngge power, and not as the Scribes.

And in their synagoge there was a man possessed with a foule spere, which cried and sayde: Oh what haue we to do with the, thou Iesus of Nazareth. Art thou come to destroye us? I knowe that thou art enen y holy one of God. And Iesus reproveth him, and sayde: holde thy tonge, and departe out of him. And the foule spere tare him, and cried with a loude voyce, and departed out of him. And they were all astonnyed, in so moch that they aied one another amonge the felues, & sayde: What is this? What new lernynge is this? For he commaundeth the foule spertes with power, and they are obedient vnto him. And immediatly the same of him was noyed rounde aboute in the coastes and borders of Galile.

And forth with they wente out of the synagoge, and came in to the house of Symon and Andrew, w James and Ihon. And Symons mother in lawe laye, & had the feuers, and anone they tolde him of her. And he came to her, and set her vp, and toke her by y hande, and the feuer left her immediatly. And she mynistred vnto them.

At euen whan the Sonne was gone downe, they brought vnto him alle that were sicke and possessed, and the whole cite was gathered together at the dore, and he healed many that were diseased with diverse sicknesses, and cast out many devils, and suffered not the devils to speak, because they knew him.

D And in the morning before daye, he arose, and wente out. And Jesus departed in to a deserte place, and prayed there. Peter also and they that were with him, followed after him. And when they had founde him, they sayde unto him: Every man seeketh thee. And he sayde unto them: Let us go in to the next townes, that I maye preach there also, for therto am I come. And he preached in their synagoges, in all Galile, and drove out the devils.

And there came unto him a leper, which besought him, and knelt before him, & sayde unto him: If thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane. And it pitied Jesus, and he stretched forth his honde, and touched him, and sayde: I will, be thou cleane. And when he had so spoken, immediatly the leprosy departed from him, and he was clenfed. And Jesus forbade him strately, and forth with sent him awaye, and sayde unto him: Take hede, that thou saye nothinge to eny man, but go thy waye, and shew thy self unto the priest, and offere for thy clensynge what Moses commaunded, for a wykenesse unto them. But he when he was departed, beganne to speake much of it, and made the dede knowne: in so much that Jesus coude no more go into the cite openly, but was without in deserte places, & they came unto him from all quarters.

The II. Chapter.

¶ And after certayne dayes he wente agayne unto Capernaum, and it was noysed that he was in y^e house. And immediatly there was gathered a greete multitude, in so much that they had no rowme, no not without before the dore. And he spake the worde unto the. And there came unto him certayne, which brought one sicke of the palsye borne of foure. And when they coude not come nye him for y^e people, they uncovered y^e rose of y^e house where he was. And when they had made a hole, they let downe the bed (by coardes) wherein the sicke of y^e palsye laye. But when Jesus sawe their faith, he sayde unto the sicke of the palsye: My sonne, thy synnes are forgiven the.

¶ Nevertheless there were certayne scribes which sat there, & thought in their hertes: How speaketh this man such blasphemy? Who can forgive synnes, but onely God? And immediatly Jesus knew in his sperte, that they thought so in the selues, and saide unto them: Why thynke ye such thinges in youre hertes? Whether is easier to saye in the sicke of the palsye: Thy synnes are forgiven the, or to saye: arise, take up thy bed, and walke. But that ye maye knowe, that y^e sonne of man hath power to forgive synnes upon earth, he sayde unto the sicke of y^e palsye: I saye unto the, arise, take up thy bed, and go home. And immediatly he arose, & took his bed, and wente forth before them all: in so much that they were all astomied, and praised God, and sayde: We never sawe such.

¶ And he wente forth agayne unto the see, and all the people came unto him, and he taught them. And as Jesus passed by, he sawe Leni the sonne of Alphens sittinge at the receate of custome, and sayde unto him: Follow me. And he arose, and followed him. And it came to passe as he sat at the table in his house, there sat many publicans & synners at the table with Jesus and his disciples: for there were many y^e followed him. And when the scribes and pharises sawe that he ate with publicans & synners, they sayde unto his disciples: Why doth he eat and dryncke with y^e publicans and synners? When Jesus herde that, he sayde unto the: The whole nede not y^e physician, but they that are sicke. I am not come to call the righteous, but the synners to repentance.

¶ And the disciples of Ihon and of y^e pharises fasted. And there came certayne, which sayde unto him: Why fast the disciples of Ihon, and of y^e pharises, and thy disciples fast not? And Jesus sayde unto them: How can the weddinge children fast, while the brydegrome is with them? So longe as y^e brydegrome is with them, they cannot fast. But the tyme wyl come, that the brydegrome shalbe taken from them, and then shal they fast.

¶ No man soweth a pece of new cloth in to an olde garment, for els he taketh awaye the new pece from the olde, and so is the ruyne. And no man putteth new wyne in to olde vessels, els the new wyne breake the vessels, and the wyne is spilt, and y^e vessels perishe: but new wyne must be put in new vessels.

¶ And it chaunced that upon y^e Sabbath he wente thorow the come felde, and his disciples beganne to make a waye thorow, and to plucke the eares of y^e come. And the pharises sayde unto him: Beholde, what thy disciples do, which is not lawfull upon the Sabbath. And he sayde unto the: Have ye not read what David dyd, when he had neede, and was an hongred, both he and they that were with him: how he wente in to the house of God in the tyme of Abiathar the hye priest, and ate the shewbreds (which was lawfull for no man to eat, but for the prestes) and he gave them unto him, and to them that were with him? And he sayde unto them: The Sabbath was made for mans sake, and not man for the Sabbathes sake. Therfore is the sonne of man LORD even over the Sabbath.

The III. Chapter.

¶ He wente agayne also in to the synagoge, and there was there a man that had a wythred hande. And they marked him, whether he wolde heale him on the Sabbath, that they might accuse him. And he sayde unto y^e man with the wythred hande: Steppe forth here. And he sayde within: Is it lawfull to do good on the Sabbath? Or is it lawfull to do euell? to save life, or to kill? But they helde their tonge. And he looked rounde aboute upon them with wrath, and was sory for the harde hertes of the, and sayde unto the man: Stretch out thine hande. And he stretched it out. And his hande was made whole like as y^e other.

¶ And the pharises wrote out, and straighthe waye they helde a counsell with Herodes officers agaynst him, how they might destroy him. But Jesus departed awaye with his disciples unto the see. And there followed him much people out of Galile, and from Jewry, and from Iherusalem, and out of Idumea, and from beyonde Jordan, and they that dwelt aboute Tyre and Sydon, a greete multitude which had herde of his noble actes, and came unto him.

¶ And he spake unto his disciples y^e they shulde kepe a shyppe for him because of the people, lest they shulde chynge him: for he healed many of them, in so much, that all they which were plagued, pressed upon him, that they might touch him. And when the foule spertes sawe him, they fell downe before him, and cried, and sayde: Thou art the sonne of God. And he charged them strately, that they shulde not make him knowne.

¶ And he wente up in to a mountayne, and called unto him whom he wolde, and they came unto him. And he ordeyned y^e twelve, that they shulde be with him, and that he might sende them out to preach, and that they might have power to heale sicknesses, and to cast out devils. And unto Symon

he gave the name Peter, and James the sonne of Zebede, and Ihon the brother of James, and gave the name Bonarges, that is to saye, the childien of thunder: and Andrew, and Philippe, and Bartylmew, and Mathew, and Thomas, and James y^e sonne of Alphens, and Taddes, and Symon of Cana, and Judas Iscariot which betrayed him.

¶ And they came to house. Then assembled the people together agayne, in so much that they had no leysure to eat. And when they that were aboute him herde of it, they wente out to holde him. For they sayde: he taketh to much upon him. But the scribes that were come downe from Iherusalem, sayde: he hath Belzebul, and thorow the chief devell casteth he out devils. And he called them together, and spake unto them in similitudes:

¶ How can one Sathan dryue out another? And yf a realme be dewyded in it self, how can it endure? And yf a house be dewyded agaynst it self, it can not contynue. Yf Sathan now ryse agaynst him self, and be at variaunce with him self, he can not endure, but is at an ende. No man can entre in to a stronge mans house, and take awaye his goodes, excepte he first bynde the stronge man, and then spoyle his house.

¶ Verely I saye unto you: All synnes shal be forgiven the childien of men, and the blasphemy also wherewith they blaspheme. But who so blasphemeth the holy goost, hath never forgiveness, but is giltye of the everlastinge iudgment. For they sayde: he hath an unclean sperte.

¶ And there came his mother and his brethren, and stode without, and sente unto him, and called him. And the people sat aboute him, and sayde unto him: Beholde, thy mother and thy brethren are after the without. And he answered, and sayde: Who is my mother and my brethren? And he looked rounde aboute him upon his disciples, which sat rounde in compasse aboute him, and sayde: Beholde, my mother and my brethren. For who so enerdoth the will of God the same is my brother, and my sister and my mother.

The III. Chapter.

¶ And he beganne agayne to teach by y^e see side. And there gathered much people unto him, so that he wente in to a shippe, and sat upon the water. And all the people stode upon the londe by the see syde. And he preached longe vnto the by parables, and sayde vnto the in his doctryne: Herken to, beholde, there wente out a sower to sow: & it happened whyle he was sowynge, that some fell by the waye syde. Then came the foules vnder the heauen, and ate it vp. Some fell vpon stonye grounde, where it had not moche earth: and anone it came vp, because it had not depe earth. Now whā the Sonne arose, it caught heate: and in so moche as it had no rote, it withered awaye. And some fel amonge the thornes, & the thornes grew vp, and choked it, and it gaue no frute. And some fell vpon a good grounde, which gaue frute, that came vp and grew. And some bare thirtie folde, and some sixtie folde, and some an hundred folde. And he sayde vnto them: Who so hath eares to heare, let him heare.

And whan he was alone, they that were aboute him to the twelue, asked him concerning this parable. And he sayde vnto the: Vnto you it is geuen, to knowe the mystery of the Kyngdome of God: but vnto them that are without, all thinges happen by parables, that with seynge eyes they maye see, and not discerne: and that with hearinge eares they maye heare, and not vnderstode, lest at any tyme they turne, and their synnes be forgiven them. And he sayde vnto them: Vnderstande ye not this parable? How wyl ye then vnderstande all other parables?

The sower soweth the woide. These be they that are by the waye syde: where the worde is sowne, and as soone as they haue herde it, immediatly commeth Sathā, and taketh awaye the worde that was sowne in their hertes. And likewise are they that are sowne on the stonye grounde: which when they haue herde the worde, receaue it with ioye, and haue no rote in them: but endure for a tyme. When trouble and persecucion aryseth for y^e wordes sake, immediatly they are offended. And these are they that are sowne amonge the thornes: which heare the worde, and y^e carefulesnes of this worlde, and the disceatfulnes of riches, and many other lustes entre in, and choke the worde, and so is it made vnfructefull. And these are they y^e are sowne vpon a good grounde: Which heare y^e worde, and receaue it, and brynge forth frute: some thirtie folde, and some sixtie folde, and some an hundred folde.

And he sayde vnto the: Is a candle lighted to be put vnder a bushell, or vnder a table? Is it not lighted, to be set vpon a candlestick? For there is nothinge hyd, that shal not be openly shewed: and there is no thinge secrete, y^e shal not be knowen. Who so hath eares to heare, let him heare. And he sayde vnto them: Take hede what ye heare. With what measure ye mete, with the same shal it be measured vnto you agayne. And vnto you that heare this, shal more be geuen. For who so hath, vnto him shal be geuen: and who so hath not, from him shal be taken awaye, even that he hath.

And he sayde: The Kyngdome of God is after this maner, as when a man casteth seede vpon the londe, and slepeth, and stondesth vp night and daye, and the seede spryngeth vp, & groweth, he not knowinge of it. (For the earth bryngeth forth frute of herself: first the grasse, afterwarde the eare, then the full wheate in the eare.) But whan she hath brought forth the frute, he putteth in the sickell, because the harvest is come.

And he sayde: Where vnto wyl welicken the Kyngdome of God? Or by what similitude wyl we compare it? It is like a graine of mustarde seede, which whā it is sowne vpon the londe, is the leest amonge all seedes of the earth. And whā it is sowne, it groweth vp, and is greater then all herbes, and getteth greate branches, so y^e the foules vnder the heauen maye dwell vnder y^e shadowe thereof.

And by many such parables he spaketh the worde vnto the, there after as they might heare it, & without parables spaketh he nothinge vnto them: but vnto his disciples he expounded all thinges pryuaely. And the same daye at even he sayde vnto them: let us passe ouer. And they let the people go, and toke him as he was in the shippe, and there were mo shippes with him. And there arose a greate storme of wynde, and dashed the waves in to the shippe, so that the shippe was full. And he was behynde in the shippe and slepte vpon a pelowe. And they awoke him & sayde vnto him: Master, Carest thou not, that we perishe? And he arose, and rebuked y^e wynde, and sayde vnto the see: Peace, and be still. And the wynde was layed, & there folowed a greate calme. And he sayde vnto them: Why are ye so fearfull? How is it, that ye haue no faith? And they feared exceedingly, & sayde one to another: What is he this? For wynde and see are obedient vnto him.

The V. Chapter.

And they came ouer vnto the other syde of the see in to the countre of the Gadarenites. And whan he was out of the shippe, there met him a man possessed of an vncleane spiete, which had his dwellinge in the graues. And no man coude byn behym, no not with cheynes: for he was oft bounde with fetters & cheynes, and plucked the cheynes in sunder, and brake the fetters in peces, and no man coude tame him. And he was allwaye both daye and night vpon the mountaynes and in the graues crienge, and beatinge him self with stones. But whan he sawe Jesus a farre off, he ranne, and fell downe before him, and cried loude, and sayde: What haue I to do with the O Jesus thou sonne of y^e highest God? I charge the by God, that thou torment me not. Nevertheless he sayde vnto him: Go out of the man thou foule spiete. And he asked him: What is thy name? And he answered and sayde: My name is Legion, for there be many of vs. And he prayed him instantly, that he wolde not sende them awaye out of that countre.

And euen there in the mountaynes there was a greate herd of swyne fedynge, and all the deuyls praied him, and sayde: Let vs departe in to the swyne. And anone Jesus gaue them leue. Then the foule spietes went out, and intred in to the swyne. And the herd of swyne, ranne heedlinges in to y^e see with a storme. They were aboute a two thousande swyne, and were drowned in the see.

And the swyneherdes fled, and tolde it in the cite, and in the countre. And they went out for to see what had happened, and came to Jesus, and sawe hym which was possessed and had had y^e legion, that he sat, and was clothed, and in his right mynde, and they were afraied. And they that had sene it, tolde them what had happened to the possessed, and of the swyne.

And they beganne to praye him, that he wolde departe out of their coastes. And whan he came in to the shyppe, the possessed prayed him, that he might be with him.

Nevertheless Jesus wolde not suffre hi, but seide vnto hi: Go i to y^e house & to thine ciuite, and tell the how greate benefites the LORDE hath done for y^e, and how he hath had mercy vpon the. And he wente his waye, and beganne to publish in the ten ciities how greate benefites Jesus had done for him. And every man marueyled.

And whan Jesus passed ouer agayne by shippe, there gathered moche people vnto him, and was by the see syde. And behol-

de, there came one of the rulers of the synagoge, whose name was Jairus. And whan he sawe him, he fell downe at his fete, and besought him greatly, & sayde: My doughter is at the poynte (of death) let it be thy pleasure to come and laye thine honde vpon her, that she maye be whole and lyue. And he wente with him, and moche people folowed him, and thronged him.

And there was a woman, which had had the bloudeysse twelue yeaeres, and had suffred moche of many phisicians, and spent all that she had, and was not helped, but rather in worse case. Whan she herde of Jesus, she came behynde amonge the people, and touched his garment. For she sayde: If I maye but touch his clothes, I shal be whole.

And immediatly y^e fountayne of hir bloude was dried vp, and she felt in hir body, & she was healed of the plague.

And forth with Jesus felt in himself the power that was gone out of him, and turned him aboute amonge the people, and sayde: Who hath touched my clothes? And his disciples sayde vnto him: Thou seist that the people thruster the, and sayest: Who hath touched me? And he looked aboute to se her, that had done it.

As for the woman, she feared and trembled: for she knew, what was done in her) and came and fell downe before him, and tolde him the whole trueth. And he sayde vnto her: Doughter, thy faith hath made the whole: go thy waye in peace, & be whole of thy plague.

Whyle he yet spaketh, there came certayne from the ruler of the synagoges house, and sayde: Thy doughter is deed, why troublest thou the master eny more? But Jesus herbe right soone the worde that was spoken, and sayde vnto the ruler of the synagoge: Be not thou afraied, beleeue onely.

And he suffred no mā to folowe him, but Peter and James and Ihon his brother. And he came in to the ruler of the synagoges house, and sawe the busynes, and them that wepte and wayled greatly: and he wente in, and sayde vnto them: Why make ye this a doo, and wepe? The mayde is not deed, but slepeth.

And they laughed him to scome. And he driue them all out, and toke the father and mother of the mayde, and them that were with him, and wente in where the mayden laye. And he toke the mayde by the honde, and sayde vnto her: Thabitha Cumi (which is by interpretation) Mayde, I saye vnto the: Arise. And immediatly the mayden arose, and walked. She was twelue yere olde, and they were astonnyed out of measure. And he charged them strately, that no man shulde knowe of it, and sayde vnto them, that they shulde geue her to eate.

The VI. Chapter.

And he departed thence, and came in to his awne countre, and his disciples folowed him. And whā y Sabbath came, he begāne to teach in their synagoge. And many that herde it, marueled at his lerynge, and sayde: From whēce hath he these thinges? And what wysdome is this, y is geue him: soch actes as are done by his handes? Is not this the Carpenter the sonne of Mary, and the brother of James and Iosef, and of Jude and Symon? Are not his sisters here with vs also? And they were offended at him. But Iesus saide vnto the: A prophet is nowhere lesse set by, thē in his awne countre, & at home amonge his awne. And he coude not shew one miracle there, but layed his handes vpon a few sicke, and healed them. And he marueyled at their vbelene.

And he wente aboute in the townes on euery syde, and taught them. And called the twelue, and begāne to sende them two and two, and gaue them power ouer the vnclane spites. And commaunded the, that they shulde take nothinge with them towarde their iourney, saue onely a rodde: no scrippe, no bried, no money in the gerdell, but shulde be shod with sandales, and that they shulde not put on two cotes. And he sayde vnto them: Where so euer ye shal entre in to an house, there abyde, tyll ye go thence. And who so euer wyll not receaue you, ner heare you, departe out from thence, and shake of the dust from youre fete, for a wytnesse vnto them. I saye vnto you verely: It shal be easyer for Sodom and Gomorra in the daye of iudgment, then for that cite.

And they wete forth, and preached, that men shulde amēde them selues, and they cast out many deuyls: and many that were sicke anoynted they with oyle, and healed the.

And it came to kynge Herods eares (for his name was now knowne) and he sayde: Ihon the baptist is risen agayne from the deed, and therfore are his dedes so mightie. But some sayde: It is Elias. Some sayde: It is a prophete, or one of y prophetes. But when Herode herde it, he sayde: It is Ihon whom I beheaded, he is risen agayne from the deed. This Herode had sent forth, and taken Ihon, and put him in prison, because of Herodias his brother Philipps wife, for he had married her. Neuertheles Ihon sayde vnto Herode: It is not lawfull for the to haue y brothers wife. But Herodias layed wayte for him, and wolde haue slayne him, and coude not. Notwithstōdinge Herode feared Iho, for he knew that he was a iust and holy man: and he kepte him, and herten vnto him in many thinges, and had him gladly.

And there came a convenient daye, that Herode on his byrth daye made a supper to the lordes, captaynes and chiefe estates of Galile. Then the daughter of Herodias came in, and daunsed, and pleased Herode, and them that sat at the table. Then sayde the kynge vnto y damsel: Aye of me what thou wilt, I wil geue it the. And he swore vnto her: What soeuer thou shalt aske of me, I wil geue it the, euen vnto y one half of my kyngdome. She wente forth, and sayde vnto her mother: what shal I aske? She sayde: Ihon baptistes heade. And immediatly she went in to the kynge with halfe, and sayde: I will that thou geue me straight waye in a platter the heed of Ihon the baptist. Then the kynge was sorry: Yet for the oortes sake and the that sat at the table, he wolde not saye her nay.

And immediatly he sent the hangman, and commaunded his heade to be brought in. So he wete, and heeded him in the prison, and brought his heade in a platter, and gaue it vnto the damsell, and the damsell gaue it vnto hir mother. And whan his disciples herde that, they came and toke his body, & layed it in a graue.

And the Apostles came together vnto Iesus, and tolde hi all, and what they had done and taught. And he sayde vnto them: Let vs go out of the waye in to the wilderness, and rest a litle. For there were many comers and goers, and they had not tyme ynough to eate. And there he passed by shippe out of y waye in to a deserte place. And the people sawe the departynge awaye, and many knewe of it, & ranne thither togather of fere out of all cities, & came before the: & came vnto him. And Iesus wente out, and sawe moch people, and had cōpassion vpon them: for they were as the shepe, that haue no shepheard, and he begāne a lōge sermon.

Now whan the daye was farre past, his disciples came vnto him, and sayde: This is a deserte place, let them departe, that they maye go in to the vyllagies and townes rounde aboute, and bye them selues bried, for they haue nothinge to eate. But Iesus answered and sayde vnto them: geue yethem to eate.

And they sayde vnto him: Shal we go then, and bye two hundred peny worth of bried, and geue them to eate? He sayde vnto them: How many loanes haue ye? So and so. And when they had searched, they sayde: fyue, and two fishes. And he commaunded them all to syt downe by table fulles vpon the grene grasse. And they sat downe here arowe and there arowe by hundreds and by fifties. And he toke the fyue loanes and two fishes, and loked vp vnto heauen, and gaue thanks, and brake the loanes, and gaue to the disciples, to set before them. And the two fishes parted he amonge them all. And they all ate, and were satisfied. And they toke vp twelue baskettes full of y broken peces and of the fishes. And they that were aboute fyue thousande men. And anon he caused his disciples to go in to the shippe, and to passe ouer before him vnto Bethsaida, whyle he sent awaye the people. And at euen was the shippe in the myddest of the see, and he alone vpon the londe. And he sawe that they were in parell with rowynge, for the wynde was agaynst them.

And aboute the fourth watch of y night he came vnto them, and walked vpon the see, and wolde haue gone ouer by the. And whan they sawe him walkinge vpon the see, they thoughte it had bene a spiete, and cried out, for they sawe him all, and were a frayd. But immediatly he talked with them, and sayde vnto them: Be of good comforte, it is I, be not a frayd. And he wete vnto them in to the shippe, and the wynde ceased. And they were astonnyed, and marueled exceedingly: for they had forgotten the loanes, and their hert was blynded.

And whan they were passed ouer, they came in to lande of Genezareth, and drue vp in to the haven. And whan they were come out of the shippe, immediatly they knewe him, and ranne thorow out all the region aboute, and beganne on euery syde to bryng vnto him in beddes soch as were sicke, where they herde that he was. And whiche so euer he entred in to townes, citis or vyllagies, there layed they the sicke in the market place, and prayed him, that they might but touch the hemme of his garment. And as many as touched him, were made whole.

The VII. Chapter.

And there came vnto him the pharisees, and certayne of the scribes, that were come from Ierusalem. And whā they sawe certayne of his disciples eate bried with comon (that is, with vnwashed) handes, they complayned. For the pharisees & all the Jewes eate not, excepte they wash their handes oft tymes: obseruynge so the tradicions of the elders. And whan they come from the market, they eate not, excepte they washe. And many other thynges there be, which they haue taken vpon them to obserue, as the washinge of cuppes and cruces, and brasen vessels and tables.

Then the pharisees and scribes axed him: Why walke not thy disciples after the tradicions of the elders, but eate bried with vnwashed handes? But he answered & sayde vnto them: Full well hath Esay prophesied of you Apocrytes, as it is wyttē: This people honoureth me with their lippes, but their hert is farre fro me. But in vayne do they serue me, whyle they teach soch doctrynes as are nothinge but the commaundementes of men. Ye leaue the cōmaundement of God and kepe the tradicions of men, as the washinge of cruces and cuppes, & many soch thinges do ye.

And he sayde vnto the: How goodly haue ye cast asyde the cōmaundement of God, to maneyne youre owne tradicions? For Moyses sayde: Honoure father & mother. Who so curseth father and mother, shal dye the death. But ye saye: A mā shal saye to father or mother: Corban, that is, The thinge shal helpe the withall, is geue vnto God. And thus ye suffre him nomore to do onghte for his father or his mother, & make Gods worde of none effecte, thorow youre owne tradicions that ye haue set vp. And many soch thinges do ye.

And he called vnto him all the people, and sayde vnto them: Herken vnto me ye all, and vnderstonde me. There is nothinge without a man, that can defyle him, whan it entreteth in to him. But that goeth out of him, that is it that maketh the man vnclane. If any man haue eares to heare, let him heare. And whan he came from the people in to y house, his disciples axed him of this similitude. And he sayde vnto them: Are ye so then without vnderstondinge? Perceauye not yet, y euery thinge which is without, and goeth into the mā, can not defyle him: For it entreteth not into his hert, but in to y bely, and goeth out in to the draught, that purgeth all meates.

C And he sayde: The thinge that goeth out of the man, that defyleth the man. For from within out of the hert of man proceede euell thoughtes, aduoutrye, whordome, murthur, theft, couetousnes, wickednes, disceate, vncleannes, a wicked eye, blasphemy, pryde, foolishnes. All these euell thinges go from within, and defyle the man.

Mat. 15. c And he arose, and wente from thence in to the borders of Tyre and Sydon, and entred into an house, and wolde let no man knowe of it, and yet coude he not be hyd: For a certayne woman whose daughter had a foule sperte herde of him, and came and fell downe at his fete (and it was in heiche woman of Syrophonices) and she besoughe him, that he wolde dryue out the deuill from hir daughter. But Jesus sayde vnto her: Let the children be fed first: It is not mete to take the childrens bred, and to cast it vnto dogges. She answered and sayde vnto him: See LORD, neuertheles the helpe me also eate vnder y table, of y childrens crome. And he sayde vnto her: Because of this sayenge go thy waye, the deuill is departed out of thy daughter. And she wente vnto her house, and founde that the deuill was departed, and hir daughter lyenge on the bed.

Luc. 11. b And whan he wente out agayne from the coastes of Tyre and Sydon, he came vnto the see of Galile, thow the myddes of y coastes of the tē cities. And they brought vnto him one that was deaf, and had impediment in his speach. And they prayed him, that he wolde laye his hande vpon him.

and 9. a And he toke him a syde from the people, and put his fyngers in his eares, and dyd spyt, and touched his tonge, and looked vpon heauen, sighed, and sayde vnto him: Ephatha, that is, be opened. And immediately his eares were opened, and the bonde of his tōge was lowed, and he spake right. And he charged them, that they shulde tell no man.

Eccli. 10. c But the more he forbade them, the more they published it, and marueyled out of measure, and sayde: He hath done all thinges well. The deaf hath he made to heare, and the domme to speake.

The VIII. Chapter.

At the same tyme whan there was moch people there, and had nothinge to eate, Jesus called his disciples to him, and sayde vnto them: I have compassion vpon the people, for they haue taried w me now thre dayes, and haue nothinge to eate. And yf I let them go home from hysfyng, they shulde saynte by the waye. For some of them were come from farr. And his disciples answered him: Where shal we get bred here in the wyldernes, to satysfie them? And he axed the: How many loaves haue ye? They sayde: Seven. And he commaunded the people to syt downe vpon the grounde. And he toke the seven loaves, and gaue thakes, and brake them, and gaue the vnto his disciples to set them before the people. And they set the befoie the people. And they had a few small fyshes, and whan he had geuen thantes, he bad set the same befoie the people. They ate, and were satysfied, and toke vp seuen baskettes full of y broken meate that was left. And they were vps a foure thousande. And he sent the awaye.

And forth with he wente in to a shippe with his disciples, and came in to the coastes of Damana. And the pharisees wente out, and begane to dispute with him, and tempted him, and despyed a token of him from heauē. And he sighed in his spyt, and sayde: Why doth this generacion seeke a token? Verely I saye vnto you: There shal no token be geue vnto this generacion. And he left them, and wete agayne into the shippe, and passed ouer.

And they forgaue to take bred with them, and had nomore with them in the shippe but one loaf. And he commaunded them, and sayde: Take hede, and beware of the leuen of the pharisees, and of the leuen of herode. And their myndes waned here and there, and sayde amonge them selues: This is it, that we haue no bred. And Jesus understode that, and sayde vnto them: Why trouble ye youre selues, that ye haue no bred? Are ye yet without vnderstondinge? Haue ye yet a blynded hert in you? Haue ye eyes, and see not? and haue ye eares, and heare not? and remember ye not, that I brake fyue loaves amonge fyue thousande, how many baskettes full of broken meate toke ye then vp? They sayde: twolue. And whan I brake the same amonge the foure thousande, how many baskettes full of broken meate toke ye then vp? They sayde: Seuen. And he sayde vnto the: Why are ye then without vnderstondinge? And he came to Bethsaida, and they brought one blynde vnto him, and prayed him to touch him. And he toke the blynde by the hande, and led him out of the towne, and sat in his eyes, and layed his handes vpon him, and axed him whether he sawe ought. And he looked vp, and sayde: I see men goynge as yf I sawe trees. After this he layed his handes vpon his eyes agayne, and made him to se. And he was brought to right agayne, and sawe all clearly. And he sent him home, and sayde: Go not in to y towne, and tell it also vnto noman therein.

D And Jesus wente out and his disciples into the townes of the cite Cesarea Philippi. And in y waye he axed his disciples and sayde vnto them: What do men saye, that I am? They answered: They saye, thou art Jhon the baptist: Some saye thou art Elias, some that thou art one of the prophetes. And he sayde vnto them: But whom saye ye that I am? Then answered Peter and sayde vnto him: Thou art very Christ. And he charged them strately, that they shulde tell no man of him. And he begane to teach them: The sonne of man must suffre many thinges, and be cast out of the elders and hye priestes and scribes, and be put to deathe, and after thre dayes rise agayne. And that was bespake he fre openly. And Peter toke him vnto him, and beganne to rebuke him. But he turned him aboute, and looked vpon his disciples, and reprimed Peter, and sayde: Go after me thou Sathan, for thou sauest not the thinges that be of God, but of men.

E And he called vnto him the people with his disciples, and sayde vnto them: Who so euer wyl folowe me, let him denye himself, and take vp his crosse, and folowe me. For who so euer wyl saue his life, shal lose it: and who so euer loseth his life for my sake and y gospels, y same shal saue it. What helpeth it a mā though he wāne the whole worlde, and yet toke harme in his soule? Or, what can a man geue, to redeme his soule withall? Who so euer is ashamed of me and of my wordes amonge this aduouterous and synfull generacion, of him shal the sonne of man also be ashamed, whan he cometh in the glory of his father with the holy angels. And he sayde vnto them: Verely I saye vnto you: There shal be here some, which shal not taiste of deathe, tyll they se the kyngdome of God come with power.

The IX. Chapter.

After sixe dayes Jesus toke vnto him Peter, James and Jhon, and brought them vp in to an hye mountayne out of the waye alone, and was trasfigured before them, and his clothes were bright and very whyte as y snowe, so whyte as no fuller can make vpon earth. And there appeared vnto the Elias with Moses, and they talked with Jesus. And Peter answered, and sayde vnto Jesus: Rabbi, here is good beyng for vs. Let vs make thre tabernacles: one for the, one for Moses, and one for Elias. For he knewe not what he sayde, and they were very fearfull. And there was a cloude, which overshadowed the. And out of the cloude there came a voyce, and sayde: This is my deare sonne, heare him. And immediately they looked aboute them, and sawe noman more then Jesus onely with them.

Mat. 17. 1 But whan they wente downe from the mountayne, Jesus charged them, that they shulde tell no man what they had sene, tyll the sonne of man were risen agayne from the dead.

B And they kepte that sayenge by them, and axed one another: What is that rysinge agayne from the dead? And they axed him, and sayde: Why saye the scribes then, that Elias must first come? He answered and sayde vnto them: Elias shal come first in dede, and brynge all thinges to right agayne. The sonne of man also shal suffre many thinges, and be despyed, as it is wyrtten. But I saye vnto you: Elias is come, and they haue done vnto him what they wolde, acordinge as it is wyrtten of him.

Mat. 17. 1
Luc. 9. d And he came to his disciples, and sawe moch people aboute them, and the scribes disputynge with them. And as soone as the people sawe, they were astonnyed, and ranne vnto him, and saluted him. And he axed the scribes: What dispute ye with them? And one of the people answered, and sayde: Master, I haue brought vnto the my sonne, which hath a domme sperte: and whan so euer he taketh him, he teareth him, and he someth, and gnasseth with the teth, and pyneth awaye, and I haue spoken to thy disciples that they shulde cast him out, and they coude not.

C He answered him, and sayde: O thou vnfaithfull generacion, how longe shal I be with you? How longe shal I suffre you? Brynge hi hither to me. And they brought him vnto him. And as soone as the sperte sawe him, he tare him, and fell vpon the earth, and wretched and sowed. And he axed his father: How longe is it, sens this happened vnto him? He sayde: Of a childe, and of tymes hath he cast him in to the fyre and water, to destroye him: but yf thou canst do enythinge, haue mercy vpon vs, and helpe vs. Jesus sayde vnto him: If thou couldest beleue: All thinges are possible vnto him that beleueth. And immediatly the father of the childe cried with teares, and sayde: LORDE I beleue: O helpe thou myne vnbelleue.

Now whan Jesus sawe that the people ranne to, he rebuked the foule spie, and sayde vnto him: Thou domine and deaf spie, I charge the, departe out of him, and entre nomore in to him from hence forth. And he cried, and rent him sore, and departed. And he was as though he had bene deed, in somoch that many sayde: he is deed. But Jesus toke him by the hande, and set him vp. And he arose. And whan he came home, his disciples axed him secretly: Why couldest not we cast him out? And he sayde: This kynde can go out by no meanes, but by prayer and fastyng.

And they departed thence, and toke their iourney thorow Galile, and he wolde not that any man shulde knowe of it. But he taughte his disciples, and sayde vnto them: The sonne of man shalbe deliuered in to the handes of men, and they shal put him to death: and whan he is put to death, he shal ryse agayne the thirde daye. But they vnderstode not that worde, and were a frayd to axe him.

And he came to Capernaum. And whan he was at home, he axed them: What disputed ye amonge youre selues by y waye? But they helde their tūges: for they had disputed by the waye amonge them selues, who shulde be y greates. And he sat downe, and called the twolue, and sayde vnto them: If any man wyl be the first, the same shal be the last of all, and the seruaunt of all. And he toke a childe, and set him in the myddest of them, and toke him in his armes, and sayde vnto them: Who so euer receaueth soch a childe in my name, receaueth me: and who so euer receaueth me, receaueth not me, but him that hath sent me.

Jhon answered him, and sayde: Master, we sawe one dryue out deuils in thy name, but he foloweth not vs, and we forbade him because he foloweth vs not. But Jesus sayde: Forbyd him not: for there is no mā that doeth a myracle in my name, and can soone speake euill of me. For who so euer is agaynst vs, the same is for vs. And who so euer geueth you a cuppe of water to drynte in my name, because ye belonge vnto Christ, verely I saye vnto you: he shal not lose his rewarde. And who so offendeth one of these litle ones that beleue in me, it were better for him, that a mylstone were hāged aboute his neck, and he cast in to the see. If thy hāde offendeth the, cut him of. Better it is for the to entre in to life lame, the hauyng two hondes to go in to hell in to the euerslastyng fyre, where their woime dyeth not, and their fyre goeth not out.

If thy fore offendeth the, cut him of. Better it is for the to entre in to life crepell, the hauyng two fete to be cast in to hell in the fyre euerslastyng, where their woime dyeth not, and their fyre goeth not out. If thine eye offendeth the, cast him from the. Better it is for the to entre in to y kyngdome of God with one eye, then hauyng two eyes to be cast in to the fyre of hell: where their woime dyeth not, and their fyre goeth not out. For euery mā must be salted w fyre, & every offeryng shalbe seasoned w salt. The salt is good: but yf y salt be vsfauery, wherewith all shal it be salted? haue salt in you, & peace amonge yō selues one with another.

The X. Chapter.

And he rose vp, and came from thence in to the places of Jewry beyonde Jordan. And the people were agayne vnto him by heapes, and as his maner was he taughte them agayne. And the pharises came vnto him, and axed him, yf it were lawfull for a man to put awaye his wife, and tempted him withall. But he answered and sayde: What hath Moses comaunded you? They sayde: Moses suffered to wyte a testimoniall of deuorcement, and to put her awaye. Jesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Because of y hardnesse of yō herte dyd Moyses wyte you this commaundement. But from the first creacion God made the man and woman. For this cause shal a man leaue his father & mother, and cleue vnto his wife, and they two shalbe one flesh. Now are they not twayne the, but one flesh. Let not man therfore put asunder that, which God hath coupled together.

And at home his disciples axed him agayne of y same. And he sayde vnto the: Who so euer putteth awaye his wife, & marryeth another, breaketh wedlocke to her worde. And yf a woman forsake hir husbande, & be married to another, she comitteth aduonny.

And they brought childre vnto him, that he might touch them. But the disciples reproved those that brought the. Neuertheless whan Jesus sawe it, he was displeased, and sayde vnto them: Suffre the childre to come vnto me, and forbyd them not, for of sch is the kyngdome of God. Verely I saye vnto you: Who so euer receaueth not the kyngdome of God as a childe, he shal not enter therein. And he toke them vp in his armes, and layed his handes vpon them, and blessed them.

And whan he was gone forth vpon the waye, there came one runnyng, and kneled vnto him, & axed him: Good Master, what shal I do, that I maye inheret euerslastyng life? But Jesus saide vnto him: Why callest thou me good? There is no man good, but God onely. Thou knowest the commaundementes: Thou shalt not breake wedlocke: thou shalt not kyll: thou shalt not steale: thou shalt beare no false wytnesse: thou shalt begyle no man: Honour thy father and mother. But he answered, and sayde vnto him: Master, all these haue I kepte from my youth vp. And Jesus behelde him, and loved him, & sayde vnto him: Thou wantest one thinge: Go thy waye, and sell all that thou hast, and geue it vnto y poor: so shalt thou haue a treasure in heauen, and come & folow me, and take the crosse vpon y. And he was discomfited at the sayenge, & went awaye sory, for he had greates possessions.

And Jesus looked aboute him, and sayde vnto his disciples: O how hardly shal the ryche come in to y kyngdome of God? And the disciples were astonnyed at his wordes. But Jesus answered agayne, and sayde vnto them: Deare childre, how harde is it for them that trust in riches, to come in to the kyngdome of God? It is easier for a Camell to go thorow the eye of a neble, then for a rich man to entre in to y kyngdome of God. Yet were they astonnyed y more, and sayde amonge the selues: Who can the be saued? But Jesus behelde them, and sayde: With men it is vnpossyble, but not with God: for with God all thinges are possyble.

Then sayde peter vnto him: Beholde, we haue forsaken all, and folowed the. Jesus answered & sayde: Verely I saye vnto you: There is no man that forsaketh house, or brethren, or sisters, or father or mother, or wife, or childre, or londes for my sake and the gospels, that shal not receaue an hundredfold now in this tyme, houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers and children, and londes with persecucions, and in the world to come euerslastyng life. But many that are the first, shal be the last: and the last the first.

They were in the waye goinge vp to Jerusalem, and Jesus wente before them. And they were astonnyed, and folowed him, and were a frayd. And Jesus toke the twolue agayne, and tolde them what shulde happen vnto him. Beholde, we go vp to Jerusalem, and the sonne of man shalbe deliuered vnto the hye prestes and scribes, and they shal condemne him to death, and deliuer him vnto the heythe. And they shal mocke him, and scourge him, and spyt vpon him, and put him to death, and on the thirde daye shal he ryse agayne.

Then were vnto him James and Jhon y sonnes of Zebede, and sayde: Master, we desyre, that what soeuer we are of the, thou wilt do it for vs. He sayde vnto the: What desyre ye that I shal do to you? They sayde vnto him: Graunte vs, that we maye syt one at thy right hande, and one at thy left hande in thy glory. But Jesus sayde vnto the: Ye wote not what ye axe. Maye ye drynke the cuppe, y I shal drynke: and be baptysed with the baptyme that I shal be baptysed withall? They sayde vnto him: Yee y we maye. Jesus sayde vnto them: The cuppe that I drynke, shal ye drynke in dede: and be baptysed with the baptyme that I shall be baptysed withall. Nevertheless to syt at my right hande and at my left, is not myne to geue you, but vnto them for whom it is prepared.

And whā the ten herde that, they dysdayned at James and Jhon. But Jesus called them, and sayde vnto them: Ye knowe that the prynces of y world haue domynacion of the people, and y mightie exercise auctoryte amonge them. So shal it not be amonge you: but who so euer wil be greates amonge you, shal be youre mynister: and who so wyl be cheffest amonge you, shalbe seruaunt of all. For the sonne of man also came not to be serued, but to do seruyce, and to geue his life to a redemption for many.

And they came vnto Jericho. And whan he wente out of Jericho, and his disciples, and moch people, there sat one blynde Bartimews the sonne of Thimens by y waye, and begged. And whā he herde that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he beganne to crie and saye: Jesu thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy vpon me. And many reproued him, that he shulde holde his tūge. But he cried moch more: Thou sonne of David haue mercypis me. And Jesus stode still, and bad call him. And they called the blynde, and sayde vnto him: We of good conforite, arys, he calleth the. And he cast awaye his garment from him, stode vp, and came to Jesus. And Jesus answered, & sayde vnto him: What wilt thou that I do vnto the? The blynde sayde vnto him: Master, that I might se. Jesus sayde vnto him: Go y waye, thy faith hath helped y. And immediatly he had his sight and folowed him in the waye.

The XL Chapter.

Luc. 19. c

When they came nye Jerusalem to Bethphage and Bethanye vnto mount Oliuete, he sent two of his disciples, and sayde vnto them: Go in to the towne that lyeth before you, and as soone as ye come in, ye shal fynde a foale bounde, wher vpon no man hath syt: lowse it, and brynge it hither. And yf eny man saye vnto you: wherfore do yethat? Then saye ye: The LORDE hath nede therof, and forth with he shal sende it hither. They were their waie and founde the foale tyed by y dore without at the partyng of the waye, and lowsed it. And certayne of those y stode there, axed them: What do ye, that ye lowse the foale? But they sayde vnto the, like as Jesus had commaunded them. And so they let them alone. And they brought the foale vnto Jesus, and layed their clothes thereon, and he sat thereon. But many spied their garments in the waye: some cut downe braunches fro the trees, and strowed the in the waye. And they that wente before, and that folowed after, cried, and sayde: Hosanna, blessed be he, that commeth in the name of the LORDE: blessed be the kyngdome of oure father David, which commeth in the name of the LORDE. Hosanna in the heighe.

Luc. 19. a

And the LORDE entred in to Jerusalem, and wente in to the temple, and looked vpon all. And at euen he wente out vnto Bethanye with the twolue: and on the morow whā they departed from Bethanye, he hūgred, and sawe a fygge tre as farre of, which had leaues. Then came he nye, (to se) yf he coude fynde eny thinge thereon. And whan he came to it, he founde nothinge but leaues (for the tyme of fygges was not yet) And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto it: Next mā eate frute of the for euermore. And his disciples herde it.

And they came to Jerusalem. And Jesus wente in to the temple, and beganne to byrne out the sellers and byers in the temple, & ouerthrew the tables of the money changers, and the stoles of the done sellers, and suffred not eny man to cary a vessell throu the temple. And he taught and sayde vnto them: Is it not wyrtten: My house shalbe called a house of prayer for all people? But ye haue made it a denne of murtherers.

And the scribes and hye prestes herde of it. And they sought how they might destroye him, but they were afrayed of him, for all the people marueled at his doctryne. And at euen he wente out of the cite. And on the morow they passed by, and sawe the fygge tre, that it was withered vnto the roote. And Peter thought thereon, and sayde vnto him: Master, beholde, the fygge tre y thou curstdest, is withered awaye. Jesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Haue faith in God. Verely I saye vnto you: Who soeuer saierth vnto this mountayne: Auoide, and cast thy self in to the see, and douterth not in his hert, but beleueth that the thinges shal come to passe which he saierth, then lette what he sayeth, it shal come to passe. Therfore I saye vnto you: What soeuer ye desyre in youre prayer, beleue that ye shal receaue it, and ye shal haue it. And whan ye stonde and praye, forgue yf ye haue ought agaynst eny man, that youre father also is in heauen, maye forgue you youre trespasses.

And they came agayne vnto Jerusalem, and whan he wente in the temple, there came vnto him the hye prestes and scribes and the elders, and sayde vnto him: By what auctorite dost thou these thinges? and who gaue the this auctorite to do soch?

But Jesus answered and sayde vnto the: I wil axe you a worde also, answer me, and I wil tell you, by what auctorite I do these. The baptyme of Jhon, was it from heauen, or of men? Answer me.

And they thoughte in them selues: yf we saye, it was from heauen, then shal he saye: Why dyd ye not then beleue him? But yf we saye: It was of men, then feare we the people, for they all helde that Jhon was a true prophet. And they answered, and saide vnto him: We can not tell. And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Nether tell I you, by what auctorite I do these thinges.

The XII. Chapter.

When he beganne to speake vnto them by paraboles: A certayne mā plantid

aynyarde, and made a hedg aboute it, and dygged a wyne presse, and buylded a tower, and let it out vnto husbände men, and wente in to a strange countre. And whan the tyme was come, he sent a seruaut to the husbände men, that he might receaue of the husbändmen, of the frute of the vynyarde. But they toke him, and bet him, and sent him awaye empye. Agayne, he sent vnto them another seruaut, whom they stoned, and brake his heade, and sent him awaye shamefully dealt withall. Agayne he sent another, whom they slew, and many other: some they bett, and some they put to death.

Then had he yet one sonne onely, whom he loued, him he sent also vnto them at the last, and sayde: they wil stonde in awe of my sonne. But the same husbändmen sayde amonge them selues: This is the heyre, Come, let vs kyll him, so shal the inheritaunce be ours. And they toke him, and slewe him, and cast him out of the vynyarde. What shal now the lord of the vynyarde do? he shal come and destroye the husbände men, and geue the vynyarde vnto other. Haue ye not red this scripture: The same stone which the buylders refused, is become the headstone in the corner? This was the LORDES doynge, and it is marvelous in oure eyes.

And they wente aboute to take him (but they feared the people) for they perceaued, that he had spokē this parable agaynst the. And they left him, and wente their waye.

And they sent vnto him certayne of the pharises and herodes officers to take him in his wordes. And they came, and sayde vnto him: Master, we knowe that thou art true and carest for no man. For thou regardest not the outwarde appareance of men, but teachest y waye of God truly. Is it lawfull to geue tribute vnto the Emperoure, or not? Ought we to geue it, or ought we not to geue it? But he perceaued their ypocrisie, and sayde vnto them: Why tempte ye me? Brynge me a peny, that I maye se it. And they brought it him. Then sayde he: Whose ymage and superscripcion is this? They sayde vnto him: The Emperours. Then answered Jesus and sayde vnto the: Geue therfore vnto the Emperoure that which is the Emperours, and vnto God that which is Gods. And they marueled at him.

Then came vnto him the Saduces (which holde that there is no resurreccion) these axed him, and sayde: Master, Moses wrote vnto vs. If eny mans brother dye, and leaue a wife, and leaue no children, his brother shal take his wife, and rayse vp se-de vnto his brother. Now were there seven brethien: the first toke a wife, and dyed, and left no se-de: and the seconde toke her, and dyed, and left no se-de also: the thurde in like maner.

And they all seven toke her, and left no se-de. At the last after them all, the wyse dyed also. Now in the resurreccion whan they shal ryse agayne, whose wife shal she be of them? For seven had her to wife.

Then answered Jesus, and sayde vnto them: Do not ye erre? because ye knowe not the scriptures ner y power of God? Whan they shal ryse agayne from the deed, they shal nether mary ner be married, but they are as the angels in heauen. As touchinge the deed, that they shal ryse agayne, haue ye not red in the boke of Moses, how God spake vnto him in the bush, and sayde: I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, & the God of Jacob? Yet is not God a God of the deed, but of the lyuynge. Therfore ye erre greatly.

And there came vnto him one of the scribes, that had hertened vnto the how they disputed together, and sawe that he had answered them well, and axed him: Which is the chefest commaundement of all? Jesus answered him: The chefest commaundement of all commaundementes is this: Heare O Israel, the LORDE oure God is one God, and thou shalt loue the LORDE thy God with all thy hert, with all thy soule, with all thy mynde, and with all thy strength. This is the chefest commaundement, and the seconde is like vnto it: Thou shalt loue thy neygbboure as thy self. There is none other greater commaundement then these.

And the scribe sayde vnto him: Master, Verely thou hast sayde right: for there is but one God, & there is none other without him, and to loue him with all the hert, with all the mynde, with all the soule, and with all the strength, and to loue a mans neygbboure as himself, is more then brient sacrifices and all offerynges. But whā Jesus sawe that he answered discretly, he sayde vnto him: Thou art not farre from the kyngdome of God. And after this durst no man axe him eny mo questions.

And Jesus answered, and sayde, whan he taught in the temple: How saye the scribes, y Chust is the sonne of David? But David himself saith thorow the holy goost: The LORD sayde vnto my LORD: Syt thou on my right honde, tyll I make thine enemies y foretelle. There David calleth him his LORD. How is he the sonne? And many people herde him gladly.

And he taught the, and sayde vnto the: Bewarre of the scribes, that loue to go in longe garmentes, and loue to be saluted in the market, and syt gladly aboue in the synagoges and at the table: they deuoure wyddowes houses, and vnder a coloure they make longe prayers. These shal receaue the more damnacion.

And Jesus sat ouer agaynst the Gods chest, and behelde how the people put money in to the Gods chest. And many that were riche: put in moch. And there came a poore wyddowe, and put in two mytes, which make a farthinge. And he called vnto him his disciples, and sayde vnto them: Verely I saye vnto you: this poore wyddowe hath put more in y Gods chest, then all they that haue put in: for they all haue put in of their superfluyte, but she of hir pouerree hath put in all that she had, even hir whole lyuynge.

The XIII. Chapter.

And when he were out of the temple, one of his disciples sayde vnto him: Master, se, what stones and what a buyldinge is this? And Jesus answered and sayde vnto him: Seist thou all this greete buyldinge? There shal not one stone be left vpon another, y shal not be broken downe.

And when he sat vpon mount Oliuete ouer agaynst the temple, Peter and James, and Iohn, and Andriew axed him pryncially: Tell vs, When shal all these come to passe? And what shal be the tokē, whā all these shal be fulfilled? Jesus answered them, and beganne to saye: Take hede, that no man disceane you, for there shal many come vnder my name, and saye: I am Christ, z shal disceane many. But when ye shal heare of the noyse of warres, be not ye afraied: for so must it be, but y ende is not yet. One people shal ryse agaynst another, and one realme agaynst another, and there shal be earth quakes here and there, and derch shal there be and troubles. These are the begynnynges of sorowes.

But take ye hede to youre selues. For they shal deluyne you vpon to the counceils, and synagoges, and ye shal be beaten, and shal be brought before prynces and kynges for my names sake, for a wytnesse vnto the. And y gospel must first be preached amōge all people.

Now when they shal lede you and deluyne you vpon, take ye no thought afore what ye shal saye: and ymagyn ye nothinge afore hande, but what so ever shal be geue you at the same houre, that speake: for it is not ye that speake, but the holy goost. One brother shal deluyne another vnto death, and the father the sonne, z the children shal rase agaynst their fathers and mothers, and shal helpe them to death, and ye shal be hated of all men for my names sake. But who shal endureth to the ende, shal be saved.

When ye shal se the abhominacion of desolacion (wherof it is spokē by David the prophet) stonde where it ought not (who so readeth it, let him marke it well) then let the which be in Jewry, flye vnto the mountaynes: and let him that is on the house toppe not descende into the house, ner come therein, to fetch eny thinge out of the house. And let him that is in the felde, not turne backe to fetch his clothes.

But wo vnto them that are with childe, and to them that geue suck in those dayes. Nevertheless praye ye, that youre flighte be not in the wynter. For in those dayes there shal be soch trouble as was not from the begynnyng of y creatures which God created, vnto this tyme, nether shal be. And yf y LORD had not shortened those dayes, there shulde no man be saved. But for the electes sake whom he hath chosen, he hath shortened those dayes.

Now yf eny man shal saye vnto you at this tyme: Lo, here is Christ: lo, he is there, beleue it not. For there shal aryse false Christs, and false prophetes, which shal do tokē z wonders, to disceane euen the very chosen, yf it were possyble. But take ye hede, beholde, I haue tolde you all before.

But at the same tyme after this trouble, the Sonne and Mōne shal lose their light, and the starres shal fall from heauen, and the powers of the heauens shal moue: and then shal they se the sonne of man comynge in the cloudes with greate power and glory. And the shal he sende his angels, and shal gather together his chosen fro the foure wyndes, from one ende of the earth to the other.

Letne a symilitude of the fygetre: Whā his braunch is yet tender, and hath brought forth leaues, ye knowe that the Sommer is nye. So lytewys whā ye se all these thinges come to passe, be ye sure, that it is nye euen at the doores. Verely I saye vnto you: this generacion shal not passe, tyll all these be fulfilled.

Heuē and earth shal perishe, but my wordes shal not perishe. But of that daye and houre knoweth no man, nether the angels in heauen, no nor the sonne him self, but the father onely.

Take hede, watch, z praye, for ye knowe not when the tyme is. Like as a man that wente in to a straunge countre, and left his house, and gaue his seruantes auctorite, vnto every one his worke, and commaunded y porta, that he shulde watch. Watch ye therfore, for ye knowe not whā the master of y house cometh, whether he cometh in the euynge, or at mydnight, or aboute the cock crowynge, or in the mornynge, that he comenot sodenly, and fynde you slepyng. Lo what I saye vnto you, that saye I vnto all. Watch.

The XIII. Chapter

And after two dayes was Easter, and the daies of swete bled. And y hye prestes z scribes sought how they might take him with disceate, z put him to death. But they sayde: Not in the feast daye, lest there be an vproure in the people.

And when he was at Bethanye in the house of Symon the leper, and sat at the table, there came a woman, which had a boere of pure and costely Nardus oyntment. And she brake y boere, z poured it vpon his heade. Then were there some, y disdayned and sayde: Where to serueth this waiste? This oyntment might haue bene solde for more then the hundred pēis, z bene geue to y poore. And they grudged agaynst her.

But Jesus sayde: let her be in rest. Why trouble ye her? She hath done a good worke vpon me. Ye haue allwaye the poore with you, and whā so euer ye wil, ye maye do the good: but me haue ye not allwaye. She hath done what she coulde, she is come before, to anoynte my body for my buriall. Verely I saye vnto you: Where so euer this gospel shal be preached in all the world, there shal this also that she hath now done, be tolde for a remembraunce of her.

And Judas Iscariot one of the twolue wente vnto the hye prestes, to betraye him vnto them. When they herde y, they were glad, z promysed that they wolde geue him money. And he sought, how he might coueniently betraye him.

And vpon y first daye of swete bled, whā the Easter lambe was offered, his disciples sayde vnto him: Where wilt thou y we go and prepare, y thou mayest eate y Easter lambe? And he sent two of his disciples, and sayde vnto them: Go youre waye into the cite, and there shal mete you a mā bearinge a picher with water, folowe him, z where so euer he goeth in, there saye ye to the good man of the house: The Master sendeth the worde: Where is the gest house, wherin I maye eate the Easter lābe, w my disciples? And he shal shewe you a greate parlour, which is paved z prepared, there make readye for vs. And y disciples were forth, z came in to y cite, z founde it as he had sayde vnto the. And they prepared y Easter lambe.

At euen he came to the twolue. And as they sat at the table z ate, Jesus sayde: Verely I saye vnto you: One of you y eateth w me, shal betraye me. And they were sorry, z sayde vnto hi one after another: Is it I? z another sayde: is it I? He answered z saide vnto the: One of the twolue, euen y same y dyppeth with me in y platter. The sonne of man truly goeth forth, as it is wyttē of hi. But wo vnto that mā, by whom the sonne of man is betrayed. It were better for the same man, that he had neuer bene borne.

And as they ate, Jesus toke the bred, gaue thankes, z brake it, and gaue it the, z sayde: Take, eate, this is my body. And he toke the cuppe, thāked, and gaue it the, and they all dranke therof. And he sayde vnto them: This is my bloude of the new Testament, which shalbe shed for many. Verely I saye vnto you, that from hence forth I wil not drynke of the frute of the vyne, tyll y daye y I drynke it new in y kyngdome of God. And whā they had sayde grace, they were forth vnto mount Oliuete.

And Jesus sayde vnto them: This night shal ye all be offended in me, for it is wyttē: I wil smyte the sheperde, z the shepe shal be scatred abroad. Nevertheless after y I am risen agayne, I wil go before you in to Galile. But Peter sayde vnto him: And though all men shulde be offended, yet wolde not I be offended. And Jesus sayde vnto him: Verely I saye vnto y: Todaye in this same night, before y cock crowe two tymes, shalt thou denye me thryse. But he saide yet more: Yee though I shulde dye w y, yet wil I not denie y. So said they all in like maner.

And they came in to y felde called Gethsemane, and he saide vnto his disciples: Syt ye here, tyll I go yonder, and praye. And he toke with him Peter z James, z Iohn, and beganne to waxe fearefull, z to be in an agony, z sayde vnto the: My soule is heuy euen vnto y death: tary ye here and watch. And he wente forth a litle, fell vpon the grounde and prayed, that, (yfit were possyble) y^e hon remight passe fro him, and sayde: Abba, my father, all thinges are possyble vnto the, take this cuppe awaye from me: Neuertheles not what I wyl, but what thou wilt.

And he came vnto them, and founde the slepyng, and sayde vnto Peter: Symon, slepest thou? Couldst thou not watch with me one houre? Watch and praye, that ye fall not in to temptacion. The spere is wyllinge, but y^e flesh is weake. And he wote forth agayne, and prayde, and spake the same wordes, and returned, and founde them slepyng agayne: for their eyes were heuy, & they knewe not what they shulde answer him. And he came the thirde tyme, and sayde vnto them: Slepe on now, and take youre rest. It is ynough, the houre is come: beholde, y^e sonne of man shalbe deliuered in to the handes of synners: aryse, let vs be goyng. Beholde, he is at hande, that betrayeth me.

And immediatly whyle he yet spake, came Judas one of the twolue, and with him a greete multitude, with swerdes and staves from the hye prestes and scribes and elders. And the traytoure had geuen them a token, and sayde: Whom so ever I kysse, that same is he, laye handes vpon him, and lede him awaye waredy. And whā he was come, he wente straight waye vnto him, and sayde vnto him: O master, master, and kysed him. Then layed they their handes vpon him, & toke him. But one of the that stode by, drew out his swerde, and smote the hye prestes seruante, and cut of his eare.

And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto the: Ye are come forth as it were to a murther, with swerdes and with staves to take me. I was daylie with you in the temple, and taught, and ye toke me not. But this is done, hat the scripture maye be fulfilled. And all the disciples forsoke him, and fled. And there folowed him a yonge mā, which was clothed in linnen vpon the bare styne, and the yonge mā toke holde of him. But he let the linnen go, and fled naked from them.

And they led Jesus vnto the hye prest, where all y^e hye prestes, and elders and scribes were come together. As for Peter, he folowed him a farre of in to the hye prestes palace. And he was there, and sat with the seruantes, and warmed him.

But the hye prestes and the whole counsell sought wytnesse agaynst Jesus, y^e they might bringe him to death, and they founde none. Many gaue false wytnesse agaynst him, but their wytnesses agreed not together. And some stode vp, and gaue false wytnesses agaynst him, and sayde: We herde him saye: I wil breake downe this temple that is made with hōdes, and in thre dayes builde another not made wth handes. But their wytnesse agreed not together.

And the hye prest stode vp amonge them, and axed Jesus, and sayde: Answerest thou nothinge vnto it, that these testis agaynst the? But he helde his tynge, and answered nothinge. The hye prest axed him agayne, and sayde vnto him: Art thou Chyeste sonne of the blessed? Jesus sayde: I am. And ye shal se the sonne of man sitt at the right hande of power, and come in the cloudes of heauen. Then the hye prest rent his clothes, & sayde: What neede we enny mo wytnesses? Ye haue herde the blasphemy. What thinke ye? They all cōdemned him, that he was gilty of death. Then beganne there some to spyt vps him, and to cover his face, and to smyte him with fistes, and to saye vnto him prophetic vnto vs. And the seruantes smote him on the face.

And Peter was beneth in y^e palace. There came one of the wenches of the hye prest: And whā she sawe Peter warminge him, she looked vps hī, and sayde: And thou wast with Jesus of Nazareth also. But he denyed, & sayde: I knowe him not, neither can I tell what thou sayest. And he wente out in to the fore court, and the cock crew. And a damsell sawe him, and beganne agayne to saye vnto them that stode by: This is one of them. And he denyed it agayne. And after a litle whyle they y^e stode by, sayde agayne vnto him: O fa truthe thou art one of them for thou art a Galilean, and thy speech sheweth enen alike. But he began to curse and sweare: I knowe not the man, that ye speake of. And the cock crew agayne. Then thought Peter vpon the worde, that Jesus sayde vnto him: Before y^e cock crew twayne, thou shalt denye me thryse. And he beganne to wepe.

The XV. Chapter.

And soone in the mornyng the hye prestes helde a counsell wth the elders and scribes and the whole counsell, & bounde Jesus, and led him awaye, and deliuered him vnto Pylate. And Pylate axed him: Art thou the kynge of the Jewes? he answered, and sayde vnto him: Thou sayest it. And the hye prestes accused him sore. But Pylate axed him agayne, and sayde: Answerest thou nothinge? Beholde, how sore they laye to y^e charge. Neuertheles Jesus answered none, in so moch y^e Pylate marueyled.

At that feast of Easter he was wonte to deliuer vnto them a prisoner, whom so ever they wolde desire. There was i prisoner with the sedicious, one called Barrabas, which in the vponore had committed murther. And the people wente vp, and prayed him, that he wolde do, as he was wonte. Pylate answered them: wyl ye that I geue lowse vnto you the kynge of the Jewes? For he knew, that y^e hye prestes had deliuered him of enny. But the hye prestes moned y^e people, that he shulde rather geue Barrabas lowse vnto them.

Pylate answered agayne, and sayde vnto them: What wil yethe that I do vnto him, whom ye accuse to be kynge of the Jewes? They cried agayne: Crucifie hī. Pylate sayde vnto the: What euell hath he done? But they cried yet moch more: Crucifie him. So Pylate thought to satisfie the people, and gaue Barrabas lowse vnto them, and deliuered the Jesus, to be scourgd & crucified.

And the sondyers led him in to the comon hall, and called the whole multitude together, and clothed him with purple, and placed a crowne of thorne, and crowned him withall, and beganne to salute him: Hail kynge of the Jewes. And smote him vpon the heade with a rede, and spytte vps him, and full vps the kne, & worshipped him. And whā they had mocked him, they toke y^e purple of him, and put his clothes vpon him, & led him out, that they might crucifie him.

And they compelled one that passed by, called Symon of Cyren (which came from the felde, and was the father of Alexander and Rufus) to beare his crosse. And they brought him to the place Golgatha, which is by interpretation: a place of deed mens skulls. And they gaue him wyne myrted wth myre, to drynke, & he toke it not. And whā they had crucified him, they parted his garments, & cast lottes therfore, what euery one shulde take. And it was aboute y^e thirde houre, & they crucified him. And the tytle of his cause was wyrted ouer aboue him (namely:) The kynge of the Jewes. And they crucified him wth two murtherers, one at y^e right hande, and one at the left. Then was the scripture fulfilled, which sayeth: He was counted amonge the enell doers.

And they that wote by, reuyled him, and wagged their heades, and sayde: Sye vpon the, how goodly breakest thou downe y^e temple, & buildest it agayne in thre dayes? helpe y^e self now, & come downe fro the crosse.

The hye prestes also in likemane langhed him to scorne amonge the selues, with the scribes, & sayde: He hath helped other, himself can he not helpe. If he be Chyist and kynge of Israel, let him come downe now fro the crosse, & we maye se it, & beleue. And they y^e were crucified wth hī, cheked hī also.

And whā it was aboute the sirte houre, there was a darcknesse ouer the whole lōde, tyll aboute y^e nyent houre. And aboute y^e nyent houre Jesus cried loude, and sayde: Eli, Eli, lamma sabethani: which is interpreted: My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? And some that stode by, whā they herde y^e, they sayde: Beholde, he calleth Elias. Then rāne there one, & fylled a spōge wth vyneger, & sticke it vps a rede, & gaue hī to drynke, & sayde: Holde styll, let se, whether Elias wil come, and take him downe. But Jesus cried loude, and gaue vp the goost. And the vail of the tēple rent in twayne peces, from aboue tyll beneth.

The captayne that stode thereby ouer agaynst him, whā he sawe y^e he gaue vp the goost with sodā crye, he sayde: Verely this man was Gods sonne.

And there were women there also, which beheldethis a farre of, amonge whō was Mary Magdalene, & Mary of James y^e litle, & the mother of Iosef, & Salome, which had folowed him whā he was in Galile, and mynistred vnto hī: & many other y^e wote vps hī to Jerusalem. And at euen (for so moch as it was the daye of preparinge, which is the fore Sabbath) there came one Ioseph of Arimathea, a worshipfull Senatoure (which lorded also for the kynge dome of God) & wote in boldely vnto Pylate, & axed y^e body of Jesus. But Pylate marueyled y^e he was deed all ready, & called y^e captayne, & axed hī, whether he had lōge bene deed. And whā he had gotten knowlege of the captayne, he gaue Ioseph y^e body. And he bought a linnen cloth, & toke him downe, & wrapped hī in y^e linnen cloth, & layed him in a sepulcre, which was hewed out of a rocke, & rolled a stone before y^e bore of y^e sepulcre. But Mary Magdalene and Mary Iosef behelde, where he was layed.

The XVI. Chapter.

And whā the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, & Mary James, and Salome, bought spices, y^e they might come, & anoynte hī. And they came to the sepulcre vps a daye of y^e Sabbathes very early, whā y^e sonne arose, & sayde one to another: Who shal rolle vs y^e stone fro y^e bore of the sepulcre? And whā they looked, they sawe, that the stone was rolled awaye: for it was a very greate one. And they wente into the sepulchre, and on the right hande they sawe a yonge man syttinge, which had a longe whyte garmēt vpon him, and they were abashed. But he sayde vnto the: Be not ye afayed, ye seeke Iesus of Nazareth which was crucified: he is risen, he is not here. Beholde, I place, where they layed him. But go ye youre waye, and tell his disciples and Peter, that he wil go before you in to Galile, there shal ye see him: as he sayde vnto you. And they wente forth in all the haist, and fled from the sepulchre: for there was a tremblyng & feare come vpon them, nether sayde they eny thinge to eny man, for they were afayed.

But Iesus, whan he was risen vp early vpo the first daye of the Sabbathes, he appeared first vnto Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast out seven deuils. And she wote and tolde the that were with him, as they mourned and wept. And whan they herde that he lyued, and had appeared vnto her, they beleued it not. After warde as two of the were walkyng, he shewed himself vnder another figure, whan they were goyng vpon the felde. And they wente, and tolde the other: these they beleued not also.

At the last, as the eleuen sat at the table, he shewed him self vnto them, and rebuked their vnbeleue, and hardness of their hert, because they beleued not the which had sene him risen. And he sayde vnto them: Go ye youre waye in to all the worlde, and preach the gospell vnto all creatures. Who so beleueth and is baptysed, shal be saved: but who so beleueth not, shal be damned.

As for the tokens, which shal folowe the that beleue, these are they: In my name shal they cast out devyls: Speake with new tunges: Dryue awaye serpentes: And yf they drynke any dedly thinge, it shal not hurte them: They shal laye their handes vpo the sicke, and they shal recover.

And the LORDE, after that he had spoken vnto them, was taken vp in to heauen, and syttech at the right hande of God. And they wente out, and preached every where. And the LORDE wrought with them, and confirmed the worde with tokens folowynge.

The gospell of S. Luke.

The prologue of S. Luke.

For so moch as many have taken in hande, to set forth y wordes of the actes that are come to passe amonge vs, like as they belyue red the vnto vs, which from the begynnyng sawe them their selues, and were mynisters of the worde, I thought it good after that I had diligently searched out all from the begynnyng to wyte the same orderly vnto the (good Theophilus) that thou mightest knowe the certē of y wordes, wherof thou art informed.

The first Chapter.

In the tyme of Herode the kynge of Jewry, there was a prest named Zachary of the course of Abia: and his wife of the donghters of Aaron, & hir name Elizabeth. They were both righteous before God, and walked in all the commaundementes and statutes of the LORDE vnreproueably. And they had no childe, for Elizabeth was baren, and they were both well stricken in age.

And it came to passe as he executed the prestes office before God whan his course came (acordinge to the custome of the presthode) it fel to his lotte to burne incense. And he wente in to the temple of the LORDE, and the whole multitude of the people was without in prayer, whyle the incense was aburnyng. And the angell of the LOR

DE appeared vnto him, and stode on the right syde of the altare of incense. And whan Zachary sawe him, he was abashed, & there came a feare vpon him.

But the angell sayde vnto him: Feare not Zachary, for thy prayer is herde. And thy wife Elizabeth shal beare the a sonne, whose name thou shalt call Jhon, & thou shalt haue ioye and gladnesse: and many shal reioyce at his byrth, for he shal be greate before the LORDE. Wyne and stronge drynke shal he not drynke. And he shalbe fylled wth the holy goost, even in his mothers wombe. And many of the children of Israel shal bearne vnto the LORDE their God. And he shal go before him in the sperte and power of Elias, to turne the hertes of fathers vnto the children, and the vnfaithfull vnto the wysdome of the righteous, to make the people ready for the LORDE.

And Zachary sayde vnto the Angel: Wherby shal I knowe this? for I am olde, and my wife well stricken in age. The angell answered, and sayde vnto him: I am Gabriel that stonde before God, and am sent to speake vnto the, and to shewe the these glad tydings. And beholde, thou shalt be dome, and not able to speake, vntyll the daye that this come to passe, because thou hast not beleued my wordes, which shalbe fulfilled in their season.

And the people wayted for Zachary, and marueyled, that he taried so longe in the temple. And whā he wote out, he coude not speake vnto them. And they perceaued, that he had sene a vision in the temple. And he beckened vnto them, and remayned speechlesse.

And it fortunēd whā the tyme of his office was out, he wente home in to his house. And after those dayes Elizabeth his wife conceaued, and byd hir self fyue monethes, & sayde: Thus hath the LORDE done vnto me in these dayes, wherein he hath looked vpon me, to take awaye from me my rebuke amonge men.

And in the fyfte moneth was the angell Gabriel sent from God in to a cite of Galile, called Nazareth, vnto a virgin that was spoused vnto a man, whose name was Joseph, of the house of David, and the virgins name was Mary. And the angell came in vnto her, and sayde: Hail thou full of grace, the LORDE is with the: blessed art thou amonge women.

Whā she sawe him, she was abashed at his sayenge, and thought: What maner of salutation is this? And the angell sayde vnto her: Feare not Mary, for thou hast founde grace with God. Beholde, thou shalt conceiue in thy wombe, & beare a sonne: & shalt call his name Jesus: he shalbe greate, & shalbe called of sonne of the Highest. And the LORDE God shal geue him a seate of David his father, & he shal be kinge ouer a house of Jacob for euer: & there shalbe no ende of his kyngdome. Then sayde Mary vnto the angell: How shal this be, seeinge I knowe not a man? The angell answered, & sayde vnto her: The holy goost shal come vpon the, & the power of the Highest shal ouersadowe the. Therefore that holy also which shalbe borne (of the) shalbe called the sonne of God. And beholde, thy cosen Elizabeth she also hath conceaued a sonne in hir olde age, & this is the first borne of her, which is reported to be borne: for God is nothinge vnpowable. And Mary sayde: Beholde, here am I the handmaid of the LORDE: be it vnto me, as thou hast sayde. And the angell departed fro her.

And Mary arose in those dayes, and wente in to the mountaynes with haist, into a cite of Jewry, and came in to a house of Zachary, and saluted Elizabeth. And it fortunēd as Elizabeth herde the salutation of Mary, the babe sprang in hir wombe. And Elizabeth was fylled with the holy goost, & cried loude, and sayde: Blessed art thou amonge women, and blessed is the fruite of thy wombe. And how happeneth this to me, that I mother of my LORDE cometh vnto me? Beholde, whan I herde the voyce of thy salutation, the babe sprang in my wombe wth ioye. And blessed art thou that hast beleued, for all thynges shalbe performed, which were tolde of the LORDE. And Mary sayde: My soule magnifieth the LORDE.

And my sperte reioyseth in God my Sauoure. For he hath looked vpon the lowe degree of his hande mayde. Beholde, fro hence forth shal all generacions call me blessed.

For he that is mightie, hath done greates thynges vnto me, and holy is his name.

And his mercy endureth thorow ouer all generacions, vpon them that feare him.

He sheweth strength with his arme, and scattech them that are proude in the magnacion of their hert.

He putteth downe the mightie from the seate, and exalteth them of lowe degree.

He fylleth the hongrie with good thynges, and letteth the riche go emptye.

He remembreth mercy, and helpeth vpon his seruant Israel.

Euen as he promysed vnto oure fathers Abraham and to his sede for euer.

And Mary abode with her aboute the monethes, and then returned home agayne.

And Elizabethes tyme was come, that she shalbe deliuered, & she broughte forth a sonne. And hir neighbours and kynnsfolkes hade, & the LORDE had shewed greate mercy vpon her, & they reioysed with her. And it fortunēd vpon the eighthe daye, they came to circumcise the childe, and called him Zachary after his father: And his mother answered, and sayde: No, but he shalbe called Jhon. And they sayde vnto her: There is none in thy kynne, & is so called. And they made signes vnto his father, how he wolde haue him called. And he axed for wytyng tables, wrote & sayde: His name is Jhon. And they marueyled all. And immediatly was his mouth and his ege opened, and he spake, & prayesed God. And there came a feare vpon all their neighbours. And all this acte was noysed abrode thorow out all the hill countre of Jewry: And all they that herde therof, toke it to hert, and sayde: What maner of man wil this childe be? For the hande of the LORDE was with him.

And Zachary his father was fylled with the holy goost, and prophesied, and sayde:

Blessed be of the LORDE God of Israel, for he hath vnsited and redemed his people.

And hath set vp an home of saluacion in the house of his seruant David.

Euen as he promysed afore tyme, by the mouth of his holy prophetes.

That he wolde deliuer vs fro oure enemies, & from the hande of all such as hate vs.

And he wolde shewe mercy vnto oure fathers, & thynte vpon his holy couenant.

Euen the ooth that he sware vnto oure father Abraham, for to geue vs.

That we deliuered out of the hande of all enemies, mighte serue him without feare all the dayes of oure life, in such holynes and rightousnes as is accepte before him.

And thou childe shalt be called a prophet of the Highest: for thou shalt go before the LORDE, to prepare his wayes.

And to geue knowledge of saluacion vnto his people, for the remission of their synnes.

Thorow the tender mercy of oure God, wherby the daye spryng from an hye hath vnsited vs.

That he might geue light vnto them that sit in darcknesse and shadowe of deathe, and to gyde oure fete in to the waye of peace.

And the childe grew, and waxed stronge in sperte, and was in the wyldernes, tyll the tyme that he shulde shewe him self vnto the people of Israel.

It fortunēd at the same tyme, that there wote out a comendement fro Augustus the Emperoure, that the whole wolde shulde be taxed. And this taxynge was the first that was executed, whan Syrenius was lestenant in Siria. And they wente all, every one to his owne cite to be taxed. Then Joseph gat him vp also fro Galile, out of the cite of Nazareth, in to Jewry, to the cite of David, which is called Bethleem, (because he was of the house and lynage of David) that he might be taxed wth Mary his sponised wife, which was wth childe.

And it fortunēd whyle they were there, the tyme was come, that she shulde be deliuered. And she broughte forth hir first begotte sonne, & wrapped him in swadlinge clothes, and layed him in a maunger: for they had els no rowme in the tyme.

And there were in the same region shepherdes in the felde by the foldes, and watchinge their flocke by night. And beholde, an angell of the LORDE stode by the, and a bryghtnes of the LORDE shone rounde aboute them, and they were sore afrayed. And the angell sayde vnto them: Be not afrayed. Beholde, I brynge you tydiges of greate ioye, which shal happen vnto all people: for vnto you this daye is borne a Sauoure, euen Christ the LORDE, in the cite of David. And take this for a token: Ye shal fynde the babe swadled, and layed in a maunger. And straight waye there was by the angell a multitude of heauenly hostes, which prayesed God, and sayde: Glory be vnto God an hye, & peace vpon earth, and vnto men a good wyll.

And it fortunēd whā the angels were gone from the in to heauē, the shepherdes sayde one to another: let vs go now euen vnto Bethleem, and se this thinge that is happenēd, which the LORDE hath shewed vnto vs. And they came wth haist, & founde both Mary and Joseph, & the babe layed in a maunger. And whan they had sene it, they published abrode the sayenge, & was tolde the of this childe. And all they that herde it, wondered at the wordes, which the shepherdes hade tolde them. But Mary kepte all these sayenges, and pondred them in hir hert. And the shepherdes returned, prayyinge and laudinge God, for all that they had herde and sene, euen as it was tolde them.

And whan eight dayes were ended, that the childe shulde be circumcysed, his name was called Jesus, which was named of the angell, before he was conceaued in his mothers wombe.

D And whā the dayes of their purificacion after the lawe of Moyses, were come, they brought him to Jerusalem, that they might present him vnto the LORDE. As it is wrytten in the lawe of the LORDE: Every mā-childe that first openeth the Matrice, shalbe called holy vnto y^e LORDE, and that they might geue the offerynge, as it is wrytten in the lawe of the LORDE (namely) a payre of turtle doves, or two yonge pigeons.

And beholde, there was a man (at Jerusalem) whose name was Symeon, and the same mā was iust, and feared God, and lōged for the consolacion of Israel, and the holy goost was in him. And an answer was geue him of the holy goost, that he shulde not se death, before he had sene y^e LORDES Chust. And he came by inspiracion in to the temple.

E And whan the elders brought the childe Jesus in to the temple, to do for him after y^e custome of the lawe, then toke he him vp in his armes, and prayesd God, and sayde:

LORDE, now lettest thou thy seruante departe in peace, acordinge to thy promesse.

For myne eyes haue sene thy Samoure, whō thou hast prepared before all people.

And his father and mother marueyled at the thinges that were spokē of him. And Symeon blessed them, and sayde vnto Mary his meether: Beholde, this (childe) shalbe set to a fall, and to an vpryngge agayne of many in Israel, and for a token, which shalbe spokē agaynst. And the swerde shal pearce thy soule, that the thoughtes of many hertes maye be opened.

S And there was a prophetisse, one Anna, the daughter of Phanael of the trybe of Asser, which was of a greate age, and had lyued seven yeaeres with hir husbāde from hir virginitee, and had now bene a widowe aboute foure score and foure yeaeres, which came neuer fro the temple, seruyngge God wth fastyngge and prayenge, daye and night: the same came forth also the same houre, and prayesd the LORDE, and spake of him vnto all that looked for the redempcion at Jerusalem.

And whan they had persourmed all acordinge to the lawe of the LORDE, they returned i to Galile, to their owne cite Nazareth. And the childe grewe, and waxed stronge in spirete, full of wysdome, and the grace of God was with him.

And his elders wente to Jerusalem every yeaere at the feast of Easter. And whan he was twelue yeaere olde, they wente vp to Jerusalem, after the custome of the feast. And whan they had fulfilled the dayes, and were gone home agayne, the childe Jesus abode styll at Jerusalem. And his elders sought it not, but thought he had bene in the company, and they came a dayes iourney, and sought him amōge their kynnsfolkes and acquaintance. And whā they founde him not, they wrote agayne to Jerusalem, and sought him.

And it fortuned after thre dayes, y^e they founde him in the temple, syttinge amonge the teachers, hearyngge the, and opposyngge them. And all they that herde him, wonderd at his vnderstandyngge and answers. And whan they sawe him, they were astonysed. And his mother sayde vnto him: My sonne, why hast thou done this vnto vs? Beholde, thy father and I haue sought the sowynge. And he sayde vnto them: What is it, that ye haue sought me? Wist ye not, y^e I must go aboute my fathers busynes? And they vnderstode not the sayenge y^e he spake vnto them. And he wente downe with them, and came to Nazareth, and was obedynt to them. And his mother kepte all these wordes in hir hert. And Jesus increased in wysdome, age and fauoure with God and men.

The III. Chapter.

In the fiftene yeaere of the raigne of Tiberius the Emperoure, whā Pontius Pilate was lestenant in Ierusalem, and Herode one of the foure princes in Galile, and his brother Philippe one of the same prynces in Iudaea, and in the coastes of Tyconites, and Lysanias one of the foure prynces of Abilene, when Hannas and Caiphas were hye prestes, the came y^e wordes of God vnto Iohn the sonne of Zachary in the wyldernes. And he came in to all y^e coastes aboute Jordan, and preached the baptyisme of repentance for the remission of synnes. And is wrytten in y^e booke of y^e sayenges of Esaias the prophet, which sayeth: The voyce of a cryer in the wyldernes: prepare the way of the LORDE, and make his pathes straight. Every valley shalbe fylled, and every mouney and hyll shalbe brought lowe. And what is croked, shalbe made straighe: and what rough is, shalbe made smooth, and all flesh shal se the Sauoure of God.

Then sayde he vnto the people, y^e I went out to be baptyfed of him: Ye generation of vipers, who hath certified you, that y^e shal escape y^e wrath to come? Take hede, bring forth due frutes of repentance, and begynne to saye: We haue Abrahā to o^r father. For I saye vnto you: God is able of these stonnes raise vp children vnto Abraham. The are is put vnto the tre already: so that every tre which bringeth not forth good frute, shalbe hewen downe, and cast in to the fyre. And the people axed him, and sayde: What shal we do then? He answered, and sayde vnto the: Let that hath two coates, let him parte wth him y^e hath none: and he that hath meate, let him do likewise.

The publicans came also, to be baptyfed and sayde vnto him: Master, what shal we do? He sayde vnto them: Requie nomore, then is appoynted you. Then y^e souldyours axed him likewise, and sayde: What shal we do then? And he sayde vnto the: Do no man violence ner wronge, and be content with youre wages.

But whan the people were in a doute, and thought all in their hertes, whether he were Chust, Iohn answered, and sayde vnto the all: I baptyse you with water, but after me there cometh one stronger the I, whose shoulchet I am not worthy to lowse: he shal baptyse you with the holy goost and with fyre. Whose fanne is in his hande, and he shal poure his floore, and shal gather y^e wheate in to his barn, and shal burne the chaffe with vnquencheable fyre. And many other thynges more exorted he, and preached vnto the people.

But Herode the Tetrarcha (whā he was rebuted of him because of Herodias his brethers wife, and for all the euels that Herod had do) besydes all this he layed Iho in prison.

And it fortuned whan all the people receaued baptyisme, and whan Jesus also was baptyfed and prayed, that heauen opened, and the holy goost came downe in a bodely shappe like a dove vpon him. And out of heauen there came a voyce, which sayde: Thou art my deare sonne, in whō I delyte.

The fourth Chapter

Jesus full of the holy goost, came agayne from Jordane, and was led of J spiete into wyldernes, z fourty dayes lōge was he tēpted of J deuell. And in those dayes ate he nothinge. And whan they were ended, he hongred afterwarde. And the deuell sayde vnto him: If thou be J sonne of God, commaund this stone, J it be bried. And Jesus answered z sayde vnto hi: It is wyrtten: Man shal not lyue by bried onely, but by every woide of God. And J deuell toke him vp into an hye mountayne, and shewed him all the kyngdomes of J whole worlde in J twyncklinge of an eye, z sayde vnto him: All this power wil I geue vnto the, and the glory therof, for it is genē ouer vnto me, and I geue it, to whom I wil. If thou now wilt worshippe me, they shal all be thine. Jesus answered him, and sayde: Auoide fro me thou Satan. It is wyrtten: Thou shalt worshippe the LORDE thy God, and him onely shalt thou serue.

And he caried him to Jerusalem, and set him vpon a pynacle of the temple, and sayde vnto him: If thou be J sonne of God, cast thy self downe from hence. For it is wyrtten: He shal geue his angels charge ouer the, to kepe the, and with their handes they shal holde the vp, that thou dash not thy fore a gaynst a stone. And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto him: It is sayde: Thou shalt not tempte the LORDE thy God. And whan J deuell had ended all the temptacions, he departed from him for a season.

And Jesus came agayne in the power of the spiete into Galile. And the same of him was noysed thorow out all J region rounde aboute. And he taught in their synagoges, and was commended of every man.

And he came vnto Nazareth where he was nourished, and as his custome was, he wēt in to the synagoge vpon J Sabbath, and stode vp for to rede. Then was there deliuered vnto him the booke of J prophet Esay. And whan he had turned ouer the booke, he founde the place where it is wyrtten: The spiete of the LORDE is with me, because he hath anoynted me: to preach the Gospell vnto J poore hath he sent me: to heale the broken harted: to preach deliuerance to the captiue, and sight to the blynde: and frely to set at liberty them that are brused: and to preach the acceptable yere of the LORDE.

And whan he had closed the booke, began he to saye agayne to J mynister, z sat him downe. And the eyes of all that were in the synagoge, were fastened on him. And he began to saye vnto them: This daye is this scripture fulfilled in youre eares. And they all gaue him wytnesse, and wōdred at the gracious wordes, which proceeded out of his mouth, and they saide: Is not this Iosephs sonne?

And he sayde vnto them: Doubtes ye wil saye vnto me this prouerbe: Phisician, heale thyself. For how greates things haue we heard done at Capernaū? Do the same here also in thine owne countre. But he saide: Vnuly I saye vnto you: There is no prophet accepted in his owne countre. Neuertheles of a truthe I saye vnto you: There were many wedowes in Israel in J tyme of Elias, whā the heauē was shut thre yeaeres and sixe monethes, and whan there was a greates dēth in all the lande: z to none of the was Elias sent, but onely vnto Sarepta of the Sydonians to a wedowe. And many lepers were there in Israel in the tyme of Elisens J prophet, and none of the was clensed, save only Naaman of Syria.

And as many as were in the synagoge, whā they herde J , were fylled with wrath. And they rose vp, and thrust him out of the cite, and led him vp to the edge of the hyl wher vpo their cite was buylded, that they might cast him downe headlyng. But he wente his waye euen thorow the myddes of them, and came to Capernaum a cite of Galile, and taught the vpo the Sabbathes. And they wōdred at his doctryne, for his preachinge was with power.

And in the Synagoge there was a man possessed with a foule deuell, z he cryed lōde, and sayde: Let me alone, what haue we to do w the thou Jesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroye vs? I knowe J who thou art, euen the holy of God. And Jesus rebuted him and sayde: holde thy tūge, and departe out of him. And the deuell threw hi in the myddes amonge them, and departed from him, and dyd him no harme. And there came a feare ouer the all, and they spake amonge them selues, and sayde: What manner of thinge is this? He commaundeth the foule spietes with auctorite and power, and they departe out. And J same of him was noysed thorow out all the places of J countre rounde aboute.

And he rose vp out of the synagoge, and came in to Symons house. And Symons ther in lawe was takē with a greates fener, z they prayde him for her. And he wēt vnto her, z commaunded the fener. And it left her, z immediately she rose vp, z mynistred vnto the.

And whan the Sonne was gone downe all they that had sicke of dyuerse diseases, brought the vnto him. And he layed his handes vpon euery one of the, z made the whole. The deuells also departed out of many, crying and sayenge: Thou art Christ the sonne of God. And he rebuted the, z suffred them not to speake: for they knewe that he was Christ. But whā it was daye, he wēt out in to a deserte place. And the people sought hi, and came vnto him, z kepte him, J he shulde not departe fro the. But he sayde vnto the: I must preach the Gospell of J kyngdome of God to other cities also: for there to am I sent. And he preached in the synagoges of Galile.

The V. Chapter.

J came to passe, J the people pressed vpon him to heare the woide of God, and he stode by the lake of Genazareth, and sawe two shippes stode by J lake syde, but J fishers were gone out of the, and had washed their nettes. Then wente he in to one of the shippes, which was Symons, and prayed him, J he wolde thrust out a litle fro the londe. And he sat him downe, and taught the people out of J shippe.

And whan he had left of talkyng, he sayde vnto Symon: Launch out in to the depe z la sylppe y o nettes, to make a draught. And Symon answered and sayde vnto him: Master, we haue laboured all J night, and taken nothinge. But vpo thy woide, I wil lowse forth the nett. And whā they had so done, they toke a greates multitude of fishes, z their net brake. And they made sygnes to their felowes which were in J other shippe, J they shulde come, z helpe the. And they came, z fylled both the shippes full, so J they sonke. Whan Symon Peter sawe J , he fell downe at Jesus knees, z sayde: LORDE, go frome, for I am a synfull man: for he was astonnyed and all that were w him, at this draught of fishes which they toke, and so were James and Jhon also the sonnes of Zebede, which were Symons companyons. And Jesus sayde vnto Symō: Feare not, for fro hence forth thou shalt take men. And they brought the shippes to londe, and left all, and folowed him.

And it fortunēd as he was in a cite, beholde, there was a man full of leprosy. Whā he sawe Jesus, he fell vpo his face, z besought him, and sayde: LORDE, if thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane. And he stretched out his hāde, and tōuched him, and sayde: I wil, be thou cleane. And immediatly the leprosy departed from him. And he charged him, J he shulde tell no mā, but go thy waye (sayde he), and shewe thyself vnto J prest, and offere for J clensyng, as Moses commaunded, for a witnesse vnto the. But J same of hi wēt out farther abrode, z there came moch people together, to heare him, z to be healed by hi fro their sicknesses. And he departed in to the wyldernes, z gaue him self to prayer.

And it fortunēd vpo a daye, J he taught, and there sat J pharises and scribes, which were come out of all the towne of Galile, and Jewry, and fro Jerusalem, and the power of the LORDE wēt fro him, z healed every man. And beholde, certayne men broughe vpon a bed, a man J had J palsy, and they sought how they might bryng him in, and laye him before him. And whan they coude not fynde by what waye they might bryng him in (for J people) they clymmed vpo J toppe of the house, z let him downe thorow the tylinge w the bed, amonge the before Jesus. And whan he sawe their faith, he sayde vnto hi: Man, J synnes are forgiven J . And the scribes and pharises began to thynke, z saide: What is he this, J speaketh blasphemie. Who can forgive synnes, but onely God?

Neuertheles whā Jesus perceined their thoughtes, he answered, and saide vnto the: What thynke ye in y o hertes? Whether is easier to saye: Thy synnes are forgiven J , or to saye: Arise, and walke? But that ye maye knowe, that the sonne of mā hath power to forgive synnes vpon earth, he sayde vnto J sicke of the palsy: I saye vnto J : Arise, take vp J bed, and go home. And immediatly he rose vp before the, z toke vp the bed J he had lye vpo, and wēt home, and praysed God. And they were all astonnyed, and gaue God J prayse, and were fylled w feare, and sayde: We haue sene marvelous thinges to daye.

And afterwarde he wēt out, and sawe a publican named Levi, syttinge at J receate of custome, z he sayde vnto him: Folowe me. And he left all, rose vp, z folowed him. And Levi made hi a greates feasti his house. And many publicans z other sat w hi at J table. And the scribes and pharises murmured agaynst his disciples, z saide: Wherfore do ye eate z drynke w publicans z synners? And Jesus answered, z sayde vnto the: The nede not J phisician, but they J are sicke. I am not come to call J righteous, but synners to repentaūce.

But they sayde vnto him: Wherfore faste & disciples of Ihs so of, & praye so moch, & the disciples of the Pharises likewise, but & disciples eate and drynke? And he sayde vnto them: Can yemake the weddyng childre fast, so longe as the brydegrome is with the? But the tyme wil come that the brydegrome shalbe take fro the, then shal they fast.

And he sayde vnto them a symilitude: No man putteth a pece of new clothe in to an olde garment: for els he renteth the new, and the pece of the new agreeth not with the olde. And no man putteth new wyne in to olde vessels, for els & new wyne bursteth the vessels, and runneth out it self, and the vessels perishe. But new wyne must be put in to new vessels, and so are they both preserved. And there is no man that drynke the olde, and wolde straight waye haue the new, for he sayeth: the olde is pleasant.

The VI. Chapter.

And it fortuneth vpon an after pryncipall Sabbath, that he wente thorow the corne felde, & his disciples plucked the eares of corne, and ate, and rubbed the with their handes. But certayne of the Pharises sayde vnto them: Wherfore do ye that, which is not lawfull to do vpon the Sabbath? And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto the: Hane ye not red what Dauid dyd, whan he was hongrie, and they that were with him, how he wente in to the house of God, and toke the shewbread, and ate, and gaue also vnto them that were with him, which was lawfull for no man to eate, but for the priestes onely? And he sayde vnto them: The sonne of man is LORDE euen ouer the Sabbath.

It came to passe vpon another Sabbath, that he wete in to the synagoge, and taught and there was a man, whose right hande was wythred. But & scribes and Pharises marked him, whether he wolde heale vpon the Sabbath, that they might fynde an occasion agaynst him. Neuertheles he perceaued their thoughtes, and sayde vnto the man with the wythred hande: Arise, and steppe forth here. And he arose, and stepped forth. Then sayde Iesus vnto the: I wil are you a question: What is it lawfull to do vpon the Sabbath? good, or euell? to saue life, or to destroye it? And he behelde the all rounde aboute, and sayde vnto the man: Stretch out thine hande. And he dyd so. Then was his hande restored him to right, euen as whole as the other. But they were filled full of madnes, and commoned together, when they wolde do to him.

And it fortuneth at the same tyme, that he wente out in to a mountayne to praye, and continued all night in prayer to God. And whan it was daye, he called his disciples, and chose twelue of them, whom he called also apostles. Symon, whom he named Peter, and Andrew his brother, James and Iohn, Phylippe and Bartylmeu, Mathew and Thomas, James the sonne of Alphens, Symon called Zelotes, Judas the sonne of James, and Judas Iscariot, which was the traytoure.

And he wente downe with them, and stode vpon a playne in the felde, and the company of his disciples, and a greate multitude of people, from all Jewry, and Ierusalem, and from Tyre and Sydon by the see coast, which were come to heare him, and to be healed of their diseases, and they that were vexed with foule spertes, were healed. And all the people soughte to touch him, for there wente vertue fro him, and healed the all.

And he lift vp his eyes vpon his disciples, and sayde: Blessed are ye poore, for yours is the kyngdome of God. Blessed are ye that hunger here, for ye shalbe satisfied. Blessed are ye & wepe here, for ye shal laugh. Blessed are ye, whan men hate you, and put you out of their companyes, and reuyle you, and cast out youre name as an euell thinge, for the sonne of mans sake. Be ioyse ye then, and be glad: for beholde, youre rewarde is greate in heauen. Euen thus dyd their fathers vnto the prophetes also.

But vnto you riche, for ye hane your cosolacion allready. Wo vnto you that are full, for ye shal hunger. Wo vnto you that laugh here, for ye shal wepe and waille. Wo vnto you whan euery man prayseth you, Euen so dyd their fathers vnto the false prophetes also.

But I saye vnto you that heare: Love youre enemies: do good vnto them that hate you: blesse them that curse you: praye for them that wrongfully trouble you. And who so smyteth the one cheeke, offer him & other also. And who so taketh away thy cloake, forbyd him not & core also. Who so ever apertch of the, geue him: and who so taketh awaye thynne, are it not agayne? And as ye wolde that men shulde do vnto you, euen so do ye vnto them likewise.

And yf ye loue them that loue you, what thake haue ye therfore? For synners also loue their louers. And yf ye do good for your good doers, what thanke haue ye therfore? For synners also do euen the same. And yf ye lende vnto them, of whos ye hope to receaue what thake haue ye therfore? For synners also lende vnto synners, that they maye receaue as moch agayne. But rather loue ye your enemies, do good, and lende, loyng for nothinge therof agayne: so shal ye rewarde be greate, and ye shalbe the children of the hight, for he is kynde, euen to the vnthankfull and to the euell.

Be ye therfore mercifull, as youre father also is mercifull. Judge not, and ye shal not be iudged. Condepe not, and ye shal not be condemned. Forgeue, and ye shal be forgiven. Geue, and to you shalbe geue. A good measure, pressed downe, shaten together, & runyng ouer, shal me geue in to youre bosome. For with what measure ye meete, with the same shal it be measured to you agayne.

And he sayde a symilitude vnto the: Can the blynde shewe the waye to & blynde? Do they not both the fall in to the dyche? The disciple is not aboue his master. But whoso curis perfecte, yf same shalbe as his master. But why seist thou a moote in thy brothers eye, and considrest not the beame, that is in thine awne eye? Or how canst thou saye vnto thy brother: holde styll brother, I wil plucke & moate out of thyne eye, and thou thyself seist not yf beame in thine awne eye? Thou hypocrite, first cast the beame out of thine awne eye, and the shalt thou se clearly to pull the moote out of thy brothers eye.

For it is no good tre, & bryngeth forth euill frute: and no euell tre & bringeth forth good frute. Every tre is knowne by his frute. For me gather not sygges of thornes, ner grapes of busshes. A good man out of yf good treasure of his hert, bryngeth forth & which is good: and an euell man out of the euell treasure of his hert, bryngeth forth that which is euell. For of the abundaunce of the hert, the mouth speaketh.

But why call ye me LORDE LORDE, & do not that I saye vnto you? Who so ever cometh vnto me, and heareth my wordes and doth the, I wil shewe you to whom he is lyke. He is lyke vnto a man which buylded an house, and digged depe, and layed yf foundation vpon a rocke. Whan the waters came, the floudes bett vpon that house, and coude not moue it: for it was grounded vpon yf rocke. But he that heareth and doth not, is lyke vnto a man thet buylded his house vpon the earth without foundation, and the streames bett vpon it, and it fell immediatly, and greate was the fall of that house.

The VII. Chapter.

Whan he had ended his talkyng vnto the people, he wente in to Capernaum: and a captaynes seruante laye deed sicke, whom he loued. Whan he herde of Iesus, he sent the elders of the Jewes vnto him, and prayed him, that he wolde come, and make his seruante whole. But whan they came to Iesus, they besought him instantly, & sayde: He is worthy & thou shuldest shewe this for him, for he loueth oure people, & hath buylded vs yf synagoge. And Iesus wente w them.

Now whan they were not farre from yf house, yf captaine sent frendes vnto hi, sayinge vnto him: O LORD, trouble not thy self, I am not worthy, & thou shuldest enter vnder my rose, and therfore I thought not myself worthy to come to yf: but speake & worde, & my seruante shalbe whole. For I myself also am a man, subiecte to the hygher auctoryte, & haue souldiers vnder me. And I saye vnto one: Go, & he goeth. And to another: Come, & he cometh. And to my seruante: Do this, & he doeth it. Whan Iesus herde yf, he marueyled at hi, & turned him aboute, & sayde vnto yf people & folowed hi: I saye vnto you: So greate faith haue I not founde, nor in Israel. And whan they that were sent, came home agayne, they founde the seruante that was sicke, whole.

And it fortuneth afterwarde, that he wete in to a cite called Naim, and many of his disciples wente with him, and moch people. Whan he came nye to the gate of the cite, beholde, there was caried out one deed, which was the onely sonne of his mother, and she was a wyddowe, and moch people of the cite wente with her. And whan the LORDE sawe her, he had compassion on her, and sayde vnto her: Wepe not. And he came nye, and touched the Coffyn. And they that bare him, stode styll. And he sayde: Yonge man, I saye vnto the: Arise. And the deed sat vp, and beganne to speake. And he deliuered him vnto his mother. And there came a feare on them all, and they praysed God, and sayde: A greate prophet is risen among vs, and God hath visited his people. And this same of him was noysed in all Jewry, and in all yf regions that laye rounde aboute.

And the disciples of Ihs shewed him of all these thinges. And Iohn called vnto him two of his disciples, and sent the vnto Iesus sayenge: Art thou he that shal come, or shal we loke for another? Whan the men came to him, they sayde: Iohn y baptist hath sent vs vnto the, sayenge: Art thou he that shal come, or shal we loke for another?

C At the same houre healede he many from sicknesses & plagues, and fro euell spertes, and vnto many that were blynde, he gaue sight. And Iesus answered, & sayde vnto the: Go ye waye, shewe Iohn, what ye haue sene & herde. The blynde se, the halt go, the lepers are clensed, the deaf heare, the deede arysse, the Gospell is preached vnto y poore, and blessed is he, that is not offended at me.

Whan the messaungers of Ihs were departed, Iesus begane to speake vnto y people cōcernyng Ihs: What are ye gone out for to se in y wyldernesse? Wolde ye se a rebe, that is shakē w the wynde? Or what are ye gone out for to se? Wolde ye se a mā clothed in sofcrayment? Beholde, they that are gorgeously arrayed, & lyue delicately, are in kynges courtes. Or what are ye gone out for to se? Wolde ye se a prophet? Yee I saye vnto you: one that is more thā a prophet. This is he, of whom it is wyrtten: Beholde, I sende my messaunger before y face, which shal prepare thy waye before the. For I saye vnto you: Amonge the y are borne of women, there is no greater prophet thā Iohn the baptist. Nor with stondyng he that is lesse in the kyngdome of God, is greater then he.

And all the people that herde him, and y publicans, iustified God, and were baptysed with the baptyme of Iohn. But the pharises and scribes despyed y counsell of God against the selues, & were not baptised of hi.

D But the LORD said: Where vnto shal I liken the men of this generacion? And whom are they like? They are like vnto chyl dīz which syt in the market, and crye one to another, and saye: We haue pyped vnto you, and ye haue not daunsed: we haue mourned vnto you, & ye haue not wepte. For Iohn y baptist came, and ate no bried, and drāke no wyne, and ye saye: he hath y deuell. The sonne of man is come, eateth and drynke, & ye saye: This man is a glutton and a wyne beiber, a frende of publicans and synners. And wysdome is iustified of all hir children.

And one of the pharises desyred him, y he wolde eate with him. And he wente in to the pharises house, and sat him downe at y table. And beholde, there was in the cite a woman, which was a synner. Whē she knewe that Iesus sat at the table in the pharises house, she brought a bore with oymment, & stode behynde at his fete, and wepte, and be-ganne to water his fete with teares, and drye the w the hayres of his heade, and kysed his fete, & anoynted the with oymment.

But whan the pharise which had called him sawe that, he spake within himself, sayde: If this mā were a prophet, he wolde knowe who, & what manner of woman this is that toucheth him, for she is a synner. And Iesus answered, and saide vnto him: Symō, I haue somethat to saye vnto the. he sayde: Master saye on. A certayne lender had two detters, the one oughe fyue hundred pens, the other fiftie: but whan they had no thing to paye, he forgauethē both. Tell me which of them wyl loue him most? Symō answered, and sayde: he, (I suppose) to whō he forgauē most. Then sayde he vnto him: Thou hast iudged right.

And he turned him to the woman, and sayde vnto Symō: Seist thou this woman? I am come in to thine house, thou hast geue me no water vnto my fete, but she hath watered my fete with teares, and dryed the w the hayres of his heade: Thou hast geue me no kysse, but she (sens the tyme she came in) hath not ceased to kysse my fete: Thou hast not anoynted my heade w oyle, but she hath anoynted my heade with oymment. Therefore I saye vnto the: Many synnes are forgiven her, for she hath loued moch. But vnto whom lesse is forgiven, the same loueth the lesse.

And he sayde vnto her: Thy synnes are forgiven the. Then they that sat at the table with him, beganne to saye withyn them selues: What is he this, that forgiveth synnes also? But he sayde vnto the woman: Thy faith hath saved the, Go thy waye in peace.

The VIII. Chapter.

And it fortunēd afterwarde, that he wente thorow the cities and townes, and preached, and shewed y Gospell of the kyngdome of God, and the twelve with him. And certayne women also, whō he had healed fro euell spertes and infirmities: Namely, Mary which is called Magdalen, out of whom wente seven deuels, and Joanna y wife of Chnsa herodes stewarde, and Susanna, and many ocher, that mynistred vnto them of their substance.

Now whā moch people were gathered together, and haisted vnto him out of the cities, he spake by a synilitude: There wente out a sower to sow his sēde, & whyle he was sowyng, some fell v the waye syde, and was troddē vnder fote, and the foules of the ate it vp. And some fell on stone, and whan it was spronge vp, it wythied awaye; because it had no moystnesse. And some fell amonge thornes, and the thornes sprange vp with it, and choked it. And some fell vpo a good grounde, and sprange vp, and bare frute an hundred fold. Whā he sayde this he cryed: Who so hath eares to heare, let him heare.

D And his disciples axed him, and sayde: What synilitude is this? And he sayde: Vnto you it is geue, to knowe the mysteres of the kyngdome of God, but vnto the other in parables, y though they se it, they shulde not se it, and though they heare it, they shulde not vnderstonde.

This is the parable: The sēde is the worde of God: As for those that are by y waye syde, they are they that heare it, afterwarde cometh the deuell, and taketh awaye the worde out of their hertes, that they shulde not beleue, and be saued. But they on y sto ne, are such as whan they heare it, receaue the worde with ioye, and these haue no rote: they beleue for a whyle, and in the tyme of temptacion they fall awaye. As for it that fel amonge the thornes, are such as heare it, and go forth amonge the cares, riches and voluptuousnesses of this life, and are choked and brynge forth no frute. But that on the good grounde, are they that heare the worde, and kepe it in a pure good hert, and brynge forth frute in pacience.

C A man lighteth a candle, and couereth it with a vessell, or putteth it vnder a table, but setteth it vpon a candellsticke, that soch as go in maye se light. For there is no thinge hyd, that shal not be openly shewed: and there is no thinge secrete, that shal not be knowen, and come to light. Take hede therefore how ye heare. For who so hath, vnto him shalbe geue: but who so hath not, from him shalbe taken awaye, euē the same that he hath to haue.

C There wente vnto him his mother and his brethren, and coude not come at him for the people. And it was tolde him. Thy mother and thy brethren stonde without, and wke se the. But he answered, & sayde vnto the: My mother and my brethren are these, which heare the worde of God, and do it.

And it fortunēd vpon a certayne daye, y he wente into a shippe, and his disciples w him, & he sayde vnto the: Let vs passe ouer to the ocher syde of y lake. And they thrust off fro the lōde. And as they sayled, he slepte. And there came a storme of wynde vpon y lake, and the waves fell vpon the, and they stode in greate ioperdy. Then wete they vnto him, and waked him vp, & sayde: Master master, we perishe. Then he arose, and rebuked the wynde, and the repest of water, and they ceased, and it waxed calme. But he sayde vnto the: Where is youre faith? Neuertheles they were afrayed, and wōdied, and sayde one to another: What is he this? For he cōmaundeth the wyndes and the water, and they are obedient vnto him. And they sayled forth in to the countre of the Gadare nites, which is ouer agaynst Galile.

And whan he wente out to londe, there met him out of y cite a mā, which had a deuell longe tyme, & ware no clothes, & caried in no house, but in the graues. Neuertheles whā he sawe Iesus, he cried, and fell downe before him, and cried loude, & sayde: What haue I to do with the Iesus, thou sonne of the hyest God? I beseeke the, that thou wilt not toumēte me. For he cōmaunded the foule sperte, that he shulde departe out of the mā, for he had plagued hi a lōge season. And he was bounde with cheynes, and kepte w fethers, and he brake the bondes in sonder, and was caried of the deuell in to the wyldernesse.

And Iesus axed him, and sayde: What is thy name? he sayde: Legion. For there were many deuils entred in to him. And they besought him, that he wolde not cōmaund the to go in to the depe. But there was there a greate heerd of swyne stydyng vpon the mountayne, and they besought him, that he wolde geue them leue, to entre in to y same. And he gaue the leue. Then departed y deuils out of the mā, and entred into the swyne. And the heerd rushed headlynges with a storme in to the lake, and were drowned. But whā y herdmen sawe what had chaunced, they fled, and tolde it in the cite and in the villagies.

Then wente they out, for to se what was done, and came to Iesus, and founde the mā (out of whom the deuyls were departed) syttinge at Iesus fete, clothed, and in his right mynde, and they were afrayed. And they y had sene it, tolde the how the possessed was healed. And the whole multitude of y countre of the Gadarenites besought him, that he wolde departe from them, for there was a greate feare come vpon the. And he gat him in to y shippe, and turned agayne. And the man out of whō the deuils were departed, besought him, y he might be with him. But Iesus sent him awaye, and sayde: Go home agayne, and shewe how greates things God hath done for the. And he wente his waye, & preached thorow out all & cite, how greates things Jesus had done for hi.

And it fortuned whā Jesus came agayne, the people receaued him, for they wayted for him. And beholde, there came a man named Jairus (and he was a ruler of the synagoge) and fell at Jesus fete, & besought him, that he wolde come in to his house. For he had but one daughter (vpon a twolue yeare of age) and she laye at y^e poynt of death. And as he wente, the people thronged him.

S And a womā haryng the blondysse twolue yeares, (which had spent all hir substaunce vpon phisicians, and coude be healed of none) came behynde, & touched the hemme of his garmēt, and immediatly hir yssue of bloude was stanchēd.

And Jesus sayde: Who hath touchēd me? But whan they all denyed, Peter sayde, and they that were with him: Master, the people thronge the and thrust the, and thou sayest: Who hath touchēd me? Jesus saide: Some body hath touchēd me, for I fele, that there is vertue gone out fro me. But whan the woman sawe that she was not hyd, she came treblyng, and fell downe before him, and tolde him before all the people, for what cause she had touchēd him, & how she was healed immediatly. And he sayde vnto her: Daughter, be of good comforte, thy faith hath made the whole, go thy waye in peace.

Whyle he yet spake, there came one frō y^e ruler of y^e synagoges house, and sayde vnto him: Thy daughter is deed, disease not the master. Whan Jesus herde that, he answered him, and sayde: Feare not, beleue onely, and she shal be made whole. But whan he came in to the house, he suffred no man to go in, save Peter, and James and Jhō, and the father and mother of the mayden. They wepte all, and sorowed for her. But he sayde: Wepe not, for she is not deed, but slepeth. And they laughed hi to scorne, knowinge well that she was deed. But he thrust them all out, and toke her by the hande, and cryed, and sayde: Maydē aryse. And hir spiete came agayne, & she arose straight waye. And he commaunded to geue her meate. And hir elders were astonnyed. But he charged them, that they shulde tell no man, what was done.

The ix. Chapter.

And he called the twolue together, and gaue them power and auctorite ouer all deuils, and that they might heale diseases. And he sent the out to preach the kyngdome of God, and to heale y^e sick, and sayde vnto them: Ye shal take nothinge with you by the waye, nether staff, ne scryppe, ne bried, ne money: ne haue two coates. And into what house so ever ye entre, there abyde, tyll ye go thence. And who so ever receaue you not, departe out of the same cite, and shake of the dust from your fete, for a wytnesse ouer them. And they departed, and wente thorow the townes, preachinge y^e Gospell, & healinge euery wher.

Herode the Tetrarcha herde of all that was done by him. And he toke care, for so moch as it was sayde of some: Jhō is risen agayne from the deed: of some, Elias hath appeared: of some, One of the olde prophetes is risen agayne. And Herode sayde: Jhō haue I beheaded, who is this then, of whō I heare such thinges? And he desired to se him.

And the Apostles came agayne, and tolde him how greates things they had done. And he toke them to him, and wente asyde into a solitary place by the cite called Bethsaida. Whan the people knew of it, they followed him. And he receaued them, and spake vnto them of the kyngdome of God, and healed such as hade nede therof. But the daye beganne to go downe. Then came the twolue to him, and sayde vnto him: let the people departe frō the, that they maye go in to the townes rounde aboute, and in to y^e villagies, where they maye fynde lodgyng & meate, for we are here in y^e wyldernesse. But he sayde vnto them: Geue ye them to eate. They sayde: We haue nomore but fye loaves and two fyshes. Excepte we shalde go & bye meate for so moch people (for they were vpon a fyue thousand men) But he sayde vnto his disciples: Cause them to sit downe by fifties in a cōpany. And they dyd so, and made them all to sit downe. Then toke he the fyue loaves and two fyshes, and blest vp towarde heauē, and sayde grace ouer them, brake them, and gaue them to the disciples, to set the before the people. And they ate, and were all satisfied. And there was taken vp of that remayned to them, twelue baskettes full of broken meate.

And it fortuned whan he was alone, and at his prayer, and his disciples with him, he charged them, and sayde: Whom saye the people that I am? They answered, and sayde: They saye, thou art Jhon the baptist: Some, that thou art Elias: Some, that one of the olde prophetes is risen agayne. But sayde vnto them: Whom saye ye that I am? Then answered Peter and sayde: Thou art the Chust of God. And he charged them secretly, and commaunded them, that they shulde tell this vnto no mā, and sayde: For the sonne of man must suffre many thinges, and be cast out of the Elders and of y^e hye priestes, and scrybes, and be put to death, and rysē agayne the thirde daye.

Then sayde he vnto them all: If any mā wil folowe me, let hi denie himself, & take vp his crosse daylie, & folowe me. For who so ever wil saue his life, shal lose it. But who so loseth his life for my sake, shal saue it. For what anauntage hath a man, though he wanne the whole wolde, and loseth himself, or runneth in damage of himself? Who so is ashamed of me and of my sayenges, of him shal the sonne of mā also be ashamed, whan he cometh in his glory, and in the glory of his father, and of the holy angels. I saye vnto you of a treuth: there be some of them that stonde here, which shall not tast of death, tyll they se the kyngdome of God.

And it fortuned, that aboute an eight dayes after these wordes, he toke vnto him Peter, Jhon and James, and wente vp in to a mouēt for to praye. And as he prayed, the shappe of his countenance was chaunged of another fashyon, and his garment was whyte, and shyned: and beholde, two men talked with him, which were Moses and Elias, that appeared gloriously, and spake of his departyng, which he shulde fulfill at Jerusalem. As for Peter and them that were with him, they were full of slepe. But whan they awoke, they saw his glory, and the two men stondyng with him.

And it chaunced, whan they departed frō him, Peter sayde vnto Jesus: Master, here is good beyng for vs. Let vs make thre tabernacles: one for the, one for Moses, and one for Elias, and wylt not what he sayde. But whyle he thus spake, there came a cloude, and ouershadowed them. And they were afrayed, whan the cloude couered them. And out of the cloude there came a voyce, which sayde: This is my deare sonne, heare him. And whyle this voyce came to passe, they founde Jesus alone. And they kepte it close, and tolde no mā in those dayes eny of the thinges which they had sene.

And it chaunced on the nexte daye after, whan they came downe from the mount, moch people met him, and beholde, a man amonge the people cryed out, and sayde:

Master, I beseeke the, loke vpon my sonne, for he is my onely sonne: beholde, the spiete taketh him, and sodenly he crieth, and he teareth him, that he someth, and with payne departeth he from him, whan he hath rente him. And I besought thy disciples to cast him out, and they coulde not. Then answered Jesus, and sayde: Oh thou vnfaithfull and croked generacion, how longe shal I be with you, & suffre you? Brynge hither thy sonne. And whan he came to him, the deuill rente him and tare him. But Jesus rebuked the foule spiete, and healed the chylde, and deliuered him vnto his father agayne. And they were all amased at the mighty power of God.

And whyle they wondred euery one at all thinges which he dyd, he sayde vnto his disciples: Comprehende these sayenges in youre eares. For the sonne of man must be deliuered in to the hādes of men. But they wylt not what that worde meaned, and it was hyd from them, that they vnderstode it not. And they were afrayed to aske him of that worde. There came a thonghe also amonge them, which of them shulde be the greatest. But whā Jesus sawe the thoughtes of their herte, he toke a childe, & set him harde by him, and sayde vnto them: Who soeuer receaueth this childe in my name, receaueth me: and who so ever receaueth me, receaueth him that sent me. But who so is leest amonge you all, y^e same shal be greates.

Then answered Jhō, and sayde: Master, we sawe one dryue out deuils in thy name, and we forbade him, for he folowed the not with vs. And Jesus saide vnto him: For byd him not, for he that is not agaynst vs, is for vs.

And it fortuned whan the tyme was fulfilled that he shulde be receaued vp from hence, he turned his face to go straight to Jerusalem, and before him he sent messengers, which wente their waye, and came in to a towne of the Samaritans, to prepare lodgyng for him. And they wolde not receaue him, because he had turned his face to go to Jerusalem. But whan his disciples James and Jhon sawe that, they sayde: Lorde, wilt thou, that we commaunde, that fyre fall downe from heauen, and consume them, as Elias dyd? Then theles Jesus turned him aboute, and rebuked them, and sayde: A now ye not, what maner of spiete ye are of? The sonne of man is not come to destroye mens soules, but to saue them. And they wente in to another towne.

Mat. 2. c

And it fortuned as they went by the waye, one sayde vnto him: I wil folowe the, whyther so euer thou go. And Jesus sayde vnto him: The foxes haue holes, and the byrdes vnder the heauē haue nestes: but the sonne of man hath not wheron to laye his heade.

Mat. 8. c

And he sayde vnto another: Folowe me. He sayde: Syr, geue me leue first to go, and burye my father. But Jesus sayde vnto him:

And another sayde: Syr, I will folowe the, but geue me leue first, to go byd them farwele, which are at home in my house. Jesus sayde vnto him: Whoso putteth his hand to the plowe, and looketh backe, is not meete for the kyngdome of God.

Afterwarde the LORDE appoynted out other seuentie, and sent them two and two before him in to euery cite and place, whither he himself wolde come, and sayde vnto them: The harvest is greete, but the labourers are fewe. Praye therfore the LORDE of the harvest, to sende forth labourers in to his harvest. So youre waye: be holde, I sende you forth as the lābes amonge 3 wolues. Bearer nether wallet, ner scrip, ner shues, and salute no mā by the waye. In to what so euer house ye entre, first saye: Peace be in this house. And yf the childe of peace be there, youre peace shal rest vpon him. Yf no, then shal youre peace turne to you agayne. But tary ye still in the same house, eatinge and drynkinge such as they haue. For the labourer is worthy of his rewarde.

ad. 18. a

Go not from house to house. And in to what so euer cite ye entre, and they receaue you, eate such thinges as are set before you. And heale the sicke that are there, and saye vnto them: The kyngdome of God is come nye vnto you. But in to what so euer cite ye come, and they receaue you not, go youre waye out in to the stretes of the same, and saye: Euen the very dust which cleaueth vpon vs of youre cite, wype we of vpon you. But of this ye shal be sure, that the kyngdome of God was come nye vnto you. I saye vnto you: It shalbe easier for Sodome in that daye, then for that cite.

Mat. 23. b

Wo vnto the Chorazin, wo vnto the Bethsaida: for yf the miracles which haue bene done amonge you had bene done at Tyre and Sidon, they had done penance longe agoo, sittinge in sack cloth and in ashes. Neuertheles it shalbe easier for Tyre and Sidon at the iudgment, then for you. And thou Capernaum which art exalted vnto the heauen, shalt be thrust downe vnto hell. He that heareth you, heareth me: and he that despyseth you, despyseth me: but who so despyseth me, despyseth him I sent me.

The seyntye came agayne with ioye, and sayde: LORDE, the deuels also are subdued vnto vs in thy name. But he sayde vnto them: I sawe Sathan fall downe from heauen as a lightenyng. Beholde, I haue geuen you power to treade vpon serpentes and scorpions, and ouer all power of the enemye, and nothinge shall hurt you. Neuertheles, reioyce not ye in this, that the spites are subdued vnto you: but reioyse, that your names are wrytten in heauen.

At the same houre reioysed Jesus in spyte, and sayde: I prayse the (O father and LORDE of heauen and earth) that thou hast byd these thinges from the wyse and prudent, and hast opened them vnto babes. Euen so father, for so it pleased the. All thinges are geuen ouer vnto me of my father: and no man knoweth who the sonne is, but onely the father: necher who the father is, save onely the sonne, and he to whome the sonne wil open it.

And he turned him vnto his disciples, and sayde in especiall: Blessed are the eyes, which se that ye se. For I saye vnto you: Many prophetes and kynges, wolde haue sene the thynges that ye se, and haue not sene them: and to haue herd the thynges that ye heare, and haue not herd them.

And beholde, there stode vp a scribe, and tempted him, and sayde: Master, what must I do, to inheret euerlastinge life? He sayde vnto him: What is wrytten in the lawe? How readeest thou? He answered and sayde: Thou shalt loue thy LORDE God with all thy hert, with all thy soule, with all thy strength, and with all thy mynde, and thy neighbour as thy self. He sayde vnto him: Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt lye. But he wolde haue iustified himself, and sayde vnto Jesus: Who is then my neighbour?

Then answered Jesus, and sayde: A certayne man wente downe from Jerusalem vnto Jericho, and fell amonge thornes, which stryped him out of his clothes, and wounded him, and wente, their waye, and left him half deed. And by chaunce there came downe a priest the same waye: and whan he sawe him, he passed by. And likewise a Levite, whā he came nye vnto the same place and sawe him, he passed by. But a Samaritane was goynge his iourney, and came that waye, and whan he sawe him, he had compassion vpon him, wente vnto him, bounde vp his woundes, and poured oyle and wyne therin, and lifte him vp vpon his beast, and brought him in to the ynne, and made prouysion for him. Vpon the next daye whan he departed, he toke out two pennes, and gaue them to the oost, and sayde vnto him: Take cure of him, and what so much thou spendest more, I wil paye it the, whan I come agayne. Which of these thre now thinkest thou, was neighbour vnto him, that fell amonge the murtherers? He sayde: He that shewed mercy vpon him. Then sayde Jesus vnto him: Go thy waye then, and do thou likewise.

It fortuned as they were, that he entred in to a towne, where there was a woman named Martha, which receaued him in to hir house. And she had a sister, called Mary, which sat hir downe at Jesus fete, and bakened vnto his worde. But Martha made hir self moche to do, for to serue him. And she strepe vnto him, and sayde: LORDE, carest thou not, that my sister letteth me serue alone: Byd her therfore, that she helpe me. But Jesus answered, and sayde vnto her: Martha Martha, thou takest thought, and combest thy self aboute many thinges: there is but one thinge needfull. Mary hath chosyn a good parte, which shal not be taken awaye from her.

The XI. Chapter.

It fortuned that he was in a place, and prayed. And whan he had ceased, one of his disciples sayde vnto him: LORDE, teach vs to praye, as I thou also taught his disciples. He sayde vnto the: Whan ye praye, saye: O our father which art in heauen, halowed be thy name. Thy kyngdome come. Thy wil be fulfilled vpon earth, as it is in heauen. Geue vs this daye oure daylie bred. And forgue vs oure synnes, for we also forgue all them that are betters vnto vs. And lede vs not in to temptation, but deliuer vs from euell.

And he sayde vnto them: Which of you is it that hath a frende, and shulde go to him at mydinght, and saye vnto him: frende, lende me thre loanes, for a frende of myne is come to me out of the waye, and I haue nothinge to set before him: and he within shulde answere and saye: Disquyte me not, the doore is shutt already, and my childien are with me in the chamber, I can not ryse, and geue the. I saye vnto you: and though he wolde not aryse and geue him, because he is his frende, yet because of his vnshamefast begginge he wolde aryse, and geue him as many as he neded.

And I saye vnto you also: Aye, and it shal be geuen you: Seke, and ye shal fynde: knocke, and it shalbe opened vnto you. For whoso euer willeth, receaueth: and he that seeketh, fyndeth: and to him that knocketh, shal it be opened. If the sonne are bled of eny of you that is a father, wyl he geue him a stone therfore? Or yf he are a fysh, wyl he geue him a serpent? Or yf he are an egg, wyl he profer him a scorpion? If ye then which are euell, can geue youre childien good giftes, how much more shal the father of heauen geue the holy spire vnto them that are him?

And he drewe out a deuell that was domine: and it came to passe whan the deuell was departed out, the domine spake, and the people wondered. But some of them sayde: He dryueth out the deuels, thorow Beelzebub the chiefe of the deuels. The other tempted him, and desyred a token of him from heauen. But he knewe their thoughtes, and sayde vnto them: Euery kyngdome denyded within it self, shal be desolate, and one house shal fall vpo another. If Sathan then be at variance within himself, how shal his kyngdome endure? Because ye saye, that I dryue out deuels thorow Beelzebub.

And yf I dryue out deuels thorow Beelzebub, by whom the do youre childien dryue them out? Therfore shall they be youre iudges. But yf I cast out the deuels by the synge of God, then is the kyngdome of God come vnto you.

Whan a stronge harnessed man kepeth his house, that he possesseth is in peace: but whan a stronger then he cometh vpo him, and ouercommeth him, he taketh fro him all his wapens, wherin he trusted, and denydeth the spoyle. He that is not with me, is agaynst me: and he that ga-thereth not with me, scattereth abroad.

Whan the vnclean spire is gone out of a man, he walketh thorow drye places, sepyng rest, and fynderth none. Then sayeth he: I wil turne agayne in to my house, from whence I wente out. And whan he commeth, he fyndeth it swepte, and garnished.
Then goeth he, and taketh vnto him seven other spires, worse the himself. And whan they are entred in, they dwell there. And the ende of that man is worse then the begyn-nyng.

And it fortuneth whan he spake soch, a cer-tayne woman amonge the people lift vp hir voyce, and sayde vnto him: Blessed is y wombe that bare the, and the pappes that thou hast sucked. But he sayde: Yee blessed are they that heare the worde of God, and keepe it.

Whan the people were gathered thicke together, he beganne to saye: This is an euell generacion, they desyre a tokē, and there shal no token be geuen them, but the tokē of the prophet Jonas. For like as Jonas was a tokē vnto the Ninuities, so shal the sonne of man be vnto this generacion. The quene of the south shal aryse at the iudgment with the men of this generacion, and shall condempne them: for she came from the ende of the worlde, to heare the wysdome of Salomon. And beholde, here is one more then Salomon. The men of Nin-ue shal aryse at the iudgment with this ge-neracion, and shall condempne them: for they dyd penance after the preachinge of Jonas: and beholde, here is one more the Jonas.

A man lighteth a candell, and putteth
it in a preuy place, nether vnder a bushell,
but vpon a candilstick, that they which come in, maye see y light. The eye is the light of the body. If thine eye then be synge, all thy body shal be full of light: but yf thine eye be wicked, then shal all thy body be full of darcknesse. Take heede therefore, that the light which is in the, be not darcknesse. Yf thy body now be light, so that it haue no parte of darcknesse, then shal it be all full of light, and shall light the enen as a cleare lightenynge.

But whyle he yet spake, a certayne pha-rise prayed him, that he wolde dyne with him. And he wente in, and sat him downe at the table. Whan the Pharise sawe that, he marueyled, that he was shed not first before dyner. But the LORDE sayde vnto him: Now do ye Pharises make cleane the out syde of the cuppe and platter, but your inwarde partes are full of robbery and wickednesse. Ye fooles, is a thinge made cleane within, because the outsyde is densed: Nevertheless geue almesse of that ye haue, and beholde, all is cleane vnto you.

But wo vnto you Pharises, ye thatty-
the mynt and rewe, and all maner herbes,
and passe ouer iudgment and y love of God.
These ought to haue bene done, and not to leave the other vndone.

Wo vnto you Pharises, for ye loue to sit vppermost in the synagoges, and to be saluted in the market.

Wo vnto you scribes and pharisees, ye ypocrites, for ye are like covered sepulchres, where ouer men walke, and are not aware of them.

Then answered one of the scribes, and sayde vnto him: Master, with these wordes thou puttest vs to rebuke also. But he saide And wo vnto you also ye scribes, for ye laden men with vtollerable burchens, and ye yourselues touch them not with one of y fyngers.

Wo vnto you, for ye buyde the sepulchres of the prophetes, but youre fathers put them to death. Doubles ye beare wytnesse, and consente vnto the dedes of y fathers:
for they slewe them, and ye buyde their se-pulchres.

Therefore sayde the wysdome of God: I wil sende prophetes and Apostles vnto the:
and some of them shal they put to death
and persecute, that the bloude of all the prophetes which hath bene shed sens the foundacion of the worlde was layed, maye be requyred of this generacion: from the bloude of Abel, vnto y bloude of Zachary, which perished betwene the altare and y temple.
Yee I saye vnto you: it shalbe requyred of this generacion.

Wo vnto you scribes, for ye haue recei-ued y keye of knowlege. Ye are not come in yourselues, and haue sowyn den them thy wolde haue bene in.

Whan he spake thus vnto them, the scribes and pharisees beganne to put soie vpon him, and to stoppe his mouth with many questions, and layed wayte for him, and sought to hunte out some thinge out of his mouth, that they might accuse him.

The XII. Chapter.

Here were gathered together an innumerable multitude of people, in so much that they trode one another:
Then beganne he, and sayde first vnto his disciples: Bewarre of the leuen of the pharises, which is ypocryse. But there is no-thinge hyd, that shal not be discovered: nether secrete, that shal not be knowne. Therfore what soener ye haue spokē in darcknesse, that same shal be herde in light: and that ye haue spoken in to the eare in the chābers, shalbe preached vpon the house toppes.

But I saye vnto you my frendes: Be not afraid of them that kyll the body, and after that haue nomore that they can do.
But I wil shewe you, whom ye shal feare.
Feare him, which after he hath kylled, hath power also to cast in to hell: Yee I saye vnto you: Feare him. Are not syue sparowes bought for two farthinges? Yet is not one of them forgotten before God. The very hayres of youre heade also are nombred eue-ry one. Feare not therefore, for ye are better then many sparowes.

I saye vnto you: Who so euer knowle-geth me before men, him shal the some of my father knowlege before the angels of God:
But he that denyeth me before men, shal be denyed before the angels of God. And who so euer speaketh a worde agaynst the sonne of man, it shalbe forgiven him: But who so blasphemeth the holy goost, it shal
not be forgiven him.

Whan they brynge you in to their syna-goges, and to the rulers & officers, take ye no thought, how or what ye shal answer,
or what ye shal speake: for the holy goost shal teach you in the same houre, what ye ought to saye.

But one of the people sayde vnto him:
Master, byd my brother denyde the enheritaunce with me. Nevertheless he sayde vnto him: Man, who hath set me to be a iudge or heretage parter ouer you? And he sayde vnto them: Take heede, and bewarre of couetousnesse, for noman lyueth therof, that he hath abundaunce of goodes. And he toldethem a symilitude, and sayde: There was aniche man, whose felde had brought forth frutes plenteously, and he thought in himself, and sayde: What shal I do? I haue no-thinge wher in to gather my frutes. And he sayde: This wil I do, I wil breake downe
my barnes, & buyde greater, and therein wil
I gather all myne increace, & my goodes.
I wil saye vnto my soule: Soule, thou hast much goodes layed vp in store for many yeares, take now thine ease, eat, drinke, and be mery. But God sayde vnto him: Thou foole, this night shal they requyre thy soule

from the, and whose shal it be that thou hast prepared? Thus goeth it with him y gathereth treasure for himself, and is not riche in God.

But he sayde vnto his disciples: Therfore I saye vnto you: Take ye no thought for yours life, what ye shal eat: neither for your body, what ye shal put on. The life is more then meate, and the body more then ray-ment. Consydre the rauen, they nether sowe ner reape, they haue also nether storehouse ner barn, and yet God feedeth them. But how much better are ye then the foules?

Which of you (though he take thought therfore) coulde put one cubyte vnto his stature? Seinge then ye be not able to do that which is least, why take ye thought for the other? Considre the lilies vpon the felde, how they growe: they labour not, they spyne
not. But I saye vnto you: that enen Salo-men in all his royaltie was not clothed like one of these. Wherefore yf God so cloth the grasse, y is to daye in y felde, and to morrow
shal be cast into the fornace, how much more shal he clothe you, o ye of litle faith? Are not ye therfore what ye shal eat, or what ye shal drynke, and clymme not vpon an hye:
The heichen in the worlde seke after all soch thinges. But seke ye the kyngdome of God, and all these shal be mynistred vnto you.

Feare not thou litle flocke, for it is youre fathers pleasure to geue you the kyngdome.
Sell that ye haue, and geue almesse. Make you bagges, which waxe not olde: euen a treasure that neuer fayleth in heauen, where no thefe cometh, and no moche corrupteth: for where youre treasure is, there wil
yours here be also.

Let youre loynes be girded aboute, and
yours lightes burnynge, and be ye like vnto men that wayte for their lord, agaynst he returne from the mariage, that whan he cometh & knocketh, they maye straight waye
open vnto him. Blessed are those seruants, whom the LORDE (whan he cometh)
shal fynde watynge. Verely I saye vnto you: He shal gyde vp him self, and make himsyf downe at the table, and shal go by them, and mynistre vnto them. And yf he come in the seconde watch, and in the thirde watch, and fynde them so, blessed are those seruantes. But be sure of this, that yf the good man of the house knewe, what houre
the thefe wolde come, he wolde surely watch, and not suffre his house to be broken vp. Therefore be ye ready also, for at an houre whan ye thynke not, shal the sonne of man come.

But Peter sayde vnto him: LORDE, tellst thou this similitude vnto vs, or to all men also? The LORDE sayde: How greates a thinge is a faithfull and wyse steward, whom his lord setteth ouer his housholde, to geue the their dewtye in due season? Blessed is that seruant, whom his lord (whan he cometh) shal fynde so doynge. Verely I saye vnto you: he shal set him ouer all his goodes. But yf the same seruant shal saye in his hert: Tush, it wil be longe or my lord come, and shal begynne to synne yf seruantes and maydens, yee z to eate and drynke, z to be dronke: the same seruantes lord shal come in a daye whan he loketh not for him, and in an houre that he is not aware of, z shal hew him in peces, and geue him his reward with the vnbeleuers.

The seruant that knewe his lordes wil and prepared not himself, nether dyd accordinge to his will, shal be beaten with many strypes: But he that knewe it not, and yet dyd thinges worthy of strypes, shal be beaten with few strypes. For loke vnto whom moch is geuen, of him shal moch be sought: and loke to whom moch is comytted, of him shal moch be requyred.

I am come to kyndle fyre vpo earth, and what wolde I rather, the that it were kyndled already. For with stōdunge I must first be baptised with a baptyme, and how am I payned tyll it be ended? Thynke ye, that I am come to brynge peace vpon earth? I tell you nay, but rather debate. For from hence forth there shal be at varyaunce in one house: thre agaynst two, and two agaynst thre. The father shal be deuyded agaynst the sonne, and the sonne agaynst the father: the mother agaynst the daughter, z the daughter agaynst the mother: the mother in lawe agaynst hir daughter in lawe, and yf daughter in lawe agaynst hir mother in lawe.

And he sayde vnto the people: Whan ye se a cloude rysse out of y west, straight waye ye saye: there cometh a shower, and so it is: and whan ye se the southwynde blowe, ye saye: It wil be hote, and it cometh so to passe. O ye hypocrytes, ye can discerne the fashion of the skye and of the earth: Why can ye not discerne this tyme also? Yee and why sayde ye not of youre selues, what is right?

Whyle thou goest with thine aduersary vnto the Prynce, geue diligēce by the waye, that thou mayest be quyte of him, lest he brynge the before the iudge, and the iudge deliuer the to the iaylar, and the iaylar cast the in to prison. I tell the, thou shalt not come out thence, tyll thou paye the vtmost myte.

The XIII. Chapter.

There were present at the same season z certayne, that shewed him of Galileans, whose bloude Pilate had mingled with their awne sacrifice. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Suppos ye, that these Galileans were greater synners then all the other Galileans, because they suffred such punishment? I tell you naye, but excepte ye amēde youre selues, ye shal all perishe likewise. Or thinke ye that yf eighte ne (vpon whom the tower in Siloe fell and felle them) were gultie aboue all men that dwell at Jerusalem? I tell you naye: but excepte ye amēde youre selues, ye shal all perishe likewise.

And he tolde them this similitude: A certayne mā had a fygge tre, which was planted in his vyngarde, z he came and sought frute thereon, and founde none. Then sayde he vnto the vyngardener: Beholde, this thre yere longe haue I come every yere, and sought frute vpon this fygge tre, and fynde none: cut it downe, why hyndreth it the grounde? But he answered, and sayde: Syr, let it alone yet this yere, tyll I digge rounde aboute it and donge it, yf it wil brynge forth frute: Yf no, then cut it downe afterwarde.

And he taught in a synagoge vpon the Sabbath: and beholde, there was a woman, which had a sperte of infirmyte eighthe yere, and was croked, and coulde not well loke vp. Whan Iesus sawe her, he called her to him, and sayde vnto her: Woman, be delyuered from thy dis ease. And he layed his handes vpo her, and immediatly she was made straight, and praysed God. Then answered the ruler of the synagoge, and toke indignacion (because Iesus healed vpo y Sabbath) and sayde vnto the people: There are six dayes, wherein men ought to worke, in them come and be healed, and not on the Sabbath.

Then the LORDE answered him, and sayde: Thou hypocrite, doth not every one of you loose his oxe or asse frō the crybbe vpo Sabbath, and leade him to the water? And shalbe not this (which is Abrahames daughter) whom Sathan hath bounde nēte yere, be loosed from this bond?

the Sabbath? And whan he thus sayde, all his aduersaries were ashamed. And all the people reioysed ouer all the excellent dedes, that were done by him.

And he sayde: What is the kyngdome of God like? Or wher vnto shal I compare it? It is like a greyne of mustarde sēde, which a man toke, and cast in his garden: and it growe, and waxed a greates tre, and the foules of the ayre dwelt amonge the braunches of it.

And agayne he sayde: Where vnto shal I liken the kyngdome of God? It is like vnto leuen, which a woman toke, and myxt it amonge thre peces of meele, tyll it was all leuened. And he wrote thorow cities and townes, and taught, and toke his iourney towarde Jerusalem.

And one sayde vnto him: LORDE, are there few (thinkest thou) that shalbe saved? But he sayde vnto them: Strive ye to entre in at the strait gate, for many (I saye vnto you) shal seke to come in, and shal not be able. From that tyme forth, whan the good man of the house is rysen vp, and hath shut the dore, then shal ye begynne to stonde without, and to knocke at y dore, and saye: LORDE LORDE, open vnto vs. And he shal answer, and saye vnto you: I knowe you not whence ye are.

Then shal ye begynne to saye: We haue eaten and dronken before the, and thou hast taught vs vpon y stretes. And he shal saye: I tell you, I knowe you not whence ye are. Departe fro me all ye workers of iniquyte. There shalbe wepyng and gnashinge of teth, when ye shal se Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob and all the prophetes in y kyngdome of God, and youre selues thrust out. And whā they shal come from the east and from the west, from the north and from the south, which shal sit at y table in the kyngdome of God. And beholde, there are last, which shal be first: and there are first, which shal be last.

Upon the same daye there came certayne of y pharises, and sayde vnto him: Get the out of the waye, and departe hence, for herode wyl kyll the. And he sayde vnto the: Go ye and tell that fore: beholde, I cast out devils, and heale the people todaye and to morrow, and vpo the thirde daye shal I make an ende: for it can not be, that a prophet perishe without Jerusalem.

O Jerusalem Jerusalem, thou that kyllest the prophetes, and stonest the that are sent vnto y, how oft wolde I haue gathered thy children together, even as the henne gathereth hir nest vnder hir wynges, and ye wolde not: Beholde, y habitacon shal be lese vnto you desolate. For I saye vnto you: ye shal not se me, tyll y tyme come that ye shal saye: blessed be he, y cometh in y name of the LORDE. The XIII. Chapter.

Was it fortunēd that he came in to the house of one of y chiefe pharises vpo a Sabbath, to eate bried, z they watched him. And beholde, there was a mā before him, which had y dropsye. And Iesus answered, z spake vnto the scribes and pharises, z sayde: Is it lawfull to heale on the Sabbath? But they helde their tonge. And he toke him, and healed him, z let him go, and answered, and sayde vnto the: Which of you shal haue an oxe or an asse fallen in to a pyt, and wil not straight waye pull him out on the Sabbath daye? And they coude not answer him agayne to that.

And he tolde a similitude vnto y gestes, whā he marked how they chose the hyest seates, z sayde vnto the: Whan thou art byddē of eny man to a weddinge, syt not downe in the hyest rowe, lest a more honorable man the thou be byddē of him, and he that bade both the and him, come z saye vnto y: geue this mā rowme, and thou the begynne with shame to take y lowest rowme. But rather whā thou art byddē, go and syt in y lowest rowme, that whā he that bade the, cometh, he maye saye vnto the: Frende, syt vp hyer: Then shalt thou haue worshipec in the presence of them that syt at the table. For who so ener exalteth himself, shalbe brought lowe: and he y humbleth himself, shalbe exalted.

He sayde also vnto him that had bydden him: Whā thou makest a dyner or a supper, call not thy frendes, ner thy brethren, ner thy kynsfolkes, ner y riche neighbours, lest they call the agayne, and recompēce be made y. But whā thou makest a feast, call the poore, the crepell, the lame, the blynde, then art thou blessed, for they can not recompēce y. But it shalbe recompensed the in the resurrection of the righteous.

Whan one of them that sat by at the table herde this, he sayde vnto him: Blessed is he, that eateth bried in y kyngdome of God. But he sayde vnto him: A certayne mā made a greatesupper, and called many ther to. And in y houre of the supper he sent his seruante, to saye vnto the y were byddē: Come, for now are all thinges ready. And they beganne all together to excuse the selues one after another. The first saide vnto hi: I haue bought a ferme, and I must nedes go forth and se it, I praye yf haue me excused. And yf seconde sayde: I haue bought fyue yoke of oxen, and now I go to proue them, I praye the haue me excused. And the thirde sayde: I haue married a wife, therfore can I not come. And the seruaunt came, and brought his lordes worde agayne therof.

Then was the good man of the house displeased, and sayde vnto his seruaunt: Go out quickly in to the stretes and quarters of the cite, and brynge in hither the poore and cripell, and lame and blynde. And the seruaunt sayde: lord, it is done as thou hast commaunded, and there is yet more room for me. And the lord sayde vnto the seruaunt: Go out into the hye wayes, and to the hedges, and compell them to come in, that my house may be fylled. But I saye vnto you: that none of these men which were bydden, shal taste of my supper.

There wente moch people with him, and he returned him aboute and sayde vnto them: If eny man come vnto me, and hate not his father, mother, wife, childre, brether, sisters, yet and his owne selfe also, he can not be my disciple. And whosoever beareth not his crosse, and foloweth me, can not be my disciple.

Which of you is it, yf wil buyde a tower, and syttech not downe first and countech yf cost, whether he haue sufficite to persurme it, lest after he hath layed the foundacion, and is not able to persurme it, all they that se it, begynne to laugh him to scorne, and to saye: This man beganne to buyde, and is not able to persurme it. Or what kynge wil go to make battayl agaynst another kynge, and syttech not downe first, and castech in his mynde, whether he be able with ten thousande, to meete him that cometh agaynst him with twenty thousande? Or els, whyle the other is yet a greates waye of he sendech embassage, and desyeth peace. So likewise enery one of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, can not be my disciple.

Salt is a good thinge: but yf the salt be vnseasony, what shal they season withall? It is nether good vpon the lande, ner in the donge hyll, but shal be cast awaye. He that hath eares to heare, let him heare.

The XV. Chapter.

Here resorted vnto him all the publicans and synners, that they might heare him. And yf pharises and scribes murmured, and sayde: This man receaueth synners, and eateth with them. But he toldeth this synnitude, and sayde: What man is he amonge you, that hath an hundred shepe, and yf he loose one of the, that leaueth not the nyne and nyentye in the wilderness, and goeth after that which is lost, tyll he fynde it? And whan he hath founde it, he layeth it vpon his shuldres with ioye: and whan he cometh home, he calleth his frendes and neighbours, and sayeth vnto them: Reioyce with me, for I haue founde my shepe, yf was lost. I saye vnto you: Euen so shal there be ioye in heauen ouer one synner that doth penance, more then ouer nyne and nyentye righteous, which nedes not repen-

Or what woman is it that hath ten grotes, yf she loose one of them, that lighth not a candell, and sweepeth the house, and seeketh diligently, tyll she fynde it? And whan she hath founde it, she calleth hir frendes and neighbours, and sayeth: Reioyce with me, for I haue founde my grote, which I had lost. Euen so (I tell you) shal there be ioye before the angels of God, ouer one synner yf doth penance.

And he sayde: A certayne man had two somes, and the yonger of them sayde vnto the father: Father, geue me the porcion of yf goodes, that belongeth vnto me. And he deuoyded the good vnto them. And not longe thereafter, gathered the yonger sonne all together, and toke his iourney in to a farr countre, and there waisted he his goodes with ryotous luyng. Now whan he had spent all that he had, there was a greates deth thowow out all the samelode. And he began to lacke, and wente his waye, and came to a cytesin of that same countre, which sent him in to his felde, to kepe swyne. And he wolde sayne haue fylled his bely with the coddies, that the swyne ate. And no man gaue him them.

Then came he to himselfe, and sayde: How many hyred seruauntes hath my father, which haue bried ynough, and I perish of hunger? I wil get vp, and goe to my father, and saye vnto him: Father, I haue synned agaynst heauen and before the, and am now more worthy to be called thy sonne, make me as one of thy hyred seruauntes. And he gat him vp, and came vnto his father. But whan he was yet a greates waye of, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ranne, and fell aboute his neck, and kysed him. Then sayde the sonne vnto him: Father, I haue synned agaynst heauen, and before the, I am now more worthy to be called thy sonne. But the father sayde vnto his seruauntes: Brynge forth the best garment, and put it vpon him, and geue him a ryng vpon his hande, and shooes on his fete, and brynge hither a fed calfe, and kyll it, lat vs eate and be mery: for this my sonne was deed, and is alyue agayne: he was lost, and is founde. And they beganne to be mery.

But the elder sonne was in the felde. And whan he came, and diene nye to the house, he herde yf mynstrells and daunsyng, and called one of the seruauntes vnto him, and asked what it was. He sayde vnto him: Thy brother is come, and thy father hath slayne a fed calfe, because he hath receaued him safe and sounde. Then was he angrie, and wolde not go in. Then wente his father out, and prayed him. But he answered, and sayde vnto his father: Lo, thus many yeres haue I done the seruyce, nether haue I yet broken thy commaundement, and thou gauest me neuer one kydd, yf I might make mery with my frendes. But now that this thy sonne is come, which deuoured his goodes with harlottes, thou hast slayne a fed calfe. But he sayde vnto him: My sonne, thou art allwaye with me, and all that is myne, is thine: thou shuldest be mery and glad, for this thy brother was deed, and is alyue agayne: he was lost, and is founde agayne.

The XVI. Chapter.

He sayde also vnto his disciples: There was a certayne riche man, which had a stewarde, that was accused vnto him, that he had waisted his goodes. And he called him, and sayde vnto him: How is it, that I heare this of the? geue a comptes of yf stewardshipe, for thou mayest be no longer stewarde. The stewarde sayde within himselfe: What shal I do? My lord wil take awaye the stewardshipe fro me. I can not bygge, and to begg I am ashamed. I wote what I wil do, that whan I am put out of the stewardshipe, they maye receaue me into their houses.

And he called vnto hi all his lordes debtors, and sayde vnto the first: How moch owest thou vnto my lord? He sayde: an hundred tonnes of oyle. And he sayde: Take yf byll, syt downe quickly, and wryte fifty. Then sayde he vnto another: How moch owest thou? He sayde: an hundred quarters of wheate. And he sayde vnto him: Take thy byll, and wryte foure score. And the lord commended the vnrighteous stewarde, because he had done wysely. For the children of this wolde are in their kynde wyser, then the children of light. And I saye vnto you: Make you frendes with the vnrighteous Mammon, yf whan ye shal haue nede, they maye receaue you in to euerlastinge Tabernacles.

He that is faithfull in the least, is faithfull also in moch: and he that is vnrighteous in the least, is vnrighteous also in moch. If ye then haue not bene faithfull in the vnrighteous Mammon, who wyll beleue you in that which is true? And yf ye haue not bene faithfull in anothers mans busynesse, who wil geue you that which is youre owne?

No seruaunt can serue two masters: for either he shal hate the one, and loue yf other: or els he shal leane to the one, and despyse the other. He can not serue God and Mammon.

All these thinges herde the pharises, which were couetous, and they mocked hi. And he sayde vnto them: Ye are they that iustifie yf selues before men, but God knoweth youre herres. For yf which is hye amonge men, is an abhominacion before God.

The lawe and yf prophetes prophesied vnto Ihoi, and from that tyme forth is yf kyngdome of God preached thowow yf Gospel, and enery man presseth in to it by violence. But easier is it, for heauen and earth to perishe, then one tittle of yf lawe to fall. Who so ever putteth awaye his wife, and marieth another, breaketh matrimonye: and he that marieth her which is deuorced fro his husbande, breaketh wedlocke also.

There was a certayne riche man, which clothed him self with purple and costly linnen, and fared deliciously every daye. And there was a poore man named Lazarus which laye at his gate full of sores, and desyred to be fylled with the crommes, that fell from the riche mans table. Yet came the dogges, and licked his sores. But it fortuneth, that the poore man dyed, and was carried of the angels in to Abrahams bosome. The riche man dyed also, and was buried.

Now whan he was in the hell, he lift vp his eyes in the payne, and sawe Abraham a farr off, and Lazarus in his bosome: and he cried, and sayde: Father Abraham, haue mercy vpon me, and sende Lazarus, that he maye byppe the tyepe of his synger in water, and coole my tonge, for I am tormeted in this flame. But Abraham sayde: Remember sonne, yf thou hast receaued good in yf life, and com-

Then sayde he: I pray the then father, that thou wilt sende him vnto my fathers house, for I haue yet syne brethren, that he maye warne them, lest they also come in to this place of torment. Abraham sayde vnto him: They haue Moses and the prophetes, let them heare them. But he sayde: Nay father Abraham, but yf one wente vnto them fro the deed, they wolde do penance. Nevertheless he sayde vnto him: Yf they heare not Moses & the prophetes, then shal they not beleue also, though one rose agayne fro the deed.

The XVII. Chapter.

And sayde vnto his disciples: It is impossible that offences shulde not come: but wo vnto him by whom they come: It were better for him, that a mylstone were hanged aboute his neck, and he cast in to the see, then that he shulde offende one of these litle ones. Take hede to youre selues: Yf thy brother trespace agaynst the, rebuke him: and yf he amende, forgene him. And though he synne agaynst the seuen tymes in a daye, and come seuen tymes in a daye to thee agayne, and saye: I repenteth me, forgene him.

And the Apostles sayde vnto the LORD: Increase oure faith. The LORD sayde: Yf ye haue faith as a graine of mustarde sede, and saye vnto this Molbery tre: Plucke thy self vp by the rotes, and place thy self in the see, it shalbe obediēt vnto you. Which of you is it, that hath a seruaunt (which ploweth, or feedeth the catell) whā he cometh home from the feld, that he wil saye vnto him: Go quickly, and sit the downe to meate? Is it not thus? that he sayeth vnto him: Make ready, that I maye suppe, gyde vp thy self, and serue me, tyll I haue eaten and dronken, afterwarde shalt thou eat and drynke also. Thanketh he the same seruaunt also, because he dyd that was commaunded him? I trowe not. So likewise ye, whā ye haue done all that is commaunded you, saye: We are vnprofitable seruautes, we haue done that we were bounde to do.

And it fortuneth, whan he toke his journey towarde Jerusalem, he wente thorow the myddest of Samaria and Galile. And as he came into a towne, there met him ten leprouous men, which stode as farre of, and lift vp their voyce, and sayde: Jesu master, haue mercy vpon vs. And whan he sawe them, he sayde vnto the: Go, and shewe youre selues vnto the priestes. And it came to passe, as they wente, they were censed. And one of them whā he sawe that he was censed, he turned backe agayne, and prayes God with loude voyce, and fell downe on his face at his feet, and gaue him thanks. And the same was a Samaritan. Jesus answered and saide: Are there not ten censed? But where are those nyne? There were els none founde, that turned agayne, and gaue God the prayse, save onely this strainger. And he sayde vnto him: Arise, go thy waye, thy faith hath made thee whole.

But whan he was demaunded of the pharises: Whan cometh the kyngdome of God? he answered them, and sayde: The kyngdome of God cometh not with outward appearance, nether shal it be sayde: lo, here or there is it. For beholde, the kyngdome of God is inwarde in you.

And he sayde to the disciples: The tyme shal come, whā ye shal desyre to se the sonne of man, and shal not se it. And they shal saye vnto you: Se here, se there. Go not ye, nether folowe, for as the lightynge shyneth aboue from the heauen, and lighteth ouer all that is vnder the heauen, so shal the sonne of man be in his daye. But first must he suffre many thynges, and be refused of this generacion.

And as it came to passe in the tyme of Noe, so shal it come to passe also in the daye of the sonne of man. They ate, they drank, they married, and were married, euen vnto the daye that Noe wente in to the Arke, and the floude came, and destroyed them all.

Likewise also as it came to passe in the tyme of Lot, they ate, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they builded. But euen the same daye that Lot wente out of Sodom, it rained fyre and brimstone from heauen, and destroyed them all. After this maner also shal it go, in the daye whan the sonne of man shal appeare.

In that daye, who so is vpon the rofe, and his stuffe in his house, let him not come downe to fetch it: Likewise he that is in the feld, let him not turne backe, for it that is to hynde him. Remembre Lottes wife. Who so ever goeth aboute to save his life, shal lose it: and who so ever shal lose it, shal save it.

I saye vnto you: In the night shal two be vpon one bed, the one shalbe receaved, the other shalbe forsaaken. Two shalbe grynge together, the one shalbe receaved, the other shalbe forsaaken. And they answered, and sayde vnto him: Where is the LORD? he sayde vnto the: Where so euer ye deed carcase is, there wil the Eagles be gathered together.

The XVIII. Chapter.

He tolde them a similitude, signifyinge, that men ought allwayes to praye, and not to leaue off: and sayde: There was a iudge in a cite, which feared not God, and stode in awe of no man. And in the same cite there was a wedowe, which came vnto him, and sayde: deliuer me fro myne aduersary. And he wolde not a greates whyle. But afterward he thought within himself: Though I feare not God, & stonde in awe of no man, yet seynge this wedowe is so importune vpon me, I wil deliuer her, lest she come at the last, and rayle vpon me.

Then sayde the LORD: heare what the vnghteous iudge sayeth. But shall not God also deliuer his chosen, that crye vnto him daye and night, though he differeth the? I saye vnto you: he shal deliuer them, and that shortly. Nevertheless, whan the sonne of man cometh, suppose ye, that he shal syned faith vpon earth?

And vnto certayne which trusted in themselves, that they were perfecte, and despyed other, he spake this similitude: There wente vnto two men in to the temple, to praye: the one a pharise, the other a publican. The pharise stode, and prayed by himself after this maner: I thanke the God, that I am not as other men, robbers, vnghteous, aduersaries, or as this publican. I fast twyse in the week, I geue the riches of all that I haue. And the publican stode as farre of, and wolde not lift vp his eyes to heauen, but smote vpon his brest, and sayde: God be thou mercifull vnto me synner. I tell you: This man wente downe in to his house iustified more than the other. For who so ever exalteth himself, shalbe brought lowe: and he that humbly himself, shalbe exalted.

They brought yonge children also vnto him, that he shulde touch them. But whan the disciples sawe that, they rebuked them. Nevertheless Jesus called them vnto him, and sayde: Suffre childre to come vnto me, and forbyd the not, for of such is the kyngdome of God. Verely I saye vnto you: Whoso receaueth not the kyngdome of God as a childe, shal not enter therein.

And a certayne ruler axed him, and sayde:

Good master, what must I do, that I maye enheret everlastinge life? But Jesus sayde vnto him: Why callest thou me good? There is no man good, but God onely. Thou knowest the commaundementes: Thou shalt not breake wedlocke: Thou shalt not kyll: Thou shalt not steale: Thou shalt not beare false witness: Honour thy father and thy mother. But he sayde: All these haue I kepte from my youth vp. Whā Jesus herde that, he sayde vnto him: Yet lackest thou one thinge, sell all that thou hast, and geue it vnto the poore, and thou shalt haue a treasure in heauen, and come & folowe me. Whan he herde that, he was sorry, for he was very riche.

Whan Jesus sawe that he was sorry, he sayde: How hardly shal the riche come in to the kyngdome of God? It is easer for a Camell to go thorow the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to entre in to the kyngdome of God. Then sayde they & herde that: Who can then be saued? But he sayde: loke what is impossible with men, is possible with God.

Then sayde Peter: Beholde, we haue forsake all, and folowed the. he sayde vnto the: Verely I saye vnto you: There is no man that forsaketh house, or elders, or brethren, or wife, or children for the kyngdome of Gods sake, which shal not receaue much more in this tyme, and everlastinge life in the worlde to come.

He toke vnto him the twolue, and sayde vnto them: Beholde, we go vp to Jerusalem, and it shal all be fulfilled, that is wyrtten by the prophetes of the sonne of man. For he shal be deliuered vnto the heythen, and shalbe mocked, and despytfully intreated, and spitted vpon: and whan they haue scourged him, they shal put him to death, and vpon the thirde daye shal he arise agayne. And they vnderstode nothinge of these thynges. And this sayenge was hyd from them, and they perceaved not the thynges that were spoken.

And it came to passe, whan he came nye vnto Jericho, there sat one blynde by the waye, and begged. And whan he herde the people passe by, he axed what it was. Then sayde they vnto him, that Jesus of Nazareth passed by. And he cryed, and sayde: Jesu thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy vpon me. But the people that wente before, rebuked him, that he shulde holde his tounge. Nevertheless he cried much more: Thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy vpon me. Jesus stode still, & commaunded hi to be brought vnto hi. And whan he was come neare, he axed him and sayde: What wilt thou, that I do vnto the? He sayde: LORDE, that I may receaue my sight. And Jesus sayde vnto him: Receaue thy sight, thy faith hath saued the. And immediately he saue, and folowed him, & prayesed God. And all the people that sawe it, gaue God the prayse.

The XIX. Chapter.

And he entred in, and wente thorow Jericho: & beholde, there was a man named Zachens, which was a ruler of the publicans, and was riche, and desired to se Jesus what he shulde be, and he coude not for the people, for he was lowe of stature. And he ranne before, and clymmed vp in to a wyld figge tre, that he might se him: for he shulde come by waye. And whan Jesus came to the same place, he looked vp, and sawe him, and sayde vnto him: Zachen, come downe haistely, for todaye must I turne in to thy house. And he came downe hastely, and receaued him with ioye. Whan they sawe that, they murmured all, and sayde, he was gone in, to a synner.

But Zachens stode forth, and sayde vnto the LORDE: Beholde LORDE, the half of my goodes geue I to the poore: and yf I haue defrauded eny man, I restore him foure folde. Jesus sayde vnto him: This daye is health happened vnto this house, for so moch as he also is Abrahams sonne. For the sonne of man is come, to seke and to saue that which was lost.

Now whyle they herkened, he tolde a fy multitude also, because he was nye vnto Jerusalem, and because they thought, that the Kyngdome of God shulde appere immediately. And he sayde: A certayne noble man wote in to a farre countre, to receaue hit a Kyngdome, and then to come agayne. This man called ten of his seruautes, and delyuered them ten ponde, and sayde vnto them: Occupy, tyll I come agayne. But his citesyns hated him, and sent a message after him, and sayde: We wil not haue this man to raigne ouer vs.

And it fortuneth whan he came agayne, after that he had receaued the Kyngdome, he bade call for the seruautes, vnto whom he had geue his money, & he might knowe, what euery one had done. Then came the first and sayde: Syr, thy ponde hath wonne ten ponde. And he sayde vnto him: Well thou good seruaunt, for so moch as thou hast bene faithfull in the least, thou shalt haue auctourite ouer ten cities. The seconde came also, and sayde: Syr, thy ponde hath won-ne fyue ponde. And to him he sayde: And thou shalt be ouer fyue cities. And yf thirde came, and sayde: Lo syr, here is thy ponde, which I haue kepte in a naplyn. I was afrayed of the, for thou art an harde man, thou takest vp & thou hast not layed downe, and reapest that thou hast not sowne. He sayde vnto him: Of thine awne mouth is geue I the thou enill seruauit. A newest thou thou that I am an harde man, takinge vp that I layde not downe, and reapinge that I dyd not sowe? Wherefore then hast thou not delyuered my money to the exchange banker? And at my commynge might I haue requyred myne arene with vantage?

And he sayde vnto them that stode by: Take yf ponde from him, and geue it vnto him that hath ten ponde. And they sayde vnto him: Syr, he hath ten ponde already. But I saye vnto you: Whosoener hath, vnto him shal be geue: but from him that hath not, shal be taken awaye euery thinge he hath. As for those myne enemies, which wolde not that I shulde raigne ouer them, bringe them hither, and slaye them before me. And whan he had thus sayde, he wote on forward, and toke his iourney vp to Jerusalem.

And it fortuneth whan he came nye to Bethphage and Bethany vnto mount Oliuete, he sent two of his disciples, and sayde: Go in to the towne that lyeth ouer agaynst you, and as sone as ye are come in, ye shal fynde a foale tyed, wheron yet neuer man sat, lowse it, and brynge it hither. And yf eny mane are you wherfore ye lowse it, saye thus vnto him. The LORDE hath nede therof.

And they that were sent, wote their waye and founde euery as he had sayde. But whyle they lowsed yf foale, the owners therof sayde vnto the: Why lowse ye the foale? They sayde: The LORDE hath nede therof. And they brought it vnto Jesus, and cast their clothes vpon the foale, and set Jesus thereon. Now as he wente, they spred their garments in the waye.

And whan he wote downe from mount Oliuete, yf whole multitude of his disciples began ioyfully to prayse God with loude voyce, ouer all the miracles that they had seen, and sayde: Blessed be he, that cometh a kyng in the name of the LORDE. Peace be in heauen, and prayse in the height. And some of the pharises amonge the people sayde vnto him: Master, rebuke thy disciples. And he answered and sayde vnto them: I tell you, yf these holde their peace, yet shal the stones crye.

And whan he was come neare, he beheld the cite, and wepte vpon it, and sayde: If thou knewest what were for y peace, thou shouldest remembre it euery daye in this present daye of thine. But now is it hyd from thine eyes. For the tyme shal come vpon the, that thine enemies shal cast vp a bake aboute the, and aboute thy children with the, and besige yf, and kepe the in on euery syde, and make the easen with the grounde, and shal not leaue in the one stone vpon another, because thou hast not knowne yf tyme, wherin thou hast bene visited.

And he wente into the temple, and began to drye out them that bought and solde therein, and sayde vnto them: It is wrytten: My house is an house of prayer, but ye haue made it a denne of murtherers. And he taughte daylie in the temple. But the hye priestes and the scribes and the chiefe of yf people wente aboute to destroye him, and founde not, what to do vnto him. For all the people stode by him, and gaue him audience.

The XX. Chapter.

And it fortuneth one of those dayes, whan he taughte the people in the temple, and preached the Gospel, the hye priestes and scribes came to him with the Elders, and spake vnto him, and sayde: Tell vs, by what auctourite doest thou these thinges? Or who gaue the this auctourite? But he answered, & sayde vnto the: I wilare you a worde also, tell me: The baptyisme of Jhs was it from heauen, or of men? But they thought in them selues, and sayde: Yf we saye, from heauen, then shal he saye: Why dyd ye not the beleue him? But yf we saye, of men, then shal all the people stone vs, for they be persuaded, that Jhon is a prophet. And they answered, that they coude not tell, whence it was. And Jesus sayde vnto them: Neither tell I you, by what auctourite I do these thinges.

And he beganne to tell the people this similitude: A certayne man planted a vynyarde, and let it out vnto husbandmen, and wente himself in to a straunge countre for a grete season. And whan his tyme was come, he sent a seruauit to the husbandmen, that they might geue him of the frute of the vynyarde. But the husbandmen bet him, and sent him awaye emptye. And agayne he sent yet another seruauit: but they bet him also, and treated him shamefully, & sent him awaye emptye. And besydes this, he sent the thirde: but they wounded him also, and thrust him out. Then sayde the lord of the vynyarde:

What shal I do? I wil sende my deare sonne, Ioh. 3. c. ne, peradventure they wil stonde in awe of him, whan they se him. Rom. 8. Phil. 2. a

But whan the husbandmen sawe the sonne, they thought in the selues, and sayde: This is the heyre, come, & let vs kyll him, & the inheritaunce maye be oures. And they thrust him out of yf vynyarde, and slew him. What shal now the lord of the vynyarde do vnto them? He shal come, and destroye those husbandmen, and let out his vynyarde vnto other. Whan they herde that, they sayde: God forbid.

But he beheld the, and sayde: What is this then that is wrytten: The same stone which the buylders refused, is become the head corner stone. Who so ever fallerth vpon this stone, shalbe broken in sinder: but vpon whoso ever he fallerth, he shall grynne him to poulder. And the hye priestes and scribes wente aboute to laye handes vpon him the same houre, and they feared the people: for they perceaued, that he had spotte this similitude agaynst them. Psal. 117. Esa. 28. c.

And they watched hi, & sent forth spyes, which shulde sayne the selues perfecte, that they might take him in his wordes, to delyner him vnto the power and auctorite of yf debite. And they axed him, & sayde: Master, we knowe that thou sayest & teachest right, and regardest the outwarde apperaunce of no man, but teachest the waye of God truly. Is it lawfull, that we geue tribute vnto the Emperoure, or not? But he perceaued their craftynes, and sayde vnto them: Why tepte ye me? Shewe me the peny. Whose ymage and superscripcion hath it? They answered, and sayde: The Emperours. Then sayde he vnto them: Geue the vnto the Emperoure, that which is the Emperours: & vnto God, that which is Gods. And they coude not repleue his worde before the people, and marueyled at his answer, and helde their peace. Mar. 12. Marc. 12. d

Then came vnto him certayne of the Sadduces (which holde that there is no resurrection) and axed him, and sayde: Master, Moyses wrote vnto vs, yf eny mans brother dye hauynge a wife, and dyeth without childre, then shal his brother take his wife, and rayse vp seide vnto his brother. Now were there seue brethren: the first toke a wife, and dyed childlesse: and the seconde toke the wife, and dyed without children also: and the thirde toke her, likewise all the seue, and left no children behynde the, and dyed. At the last a ster them all, the woman dyed also. Now in the resurrection, whose wife shal she be of them? Deut. 25. a

For seven had her to wife. And Jesus answered and said unto them: The child of this world marry, & are married, but they shall be worthy to enjoy that world and the resurrection from the dead, shall neither marry nor be married, for they can dye no more. For they are like unto the angels, and are the children of God, in so much as they are children of the resurrection.

Ioh. 1. 9. a

But that the deed rise againe, hath Moses also signified besides the bush, when he called the LORD, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. But God is not a God of the deed but of the living, for they live all unto him. Then answered certain of the scribes, and sayde: Master, thou haist sayde well. And from that tyme forth they durst aske him no more questions.

But he sayde unto them: How saye they that Christ is Davids sonne? And David himself sayeth in the booke of the Psalmes: The LORD sayde unto my LORD: Sit thou on my right hande, till I make thine enemies thy footstole. David calleth him LORD, how is he then his sonne?

Now whyle all the people gave audience, he sayde unto his disciples: Beware of the scribes, which will go in longe garmettes, and love to be saluted upon the market, and desyre to sit byest in the synagoges, and at the table. They denoure widowes houses and that under a colour of longe prayenge: These shall receive the greater damnacion.

And when some spake of the temple, that it was garnished with goodly stones and Jewels, he said: The time shall come, when of all this that ye see, there shall not be left one stone upon another, which shall not be broken downe. They asked him, and sayde: Master, when shall these be? and what shall be the token, when these shall come to passe?

Ioh. 4. a

He sayde: Take hede, that ye be not deceived: For many shall come in my name, and saye, I am he, & the tyme is come hard by. Followe them not.

But when ye heare of warres and insurrections, be not ye afrayed, for soch must come to passe, but the ende is not yet there so soone. Then sayde he unto them: One people shall rise agaynst another, and one realme agaynst another, & shall be greates earthquakes here and there, pestilence, and death, and fearfull thinges. And greater yet shall there be first here. But before all these, they shall laye handes upon you, and persecute you, and deliver you up into their synagoges and prisons, and bringe you before tyringes & prynces for my names sake. But this shall happen unto you for a witness. And at a poynt therfore in youre hartes, that ye take no thought, how ye shall answer: for I will geve you mouth & wisdom, agaynst the which all youre adversaries shall not be able to speake ner to resist. But ye shall be delivered up even of youre elders, brethren, kynsfolkes and frendes, and some of you shall they put unto death, and ye shall be hated of every man for my names sake, and yet shall not one haire of youre heade perishe. Holde fast youre soules with patience.

But when ye shall see Jerusalem besegged with an host, then understande, that the desolacion of it is nye. Then let them which be in Jewry, flye unto the mountaynes: And let soch as be in the myddest thereof, departe out: and let soch as be in the countrees, not come therein. For these are the dayes of vengeance, that every thinge which is written, maye be fulfilled. But now unto them that are with child, and to them that give sucke in those dayes: for there shall be great trouble upon earth, and wrath over this people, and they shall fall thorow the edge of the swerde, and be led captiue amonge all nations. And Jerusalem shall be troden downe of the heithen, untill the tyme of the which then be fulfilled.

And there shall be tokens in the Sonne, and Moone, and starres, and upon earth the people shall be in such perplexite, that they shall not tell which waye to turne themselves. And the see and the waters shall rage, and men shall pine awaye for feare, and shall looke after the thinges which shall come upon earth. For even the very powers of heaven shall moue.

And then shall they see the sonne of man cominge in the cloude with power and greates glory. But when these thinges be gonne to come to pass, the looke up, and lift uppe youre heades, for youre redemption draweth nye.

And he tolde them a similitude: Beholde the figge tre, and all tre trees, when they shew forth their buddes, yese by them, and perceave, that Sommer is now at hand. So likewise ye, when ye see all these thinges come to passe, be sure that the kyngdome of God is nye. Verely I saye unto you: This generacio shall not passe, till all be fulfilled. Heaven and earth shall passe, but my wordes shall not passe.

But take hede unto youre selues, that ye be not overladed with excess of eatinge and with dronkenness, and with eatinge of thought for luyng, and so this daye come upon you unawares. For as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell upon earth. Watch therfore continually, and praye, that ye maye be worthy to escape all this that shall come, & to stande before the sonne of man.

And on the daye tyme he taught in the temple, but in the night season he wente out and abode all night upon mount Olivet. And all the people gat them up early unto him in the temple, for to heare him.

The XXII. Chapter.

The feast of swete bled (which is called Easter) drew nye. And the hye priestes and scribes sought how they might put him to death, and were afrayed of the people. But Satan was entred in to Judas, named Iscariot (which was of the nombre of the twelve) and he receite his waye, and talked with the hye priestes and with officers, how he wolde betraye him unto them. And they were glad, and promysed to geve him money. And he consented, & sought opportunitie, that he might betraye hi without any muroure.

Then came the daye of swete bled, wherein the Easter lambe must be offered. And he sent Peter and John, and sayde: Go youre waye, prepare us the Easter lambe, that we maye eat. But they sayde unto him: Where wilt thou, that we prepare it? He saide unto them: Beholde, when ye come in to the cite, there shall mete you a man, bearinge a picher of water, followe him in to the house, & he entereth in, and saye unto the good man of the house: The master sendeth the word: Where is the guesthouse, wherein I maye eat the Easter labe with my disciples? And he shall shewe you a greates parlour paved. They wente their waye, and founde as he had sayde unto them, and made ready the Easter lambe.

And when the houre came, he sat him downe, and the twelve Apostles with him, and he sayde unto them: I have heretely desired to cate this Easter labe with you before I suffre. For I saye unto you: that henceforth I wil cate nomore thereof, till it be fulfilled in the kyngdome of God. And he toke the cuppe, gave thanks, and sayde: Take this and devyde it amonge you. For I saye unto you: It is not drynke of the frute of the vyne, untill the kyngdome of God come.

And he toke the bled, gave thanks, and brake it, and gave it them, and sayde: This is my body, which shall be given for you. This do in the remembrance of me. Likewise also the cuppe, after they had supped, and sayde: This cuppe is the new Testament in my bloude, which shall be shed for you.

But lo, the hande of him that betrayeth me, is with me on the table. And the sonne of man truly goeth forth, as it is appoynted. But now unto that man, by whom he is betrayed. And they beganne to are amonge them selues, which of them it shulde be, that shulde do that.

There rose a strife also amonge them, which of them shulde be cate for the greates. But he sayde unto them: The kynges of the world have domynion over the people, and they that beare rule over them, are called gracious lordes. But ye shall not be so: But the greates amonge you, shall be as the yongest: and the chiefe, as a sernaunt. For which is the greates? he that sitteth at the table, or he that serveth? Is not he that sitteth at the table? But I am amonge you as a mynister. As for you, ye are they, that have bydded me in my temptacions. And I wil appoynte the kyngdome unto you, even as my father hath appoynted me, that ye maye cate and drynke at my table in my kyngdome, and sit upon seates, and iudge the twelve tribes of Israel.

But the LORD sayde: Simon Simon, beholde, Satan hath desired after you, that he might siftte you even as wheate: but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith faile not. And when thou art converted, strengthe thy brethren: But he sayde unto him: LORD, I am ready to go with thee into prison, and in to death. Nevertheless he sayde: Peter, I saye unto thee: The cock shall not crowe this daye, till thou have thryse denyed, & thou enemyest me.

And he sayde unto them: When I sent you without wallet, without scrippe, and without shues, lacked ye any thinge? They sayde: No. Then sayde he unto them: But now, he that hath a wallet, let him take it op, likewise also the scrippe. But he that hath not, let him sell his coate, & bye a swerd. For I saye vnto you: It must yet be fulfilled on me, that is writte: He was counted amonge the euell doers. For loke what is writte of me, it hath an ende. But they sayde: LORDE, Beholde, here are two swerdes. He sayde vnto the: It is ynough.

And he wente out (as he was wonte) vnto mount Oliuete. But his disciples folowed him vnto the same place. And whan he came thither, he sayde vnto the: Praye, that ye fall not in to tēptacion. And he gat him from them aboute a stonys cast, and kneled downe, prayed, & sayde: Father, yf thou wilt, take awaye this cuppe from me: Neuerthelesse, not my wyll, but thyn be fulfilled. And there appeared vnto him an angell frō heauen, and comforted him. And it came so, that he wrestled with death, and prayed the longer. And his sweate was like droppes of blood, runnyng downe to the grounde. And he rose vp frō prayer, and came to his disciples, and founde them slepyng for heuy nesse, and sayde vnto them: What, slepe ye? ryse vp and praye, that ye fall not in to tēptacion.

But whyle he yet spake, beholde, the multitude, and one of the twolue called Judas wente before them, and he came nye vnto Jesus, to kysse him. But Jesus sayde vnto him: Judas, betrayest thou the sonne of mā with a kysse? Whan they that were aboute him, sawe what wolde folowe, they sayde vnto him: LORDE, shal we synge with the swerde? And one of the stroke a seruante of the hye prestes, & smote of his eare. But Jesus answered, and sayde: Suffre the thus farre forth. And he touched his eare, & healed him.

But Jesus sayde vnto the prestes and rulers of the temple, and to the Elders that were come vnto him: Ye are come forth as it were to a murtherer with swerdes, & with stauies. I was daylie with you in the temple, and ye layed no handes vpon me. But this is youre houre, and the power of darkness. Neuerthelesse they toke him, and led him, and brought him in to the hye prestes house. As for Peter, he folowed hi a farre of.

Then kyndled they a fyre in the myddest of the palace, and sat them downe together. And Peter sat him downe amonge them. Then a damsell saue him syttinge by the light, and behelde him well, and sayde vnto him: This same was also with him. But he denyed him, and sayde: Woman, I knowe him not. And after a litle whyle, another sawe him, and sayde: Thou art one of them also. But Peter sayde: Man, I am not.

And aboute the space of an houre after, another affirmed, & sayde: Verely this was with him also, for he is a Galilean. But Peter saide: Na, I wore not what thou sayest. And immediatly whyle he yet spake, & coo crewe. And the LORDE turned him aboute and looked vpo Peter. And Peter remembered the wordes of the LORDE, how he sayde vnto him: Before the cock crowe, thou shalt denye me thrise. And Peter wente out, and wepte bitterly.

The men that helde Jesus, mocked him, and stroke him, blyndfolded him, and smote him on the face, and axed him, and sayde: Prophecie, who is it that smote thee? And many other blasphemies sayde they vnto hi.

And whan it was daye, there gathered together the Elders of the people, the hye prestes and scribes, and led him vp before their counsell, and sayde: Art thou Chast? Tell vs. But he sayde vnto them: As I tell you, ye wyl not beleue: But yf I are you, ye wyl not answers me, nether wyl ye let me go. From this tyme forth shal the sonne of man sitte at the right hande of the power of God. Then sayde they all: Art thou then sonne of God? He sayde vnto them: Re saye it, for I am. They sayde: What ned we anye farther wyncesse? We oure selues haue herde it of his awne mouth.

The XXIII. Chapter.

And the whole multitude of the aroise, and led him vnto Pilate, and began to accuse him, and sayde: We haue founde this felowe pervertinge the people, and foibiddinge to geue trybute vnto the Emperoure, and sayeth, that he is Chast a kynge. But Pilate axed him, and sayde: Art thou the kynge of the Jewes? He answered him, and sayde: Thou sayest it. Pilate sayde vnto the hye prestes and to the people: I finde no cause in this man. But they were the more farrce, and sayde: He hath moued the people, in that he hath taught here & there in all the londe of Jewry, and hath begunne at Galile vnto this place.

Whan Pilate herde mencion of Galile, he axed whether he were of Galile. And whan he perceaued that he was vnder herodes iurisdiction, he sent him to Herode, which was also at Jerusale in those dayes. When Herode sawe Jesus, he was exceding glad, for he had longe bene desirous to see him: because he had herde moch of him, & hoped to see a miracle of hi. And he asked him many thinges. Neuertheles he answered him nothinge. The hye prestes and scribes stode, and accused him sore. But Herode to his men of warre despysed him, and mocked him, put a whyte garnēt vpo him, and sente him agayne vnto Pilate. Vpo the same daye was Pilate and Herode made frendes together, for afore they had bene at variance.

Pilate called the hye prestes, and the rulers, and the people together, and sayde vnto the: Ye haue brought this man vnto me, as one that peruerteth the people, and beholde, I haue examyned him before you, & fynde in the mā none of the causes, wherof ye accuse him: Nor yet Herode: for I sent you to him, and beholde, there is brought vpon hi nothinge, that is worthy of death. Therefore wil I chasten him, and let him loose: For he must haue let one loose vnto them after the custome of the feast.

Then cried the whole multitude, and sayde: Aways with him, and deliuer vnto vs Barrabas, which for insurreccion made in the cite, and because of a murther, was cast in to preson. Then called Pilate vnto them agayne, & wolde haue let Jesus loose. But they cried, and sayde: Crucifye him, Crucifye him. Yet sayde he vnto them, the thirde tyme: What euell the hath he done? I fynde no cause of death in hi, therfore wil I chasten him, and let him go. But they laye styll vpon him with greate crye, and requyred he might be crucified. And the voyce of the and of the hye prestes prevaile.

And Pilate gaue sentence, that it shulde be as they requyred, and let loose vnto the, him, that for insurreccio and murther was cast in to preson, whom they desired, but gaue Jesus over vnto their wyll. And as they led him awaye, they toke one Simon of Cyrene (which came from the selde) and layed the crosse vpon him, to beare it after Jesus.

And there folowed him a greete multitude of people and of women, which bewailed and lamented him. But Jesus turned him aboute vnto the, and sayde: Ye boughters of Jerusale, wepe not ouer me: but wepe ouer youre selues, and ouer youre childre. For beholde, the tyme wil come, wherin it shal be sayde: Blessed are the baren, and the wombes that haue not borne, and the papies that haue not geuen sucke. Then shal they begynne to saye vnto the mountaynes: Fall vpon vs. And to the hylles: Couer vs. For yf this be done to a grene tre, what shal be done then to the drye?

And two other (which were mysdoers)

were led out also, to be put to death with him. And whā they came to the place, which is called Caluery, they crucified him euē there, and the two mysdoers with him, the one on the righte hande, the other on the left. But Jesus sayde: Father, forgue them, for they wote not what they do. And they parted his garmentes, and cast lottes therfore. And the people stode and behelde.

And the rulers mocked him with them, and sayde: He hath helped other, let him helpe him self now, yf he be Chast & chosen of God. The soudyers also mocked him, wrote vnto him, & brought him vynerger, and sayde: As thou be the kynge of the Jewes, then helpe thyself. And aboute ouer him was this superscription writte with letters of Greke, Latyn, and Hebrew: This is the kynge of the Jewes.

And one of the mysdoers that hanged there, blasphemed him, and sayde: As thou be Chast, then helpe thy self and vs. Then answered the other, rebuked him, and sayde: And thou fearest not God also, which are yet in like dānacion. And truly we are therein righte, for we receave a cōdignete to oure dedes. As for this man, he hath done nothinge amysse. And he sayde vnto Jesus: LORDE, remembre me, whan thou comest in to thy kynge dome. And Jesus sayde vnto him: Verely I saye vnto the: To daye shalt thou be with me in Paradyse. And it was aboute the sixte houre, and there was darkness ouer the whole londe vntill the nyenth houre. And the Sonne was darkened, and the vayle of the temple rente in two euē thorow the myddes.

And Jesus cryed loude, & sayde: Father, in to thy handes I commende my spiete. And whan he had so sayde, he gaue vp the goost. But whan the Capteyne sawe what had happened, he prayed God, and sayde: Verely this was a iust mā. And all the people that stode by & behelde, whan they sawe what was done, smote vpon their brestes, & turned backe agayne. But all his acquaintance, and the women that had folowed him out of Galile, stode a farre of, and beheld all these thinges.

And beholde, a mā named Joseph, a Senatur, which was a good iust man, the same had not consented vnto their counsell, and dede, which was of Arimathia a cite of the Jewes, which same also wayted for the kynge dome of God: he wrote vnto Pilate, and axed the body of Jesus. And he toke him downe, wrapped him in a linnen cloth, and layed him in a hewen sepulchre, wherein neuer man was layed. And it was the daye of preparinge, and the Sabbath dwe on.

The women that were come with him out of Galile, folowed him, and behelde the Sepulchre, & how his body was layed. But they returned, and made ready thespices & anointmētes. And vpon the Sabbath they rested, accordinge to the lawe.

The XIII. Chapter.

Ut vpon one of the Sabbathes very early in the mornynge, they came vnto the Sepulchre, and broughte of spices which they had prepared, and certayne women with the. Neuertheles they founde the stone rolled awaye from the sepulchre, and wente in, and founde not the body of f

LORDE Jesu. And it happened as they were amased therat, beholde, there stode by them two men in shynynge garmentes. And they were afrayed, and cast downe their faces to the earth. Then sayde they vnto the: What seke ye the lyuynge amōge the dead? He is not here. He is risen vp. Remembre, how he tolde you whā he was yet in Galile, and sayde: The sonne of man must be deliuered in to the hādes of synners, and be crucified, and the thirde daye rise agayne.

And they remēbred his wordes, and wente from the sepulchre, and tolde all this vnto the eleven, and to all the other. It was Mary Magdalene, and Johanna, and Mary James, and the other with them, that tolde this vnto the Apostles. And they wordes semed vnto them, as though they had bene but fables, and they beleued them not. But Peter arose, and ranne to the sepulchre, and stonped in, and sawe the linnen clothes layed by themselves, and departed. And he wondred within himself at that which had happened.

And beholde, two of them wente that same daye, to a towne (which was thre score furlōges from Jerusalem) whose name was called Emmaus. And they talked together of all these thinges that had happened. And it chaunced as they were thus talkynge and reasonynge together, Jesus himselfe dūe nye, and wente with them. But their eyes were holden, that they shulde not knowe hē. And he sayde vnto them: What maner of comunicacions are these that ye haue one to another as ye walke, and are sad? Then answered the one, whose name was Cleophas, and sayde vnto him: Art thou onely a stranger at Jerusalem, not knowynge what is come to passe there in these dayes? And he sayde vnto the: What? They sayde vnto him: That of Jesus of Nazareth, which was a prophet, mightie in dede and word, before God and all people, how our hye priestes and rulers deliuered him to the condemnation of death, and crucified him. But we hoped that he shulde haue deliuered Israel. And besides all this, todaye is the thirde daye that this was done. And certayne women also of our company which were early at the Sepulchre, and founde not his body, came and tolde, that they had sene a visiō of angels, which sayde he was alive. And certayne of them that were with vs, wente vnto the sepulchre, and founde it empty as if women sayde, but hi founde they not.

And he sayde vnto the: O ye fooles and slowe of hert to beleue all that the prophetes haue spokē. Oughte not Christ to haue suffred these thinges, and to entre in to his glory? And he beganne at Moses and at all the prophetes, and expounded vnto them all the scriptures, that were spoken of him. And they dūe nye vnto the towne, which they wēte vnto, and he made as though he wolde haue gone farther. And they compelled him, and sayde: Abide with vs, for it draweth towardes night, and the daye is farre passed. And he wente in to tary with the. And it came to passe whan he sat at the table with the, he toke the bread, gaue thanks, brake it, and gaue it them. Then were their eyes opened, and they knewe him. And he vanyshed out of their sight. And they sayde, betwene the selues: Dyd not our hert burne with in vs, whan he talked with vs by the waye, whyle he opened the scriptures vnto vs? And they rose vp the same houre, turned agayne to Jerusalem, and founde the eleven gathered together, and them that were with them, which sayde: The LORDE is risen of a trūeth, and hath appeared vnto Symon. And they tolde the what had happened by the waye, and how they knewe him in breakynge of the bread.

But whyle they were talkynge therof, Jesus himselfe stode in the myddes amonge the, and sayde: Peace be with you. But they were abashed and afrayed, supposynge that they had sene a sperte. And he saide vnto the: Why are ye abashed? & wherefore risethen such thoughtes in yō hertes? Beholde my hādes & my fete, it is euen I my self. Handle me, and se, for a sperte hath not flesh and bones, as ye se me haue. And whan he had thus spokē, he shewed the his hādes and his fete. But whyle they yet beleued not for ioy and wondred, he sayde vnto them: Haue ye any thinge here to eate? And they set before him a pece of a broyled fish, and an hony combe. And he toke it, and ate it before the.

And he sayde vnto them: These are the wordes, which I spake vnto you, whyle I was yet with yon. For it must all be fulfilled that was wyrtten of me in the lawe of Moses, in the prophetes, & in the psalmes. The opened he their vnderstandynge, that they might vnderstonde the scriptures, and sayde vnto them: Thus is it wyrtten, and thus it behoued Christ to suffre, & the thirde daye to rise agayne fro the dead, and to let repentance and remission, of synnes be preached in his name amōge all nacions, and to begynne at Jerusalem. As for all these thinges, ye are wytnesses of the. And beholde, I wil sende vpon you the promys of my father: but ye shal tary in the cite of Jerusalem, tyll ye be endued with power from aboue.

But he led them out vnto Bethany, and lift vp his handes, and blessed them. And it came to passe whā he blessed them, he departed from them, and was caried vp in to heuē. And they worshipped him, and turned agayne to Jerusalem with greate ioye: and were contynnally in temple, gearynge praye and thankes vnto God. Amen.

Chap. VIII. A woman is taken in aduoutrie: Christ deliuereth her. The freedom of such as folowe Christ, whom they accuse to haue the deuell within him, and go aboute to stone him.

Chap. IX. Christ maketh the man to se that was borne blynde, where thorow he getteth himselfe more displeasure amonge the Jewes and pharises.

Chap. X. Christ is the true shepheard, and the doer of the shepe. Some saye: Christ hath the deuell, and is madd, some saye: he speaketh not the wordes of one that hath the deuell. Because he telleth the trūeth, the Jewes take vp stones to cast at him, call his preachynge blasphemy, and go aboute to take him.

Chap. XI. Christ rayseth Lazarus fro death. The hye priestes & the pharises gather a counsell, and cast their hendes together agaynst him, therefore he getteth him out of the waye.

Chap. XII. Mary anoynteth Christes fete, Judas mormureth, Christ excuseth her, rydeth in to Jerusalem, and is louyngly receaued of the thankfull, but utterly despyed of the vngodly.

Chap. XIII. Christ washeth the disciples fete, telleth them of Judas the traytour, and commaundeth the earnestly to loue one another.

Chap. XIII. He armeth his disciples with consolacion agaynst trouble for to come, taketh fro the the heuynesse that they had because of his departinge, and promyseth them the holy goost, the spirite of comforte.

Chap. XIV. The true vyne, the husbandman & the braunches. A doctryne of loue, and a swete comforte agaynst persecucion.

Chap. XVI. Consolacion agaynst trouble. Prayerers are herde thorow Christ.

Chap. XVII. The most hartely & louynge prayer of Christ vnto his father, for all such as receaue the trūeth, and be his awne.

Chap. XVIII. Christ is betrayed. The wordes of his mouth smyte the officers to the ground. Peter smyteth of Malchus eare. Jesus is brought before Anna, Caiphas, and pilate.

Chap. XIX. Christ is crucified. He commendeth his mother vnto Ihon, sheddeth his bloude, and is buried.

Chap. XX. The resurrection of Christ, which appeareth to Mary Magdalene and to all his disciples, to their greate comforte.

Chap. XXI. He appeareth to his disciples agayne by the see of Tyberias, and commaundeth peter earnestly to fede his shepe.

The first Chapter.

In the begynnyng was the worde, and the worde was with God, and God was yf worde. The same was in the begynnyng w God. All thinges were made by the same, and without the same was made nothinge that was made. In him was the life, and the life was the lighe of men: and the light shyneth in the darknesse, and the darknesse comprehended it not.

There was sent from God a man, whose name was Ihon. The same came for a witnesse, to beare wytnesse of yf lighe, that thoro him they all might beleue. He was not that light, but that he might beare witnesse of yf lighe. That was the true light, which lighteth all men, that come in to this worlde. He was in the worlde, and the worlde was made by him, and yf wolde knowe him not. He came in to his awne, and his awne receaued him not. But as many as receaued him, to them gave he power to be the children of God: even soch as beleue in his name. Which are not boone of bloude, ner of the wyl of the flesh, ner of the wyl of man, but of God.

And the worde became flesh, and dwelt amonge vs: and we sawe his glory, a glory as of the onely begotte sonne of the father, full of grace and truthe.

Ihon bare wytnesse of him, cryed, and sayde: It was this, of whom I spake: After me shal he come, that was before me, for he was or euer I: and of his fulnesse haue all we receaued grace for grace. For the lawe was geyuen by Moyses, grace and truthe came by Iesus Chast. No man hath seene God at any tyme. The onely begotte sonne which is in the bosome of the father, he hath declared the same vnto vs.

And this is the recorde of Ihon, when the Jewes sent prestes and Leuites fro Jerusalem, to aske him: Who art thou? And he confessed and denyed not. And he confessed, and sayde: I am not Chust. And they aske him: What the? Art thou Elias? He sayde: I am not. Art thou the prophet? And he answered: No. Then sayde they vnto him: What art thou the? yf we maye geue answere vnto the that sent vs. What sayest thou of yf self? He sayde: I am yf voyce of a cryer in the wyldernesse. Make straight yf waye of the LORDE. As yf prophet Esay sayde:

And they that were sent, were of yf pharises. And they aske him, and sayde vnto him: Why baptystest thou then, yf thou be not Chust, ner Elias, ner a prophet? Ihon answered them, and sayde: I baptise with water, but there is one come in amonge you, whom ye knowe not. It is he that cometh after me, which was before me: whose shoulde I am not worthy to vnloose. This was done at Bethabara beyonde Jordan, where Ihon dyd baptise.

The nexte daye after, Ihon sawe Iesus comynge vnto him, and sayde: Beholde the labe of God, which taketh awaye the synne of the worlde. This is he, of whom I sayde vnto you: After me cometh a man, which was before me. For he was or euer I, and I knewe him not: but that he shulde be declared in Israel, therefore am I come to baptise with water.

And Ihon bare recorde, and sayde: I sawe the spiete descende from heauen like vnto a doue, and abode vpon him, and I knewe him not. But he that sent me to baptise with water, yf same sayde vnto me: Vpon whom thou shalt se the spiete descende and tarry styll on him, the same is he, that baptyseth with the holy goost. And I sawe it, and bare recorde, that this is the sonne of God.

The nexte daye after, Ihon stode agayne, and two of his disciples. And whan he sawe Iesus walkynge, he sayde: Beholde the labe of God. And two of his disciples hege him speake, and folowed Iesus. And Ihon turned him aboute, and sawe them folowynge, and sayde vnto the: What see ye? They sayde vnto him: Rabbi, (which is to saye by interpretation, Master.) Where art thou lodginge? He sayde vnto them: Come and se it. They came and sawe it, and abode with him the same daye. It was aboute the tenth houre.

One of the two, which herde Ihon speake, and folowed Iesus, was Andrew the brother of Symon Peter: the same founde first his brother Symon, and sayde vnto him: We haue founde Messias (which is by interpretation, yf Anoynted) and brought him to Iesus. Whan Iesus behelde him, he sayde: Thou art Symon the sonne of Jonas, thou shalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, a stone.

The nexte daye after, wolde Iesus go agayne in to Galile, and founde philippe, and sayde vnto him: Followe me. philippe was of Bethsaida the cite of Andrew and Peter. philippe founde Nathanael, and sayde vnto him: We haue founde him, of whome Moyses in the lawe, and yf prophetes haue wyten, even Iesus the sonne of Joseph of Nazareth. And Nathanael sayde vnto him: What good can come out of Nazareth? philippe sayde vnto him: Come, and se.

Iesus sawe Nathanael comynge to him, and sayde of him: Beholde, a righte Israelite, in whom is no gyle. Nathanael sayde vnto him: From whence knowest thou me? Iesus answered, and sayde vnto him: Before yf philippe called the, whan thou wast vnder the figge tre, I sawe the. Nathanael answered, and sayde vnto hi: Rabbi, thou art yf sonne of God, thou art yf kynge of Israel. Iesus answered, and sayde vnto him: Because I sayde vnto the, that I sawe the vnder the figge tre, thou beleuest: thou shalt se yet greater thinges the these. And he sayde vnto him: Verely verely I saye vnto you: Fro this tyme forth shal ye se the heauen open, and the angels of God goynge vp and downe vnto the sonne of man.

The II. Chapter.

And vpon the thirde daye there was a marriage at Cana in Galile, and the mother of Iesus was there. Iesus also and his disciples was called vnto yf marriage. And whan the wyne fayled, the mother of Iesus saide vnto him: They haue no wyne. Iesus sayde vnto her: Woman, what haue I to do with the? Myne houre is not yet come. His mother sayde vnto yf mynisters: Whatsoeuer he sayeth vnto you, do it. There was set there sixe water pottes of stone, after yf maner of the purifiinge of yf Jewes, every one cōteynynge two or thre measures.

Iesus sayde vnto the: Fyll the water pottes with water. And they fylled the vnto yf brim. And he sayde vnto the: Drawe out now, and brynge vnto the Master of the feast. And they bare it. Whan the master of yf feast had tasted yf wyne which had bene water, and knewe not whence it came (but the mynisters that drew yf water, knewe it) the Master of the feast called the brydegrome, and sayde vnto him: Everyman at the first geueth the good wyne: and whan they are dynten, the that which is worse. But thou hast kepte backe the good wyne vntill now.

This is the first token that Iesus dyd at Cana in Galile, and shewed his glory, and his disciples beleued on him. Afterwarde wente he downe to Capernaum, he, his mother, his brethren, and his disciples, and taried not longe there.

And the Jewes Easter was at hande. And Iesus wente vp to Jerusalem, and founde setteynge in the temple, chosse that solde oxen, shepe, and doves, and chaungers of money. And he made a scourge of small cordes, and drewe them all out of the temple with the shepe and oxen, and poured out the chaungers money, and ouerthrewe the tables, and sayde vnto them that solde the doves: Hauethese thinges hēce, and make not my fathers house an house of marchaundyse. His disciples remembred it, that is wytten: The zele of thine house hath euen eaten me.

Then answered the Jewes, and sayde vnto him: What token shewest thou vnto vs, that thou mayest do these thinges? Iesus answered and sayde vnto the: Breake downe this temple, and in thre dayes wil I set it vp agayne. Then sayde the Jewes: Sixe and fourtye yere was this temple abuyldinge, and wilt thou set it vp in thre dayes? But he spake of yf temple of his body. Now whan he was rysen agayne from the deed, his disciples remembred that he thus sayde, and they beleued the scripture, and the wordes which Iesus spake.

Whan he was at Jerusalem at Easter in yf feast, many beleued on his name, whan they sawe yf tokes yf he dyd. But Iesus comytted not himself vnto the, for he knewe the all, and neded not yf eny mā shulde testifie of man, for he knewe well what was in man.

The III. Chapter.

There was a man of the pharises, named Nicodemus a ruler amonge the Jewes. The same came vnto Iesus by night, and sayde vnto hi: Master, we knowe yf thou art come a teacher fro God: for no mā can do these tokes yf thou dost, excepte God be with him. Iesus answered, and sayde vnto him: Verely verely I saye vnto the:

Excepte a man be borne a new, he can not se the kyngdome of God. Nicodemus sayde vnto him: How can a man be borne, whan he is olde? Can he entre into his mothers wombe, and be borne agayne? Jesus answered: Verely verely I saye vnto the: Excepte a man be borne of water and of the spirete, he can not come in to y^e kyngdome of God.

That which is borne of flesh, is flesh: & that which is borne of the spirete, is spirete. Maruell not, that I saye vnto y^e: Ye must be borne of new. The wynde bloweth where he wyl, and thou hearest his sounde: but thou canst not tell wher he cometh, and whither he goeth. So is every one, that is borne of the spirete.

Nicodemus answered, and sayde vnto him: How maye these be? Jesus answered, & sayde vnto hi: Art thou a Master in Israel, & knowest not these? Verely I saye vnto y^e: We speake that we knowe, and testifie that we haue sene, and ye receaue not oure wytnesse. If ye beleue not whan I tell you of earthly thinges, how shulde ye beleue, whan I speake vnto you of heavenly thinges?

And noman ascendeth vp in to heauen, but he that is come downe from heauē, (namely) the sonne of man which is in heauen. And like as Moses lift vp the serpent in the wyldernes, even so must the sonne of man be lift vp, that who so euer beleueth in him, shulde not perishe, but haue everlastinge life.

For God so loued the worlde, that he gaue his onely sonne, that who so euer beleueth in hi, shulde not perishe, but haue everlastinge life. For God sent not his sonne in to y^e worlde to condempne the worlde, but that the worlde might be saued by him. He that beloueth on him, shal not be cōdemned. But he that beleueth not, is cōdemned already: because he beleueth not on the name of the onely sonne of God. But this is y^e cōdemnation, that the light is come into the worlde, and men loued the darknesse more the y^e light: for their workes were euell. Whosoeuer doth euell, hateth the light, and cometh not to the light, that his dedes shulde not be reprobued. But he that doth the trueth, cometh to the light, that his workes maye be knowne: for they are done in God.

Afterwarde came Jesus & his disciples in to the lōde of Jewry, and had his beyng there with them, and baptyesed. Iohn baptyesed also in Enon besyde Salem: for there was much water there. And they came thither, and were baptyesed: for Iohn was not yet put in prison.

Then arose there a question amonge the disciples of Iohn with the Jewes aboute the purifieng, and they came vnto Iohn, and sayde vnto him: Master, he y^e was with the beyonde Jordan, of whom thou baptyest, cometh vnto him. Iohn answered and sayde: A man can receaue nothinge, excepte it be geuen him from heauē. Ye youre selues are my wytnesses, how that I saye, I am not Christ, but am sent before him. He that hath the brayde, is the brydegrome: but the frende of the brydegrome stondest, and hearkeneth vnto him, and reioysseth greatly on y^e the voyce of the brydegrome, this same ioye of myne is now fulfilled. He must increase, but I must decrease.

He that cometh from an hye, is aboue all. He that is of the earth, is earthly, and speaketh of the earth. He that cometh fro heauen, is aboue all, and testifieth what he hath sene & herde, and no man receaueth his wytnesse. But he that receaueth it, hath se to his seale, & that God is true. For he who God hath sent, speaketh y^e wordes of God: for God geueth not the spirete (vnto him) by measure. The father loueth the sonne, and hath geuen him all thinges in to his hande. He that beleueth on the sonne, hath everlastinge life: he that beleueth not the sonne, shal not se the life, but y^e wrath of God abydeth vpon him.

The III. Chapter.

Now whan Jesus had knowlege, y^e it was come to the eares of the pharises, that Jesus made and baptyesed much disciples the Iohn (howbeit Jesus himself baptyesed not, but his disciples) he left the lōde of Jewry, and departed agayne in to Galile. But he must nedes go thorow Samaria. Then came he in to a cite of Samaria, called Sichar, nye vnto y^e peece of lōde, y^e Jacob gaue vnto Joseph his sonne. And there was Jacobs well. Now whan Jesus was weerye of his iourney, he satt hi downe so vpo the well. And it was aboute the sixth houre. Then camethere a woman of Samaria to drawe water. Jesus sayde vnto her: Geue me drynke. (For his disciples were gone their waye in to y^e cite, to bye meate.) So the woman of Samaria sayde vnto him: How is it that thou arest drynke of me, seinge thou art a Iew, and I a woman of Samaria? For the Iewes medle not with the Samaritans.

Jesus answered, and sayde vnto her: Thou knowest the gift of God, and whos that sayeth vnto the, geue me drynke, thou knowest are of him, and he wolde geue the, the water of life. The woman sayde vnto him: Syr, thou hast nothinge to drawe withall, and the well is depe, from whence hast thou then that water of life? Art thou greater then oure father Jacob, which gaue this well? And he himself drankether of, and his children, and his catell. Jesus answered, and sayde vnto her: Who so euer drynket of this water, shal thyrst agayne: But whosoeuer shal drynke of the water that I shal geue him, shal neuer be more a thyrst: but the water that I shal geue him, shal be in him a well of water, which springeth vp in to euerlastinge life.

The woman sayde vnto him: Syr, geue me that same water, that I thyrst not, nether nede to come hither to drawe. Jesus sayde vnto her: Go, call they husbāde, and come hither. The woman answered, and sayde vnto him: I haue no husbāde.

Jesus sayde vnto her: Thou hast sayde well, I haue no husbāde: for thou hast had fyue husbādes, and he whom thou hast now, is not thine husbāde: there saydest thou right. The woman sayde vnto him: Syr, I se, that thou art a prophet. Oure fathers worshipped vpon this mountayne, and ye saye, that at Jerusalem is the place, where men ought to worshippe. Jesus sayde vnto her: Woman, beleue me, the tyme cometh, that ye shal nether vpon this mountayne ner at Jerusalem worshippe the father. Ye wote not what ye worshippe, but we knowe what we worshippe, for Saluacion cometh of the Jewes. But the tyme cometh, and is now already, that the true worshippers shal worshippe the father in y^e spirete and in the trueth: for the father wil haue sode so to worshippe him. God is a spirete, and they that worshippe him, must worshippe in spirete and in the trueth.

The woman sayde vnto him: I wote that Messias shal come, which is called Christ. Whan he cometh, he shal tell vs all thinges. Jesus sayde vnto her: I that speake vnto the, am he. And in the meane season came his disciples, and they marueyled that he talld with the woman. Yet sayde no man: What arest thou, or what talkest thou with her? Then the woman let hir pot stonde, and wente in to the cite, and sayde vnto the people: Come, se a man, which hath tolde me all that euer I dyd, Is not he Christ?

Then wente they out of the cite, and came vnto him: In the meane whyle his disciples prayed him, and sayde: Master, eate. But he sayde vnto them: I haue meate to eate, that ye knowe not of. Then sayde the disciples amonge them selues: Hath eny man brought him meate? Jesus sayde vnto the: My meate is this, that I do the wyll of him that sent me, and to finish his worke. Saye not ye youre selues: There are yet foure monethes, and then cometh the haruest: Beholde, I saye vnto you: lift vp youre eyes, and loke vpon the felde, & for it is whyte already vnto the haruest.

And he that reapeth, receaueth rewarde, and gathereth frute to euerlastinge life, that both he that soweth and he that reapeth, maye reioyse together. For herin is the prouerbe true: One soweth, another reapeth. I haue sent you to reape that, wher-on ye bestowed no laboure. Other haue laboured, and ye are come in to their laboures.

Many Samaritans of the same cite beleued on him, for the sayenge of the woman, which testified: He hath tolde me all that euer I dyd. Now whan the Samaritans came to him, they besought him, that he wolde tary with them. And he abode there two dayes, and many mo beleued because of his wordes, and sayde vnto the woman: We beleue now hence forth, not because of thy sayenge, & we haue herde him oure selues, and knowe, that this of a trueth is Christ the Sauoure of the worlde.

After two dayes he departed thence, and wente in to Galile. For Jesus himself testified, that a prophet is nothinge set by at home. Now whan he came in to Galile, the Galileas receaued him, which had sene all that he dyd at Jerusalem in the feast: for they also were comethither in the feast. And Jesus came agayne vnto Cana in Galile, where he turned the water vnto wyne.

And there was a certayne ruler, whose sonne laye sicke at Capernaum. This herde that Jesus came out of Jewry in to Galile, and wente vnto him, and besought him, that he wolde come downe, and helpe his sonne, for he laye deed sicke. And Jesus sayde vnto him: Excepte ye se tokens and wonders, ye beleue not. The ruler sayde vnto him: Come downe Syr, or euer my childe dye. Jesus sayde vnto him: Go thy waye, thy sonne lyeth. The man beleued the worde, that Jesus sayde vnto him, and wente his waye. And as he was goinge downe, his seruauntes mett him, and tolde him, and sayde: Thy childe lyueth. Then enquired he of them the houre, wherein he beganne to amende. And they sayde vnto him: Yester- daye aboute the seuenth houre the fever left him. Then the father perceaued, that it was aboute the same houre, wherein Jesus sayde vnto him: Thy sonne lyueth. And he beleued with his whole house. This is now the seconde token that Jesus dyd, whan he came from Jewry in to Galile.

The V. Chapter.

Afterwarde, there was a feast of the Jewes, and Jesus wente vnto Jeru- salem. There is at Jerusalem by the slaughter house a pole, which in hebreue is called Bethesda, and hath fyue porches, wher- in laye many sicke, blynde, lame, wythied, which wayted, whan the water shuld mo- ue. For the angell wente downe at his tyme in to the pole, and stered the water. Who so euer now wente downe first, after that the water was stered, if same was made whole, what soeuer disease he had. And there was a man, which had lyen sicke eight and thirtie yeares. Whan Jesus sawe him lye, and knewe that he had lyen so longe, he sayde vnto him: Wilt thou be made whole? The sicke an- swered him: Syr, I have no man, whan the wa- ter is moued, to put me in to the pole. And whan I come, another steppeth downe in befoze me.

Jesus sayde vnto him: Arise, take vp thy bed, and go thy waye. And immediatly the man was made whole, and toke vp his bed and wente his waye. But vpon the same daye it was the Sabbath. Then sayde the Jewes vnto him that was made whole: To daye is the Sabbath, it is not lawfull for the to cary the bed. He answered them: He that made me whole, sayde vnto me: Take vp thy bed, and go thy waye. Then axed they him: What man is that, which sayde vnto the: Take vp thy bed, and go thy waye? But he that was healed, wist not who he was: for Jesus had gottē himself awaye, becau- se there was moch people.

Afterwarde founde Jesus him in the te- ple, and sayde vnto him: Beholde, thou art made whole, synne no more, lest a worse thin- ge happen vnto the. The mā departed, and tolde the Jewes, that it was Jesus, which had made him whole. Therfore dyd the Jewes persecute Jesus, and sought to slaye him, because he had done this vpon the Sabbath. But Jesus answered them: My father worketh hither to, and I worke also. Therfore sought the Jewes the more to slaye him, because he brake not onely the Sabbath, but sayde also, that God was his father, and ma- de him self equall with God. The answerd Jesus, and sayde vnto them: Verely verely I saye vnto you: The sonne can do nothin- ge of himself, but that he seeth the father do. For what soeuer he doeth, that doeth the son- ne also. The father loveth the sonne, and shew- eth him all that he doth, and wyll shewe him yet greater workes, so that ye shal mar- uyle. For as the father rayseth vp the dead, and maketh them lyue, euē so the sonne also maketh lyuynge whom he wyll. For the fa- ther iudgeth no man, but hath geuen all iudgment vnto the sonne, that they all might honoure the sonne, euē as they honoure the father. Who so honoureth not the sonne, the same honoureth not the father, which hath sent him.

Verely verely I saye vnto you: Who so heareth my worde, and beleueth him that sent me, hath euerlastinge life, and cometh not in to damnacion, but is passed thorow from death vnto life.

Verely verely I saye vnto you: The hou- re cometh, and is now already, the dead shal heare the voyce of the sonne of God: and they that heare it, shal lyue. For as the father hath life in him self, so likewise hath he ge- uen vnto the sonne, to haue life in him self: and hath geuen him power also to execute iudgment because he is the sonne of mā. Maruayle not ye at this: for the houre cometh, in which all that are in the graues, shal heare his voy- ce, and shal go forth, they that haue done good, vnto the resurrection of life: but they that haue done euell, vnto the resurrection of damnacion.

I can do nothin ge of my self. As I hear, so I iudge: and my iudgment is iust. For I like not myne owne wyll, but the wyll of the fa- ther which hath sent me. If I beare wy- nesse of my self, my wytnesse is not true. There is another that beareth wytnesse of me, and I am sure, that the wytnesse which he beareth of me, is true.

He sent vnto Iohn, and he bare wytnes- se of the truth. As for me, I take no recorde of mā, but these thinges I saye, that ye might be sauēd. He was a burnynge and shynynge light, but ye wolde haue reioyced a litle why- le in his light. Neuertheles I haue a grea- ter wytnesse then the wytnesse of Iohn. For the workes which the father hath geue- me to finish, the same workes which I do, beare wytnesse of me, that the father hath sent me. And the father him self which hath sent me, beareth wytnesse of me. Ye haue ne- ver herd his voyce at any tyme, ner sene his shappe: and his worde haue ye not aby- dge in you, for ye beleue not him, whom he hath sent.

Search the scripture, for ye thinke ye ha- ue euerlastinge life therein: and the same is it that testifieth of me, and ye wil not come vnto me, that ye might haue life. I receaue not prayse of men. But I knowe you, that ye haue not the lone of God in you. I am come in my fathers name, and ye receaue me not. If another shal come in his awne name, him wil ye receaue. How can ye bele- ue which receaue prayse one of another, and yet not the prayse, that is of God onely?

Ye shall not thynke that I wyll accuse you before the father: there is one that accuseth you, euē Moses, in whō ye trust. If ye bele- ue Moses, ye shulde beleue me also: for he hath wyrtē of me. But if ye beleue not his wyrtynge, how shal ye beleue my wor- des?

The VI. Chapter.

After this wente Jesus ouer the see in to the cite Tiberias in Galilee. And moch people folowed him, because they sawe the tokens that he dyd vpon the which were diseased. But Jesus wote vpon in to a mountayne, and there he sat with his disciples. And Easter the feast of the Jewes was nye. Then Jesus lift vp his eyes, and sawe that there camē moch people vnto him, and he sayde vnto philippe: Whence shal we bye bred, that these maye eate? But this he sayde to proue him, for he himself knewe, what he wolde do.

Philippe answered him: Two hundredth peny worth of bred is not ynough amonge the, if euery one maye take a litle. The sayde vnto him one of his disciples, Andrew the brother of Symō Peter: There is a lad here, which hath fyue barleye loanes, and two fishes, but what is that amonge so many? Jesus sayde: Make the people syt downe. There was moch grasse in the place. Then they sat the downe, aboute a fyue thousande men. Jesus toke the loanes, thanked, and gaue them to the disciples: the disciples (gaue) to them that were set downe. Likewise also of the fishes as moch as they wolde.

Whan they were fylled, he sayde vnto his disciples: Gather vp the broken meate that remaineth, that nothin ge be lost. The they gathered, and fylled twelue baskettes with the broke meate, that remained of the fyue barleye loanes, vnto them which had eaten. Now whan the men sawe the token that Jesus dyd, they sayde: This is of a trouth the prophet, that shulde come in to the wo- lde. Whan Jesus now perceaued that they wolde come, and take him vp, to make him kynge, he gat him awaye agayne in to a mountayne himself alone.

At euen wente his disciples downe to the see, and entred in to the shippe, and came to the other syde of the see vnto Capernaū. And it was darcke already. And Jesus was not come to the. And he arose thorow a grea- te wynde. Now whan they had rowed vpon a fyue and twentie or thirtie furlonges, they sawe Jesus goynge vpon the see, and came nye to the shippe. And they were a frayd. But he sayde vnto them: It is I, be not a frayd. Then wolde they haue receaued him in to the shippe. And immediatly the shippe was at the londe whither they wente.

The nexte daye after, the people which stood on the other syde of the see, sawe that there was none other shippe there save that one, wherinto his disciples were entred: and that Jesus wote not in with his disciples in to the shippe, but his disciples were gone awaye alone. Howbeit there came other ship- pes from Tiberias, nye vnto the place where they had eate the bred, after the LORDE had geuen thankes. Now whan the people sawe that Jesus was not there, nether his disciples, they toke shippe also, and came to Capernaum, and sought Jesus.

And whan they founde him on the other syde of the see, they sayde vnto him: Master, whan camest thou hither? Jesus answered the, and sayde: Verely verely I saye vnto you: Resete me not because ye sawe the tokens, but because ye ate of the loanes, and were fylled. Labour not for the meate which perissheth but for the endurēth vnto euerlastinge life, which the sonne of mā shal geue you: for him hath God the father sealed.

The sayde they vnto him: What shal we do, that we maye worke the workes of God? Jesus answered, and sayde vnto the: This is the worke of God, that ye beleue on him, whom he hath sent. Then sayde they vnto him: What token doest thou the, that we maye se and beleue the? What workest thou? Our fathers ate māna in the wyldernesse, as it is wyrtē: He gaue the bred fro heauen to eate. Then sayde Jesus vnto the: Verely verely I saye vnto you: Moses gaue you not bred from heauen, but my father geueth you the true bred from heauen: for this is that bred of God, which cometh from heauen,

The sayde they vnto him: Syr, geue vs allwaye soch bled. But Iesus sayde vnto the: I am y bled of life. he that cometh vnto me, shal not hunger: he that beleueth on me, shal neuer thyrst. But I haue sayde vnto you, y ye haue sene me, and yet ye beleue not. This is y will of the father, which hath sent me, that of all that he hath geue me, I shulde lose nothinge, but shulde rayse it vp agayne at the last daye. This is the wyl of him which hath sent me, that, who soeuer seyth the sonne and beleueth on him, haue euertlastinge life, and I shal rayse him vp at the last daye.

The murmured the Jewes theron, that he sayde: I am y bled which is come downe from heauē, and they sayde: Is not this Iesus, Iosephs sonne, whose father and mother we knowe? How sayeth he then, I am come downe from heauen? Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Murmur not amonge youre selues. No man can come vnto me, excepte the father which hath sent me, diuine him. And I shal rayse him vp at the last daye. It is wyrtten in the prophetes: They shal all be taught of God. Who so euer now heareth it of the father, and lerneth it, cometh vnto me. Not that eny man hath sene the father, saue he which is of the father, the same hath sene the father.

Verely verely I saye vnto you: he that beleueth on me, hath euertlastinge life. I am that bled of life. Your fathers ate Manna in the wyldernes, and are deed. This is that bled which cometh from heauen, that who so eateth therof, shulde not dye. I am that luyngge bled, which came downe fro heauen: Who so eateth of this bled, shal lyue for euer. And the bled that I wil geue, is my flesh: which I wil geue for y life of the worlde.

Then strone the Jewes amonge them selues, and sayde: How ca this folowe geue vs his flesh to eate? Iesus sayde vnto the: Verely verely I saye vnto you: Excepte ye eate y flesh of y sonne of man and drynke his bloude, ye haue no life in you. Who so eateth my flesh, and drynke my bloude, hath euertlastinge life: and I shal rayse him vp at the last daye. For my flesh is y very meate, and my bloude is y very drynke. Who so eateth my flesh, and drynke my bloude, abyde in me, and I in him. As the luyngge father hath sent me, and I lyue for the fathers sake: Euen so he that eateth me, shal lyue for my sake. This is y bled which is come fro heauen: Not as youre fathers ate Manna, and are deed. he that eateth of this bled, shal lyue for euer.

These thinges sayde he in the synagoge, whā he taught at Capernaum. Many now of his disciples that herde this, sayde: This is an harde sayenge, who maye abyde the hearynge of it? But whan Iesus perceaued in hi self, that his disciples murmured therat, he sayde vnto them: Doth this offende you? What and yf ye shal se the sonne of man ascende vphither, where he was afore? It is y spere that quyckneth, y flesh proficeth nothinge. The wordes that I speake, are spere, and are life. But there are some amonge you, that beleue not. For Iesus knewe well from the begynnyng, which they were that beleued not, and who shulde betraye him. And he sayde: Therefore haue I sayde vnto you: No man can come vnto me, excepte it be geuen him of my father.

From that tyme forth, many of his disciples wente backe, and walked nomore with him. Then sayde Iesus vnto the twolue: Wyll ye also go awaye? Then answered Simon Peter: LORDE, Whither shal we go? Thou hast the wordes of euertlastinge life: and we haue beleued y knowe, that thou art Christe the sonne of the luyngge God. Iesus answered them. Haue I not chosen you twolue, and one of you is a deuill? But he spake of Judas Symon Iscariot: the same betrayed him afterwarde, and was one of the twolue.

The VII. Chapter.

After that wente Iesus aboute in Galile, for he wolde not go aboute in Jewry, because the Jewes sought to kyll him. But the Jewes feast of Tabernacles was at hande. Then sayde his brethren vnto him: Get the hēce, and go into Jewry, that thy disciples also maye se thy workes, that thou doest. he that seyth to be openly knowne, doth nothinge in secrete. If thou do soch thinges, the hēce y self before the worlde: For his awne brethren also beleued not in him.

Then sayde Iesus vnto them: My tyme is not yet come, but youre tyme is allwaye ready. The worlde can not hate you, but me it hateth: because I testifie of it, that the workes of it are euill.

So ye vp vnto this feast, I wyll not go vp vnto this feast, for my tyme is not yet fulfilled. Whan he sayde this vnto them, he abode styll in Galile. But as soone as his brethren were gone vp, then wente he vp also vnto the feast, not openly, but as it were secretly. Then sought him y Jewes at y feast, and sayde: Where is he? And there was a greete murmur of him amonge the people. Some sayde: he is good. But other sayde: No, he doth but disceane the people. Howbeit no man spake frely of him, for feare of the Jewes.

But in the myddes of the feast wote Iesus vp in to the temple, and taught. And the Jewes marueyled and sayde: How can he y scripture, seynge he hath not lerned it? Iesus answered them, and sayde: My doctryne is not myne, but his that hath sent me. If any man wyl do his will, he shal knowe, whether this doctryne be of God, or whether I speake of my self. he that speaketh of himself, seeketh his awne prayse: but he that seyth the prayse of him that sent him, the same is true, y there is no vnrighteousnes in him. Hath not Moses geuen you the lawe, and none of you kepeth the lawe? Why go ye aboute to kyll me? The people answered, and sayde: Thou hast the deuill, who goest aboute to kyll the. Iesus answered and sayde: One worke haue I done, and ye all marueyle. Moses gaue you the circumcision, (not because it cometh of Moses, but of y fathers: yet do ye circumsyse a man vpon the Sabbath. If a man receaue circumcision vpon the Sabbath, that the lawe of Moses shulde not be broken, disdayne ye then at me, because I haue made a mā euery whyte whole on the Sabbath? Judge not after the vter appareance, but iudge righteous iudgment.

Then sayde some of them of Jerusalem: Is not this he, who they go aboute to kyll? And beholde, he speaketh boldly, and they saye nothinge to him. Do our rulers knowe in dede, that he is very Christ? How beyt we knowe, whence this is. But whā Christ cometh, no man shal knowe whence he is.

Then cryed Iesus in the temple as he taught, and sayde: See ye knowe me, and whence I am ye knowe, and of my self am I not come, but he y sent me, is true, whom ye knowe not. But I knowe him, for I am of him, and he hath sent me. Then sought they to take him, but no man layed handes vpon him, for his houre was not yet come. But many of the people beleued on him, and sayde: Whan Christ cometh, shall he do mo tokens, then this doth?

And it came to the pharises eares, that y people murmured soch thinges of him. And the pharises and hye prestes sent out seruantes, to take him. Then sayde Iesus vnto them: I am yet a litle whyle with you, and then go I vnto him that hath sent me. Ye shal seke me, y not fynde me: and where I am, thither can ye not come. Then sayde the Jewes amonge them selues: Whyther wil he go, that we shal not fynde him? Wyl he go amonge the Grekes that are scattered abode, and teach the Grekes? What manner of sayenge is this, that he sayeth: ye shal seke me, and not fynde me: and where I am, thither can not ye come?

But in the last daye which was y most solempne daye of the feast, Iesus stode vp, cried, and sayde: Who so thyrsteth, let him come vnto me, and drynke. he that beleueth on me, as the scripture sayeth, out of his bow shal flowe ryuers of the water of life. (But this spake he of the spere, which they that beleue on him, shulde receaue. For the holy goost was not yet there, because Iesus was not yet glorified.) Many of the people now whan they herde this sayenge, sayde: This is a very prophet. Other sayde: he is Christ. But some sayde: Shal Christ come out of Galile? Sayeth not the scripture, that Christ shal come of the sede of Dauid, and out of the towne of Bethleem, where David was? Thus was there discepcion amonge the people for his sake. Some of them wolde haue taken him, but no man layed handes on him.

The seruantes came to the hye prestes and pharises, and they sayde vnto them: Why haue ye not broughte him? The seruantes answered: Neuer mā spake as this man doth. Then answered them the pharises: Are ye also disceaued? Doth eny of the rulers or pharises beleue on him? But the comon people which knowe not the lawe, are cursed. Nicodemus sayde vnto them, he that came to him by night, which was one of them: Doth oure lawe iudge eny man, before it heare him, and knowe what he hath done? They answered and sayde vnto him: Art thou a Galilean also? Searche and loke, out of Galile aryseth no prophet. And so euery man wente home.

The VIII. Chapter.

Iesus wente vnto mount Oliuete, and early in the mornynge came he agayne in to the temple, and all the people came vnto him. And he sat downe, and taught them. And 3 scribes and pharises brought vnto him a woman taken in adontrye, and set her there openly, and sayde vnto him: Master, this woman was taken in adontrye, enē as the dede was adoyngē. Moses in the lawe commaunded vs to stone soch. What sayest thou? This they sayde, to tempte him, that they might haue wherof to accuse him. But Iesus stouped downe, and wrote with his fygger vps the grounde. Now whyle they continued argynge him, he lift him self vp, and sayde vnto them: He that is amonge you without synne, let him cast the first stone at her. And he stouped downe agayne, and wrote vpon the grounde. But whan they herde that, they wente out, one after another: the eldest first, and left Iesus alone, and the woman standinge before him. Iesus lift himself vp, and whan he sawe noman but the woman, he sayde vnto her: Woman, where are thine accusers? hath noman condemned the? She sayde: LORDE, no man. Iesus sayde: Neither do I condemne the, Go thy waye, and synne nomore.

B Then spake Iesus agayne vnto them, and sayde: I am the light of the woulde. He that foloweth me, shal not walke in darknesse, but shal haue the light of life. Then sayde the pharises vnto him: Thou bearest recorde of thy self, thy recorde is not true.

Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Though I beare recorde of my self, yet my recorde is true: for I knowe whence I came, and whither I go: but ye can not tell whence I come, and whither I go. Ye iudge after the flesh, I iudge no man: but yf I iudge, my iudgment is true: for I am not alone, but I and the father that hath sent me. It is wyrtten also in youre lawe, that the testimony of two men is true. I am one that beare wytnesse of my self: And the father that sent me, beareth wytnes of me also. Then sayde they vnto him: Where is thy father? Iesus answered: Ye nether knowe me ner yet my father. Yf ye knewe me, ye shulde knowe my father also. These wordes spake Iesus vpon the Gods chest, as he taught in the tēple. And noman toke him, for his houre was not yet come.

Then sayde Iesus agayne vnto them: I go my waye, and ye shal see me, and shal dye in youre synnes: whither I go, thither can not ye come. Then sayde 3 Jewes: Wyl he kyll him self then, that he sayeth: whither I go, thither can not ye come? And he sayde vnto them: Ye are from beneath, I am from above: Ye are of this woulde, I am not of this woulde. Therefore haue I sayde vnto you, that ye shal dye in youre synnes. For yf ye beleue not that I am he, ye shal dye in youre synnes.

Then sayde they vnto him: Who art thou then? And Iesus sayde vnto the: Ent the very same thinge that I saye vnto you. I haue many thinges to saye and to iudge of you. But he that sent me, is true: and loke what I haue herde of him, that speake I before the woulde, howbeit they understode not, that he spake of the father.

Then sayde Iesus vnto them: Whan ye haue life vp an hve the sonne of man, then shal ye knowe that I am he, and that I do nothynge of my self: but as my father hath taught me, euen so I speake. And he that sent me, is with me. The father leaueh me not alone, for I do alwaie that pleaseth him. Whan he thus spake, many beleued on him. Then sayde Iesus vnto the Jewes, that beleued on him: Yf ye contynue in my worde, then are ye my very disciples, and ye shal knowe the truerth, and the truerth shal make you fre.

Then answered they him: We are Abrahams fede, we were neuer bonde to eny man, how sayest thou then: Ye shal be fre? Iesus answered them, and sayde: Verely verely I saye vnto you: Who so euer doth synne, is the seruaunt of synne: As for the seruaunt, he abydeh not in the house for ever, but the sonne abydeh ewer. Yf the sonne therefore make you fre, then are ye fre in dede. I knowe that ye are Abrahams fede, but ye sette to kyll me. For my worde taketh not amonge you. I speake that I haue sene of my father, & ye do that ye haue sene of youre father.

They answered, and sayde vnto him: Abraham is oure father. Iesus sayde vnto them: Yf ye were Abrahams children, ye wolde do the dedes of Abraham. But now ye go aboute to kyll me, a man, that haue tolde you the truerth, which I haue herde of God, this dyd not Abraham. Redo the dedes of youre father. Then sayde they vnto him: We are not borne of fornicacion, we haue one father, euen God. Iesus sayde vnto them: Yf God were youre father, then wolde ye loue me. For I am proceaded forth, and come from God. For I am not come of my self, but he hath sent me. Why knowe ye not the my speach? Eue because ye can not abyde the hearinge of my worde.

Ye are of the father the deuell, and after the lustes of youre father wyl ye do. The same was a murthurer from the begynnyngē, and abode not in the truerth: for the truerth is not in him. Whan he speaketh a lye, then speaketh he of his awne: for he is a liar, and a father of the same. But because I saye the truerth, ye beleue me not.

Which of you can rebuke me of one synne? Yf I saye the truerth, why do ye not beleue me? He that is of God, heareth Gods worde. Therefore heare ye not, because ye are not of God.

Then answered the Jewes, and sayde vnto him: Saye we not right, that thou art a Samaritane, and hast the deuell? Iesus answered: I haue no deuell, but I honour my father, and ye haue dishonoured me. I seek not myne awne prayse, but there is one that seeketh it, and iudgeth. Verely verely I saye vnto you: Yf eny man kepe my worde, he shal neuer se death.

Then sayde the Jewes vnto him: Now knowe me, that thou hast the deuell. Abraham is deed and the prophetes, and thou sayest: Yf eny mā kepe my worde, he shal neuer taste of death. Art thou greater then oure father Abraham? which is deed, and the prophetes are deed? Whō makest thou thy self? Iesus answered: Yf I prayse myself, then is my prayse nothynge. But it is my father that prayseth me, which ye saye is youre God, and ye knowe hi not: but I knowe him. And yf I shulde saye, I knowe him not, I shulde be a liar, like vnto you. But I knowe him, and kepe his worde.

Abraham youre father was glad, that he shulde se my daye, and he sawe it, and reioysed. Then sayde the Jewes vnto him: Thou art not yet fiftie yeare olde, and hast thou sene Abraham? Iesus sayde vnto the: Verely verely I saye vnto you: Or euer Abraham was, I am. Then toke they vp stones to cast at him. But Iesus hyd himself, and wente out of the temple.

The IX. Chapter.
Now Iesus passed by, and sawe a man that was borne blynde. And his disciples axed him, & sayde: Master, Who hath synned: this, or his elders, that he was borne blynde? Iesus answered: Neither hath this synned, ner his elders, but that

y workes of God shulde be shewed on him. I must worke the workes of him that hath sent me, whyle it is daye. The night cometh, whan no man can worke. As longe as I am in the woulde, I am the light of the woulde.

Whan he had thus sayde, he spat on the grounde, and made claye of the spetle, and rubbed the claye on the eyes of the blynde, and sayde vnto him: Go thy waye to the pole of Siloah (which is interpreted, sent) and wash the. Then wete he his waye and washed him, and came seynge. The neighbours and they that had sene him before, that he was a begger, sayde: Is not this he that sat, and begged? Some sayde: It is he. Other sayde: he is like him. But he himself sayde: I am euen he. Then sayde they vnto him: How are thine eyes opened? He answered, and sayde: The mā that is called Iesus, made claye, and anoynted myne eyes, and sayde: Go thy waye to the pole of Siloah, and wash the. I wente my waye, & washed me, and receaued my sight. Then sayde they vnto him: Where is he? He sayde: I can not tell.

Then brought they vnto the pharises, him that a litle before was blynde. It was the Sabbath, whan Iesus made the claye, and opened his eyes. Then agayne the pharises axed him, how he had receaued his sight. He sayde vnto the: He put claye vpon myne eyes, and I washed me, & now I se.

Then sayde some of the pharises: This man is not of God, seynge he kepeth not the Sabbath. But the other sayde: How can a synfull man do soch tokens? And there was a sk. yse amonge the. They sayde agayne vnto y blynde: What sayest thou of him, that he hath opened thine eyes? He sayde: he is a prophet.

The Jewes beleued not hi, that he was blynde, and had receaued his sight, tyll they called the elders of him, that had receaued his sight, and they axed them, and sayde: Is this youre sonne, whom ye saye, was borne blynde? How doth he now se then? His elders answered them, and sayde: We knowe, that this is oure sonne, and that he was borne blynde. But how he now seyth, we can not tell: or who hath opened his eyes, can we not tell. He is olde ynough himself, ax him, let him speake for him self.

This sayde his elders, because they feared the people, lest they should be stoned: for they knewe, that he was a prophet.

municate. Therfore sayde his elders: He is olde ynough, are him.

^{10.12.7.c}
^{Act. 13. d} Then called they the mā agayne & was blynde, and sayde vnto him: "Geeue God & prayst, we knowe that this man is a synner. He answered, & sayde: Whether he be a synner or no, I can not tell: one thinge am I sure off, that I was blynde, and now I se. The sayde they vnto him agayne: What dyd he vnto the? How opened he thine eyes? He answered them: I tolde you right now. Herde ye it not? What, wil ye heare it agayne? Will ye also be his disciples? Then rayted they him, and sayde: Thou art his disciple. We are sure that God spake wth Moses: As for this felowe, we knowe not whēce he is.

^D The man answered, and sayde vnto the: This is a maruelous thinge, that ye wote not whence he is, and he hath opened mine eyes. For we knowe that God heareth not & sinners: but yf eny mā be a feare of God, and doth his will, him heareth he. Sens & wolde begonne was it not herde, that eny man opened the eyes of one that was borne blynde. If this man were not of God, he coulde haue done no thinge. They answered, and sayde vnto him: Thou art altogether borne in synne, and teachest thou vs? And they thurst him out.

Jesus herde, & they had thurst him out, and whā he had founde him, he sayde vnto him: Beleuest thou on the sonne of God? He answered, and sayde: LORDE, who is it, & I might beleue on him? Jesus sayde vnto him: Thou hast sene him, and he it is, that talketh with the. He sayde: LORDE, I beleue. And he worshipped him.

And Jesus sayde: I am come to iudgmet into this wolde, that they which se not, might se: and that they which se, might be made blynde. And some of the pharises & were with him, herde this, and sayde vnto him: Are we then blynde also? Jesus sayde vnto the: If ye were blynde, ye shulde haue no synne. But now that ye saye, we se, therfore youre sonne remayneth.

Jesus sayde vnto her: Sayde I not vnto the, that yf thou dydest beleue, thou shuldest see the glory of God?

E Then toke they awaye the stone, where the deed laye. Jesus lift vp his eyes, and sayde: Father, I thanke y, that thou hast herde me. Howbeit I knowe, that thou hearest me allwaye: but because of y people that stonde by, I sayde it, that they maye beleue, that thou hast sent me.

Whan he had sayde this, he cryed loude: Lazarus come forth. And y deed came forth bounde hande & foot wth grane clothes, & his face bounde wth a napyen. Jesus sayde vnto the: Lowse him, & let him go. Many now of y Jewes which mere come vnto Mary, and sawe what Jesus dyd, beleued on him. But some of the wente their waye vnto the pharises, and tolde the what Jesus had done.

Then the hye prestes, and the pharises gathered a councell, and sayde: What do we? This man doeth many tokens. If we let him go thus, all mē wyl beleue in him: the shal the Romaynes come, and take awaye oure londe and people. But one of them, named Caiphas, which was hye prest that same yere, sayde vnto them: Ye knowe nothinge nether conside ye eny thinge at all. It is better for us that one mā dye for the people, then that all the people shulde perishe.

S This spake he not of himself, but for so moch as he was hye prest of the same yere, he prophesied. For Jesus was for to dye for the people, and not for the people onely, but that he shulde gather together the children of God, which were scattered abroad: from that daye forth they toke coucell, how they might put him to death. Jesus walked no more openly amonge the Jewes, but wente from thence in to a countre by the wyldernes, to a cite called Ephraim, & there had he his beyng with his disciples.

The Jewes Easter was nye at hande. And there wente vp many to Jerusalem out of that countre before y Easter, to purifye them selues. Then stode they vp, and ayled after Jesus, and spake amonge them selues in the temple: What thynke ye, that he cometh not to y feast? The hye prestes & pharises had geuen a commaundement, that yf any man knewe where he were, he shulde herue it, that they might take him.

The XII. Chapter.

S Ire dayes before Easter came Jesus vnto Bethanye, where Lazarus was, which was deed, whom Jesus raised from the deed. There they made him a supper, and Martha serued. But Lazarus was one of them, that sat at the table with him. Then toke Mary a ponde of oyntment of pure and costly Nardus, and anoynted Jesus fete, & dryed his fete with hir heer. The house was full of the sauour of the oyntment. Then sayde one of his disciples, Judas Iscarioth Symons sonne, which afterwarde betrayed him: Why was not this oyntment solde for thre hundred pens, and geuen to the poore? (This sayde he not that he cared for the poore, but because he was a thefe, and had the bagge, and bare that which was geue.) Then sayde Jesus: Let her alone, this hath she kepte agaynst the daye of my buryenge. For the poore haue ye allwaye with you, but me haue ye not allwaye.

Then moch people of the Jewes had knowlege, that he was there, and they came not for Jesus sake onely, but also for they might se Lazarus, whom he had raised from the deed. But y hye prestes were aduised to put Lazarus to death also: because for his sake many of the Jewes were away and beleued on Jesus.

Vpon the nexte daye moch people which were come vnto the feast, whan they hadd that Jesus came towarde Jerusalem, they toke braunches of palme trees, and wete out to meete him, and cryed: Hosanna, Blessed be he, that in the name of the LORDE cometh kynge of Israel. Jesus gat a yonge Ass, and rode thereon, As it is wyrted: Seare not thou daughter of Sion, beholde, thy kynge cometh rydinge vps an Asses foale. Neuertheles his disciples understode not these thinges at the first, but whan Jesus was glorified, then remebied they that soch thinges were wyrted of him, and that they had done soch thinges vnto him.

The people that was with him whan he called Lazarus out of y graue and raised him from the deed, commended the act. Therefore the people met him, because they herde, that he had done soch a miracle. But the pharises sayde amonge them selues: Re se, that we prenaile nothinge, beholde, all y woulde runneth after him.

There were certayne Greeks (amonge the that were come vp to Jerusalem to worship at the feast) the same came vnto Philippe, which was of Bethsaida out of Galile, & prayed him, and sayde: Syr, we wolde sayne se Jesus. Philippe came, & tolde Andriam. And agayne, Philippe and Andriam tolde Jesus. Jesus answered the, and sayde: The houre is come, that the sonne of man must be glorified.

Verely verely I saye vnto you: Excepte the wheat come fall in to the grounde, and dye, it bydeth alone: But yf it dye, it beyngeth forth moch frute. He that loueth his life, shal lose it: and he that hateth his life in this worlde, shal kepe it vnto life euerlastinge. He that wyl serue me, let him folowe me. And where I am, there shal my seruauit be also: and he that serueth me, him shal my father honour.

Now is my soule heuy, and what shal I saye? Father, helpe me out of this houre. But therfore am I come in to this houre. Father, glorifye thy name.

Then came there a voyce from heauen: I haue glorified it, and wyl glorifye it agayne. Then sayde the people that stode by and herde: It thonderech. Other sayde: An angell spake vnto him. Jesus answered, and sayde: This voyce came not because of me, but for youre sakes.

Now goeth the iudgment ouer the worlde. Now shal the prynce of this worlde be thrust out. And I whan I am lift vp from the earth, wyl drawe all vnto me. (But this he sayde, to signifye, what death he shulde dye.) Then answered him the people: We haue herde in the lawe, that Christ endureth for ouer: and how sayest thou then, that the sonne of man must be lift vp? Who is this sonne of man?

Then sayde Jesus vnto them: The lighte is yet a litle whyle with you, walke whyle ye haue the light, that the darknesse fall not vps you. He that walketh in the darknesse, woteth not whither he goeth. Beleue ye on the light, whyle ye haue it, that ye maye be the children of light.

These thinges spake Jesus, and departed awaye, and hyd himself from them. And though he had done soch tokens before the, yet beleued they not on him, that the sayenge of the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spake: LORDE, who beleueth oure preachinge? Or to whom is the arme of the LORDE opened? Therefore coude they not beleue, for the saye agayne: he hath blynded their eyes, and hardened their hert, that they shulde not se with the eyes, ner vnderstonde with the hert, & shulde be conuerted, and he shulde heale them. This sayde the say, whan he sawe his glory, and spake of him.

Neuertheles many of the chiefe rulers beleued on him, but because of the phari-

ses they wolde not be a knowne of it, lest they shulde be excommunicate. For they loved more the prayse with men, then with God.

Jesus cryed and sayde: He that beleueth on me, beleueth not on me, but on him that sent me. And he that seyth me, seyth him & sent me. I am come a light in to the worlde, that whosoener beleueth on me, shulde not byde in darknesse. And he that heareth my wordes and beleueth not, I iudge him not, for I am not come to iudge the worlde, but to saue the worlde. He that refuseth me, and receaueth not my wordes, hath one already that iudgeth him. The worde that I haue spoken, that shal iudge him at the last daye, for I haue not spoken of my self: but the father that sent me, hath geuen me a commaundement, what I shulde do and saye. And I knowe that his commaundement is life euerlastinge. Therefore loke what I speake, that speake I en so, as the father hath sayde vnto me.

The XIII. Chapter.

Before the feast of Easter whan Jesus knewe that his tyme was come, that he shulde departe out of this worlde vnto y father, as he loued his which were in the worlde, even so loued he them vnto the ende. And after supper, whan the bell had already put into y hert of Judas Iscarioth Symons sonne, to betraye him, Jesus knowinge that the father had geuen all thinges in to his handes, & that he was come from God, and wente vnto God, he rose from supper, and layed asyde his vpper garmentes, and toke a towell, and gyde it aboute him. Afterwarde poured he water into a basen, and beganne to wash the disciples fete, and dryed them with the towell, & he was gyded withall.

Then came he vnto Symon Peter, and y same sayde vnto him: LORDE, shalt thou washe my fete? Jesus answered and sayde vnto him: What I do, thou knowest not now, but thou shalt knowe it hereafter. The sayde Peter vnto him: Thou shalt neuer wash my fete. Jesus answered him: If I wash y not, thou shalt haue no parte with me. Symon Peter sayde vnto him: LORDE, not the fete onely, but the handes also and the heade.

Jesus sayde vnto him: He that is washe, nedeth not saue to washe y fete, but is cleane euery whytt. And ye are cleane, but not all. For he knewe his betrayer, therfore sayde he: ye are not all cleane.

Now when he had washed their feet, and taken his clothes, he sat him downe agayne, and sayde vnto the: Wote ye what I haue done vnto you? Ye call me master and LORDE, and ye saye right therin, for so I am. If I then your LORDE and master haue washed your feet, ye ought also to wash one anothers feet. I haue geue you an ensample, that ye shulde do as I haue done vnto you. Verely verely I saye vnto you: the seruante is not greater then his lord: nether is the Apostell greater then he that sent him. If ye knowe these thinges, blessed are ye if ye do them. I speake not of you all, I knowe whom I haue chosen, but that the scripture might be fulfilled: He that eateth my bread, hath lift up his heale against me. I tell it you now, before it come, that when it is come to passe, ye maye beleue, that I am he.

C Verely verely I saye vnto you: he that receaueth whom so euer I sende, receaueth me: and he that receaueth me, receaueth him that sent me. When Iesus had thus sayde, he was heuy in spirete, and testified, and sayde: Verely verely I saye vnto you: One amonge you shal betraye me. Then the disciples lokt ad one vpon another, and were in doute, of whom he spake. But there was one amonge his disciples, that leaned at the table on Iesus bosome, whom Iesus loued: to him becomen Symon Peter, that he shulde saye, who it was, of whom he spake. For the same leaned vpon Iesus brest, and sayde vnto him: LORDE, who is it? Iesus answered: It is he, vnto whom I dypped the soppe, and gaue it vnto Iudas Icarioth Symons sonne. And after that he dypped the deuell entred in to him.

Then sayde Iesus vnto him: That thou doest, do quickly. But he same wysly no man at the table, for what intent he sayde it vnto him. Some thought (for so moch as Iudas had the bagge) that Iesus had sayde vnto him: By that is necessary for vs agaynst the feast: Or that he shulde geue some thinge vnto the poore. When he had receaued the soppe, he wente out immediatly, and it was night.

D When he was gone forth, Iesus sayde: Now is the sonne of man glorified, and God is glorified in him. If God be glorified in him, the shal god glorifie him also in himself, and straight waye shal he glorifie him. Deare childre, I am yet a litle whyle with you. Ye shal see me, and (as I sayde vnto Iudas) whiche I go, thither can ye not come. And now I saye vnto you, A new comādmēt geue I you, that ye loue together as I haue loued you, & euen so ye loue one another. By this shal euery man knowe that ye are my disciples, if ye haue loue one to another. Symon Peter saide vnto him: LORDE, whiche goest thou? Iesus answered him: Whiche I go, thou canst not folowe me now, but thou shalt folowe me hereafter. Peter sayde vnto him: LORDE, why canst thou not I folowe thee now? I will geue my life for thy sake. Iesus answered him: Wilt thou geue thy life for my sake? Verely verely I saye vnto you: The cocke shal not crowe, tyll thou haue denyed me thrise.

The XIII. Chapter.

Now he sayde vnto his disciples: La I not youre here be a frayd. If ye beleue on God, the beleue also on me. In my fathers house are many dwellinges. If ye were not so, I wolde haue tolde you: I go to prepare the place for you. And though I go to prepare the place for you, yet wil I come agayne, and receaue you vnto myself, & ye maye be where I am. And whiche I go, ye knowe, and the waye knowe ye also.

Thomas sayde vnto him: LORDE, we knowe not whither thou goest, & how can we knowe the waye? Iesus sayde vnto him: I am the waye, and the trouth, and the life. No man cometh to the father but by me. If ye knewe me, ye knowe my father also. And frō hēce forth ye knowe hi, & haue sene him. Philippe sayde vnto him: LORDE, shewe vs the father, and it sufficeth vs. Iesus sayde vnto him: Thus longe am I with you, and hast thou not knowen me? Philippe, he that seyth me, seyth the father. And how sayest thou then: Shewe vs the father? Beluyst thou not that I am in the father, and that the father is in me? The wordes that I speake vnto you, those speake not I of myself: but the father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the workes. Beleue me, that I am in the father, and that the father is in me: Or else, how leue me at the lest for the workes sake.

Verely verely I saye vnto you: he that leueth on me, shal do the workes that I do, and shal do greater then these: for I go to the father, and what soeuer ye axe of the father in my name, that wyl I do, that the father maye be prayd in the sonne. If ye axe any thinge in my name, I wyl do it.

If ye loue me, kepe my comādmētes. And I wyl praye the father, and he shal geue you another comforter, that he maye abyde with you for euer: euen the spirete of trouth, whom ye woulde can not receaue, for it seyth him not, nether doeth it knowe him: but ye knowe him, for he abydeth with you, & shal be in you. I wil not leaue you desolate, I com vnto you. It is yet a litle whyle, the shal the woulde se me nomore, but ye shal se me: for I lyue, and ye shal lyue also. In that daye shal ye knowe, that I am in the father and the father is in me, and I in you. He that hath my comādmētes, and kepeth them, the same is he that loneth me: and he that loneth me, shal be loued of my father: & I wyl loue him, and wyl shewe myne awne self vnto him. Iudas sayde vnto hi: (not that Icarioth) LORDE, what is the cause the, that thou wilt shewe thy self vnto vs, and not vnto the worlde?

Iesus answered, and sayde vnto him: He that loueth me, wyl kepe my worde, and my father wyl loue him: and we wyl come vnto him, and wyl make oure dwellinge with him. But he that loueth me not, kepeth not my sayenges. And the worde that ye heare, is not myne, but the fathers which hath sent me.

This haue I spoken vnto you, whyle I was with you. But that comforter euen the holy goost, whō my father shal sende in my name, he shal teache you all thinges, & brynge al to your remembraunce, what soeuer I haue tolde you.

Peace I leaue vnto you, my peace I geue you: I geue not vnto you, as the worlde geueth. Let not yd hert be troubled, nether let it be a frayd. Ye haue herde, that I sayde vnto you: I go, & come agayne vnto you. If ye loued me, ye wolde reioyse, because I haue sayde, I go to the father: for the father is greater then I. And now haue I tolde you, before it come, that when it is come to passe, ye maye beleue: Here after wyl not I talke much with you. For the prync of this worlde cometh, and hath nothinge in me. But that the worlde maye knowe that I loue the father. And as the father hath comāunded me, so do I. Arise, let vs go hence.

The XV. Chapter.

I Am a true vyne, and my father is an husbāde man. Euery brānch that bryngeth forth frute in me, shal be cut of: and euery one that bryngeth forth frute, shal he pouge, & it maye brynge forth more frute. Now are ye cleane, because of the worde, that I haue spokē vnto you. Byde ye in me, and I in you. Like as the brānch can not brynge forth frute of it self, excepte it byde in the vyne, & euen so nether ye also, excepte ye abyde in me.

I am the vyne, ye are the brānches. He that abydeth in me, and I in him, the same bryngeth forth moch frute: for without me can ye do nothinge. He that abydeth not in me, is cast out as a vyne brānche, and it wythereth, and men gather it vp, and cast it in to the fyre, and it burneth. If ye abyde in me, and my wordes abyde in you, ye shal axe what ye wyl, & it shal be done vnto you. Herin is my father prayd, that ye brynge forth moch frute, and become my disciples. Like as my father hath loued me, euen so haue I loued you. Cotynue ye in my loue. If ye kepe my comādmētes, ye shal cotynue in my loue: like as I haue kepte my fathers comādmētes, and cotynue in his loue.

These thinges haue I spoken vnto you, that my toye might remaine in you, and that your toye might be perfecte. This is my comādmēt, that ye loue together, as I haue loued you. No man hath greater loue, then to set his life for his frende. Ye are my frendes, if ye do that I commaunde you. Hence forth call I you not seruautes, for a seruaunt knoweth not what his lord doeth. But I haue sayde that ye are frendes: for all that I haue herde of my father, haue I shewed vnto you. Ye haue not chosen me, but I haue chosen you, and ordeyned ye, that ye go, and brynge forth frute, and that your frute contynue, that what soeuer ye axe the father in my name, he shulde geue it you.

This I commaunde you, that ye loue one another. If the worlde hate you, then knowe, that it hath hated me before you. If ye were of the worlde, the worlde wolde loue his owne. Howbeit because ye are not of the worlde, but I haue chosen you from the worlde, therefore the worlde hateth you. Remember my worde, that I sayde vnto you: The seruante is not greater then his lord. If they haue persecuted me, they shal persecute you also: If they haue kepte my worde, they shal kepe yours also.

But all this shal they do vnto you for my names sake, because they knowe not him that sent me. If I had not come & spokē vnto the, the shulde they haue no synne. But now haue they nothinge to cloake their synne: & shall. He that hateth me, hateth my father also. If I had not done amonge the workes which no other mā dyd, they shulde haue no synne. But now haue they sene it, and yet haue they hated both me & my father. Nevertheless that the sayenge might be ful

Act. 9. a
Ioh. 15. c
1. Cor. 2. a

Ihesus sayde vnto you, that ye shulde not be offended. They shal excommunicate you. The tyme commeth, that who soener putteth you to death, shal thynke that he doth seruyce vnto God. And soch thinges shal they do vnto you, because they haue nether knowne yf I sayde vnto you, that whan the tyme cometh ye maye thynke thereon, that I tolde you. But these thinges haue I not sayde vnto you from the begynnyng: for I was with you.

But now I go vnto him that sent me, & none of you aseyth me: Whiche goest thou? but because I haue sayde these thinges vnto you, youre hert is full of sorowe. Nevertheless I tell you the truthe, It is better for you yf I go awaye: for yf I go not awaye that comforter commeth not vnto you: but yf I departe, I wil sende hī vnto you. And whan he commeth, he shal rebuke the world of synne, and of righteousness, & of iudgment. Of synne, because they beleue not on me. Of righteousness, because I go to the father, and ye shal see me nomore. Of iudgment, because the prynce of this worlde is iudged already.

and 15. c

I haue yet moch to saye vnto you, but ye can not now beare it awaye: howbeit whan he (the spire of tracteth cometh) he shal lede you in to all truthe. For he shal not speake of himself, but what soener he shal heare, that shal he speake: and he shal shewe you, what is for to come. He shal glorifye me: for he shal receaue of myne, and shal shewe vnto you. All that the father hath, is myne. Therefore haue I sayde: he shal receaue of myne, and shewe vnto you.

Ioh. 14. f

After a litle whyle, and ye shal not see me: and agayne after a litle whyle, and ye shal see me: for I go to the father. The same some of his disciples amonge themselves: What is this that he sayeth vnto vs, After a litle whyle, and ye shal not see me: & agayne after a litle whyle, & ye shal see me: for I go to the father? Then sayde they: What is this, that he sayeth: After a litle whyle? We can not tell what he sayeth. Then perceaued Iesus that they wolde see him, and he sayde vnto them: Reenquyre of this amonge you, saines, that I sayde: After a litle whyle, and ye shal not see me: & agayne after a litle whyle, and ye shal see me.

Verely verely I saye vnto you: He shal wepe and lamente, but the worlde shal reioyce. He shal be sory, but youre sorowe shal be turned in to ioye. A woman whan she travaileth, hath sorowe, for hir houre is come. But whan she is deliuered of the childe, she thynketh nomore of the anguyshe, forioy that a man is borne in to the worlde. And now haue ye sorowe also: but I wil see you agayne, and youre hert shal reioyce, and youre ioye shal noman take from you. And in that daye shal ye see me no question. Verely verely I saye vnto you: If ye are yf I saye ought in my name, he shal geue it you. Whether to haue ye a red nothinge in my name. Aye, and ye shal receaue, yf youre ioye maye be perfecte. These thinges haue I spoken vnto you by prouerbes. Nevertheless the tyme commeth, that I shal speake nomore by prouerbes, but I shal shewe you plainly of my father.

In that daye shal ye see in my name. And I saye not vnto you, that I wil praye vnto the father for you: for the father himself loneth you, because ye haue loued me, & beleued that I am come out from God: I wente out from the father, and came in to the worlde: Agayne, I leaue yf worlde, and go to the father.

His disciples sayde vnto him: Beholde, now talkest thou plainly, and speakest w prouerbes. Now are we sure yf thou knowest all thinges, and nedest not that any mā shal de are the. Therefore beleue we, that thou comest out from God: Iesus answered them: Now ye do beleue: Beholde, the houre draweth nye, and is come already, that ye shal be scattered, every man in to his awne, and shal leaue me alone: and yet am I not alone, for the father is with me.

These thinges haue I spoken vnto you, that in me ye might haue peace. In yf worlde haue ye trouble, but be of good comfort, I haue overcome the worlde.

The XVII. Chapter.

Ihesus spake Iesus, and lifte up his eyes toward heauen, and sayde: Father, the houre is come, that thou glorifye thy sonne, that thy sonne maye glorifye the. Like as thou hast geuen him power over all fleche, that he shal reuerlastinge life to as many as thou hast geuen him. But this is the life everlastinge, that they knowe the (that thou onely art the true God) and whom thou hast sent, Iesus Christ.

I haue glorified yf vnto earth, & yf finished yf worke, yf thou gauest me to do. And now glorifye me thou father by thine awne self, with yf glory which I had or ever the worlde was. I haue declared thy name vnto yf men, whom thou gauest me from the worlde. They were thine, and thou gauest them vnto me, and they haue kepte thy worde.

Now knowe they, that all thinges what soener thou hast geuen me, are of the. For yf wordes which thou gauest me, haue I geue vnto them, and they haue receaued them, & knowe of a truthe, that I am come forth from the, and haue beleued, that thou hast sent me. I praye for them, and praye not for the worlde, but for them whom thou hast geuen me, for they are thine. And all that is myne, is thine: and what thine is, that is myne. And I am glorified in them. And now am I nomore in the worlde, and they are in yf worlde, and I come to the. Holy father, kepe in thy name, those whom thou hast geue me, that they maye be one, like as we are. Whyle I was with the in the worlde, I kepte them in thy name. Those yf thou gauest me, haue I kepte, and none of them is lost, but that lost childe, that the scripten remight be fulfilled. But now come I vnto the, and this I speake in the worlde, that they maye haue my ioye perfecte in them. I haue geuen them thy worde, and the worlde hateth the: for they are not of the worlde, euen as I also am not of the worlde. I praye not that thou shuldest take them out of the worlde, but that thou kepe the frō euill. They are not of the worlde, as I also am not of the worlde.

Sanctifye them in thy truthe. Thy worde is the truthe. Like as thou hast sent me in to the worlde, so haue I sent them in to the worlde: and for their sakes I sanctifye myself, that they also maye be sanctified in the truthe.

Nevertheless I praye not for them only, but also for those, which thowow their worde shal beleue on me, that they all maye be one, like as thou father art in me, and I in yf, that they also maye be one in vs: that the worlde maye beleue, that thou hast sent me. And the glory which thou gauest me, haue I geuen them: that they maye be one, like as we are one. I in the, and thou in me, that they maye be perfecte in one, and that the worlde maye knowe, that thou hast sent me and hast loued them, as thou hast loued me.

Father, I wil, that they whom thou hast geuen me, be with me where I am, yf they maye see my glory, which thou hast geue me: for thou hast loued me, or euer yf worlde was made. Righteous father, the worlde hath not knowne yf, but I haue knowne yf: and these haue knowne, that thou hast sent me. And I haue declared thy name vnto them, & wil declare it, yf the lone wherewith thou hast loued me, maye be in the, & I in them.

The XVIII. Chapter.

Ihan Iesus had thus spokē, he wēte forth with his disciples ouer the brooke Cedron, where there was a gardē, in to the which Iesus entred and his disciples. But Judas yf betrayed hī, knewe the place also. For Iesus resorted thither oft tymes w his disciples. Now whan Judas had takē vnto him the cōpany, & mynisters of the hye prestes and pharises, he came thither with creshettes, & lanternes, and with weapens. Iesus now knowinge all yf shulde come vpon him, wēte forth, and sayde vnto the: Whom seeke ye? They answered him: Iesus of Nazareth. Iesus sayde vnto them: I am he. Judas also which betrayed him, stode with the. Now whan Iesus sayde vnto the: I am he, they wēte backwardes, and fell to the grounde. Then ared he the agayne: Whom seeke ye? They sayde: Iesus of Nazareth. Iesus answered: I haue tolde you, that I am he. If ye see me, then let these go their waye. That the worde might be fulfilled, which he sayde: Of them whō thou gauest me, haue I not lost one. Then had Symon Peter a swerde, and diuice it out, and smote the hye prestes seruante, and cut of his right eare. And yf seruantes name was Malchus.

Then sayde Iesus vnto Peter: Put vp thy swerde in to the sheeth. Shal I not drynke of yf cuppe, which my father hath geue me? Then the company and the captayne & the officers of the Jewes toke Iesus, and bounde him, & led him awaye first vnto Annas, that was fatherlawe vnto Caiphas, which was hye prest yf same yere. It was knowne vnto the hye prest, and wēte in with Iesus in to the hye prestes palace. But Peter stode without at the dore. Then yf other disciple which was knowne vnto the hye priest, wente out, and spake to the damsell & kepte the doore, and brought in Peter. Then the damsell that kepte the doore, sayde vnto Peter: Art not thou also one of this mans disciples? He sayde: I am not.

C The seruantes & officers stode, and had made a fyre of coles (for it was colde) & warmed the selues. Peter also stode with them, and warmed him self. The hye priest axed Jesus of his disciples, and of his doctryne. Jesus answered him: I haue spoken openly before the world, I haue ever taught in the synagoga and in the temple, whither all the Jewes resorted, & in secret haue I spokē no thynge. Why arrest thou me? Are the I haue herde, what I haue spoken vnto the: beholde, they can tell what I haue sayde. But when he had thus spokē, one of the officers that stode by, smote Jesus on the face, and sayde: Answerest thou the hye priest so? Jesus answered him: If I haue well spokē, the beare wytnesse of well: but if I haue well spoken, why smytest thou me? And Annas sent him bounde vnto Caiphas & hye priest.

Symon Peter stode and warmed him self. The hye priest sayde vnto him: Art not thou one of his disciples? He denyed, and sayde: I am not. A seruant of the hye priestes, & kynsmā of his, whose eare Peter had smyten of, sayde vnto him: Dyd not I see the in the garde with him?

D Then Peter denyed agayne. And immediately the cock crew. Then led they Jesus from Caiphas in to the comon hall. And it was early in the mornynge. And they them selues wete not in to the comon hall, lest they shulde be defyled, but & they might eate & Pascall lambe. Then wente Pilate out vnto the, and sayde: What accusation brynge ye agaynst this man? They answered, and sayde vnto him: If he were not an enell deer, we had not deliuered him vnto the. Then sayde Pilate vnto the: Take ye him, and indoge him after y^e lawe. Then sayde y^e Jewes vnto him: It is not lawfull for vs to put eny mā to death. That y^e worde of Jesus might be fulfilled, which he spake, when he signified, what death he shulde dye.

Then entred Pilate in to the comon hall agayne, and called Jesus, & sayde vnto him: Art thou the kynge of the Jewes? Jesus answered: Sayest thou that of thy self, or haue other tolde it the of me?

Pilate answered: Am I a Jewe? Thy people and the hye priestes haue deliuered the vnto me. What hast thou done? Jesus answered: My kynngdome is not of this world. If my kynngdome were of this world, my mynisters wolde fight therfore, & I shalde not be deliuered vnto the Jewes. But now is my kynngdome not from hence. The hye priest sayde vnto him: Art thou a kynge? Jesus answered: Thou sayest it, for I am a kynge. For this cause was I borne, and came in to the world, that I shulde testifie the truth. Who so euer is of the truth, heareth my voyce. Pilate sayde vnto him: What is the truth? And when he had sayde that, he wete out agayne to the Jewes, and sayde vnto them: I fynde no gyltynesse in him. But ye haue a custome, that I shulde geue one vnto you loose at Easter. Wyl ye now & I loose vnto you the kynge of y^e Jewes? The cryed they agayne alle together, and sayde: Not him, but Barrabas. Yet was Barrabas a murthurer.

The XIX. Chapter.

Then Pilate toke Jesus, and scourged him. And the souldiers platted a crowne of thornes, and set it vpon his heade, and put a purple garment vpon him, and sayde: Hail kynge of the Jewes. And they smote him on the face. Then wente Pilate forth agayne, and sayde vnto the: Beholde, I brynge him forth vnto you, & ye maye knowe, & I fynde no faulte in hi. So Jesus wente out, & wore a crowne of thornes and a purple robe. And he sayde vnto them: Beholde, the man. When the hye priestes & the mynisters sawe him, they cryed, & sayde: Crucifye, crucifye. Pilate saide vnto the: Take ye him, and crucifye him, for I fynde no gyltynesse in him. The Jewes answered him: We haue a lawe, & after our lawe he ought to dye, because he made him self the sonne of God. When Pilate herde that worde, he was the more afrayed, and wente agayne in to the comon hall, and sayde vnto Jesus: Whence art thou? But Jesus gaue him no answer. The hye priest sayde vnto him: Speakest thou not vnto me? Knowest thou not, & I haue power to crucifye y^e, & haue power to loose y^e? Jesus answered: Thou shaldest haue no power vnto me, if it were not geuen the from aboue. Therefore he that deliuereth me vnto y^e, hath the more synne. From that tyme forth Pilate sought meanes to loose him. But the Jewes cryed, & sayde: If thou let him go, thou art not the Emperours feid. For whosoener maketh himself kynge, is agaynst the Emperoure.

When Pilate herde y^e worde, he broughte Jesus forth, & sat hi downe vpon y^e iugumēt state, in the place which is called the Pannent, but in the hebrue, Gabbatha. It was the daye of preparinge of the Easter aboute the sirte houre. And he sayde vnto the Jewes: Beholde y^e kynge. But they cryed: Awaye with him, awaye with him, crucifye him. Pilate saide vnto the: Shal I crucifye y^e kynge? The hye priestes answered: We haue no kynge but y^e Emperer. The deliuered he him vnto them, to be crucified.

They toke Jesus, and led him awaye. And he bare his crosse, & wente out to the place called y^e place of deed men skullles, which in hebrue is named Golgatha, where they crucified him, and two other with him, on either syde one, but Jesus in the myddes. Pilate wrote a superscription, and set vpon the crosse. And there was wyrtten: Jesus of Nazareth, kynge of the Jewes. This superscription red many of the Jewes. For y^e place where Jesus was crucified, was nye vnto the cite. And it was wyrtten in hebrue, Greke & Latyn. Then sayde the hye priestes of the Jewes vnto Pilate: Wyrtte not kynge of the Jewes, but y^e he sayde, I am kynge of the Jewes. Pilate answered: What I haue wyrtten, that haue I wyrtten.

The souldiers, when they had crucified Jesus, toke his garmentes, and made foure partes, to euery souldier one patte, and the cote also. As for the cote, it was vnfowed frō aboue, wrought thorow and thorow. Then sayde they one to another: Let vs not deuide it, but cast lottes for it, who shal haue it, that the scripture might be fulfilled, which sayeth: They haue parted my garmentes amonge them, and on my cote haue they cast lottes. This dyd the souldiers in dede.

There stode by the crosse of Jesus, his mother, and his mothers sister Mary, the wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene. Now when Jesus sawe his mother, and the disciple stondynge by, who he loued, he sayde vnto his mother: Woman, beholde, that is thy sonne. Then sayde he to the disciple: beholde, that is thy mother. And from that houre the disciple toke her vnto him.

After that when Jesus knewe that all was perfourmed, & that the scripture might be fulfilled, he sayde: I am a thyrst. There stode a vessell full of vyneger. They fylled a sponge with vyneger and woude it aboute with ylope, and helde it to his mouth. Now when Jesus had receaued the vyneger, he sayde: It is fynished, and bowed his heade, and gaue up the goost.

The Jewes then, for so moch as it was the daye of preparinge, that y^e bodie shulde not remayne vpon the crosse on the Sabbath, (for y^e same Sabbath daye was grea- te) besought Pilate, that their legges might be broken, and that they might be taken downe. Then came the souldiers, and brake the legges of the first, and of the other that was crucified with him. But when they came to Jesus, and sawe that he was deed already, they brake not his legges, but one of the souldiers opened his syde with a speare. And immediatly there wente out bloude and water.

And he that sawe it, bare recorde, and his recorde is true. And he knoweth that he sayeth true, that ye might beleue also. For this is done, & the scripture might be fulfilled: Ye shal not breake a bone of him. And agayne, another scripture sayeth: They shal se him, whom they haue pearced.

After that, Ioseph of Arimathia, which was a disciple of Jesus (but secretly for feare of the Jewes) besought Pilate, & he might take downe the body of Jesus. And Pilate gaue him lycence. There came also Nicodemus, (which afore came vnto Jesus by night) & brought of Myre & Aloes mingled together, aboute an hūdrēth possē weight.

Then toke they the body of Jesus, & woude it with linnen clothes, and with the spyces, as the maner of the Jewes is to burye. And by y^e place where Jesus was crucified, there was a garde, and in the garden a new sepulchre, where in was neuer man layed: there layed they Jesus, because of the preparinge daye of y^e Jewes, for the sepulchre was nye at hande.

The XX. Chapter.

Opon one daye of the Sabbath, came Mary Magdalene early (when it was yet darcke) vnto the sepulchre, & sawe that the stone was takē from the sepulchre. Then ranne she, & came to Symon Peter, and to y^e other disciple, whom Jesus loued, and sayde vnto them: They haue takē awaye the LORDE out of the sepulchre, & we can not tell wher they haue layed him. Then wete Peter forth and the other disciple, and came to the sepulchre. They rāne both together, and that other disciple out rāne Peter, and came first to the sepulchre, and loked in, and sawe the linnen clothes layed. But he wete not in. Then came Symon Peter after him, and wente in to the sepulchre, & sawe the linnen clothes lye, and the naptyn that was bounde aboute Jesus heade, not layed with the linnen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by it self. The wete i also y other disciple, which came first to y sepulcre, z he sawe

z beland: for as yet they knewe not y scriptures, y it behoued hi to ryse agayne fro y deed. The wete y disciples agayne together.

As for Mary, she stode before y sepulcre z wepte without. Now as she wepte, she loked in to the sepulcre, and sawe two angels in whyte garmentes syttinge, y one at the heade, z the other at y fete, where they had layed the body of Iesus. And they sayde vnto her: Woman, why wepest thou? She saide vnto the: They haue taken awaye my LOR-DE, z I wote not wher they haue layed hi.
And whan she had sayde y, she turned her self backe, z sawe Iesus stondinge, z knewe not y it was Iesus. Iesus sayde vnto her: Woman, why wepest thou? Whom seekest thou? She thought y it had bene y gardener, z sayde vnto him: Syr, yf thou hast borne him hence: then tell me wher thou hast layed him? and I wil fetch hi. Iesus sayde vnto her: Mary. Then turned she her aboute, z sayde vnto him: Rabboni, y is to saye:
Master. Iesus sayde vnto her: Touche me not, for I am not yet ascended vnto my father. But go thou y waye vnto my brethren z saye vnto the: I ascende vpon to my father and yf father to my God, z yf God. Mary Magdalene came, z tolde y disciples: I haue sene the LORDE, z soch thinges hath he spoken vnto me.

The same Sabbath at enē whā y disciples were gathered together, and the doores were shut for feare of y Iewes, came Iesus, and stode i y myddes, z sayde vnto the: Peace be w you. And whā he had so sayde, he shewed the his handes z his syde. The were y disciples glad, y they sawe y LORDE. The sayde Iesus vnto the agayne: Peace be with you.
Like as my father sent me, enē so sende I you.
And whan he had sayde y, he brethed vpon
the, and sayde vnto the: Receaue the holy goost. Whose synnes soeuer ye remytte, they are remytted vnto the: and whose synnes so euer ye retayne, they are retayned.

But Thomas one of the twelue, which is called Didimus, was not w the whā Jesus came. The sayde the other disciples vnto him: We haue sene the LORDE. But he sayde vnto the: Excepte I se in his handes
the prynte of the nailes, and put my hāde in to his syde, I wil not beleue.

And after eight dayes agayne were his disciples with in, z Thomas w the. The came Iesus (whā y doores were shut) z stode in the myddes, z sayde: Peace be w you. After

y sayde he vnto Thomas: Reach hāde y fynger, and se my handes, and reach hither
y hāde, z put it i to my syde, z be not faithlesse, but beleue. Thomas answered, z sayde vnto him: My LORDE, and my God. Iesus sayde vnto him: Thomas, because thou hast sene me, thou hast beleued. Blessed are they,
that se not, and yet beleue.

Many other tokes dyd Iesus before his disciples, which are not wrytē in this boke.
But these are wrytē, y ye shulde beleue, y Iesus is Christ the sonne of God, z that ye thorow beleue might haue life in his name.

The XXI. Chapter.

After that shewed Iesus himself agayn ne at the see of Tiberias. But on this wyse shewed he himself. There were together Symō Peter, z Thomas which is called Didimus, z Mattheu of Cana a cite of Galile, z the sonnes of Zebede, z two other of his disciples. Symon Peter sayde vnto the: I go a fyllinge. They sayde vnto hi: We also wil go w the. They were out, z entered into a shippe straight waye. And y same night toke they nothinge. But whā it was now morow, Iesus stode on the shore,
but his disciples knewe not y it was Iesus.
Iesus sayde vnto the: Childre, haue ye any thinge to eate? They answered hi: No. He sayde vnto the: Cast out the nette on y right syde of the shippe, z ye shal fynde. The they cast out, z coude no more drawe it for y multitude of fishes. The sayde y disciple: whā Iesus loued, vnto Peter: It is the LORDE.

Whan Simon Peter herde that is was the LORDE, he gyde his mantell about him (for he was naked) and sprang in to y see. But other disciples came by shippe (for they were not farre fro londe, but as it was two hundred cubytes) and they drew the net with the fishes. Now whan they were come to londe, they sawe coles layed, and fyshtheron, and bried. Iesus sayde vnto the:
Bringe hither of the fyshe, that ye haue ken now. Symon Peter stepped forth, and drew the nette to the londe, full of great fyshe, an hundred and thre and ffrty.
And for all there were so many, yet was not the net broken.

Iesus sayde vnto them: Come, and dym.
But none of the disciples durst are him.
Who art thou? For they knewe, that it was the LORDE. Then came Iesus, and toke y bried, and gaue it the: and the fyshe like wyse.
This is now the thirde tyme that Iesus appeared vnto his disciples, after that he was risen agayne from the deed.

Now whā they had dymed, Iesus sayde
vnto Symon Peter: Symō Johāna, louest thou me more then these do? He sayde vnto him: Yee LORDE, thou knowest y I loue the.
He sayde vnto him: Sede my libes. He sayde vnto him agayne the seconde tyme: Symō Johāna, louest thou me? He sayde vnto him: Yee LORDE, thou knowest, y I loue y.
He sayde vnto him: Sede my shepe. He saide vnto him y thirde tyme: Symon Johāna, louest thou me? Peter was soiry, because he sayde vnto him, louest thou me? And he sayde vnto him: LORDE, thou knowest all thin-ges, thou knowest, that I loue y. Iesus sayde vnto him: Sede my shepe.

Verely verely I saye vnto the: Whan thou wast yonge, thou gerdest thyselfe, and walkedst whither thou woldest. But whā thou art olde, thou shalt stretch forth thy handes, and another shal gyde the, and lede the whither thou woldest not. But this he sayde, to signifye with what death he shulde glorifye God.

Whan he had spoken this, he sayde vnto him: Folowe me. Peter turned him aboute, and sawe the disciple folowinge, whom Jesus loued, (y which also leane vpon his brest
at the supper, and sayde: LORDE, who is it that betrayeth the?) Whā Peter sawe him, he sayde vnto Iesus: LORDE, but what shal
he do? Iesus sayde vnto him: If I wil that he tary tyll I come, what is that to the?
Folowe thou me. Then wente there out a sayenge amonge the brethren: This disciple treth not. And Iesus sayde not vnto him:
He dyeth not, but: If I wil that he tary tyll I come, what is that to the? This is the same disciple, which testifieth of these thinges, and wrote these thinges, and we knowe that his testimony is true.

There are many other thinges
also that Iesus dyd, which, yf they shulde be wrytē every one, I suppose the woulde shulde
not con-tayne
the booke, that were to be wrytten.

The ende of the Gospel
of S. Iohn.

the Moone in to bloude, before that greate and notable daye of the LORDE come. And it shall come to passe, Who so ever shal call vpon the name of the LORDE, shalbe saved.

¶ Men of Israel, heare these wordes: Jesus of Nazareth, a man approued of God amonge you with miracles, and wonders and tokens, which God dyd by him in the myddes amonge you, as ye y^e selues knowe also, him (after that he was deliuered by the determinate counsell and foreknowledge of God) haue ye taken by the handes of vnrightheous perfonnes, and crucified him, & slayne him, who God hath rayfed vp, and lowsed the sorowes of death, so so much as it was vnpossyble that he shulde be holden of it. For Dauid speaketh of him: Afore thou de haue I see the LORDE allwayes before me, for he is on my right hōde, that I shulde not be moued. Therfore dyd my hert reioyse, and my tūge was glad: for my flesch also shal rest in hope. For thou shalt not leaue my soule in hell, necher shalt thou suffer a holy to se corrupcion. Thou hast shewed me the wayes of life, thou shalt make me full of ioye with thy countenance.

¶ Men and brethien, let me frely speake vnto you of the Patriarke Dauid: for he is deed and buried, and his sepulchre is with vs vnto this daye. Wherefore now seinge that he was a piophet, and knewe that God had promised him with an ooth, that the frute of his loynes shulde sit on his seate, he sawe it before, and spake of the resurrection of Christ: for his soule was not left in hell, necher hath his flesch sene corrupcion. This Jesus hath God rayfed vp, wherof we all are witnesses.

¶ Seynge now that he by the right hande of God is exalted, and hath receaued of his father a promise of the holy goost, he hath shed forth this, that ye see and heare. For Dauid is not ascended in to heaven, but he sayde: The LORDE sayde vnto my LORDE: Sit thou on my righte hande, vntill I make thine enemies a foote stole. So therfore let all the house of Israel knowe for a suretye, that God hath made this same Jesus (whom ye haue crucified) LORDE and Christ.

¶ Whan they herde this, their hert pricked them, and they sayde vnto Peter and to the other Apostles: Men and brethien, What shal we do? Peter sayde vnto them: Amēde youre selues, and let every one of you be baptysed in the name of Jesus Christ, for there myssion of synnes, and ye shal receaue the gifte of the holy goost. For this promise was made vnto you and youre children, and to all that are farre of, who so ever the LORDE oure God shal call. And as many other wordes bare he witness, and exorted them, and sayde: Save youre selues from this vntowarde generacion. They that gladly receaued his preachinge, were baptysed, & the same daye there were added vnto them aboute thre thousande soules.

¶ They continued in the Apostles doctrine, and in the fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayer. And feare came vpon every soule, and many wonders and tokens were done by the Apostles. But all they that beleued, were together, and had all thinges common. They solde their goodes and possessions, and parted them out amonge all, accordinge as every mā had nede. And they continued daylie with one acorde in the temple, and brake bread in every house: they took their meate with ioye & singlenesse of hert, praysinge God, and had fauoure with all the people. And the LORDE added to the congregacion daylie such as shulde be saved.

The III. Chapter.

¶ Peter and Jhon wente vp together in to the temple aboute the nyenth houre to praye. And there was a cetyne man hald from his mothers wombe, whom they brought and layed daylie at the gate of the temple, which is called, the Beuery full, that he might receaue almesse of them that wete in to the temple. Now whan he sawe Peter and Jhon, that they wolde in to the temple, he desired to receaue an almesse. Peter behelde him with Jhon, and sayde: Look on vs. And he gaue hede vnto them, hepinge to receaue somethinge of them. Howbeit Peter saide: Syluer and golde haue I none, but such as I haue geue I the. In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise vp & walke. And he toke him by the righte hande and lifte him vp. Immediately his legges & ancle bones were made strōge, and he sprang, stode and walked, and entred with them in to the temple, walkinge, and leapinge and praysinge God.

¶ And all the people sawe him walke and prayse God. And they knewe him, that it was he, which sat for almesse at the beueryfull gate of the temple. And they were fylled with wonderinge, and were astonnyed at that which had happened vnto him. But as this halt which was healed helde him to Peter and Jhon, all the people ranne vnto them in to the porch, which is called Salomons, and reioyced.

¶ Whan Peter sawe that, he answered vnto the people: Men of Israel, why marvaile ye at this, or why loke ye so at vs, as though we by oure awne power or deservynge had made this man to walke? The God of Abraham and of Isaac, and of Jacob, the God of oure fathers hath glorified his child Jesus, whom ye deliuered and denyed in the presence of Pilate, whan he had indged him to be lowsed. But ye denyed the holy and iust, and desired the murtherer to be luyd, but ye slew the pryncce of life, whom God hath rayfed from the dead, of the which we are witnesses. And thorow faith in his name, hath he confirmed his name vpon this man, whom ye see and knowe: and faith thorow him, hath geue this man this health before youre eyes.

¶ Now deare brethien, I knowe that ye haue done it thorow ignorance, as dyd also youre rulers. But God, which by the mouth of all his prophetes had shewed before, that his Christ shulde suffre, hath so fulfilled it. Do penance now therfore and turne you, that youre synnes maye be done awaye, whan the tyme of refreshinge shal come befor the presence of the LORDE, and whan he shal sende him, which now before is preached vnto you, even Jesus Christ: which must receaue heauen vntill the tyme that all thinges, which God hath spoken by the mouth of his holy prophetes sence they wolde begonne, be restored agayne.

¶ For Moses sayde vnto the fathers: A prophete shal the LORDE youre God rayse vp vnto you, even from amonge youre brethien, like vnto me: him shal ye heare, in all that he shal saye vnto you. And it shal come to passe, what soule soeuer shal not heare the same prophete, shal be destroyed from amonge the people. And all the prophetes from Samuel and thence forth as many as haue spoken, haue likewise tolde of these dayes.

¶ We are the children of the prophetes and of the couenant, which God made vnto the fathers, whan he sayde vnto Abraham: Thou & sēde shal all the nacōs of the earth be blessed. First vnto you hath God rayfed vp his child Jesus, & sent him vnto you, to blesse you: & every one shulde turne fro his wickednesse.

The III. Chapter.

¶ As they spake to the people, there came vnto them the prestes and the rulers of the temple, and the Saducees, who greued that they taught the people, & preached in Jesus the resurrection fro the dead, and they layed handes vpon them, and put them in holde till the morow: for it was now euentyde. Howbeit many of the which herde the woide, beleued, and the nombre of the men was aboute fyue thousande.

¶ And it chanced on the morow, that the rulers and Elders and scribes (as Annas the hye prest and Caiphas, and Jhon the Alexander, and as many as were of the hye prestes synned) gathered them selues together at Jerusalem, and set them before them, and axed them: By what auctorite, or in what name haue ye done this?

¶ Peter full of the holy goost, sayde vnto them: Ye rulers of the people, and ye Elders of Israel, if we this daye be examyned concerninge this good dede vpon the sicke mā, by what meanes he is made whole, be it knowne then vnto you and to all the people of Israel, that in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, who God hath rayfed vp from the dead, stōdeth this man here before you whole. This is the stone refused of you buylders, which is become the heade corner stone, necher is there saluacion in any other: For yet also is there geue vnto me any other name, wherin we must be saved.

¶ They sawe the boldnesse of Peter & Jhon, and marueyled, for they were sure that they were vnlearned men and laye people. And they knewe the also, that they were of Jesus. As for the man that was made whole, they sawe him stōdinge by them, & coulde not saye agaynst it. Then commaunded they them to stōde asyde out of the counsell, & comened amonge the selues, & saide: What shal we do to these men? for a manifest token is done by them, and is openly knowne vnto the that dwell at Jerusalem, and we can not denye it. But that it breake out no farther amonge the people, let vs threaten them earnestly, that hence forth they speake of this name vnto no man.

¶ And they called them, and commaunded them, that in any wyse they shulde not speake ner teache in the name of Jesus. But Peter & Jhon answered, and sayde vnto them: Iudge ye youre selues, whether it be right before God, that we shulde be more obedient vnto you, then vnto God. We can not chosse, but speake that we haue sene & herde. But they threatened them, and let them go, and founde nothinge how to punyssh them because of the people: for they all praysed God because of that, which was done. For the man, vpon whom this token of health was done, was aboute fourtye yere old.

¶ And whan they were let go, they came to their folowes, and tolde them what y^e hye prestes and Elders sayde vnto them. Whā they herdethat, they lifte vp their voyces one a corde vnto God, and sayde: LORDE, thou that art the God which made heauen and earth, and the see, and all that therein is thou that by the mouth of Dauid thy seruānt hast sayde: Why do the heychen rage? and y^e people ymagin wayne chinges? The kynges of the earth stonde vp, and the prynces haue gathered them selues together agaynst y^e LORDE, and agaynst his. Christ. Of a truthe agaynst thy holy childe Jesus, whom thou hast anoynted, both Herode & Pontius pilate with the heychen and people of Israel, haue gathered theselues together, to do what soener thy hande and thy counsell determyned before to be done. And now LORDE, beholde their threatenynges, and graunte vnto thy seruantes with all stedfast boldnesse to speake thy worde: and stretch out thine hande, that healinge and tokēs and wonders maye be done by the name of thy holy childe Jesus.

And whā they had prayed, the place moued where they were gathered together, & they were all fylled with y^e holy goost, & spake the worde of God boldly. The multitude of them that belened, were of one hert and of one soule. Also none of them sayde of his goodes, that they were his awne, but had all thinges comen. And with greute power gaue the Apostles witnesse of the resurrection of the LORDE Jesus, and greute grace was with them all. Neither was there cry amonge them that lacked. For as many as were possessors of landes or houses, solde the and brought y^e money of the goodes that were solde, and layed it at the Apostles fete. And distribucion was made vnto euery mā, acordinge as he had nede.

Joses which was also called of y^e Apostles, Barnabas (that is to saye, the sonne of consolacion) a Leuite, of the countre of Cyprus, had lande, and solde it, & brought the money, and layed it at the Apostles fete.

The V. Chapter.

Whe a certayne man named Ananias with Saphira his wife, solde his possession, and keppe awaye parte of the money (his wife knowinge of it) and broughte one parte, & layed it at the Apostles fete. But Peter sayde: Ananias, Wherefore hath Sathan fylled thine hert, that thou shuldest lye vnto the holy goost, and withdraue awaye parte of the money of the lynelod? Mightest thou not haue keppe

it, whan thou haddest it? And whan it was solde, the money was also in thy power. Why hast thou then concealed this thinge in thine hert? Thou hast not lyled vnto me, but vnto God. Whan Ananias herde these wordes, he fell downe, & gaue vp the goost. And there came a greute feare vpon all that herde of this. The yonge men rose vp, and put him asyde, and caried him out, and buried him.

And it fortuned as it were aboute y^e space of thre houres after, his wife came in, and knewe not what was done. But Peter answered vnto her. Tell me, solde ye the lande for somoch? She sayde: Yee, for so moch. Peter sayde vnto her: Why haue ye agreed together, to tempte the spere of the LORDE? Beholde, the fete of the which haue buried thy husbāde, are at the dore, & shal carrye the out. And immediatly she fell downe at his fete, and gaue vp the goost. Then came in the yonge men, and founde her deed, and caried her out, and buried her by hir husbāde. And there came a greute feare ouer the whole congregacion, and ouer all the that herde it.

Many tokens and wonders were don amonge the people by the hādes of the Apostles (and they were all together with one acorde in Salomons porche: but of othe there durst no man ioine him self vnto the, neuertheles the people helde moch of them. The multitude of the men and women that belened in the LORDE, grewe more and more.) In so moch that they broughte out the sycke in to the stretes, and layed them vpon beddes and barowes, that at the leest waye the shadowe of Peter (whan he came by) might ouersadowe some of the. There came many also out of y^e cities rounde about vnto Jerusalem, and brought the sicke and the that were vexed with vncleane spites, and they were healed euery one.

But the hye prest rose vp, and all they that were with him, which is the secte of the Sadduces, and were full of indignacion, & layed handes on the Apostles, and put them in the comun prison. But the angell of y^e LORDE by night opened the prison dore, and brought the out, and sayde: Go your waye and steppe vp, and speake in the temple to the people all the wordes of this life. Whan they herde that, they entred in to the temple early in the mornynge: and caught.

But the hye prest came, and they that were with him, and called the counsell together, & all y^e Elders of the children of Israel, and set to the prison to fet them. The mynisters came and founde them not in the prison, & a magayne, and tolde, and sayde: The prison founde we shut with all diligence, and the keepers stondinge without before the dore: but whā we had opened, we founde no man therein. Whan the hye prest, and the rulers of the temple and the other hye prestes herde these wordes, they doubted of them, wherunto this wolde growe.

Then came there one, which tolde them: Beholde, the men that ye put in prison, are in the temple, stondinge and teachinge the people. Then wete y^e rulers with their mynisters, and fetchyd them without violence: for they feared the people, lest they shulde haue bene stoned. And whan they had brought them, they set the before the counsell. And the hye prest axed them, and sayde: Dyd not we comaunde you strately, that ye shulde not teache in this name. And beholde, ye haue fylled Jerusalem with youre doctryne, and ye intende to brynge this mans blorde vpon vs.

But Peter and the Apostles answered, and sayde: We ought more to obeye God than men. The God of oure fathers hath raised vp Jesus, whos ye slewe, and hanged on a tre. Him hath the righte hande of God exalted, to be a pryncce and Sauoure, to geue repentance and foregouernesse of synnes vnto Israel. And we are his recordees of these wordes, and the holy goost, whos God hath geuen vnto the that obeye him. Whā they herde that, it wente thorow the hertes of them, and they thoughte to slaye them.

Then stode there vp in y^e counsell a pharise, named Gamaliel, a scribe, had in greute reputation before all y^e people, and had put the Apostles asyde a litle, and sayde vnto them: Ye men of Israel, take hede to youre selves, what ye do as touchinge these men. Before these dayes rose vp one Theudas, boasting himself. (And there cleued vnto him a nombre of men, aboute a foure hundred) which was slayne, and all they that enclyned vnto him, were scatred abroad, and brought to naught. After this stode vp Judas of Galilee in y^e dayes of tribute, and drewe awaye moch people after him, & he also perished, & all they that enclyned vnto him, are scatred abroad. And now I saye vnto you: refrayne y^e selues fro these men, and let the go. For if this counsell or worke be of me, it wil come to naught: but yf it be of God, ye are not able to destroye it, lest ye be founde to be the men, that wil stryue agaynst God. Then they agreed vnto him, and called the Apostles, and bet them, and commaunded them, that they shulde speake nothinge in the name of Jesu, and let them go.

But they departed from the presence of the counsell, reioysinge, that they were worthy to suffre rebuke for his names sake. And daylie in the temple and in euery house they ceased not, to teache and to preache the Gospell of Jesus Christ.

The VI. Chapter.

In those dayes whan the nombre of the disciples increased, there arose a grudge amonge the Grekes agaynst the hebrues, because their wyddowes were not looked vpon in the daylie handreachinge. Then the twolue called the multitude of the disciples together, and sayde: It is not mete that we shulde leaue the worde of God, and to serue at the tables. Wherefore brethren, loke out amonge you sent men, that are of honeste repore, and full of the holy goost and wysdome, whom we maye appoynte to this nedefull busynes. But we wil geue oure selues vnto prayer, and to the mynistracion of the worde of God. And the sayenge pleased the whole multitude. And they chose Steuen, a man full of sayth and of the holy goost, and philippe, and procorus, and nicanos, and thimon, and parmenas, and nicolas the proselite of Antioche. These they set before y^e Apostles, and they prayed, and layed their handes vpon them. And the worde of God increased, and the nombre of the disciples multiplied greatly at Jerusalem. And there were many prestes also obedient vnto the sayth.

Steuen full of faith and power, dyd wonders and greates tokens amonge the people. Then arose there certayne of the synagoge, which is called (the synagoge) of y^e Libertynes, & of the Cyrenites, and of the Alexandrines, and of the that were of Celicia and Asia, & disputed with Steuen, & they coude not resiste the wysdome and the spere, out of the which he spake. Then sent they in certayne men, that sayde: We haue herde him speake blasphemous wordes agaynst Moses, and agaynst God. And they moued the people, and the Elders and the scribes, and came vpon him, & caught him, and brought him before the counsell, and set false witnesses there, which sayde: This man ceasech not to speake blasphemous wordes agaynst this holy place and the lawe. For we herde him saye: Jesus of Nazareth shall destroye this place, and chaunge the ordinances which Moses gave us. And all they that sat in the council, looked upon him and sawe his face as the face of an angell.

The VII. Chapter.

When sayde the hye prest: Is it enuf for he sayde: Deare brethren and fathers, hearken to, The God of glorye appeared vnto our father Abraham, whyle he was yet in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Haran, and sayde vnto him: Get thee out of thy countrey, and fro thy kynred, and come in to a lande which I wil shewe thee. The wente he out of the lande of the Caldees, and dwelt in Haran. And from thence, when his father was deed, he brought him ouer in to this lande (where ye dwell now) and gaue him no inheritaunce therein, nor yet bredth of a fote: and promysed him, that he wolde geue it him to possesse, and to his sede after him, when as yet he had no childe.

But thus sayde God vnto him: Thy sede shalbe a straunger in a straunge lande, and they shal make bonde men of them, and intreate the euell foure hundredth yeaeres: and I people whom they shal serue, wil I iudge, sayde God. And after that shal they go forth, and serue me in this place. And he gaue him the conuenaunt of circumcision. And he begat Isaac, and circumcised him the eighth daye. And Isaac begat Jacob, and Jacob begat the twelue Patriarkes.

And the Patriarkes had indignacion at Joseph, and solde hi in to Egypte. And God was with him, and deliuered him out of all his troubles, and gaue him fauoure and wysdomme in the sight of Pharaoh kynge of Egypte, which made him pryncer ouer Egypte and ouer all his house.

But there came a deth over all the lande of Egypte and Canaan, and a greate trouble, and oure fathers founde no sustenance. But Jacob herde that there was come in Egypte, and sent oure fathers out the first tyme. And at the seconde tyme was Joseph knowne of his brethren, and Josephs kynred was made knowne vnto Pharaoh. But Joseph sent out, and caused his father and all his kynred to be broughte, with thre score and fyfene soules. And Jacob wente downe in to Egypte, and dyed, both he and oure fathers, and were brought ouer vnto Sichem, and layed in the sepulchre, that Abraham boughte for money of the children of Hemor at Sichem.

Now when the tyme of the promes was come (which God had sworne vnto Abraham) the people grewe and multiplied in Egypte, tyll there rose another kynge, which was not of Joseph. The same dealee surely oure kynred, and intreated oure fathers, and made them to cast out the yonge children, that they shulde not remayne alyue.

At the same tyme was Moses borne, was a proper childe before God, and was nourished thre monethes in his fathers house. But when he was cast out, Pharaohs daughter toke him vp, and nourished him vp for hir awne sonne. And Moses was learned in all maner wysdome of the Egyptians, and was mightie in dedes and wordes.

But when he was fourtye yeaeres old, he came in to his mynde to viset his brethren the children of Israel. And when he sawe one of them suffre wronge, he helped him, and deliuered him, that had the harme done to him, and slew the Egyptian. But he thought that his brethren shulde haue derstande, how that God by his handes shulde saue the, howbeit they vnderstode it not.

And on the next daye he shewed himself vnto them as they stroue together, and wolde haue set them at one agayne, and sayde: Syis, ye are brethren, why hurte ye one another? But he that dyd his neyghboure wronge, thrust him awaye, and sayde: Whome de the a ruler and iudge ouer vs? Wilthou slaye me also, as thou slewest the Egyptian yesterdaye? But Moses fled at that saynge, and was a straunger in the lande of Midian, where he begat two sonnes.

And after fourtye yeaeres, the angell of the LORDE appeared vnto him vpon mount Sina, in a flamme of fyre in a bushe. Whi Moses sawe it, he wondred at the sight. But as he drew nye to beholde, the voyce of the LORDE came vnto him: I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Howbeit Moses trembled, and durst not beholde. But the LORDE sayde vnto him: Put off thy shues from thy fete, for the place where thou stondest, is an holy grounde. I haue well knowen the trouble of my people in Egypte, and haue herde their groynge, and am come downe to deliuer them. And now come, I wil sende thee in to Egypte.

This Moses, whom they refused, and sayde: Who made the a ruler and iudge ouer us? he had God sent to be a ruler and deliuerer by the hande of the angell, that appeared vnto him in the bushe. The same brought them out, and dyd wonders and tokens in Egypte, and in the red see, and in the wilderness fourtye yeaeres. This is that Moses which sayde vnto the children of Israel: A prophet shal the LORDE youre God rayse vp vnto you even from amonge youre brethren, like vnto me. Him shal ye heare. This is he, that was in the congregacion in the wilderness with the angell, which talked with him, vnto mount Sina, and with oure fathers. This man receaued the worde of life to geue vnto vs, vnto whom oure fathers wolde not be obediēt, but thrust him fro the, and in their hertes turned backe agayne in to Egypte, and sayde vnto Aaron: Make vs goddes to go before vs, for we can not tell what is become of this Moses, he brought vs out of the lande of Egypte. And they made a calfe at the same tyme, and offred sacrifice vnto the ymage, and reioysed in the workes of their awne handes.

But God turned himselfe, and gaue them vp, so that they worshipped the hooft of heaue, as it is wyrtten in the booke of the prophetes: O ye house of Israel, gaue ye me sacrifices and catel those fortye yeaeres in the wilderness? And ye toke vnto you the tabernacle of Moloch, and the starre of youre god Remphan, ymages which ye youre selues made to worshippinge the. And I wil cast you out beyonde Babilon.

Oure fathers had the tabernacle of witness in the wilderness, like as he appoynted them, when he spake vnto Moses, that he shulde make it (acordinge to the patrone, which he had sene,) which oure fathers also receaued, and brought it with Josue into the lande that the chere had in possession, whom God droue out before the face of oure fathers, vntill the tyme of David, which founde fauoure with God, and desired that he might fynde a tabernacle for the God of Jacob.

But Salomon buylde hi an house. Howbeit if ye rest of all dwellerch not in temples that are made with handes: As he sayeth by the prophetes: Heaue is my seate, and the earth is my fote stole. What house then wil ye buylde vnto me? sayeth the LORDE: Or which is the place of my rest? hath not my hande made all these thinges?

Ye styffnecked and of vncircumcised hertes: and eares, ye allwaye resist the holy goost: For as ye fathers dyd, so do ye also. Which of the prophetes haue not ye fathers persecuted? And they slewe the, which tolde before of the comynge of the righteous, whose traitours and murthurers ye are now become. Ye receaued the lawe by the mynistracion of angels, and haue not kepte it.

When they herde this, it wente thorow the hertes of the, and they gnashed vpon him with their tethes. But he beyng full of the holy goost, looked vnto ward heauen, and sawe the glorye of God, and Iesus standinge on the righte hande of God, and sayde: He holde, I see the heauens open, and the sonne of man standinge on the righte hande of God. But they cried out with a loude voyce, and stopped their eares, and rane violently vpon him all at once, and thrust him out of the cite, and stoned him. And witnesses layed downe their clothes at the fete of a yonge man, which was called Saul. And they stoned Steuen, which cryed, and sayde: LORDE Iesu, receaue my spirete. And he kneeled downe, and cried with a loude voyce: LORDE, laye not this synne to their charge. And when he had thus spoken, he fell a slepe.

The VIII. Chapter.

Saul had pleasure in his death. At the same tyme there was a greate persecution ouer the congregacion at Ierusalem. And they were all scattered abroad in the regions of Jewye and Samaria, excepte the Apostles. As for Steuen, men which feared God dressed him, and made greates lamentacion ouer him. But Saul made haue of the congregacion, entred in to euery house, and drew out men and women, and deliuered the to prison. They now were scattered abroad were aboute and preached the worde. There came Philippe in to a cite of Samaria, and preached Christ vnto them. And the people gaue hede with one acorde vnto the thinges that Philip spake, hearinge him, and seynge the tokens that he dyd. For the vncleane spires cryed loude, and departed out of many which were possessed. And many that were sicke of the palsie and lame, were healed. And there was greatesoie in the same cite.

But afore there was in the same cite a certayne man, called Simon, which vsed witchcraft, and bewitched the people of Samaria, sayenge, that he was a man which coulde do greates thinges. And they all regarded him from the leest vnto the greatest, and sayde: This is the power of God which is greates. But they regarded him, because that of long tyme he had bewitched them with his sorcery. Howbeit when they beleued Philip preachinge of the kyngdome of God, and of the name of Iesu Christ, they were baptysed both men and women. Then Simon himselfe beleued also, and was baptysed, and cleued vnto Philippe. And when he sawe the dedes and tokens that were done, he wondred.

When the Apostles which were at Jerusalem, herde that Samaria had receaved the woide of God, they sent vnto the Peter and Ihon. Which, whā they were come, prayed for the, & they might receaue the holy goost. For as yet he was come vpon none of them but they were baptysed onely in the name of Christ Iesu. Then layed they their handes on them, and they receaued the holy goost.

But whan Simon sawe, that by the layenge on of the Apostles handes the holy goost was geuen, he offred the money, and sayde: Geue me also this power, that, on whomsouer I put the handes, he maye receaue the holy goost. Howbeit Peter sayde vnto him: Perishe thou with thy money, because thou thinkest that the gifte of God maye be opraied with money. Thou shalt haue nether parte ner felashipe in this woide, for the hert is not righte before God. Repente therfore of this thy wickednesse, and praye vnto God, yf happily the thought of thy hert maye be forgiven. For I see, that thou art full of bytter gall, and wrapped in the vnrightheousnesse.

Then answered Simon, & sayde: Praye ye vnto the LORDE for me, for none of these thinges wherof ye haue spoken, come vpon me. And they, whā they had testified and spooken the woide of the LORDE, turned agayne to Jerusalem, and preached the Gospell in many townes of the Samaritanes.

But the angell of the LORDE spake vnto philippe, and sayde: Arise, & go toward the South, vnto the waye that goeth downe from Jerusalem vnto Gaza, which is deserte. And he rose, and wente on. And beholde, a mā of the Mouians lode (a chamberlayne and of ane oute with Candace the quene of the londe of the Mouians) which had the rule of all hir treasuries, & same came to Jerusalem to worshiipe. And returned home agayne, and satte vpon his charet, and red the prophet Esay.

The sperte sayde vnto philippe: Go neare, and ioine thy selfe to yonder charet. The same philippe vnto him, and herde him rede the prophet Esay, and sayde: Understandest thou what thou readeest? He sayde: How can I, excepte some mā enfourme me?

And he desyred philippe, that he wolde come vp, and sye with him. The teneur of the scripture which he red, was this: He was led as a shepe to be slayne, and as a lambe voycellesse before his sherer, so opened he not his mouth. In his humblenesse is his iudgment exalted. Who shal declare his generacion? for his life is taken awaye from the earth. Then answered the chamberlayne vnto philippe, and sayde: I praye the, of whom speaketh the prophet this? of himselfe, or of some other man?

Philippe opened his mouth, and beganne at this scripture, and preached him the Gospell of Iesus. And as they were on the waye, they came to a water. And the chamberlayne sayde: Beholde, here is water, what hyndereth me to be baptysed? Philippe sayde: If thou beleue from thy whole herte, thou mayest. He answered, and sayde: I beleue, that Iesus Christ is the sonne of God. And he commaunded to holde still the charet, and they wente downe into the water, both philippe and the chamberlayne. And he baptysed him. But whā they were come vp out of the water, the sperte of the LORDE toke philippe awaye. And the Chamberlayne sawe him nomore. But he wente on his waye reioysinge. As for philippe, he was founde at Asdod, and walked aboute, and preached the Gospell vnto all the cities, tyll he came to Cesarea.

The IX. Chapter.

Saul was yet breachinge oute the nynges and slaughter agaynst the disciples of the LORDE. And wente vnto the hye preste, and desyred of him letters to Damascon vnto the synagoges, that yf he fonde eny of this waye (whether they were men or women) he mighte brynge them bounde vnto Jerusalem. And as he was goinge on his iourney, it fortuneth, that he came nye vnto Damascon, and sodenly there shyned rounde aboute him a light fro heauē, and he fell to the earth, and herde a voyce, which sayde vnto him: Saul Saul, why persecutest thou me? He sayde: LORDE, who art thou? The LORDE sayde: I am Iesus, whō thou persecutest. It shalbe harde for thee to kyce agaynst the prycke. And he both tremblinge and astonnyed, sayde: LORDE, what wilt thou that I shal do? The LORDE sayde vnto him: Arise, and go into the cite, there shal it be tolde the what thou shalt do.

As for the mā that iourneyed with him, they stode and were amased: for they herde a voyce, but sawe noman. Saul rose from the earth, and whā he had opened his eyes, he sawe noman. Nevertheless they toke him by the honde, & broughte him to Damascon: and he was thre dayes without sighte, and nether ate ner dranke. At Damascon there was a discipule named Ananias, and vnto him sayde the LORDE in a vision: Ananias

And he sayde: beholde, here am I LORDE. The LORDE sayde vnto him: Arise, and go into the strete which is called straight, and be in the house of Iuda after one called Saul of Tharsis: for beholde, he prayeth, & hath sene in a vision a mā named Ananias cōmyng vnto him, & layenge the hande vpon him, that he mighte receaue his sighte.

Ananias answered: LORDE, I haue herde by many of this man, how much euell he hath done to thy sayntes at Jerusalem. And her hath he anctouite of the hye prestes, to bynde all those that call vpon thy name. The LORDE sayde vnto him: Go thy waye, for this man is a chosen vessell vnto me, that he maye beare my name before the Ieythen, and before kynges, and before the children of Israel. I wil shewe him, how greate thinges he must suffre for my names sake.

And Ananias wente his waye, and came into the house, and layed the handes vpon him, and sayde: Brother Saul, the LORDE which appeared vnto me in the waye as thou camest, hath sent me, that thou mightest receaue thy sighte, and be fylled with the holy goost. And immediatly there fell from his eyes as it had bene scales, and he receaued his sighte, and rose, and was baptysed, and receiued meate, and was confortyd.

Then was Saul a certayne dayes with the disciples that were at Damascon. And straight waye he preached Christ in the synagoges, how that he was the sonne of God. But all they that herde him, were amased, and sayde: Is not this he, which at Jerusalem spoyleth all those that called on his name? and came hither to the intent that he shalde brynge them bounde vnto the hye prestes? But Saul increased in strength, & cōfounded the Jewes which dwelt at Damascon, and affirmed that this was very Christ.

And after many dayes the Jewes helde a counsell together to kyll him. But it was tolde Saul, that they layed wayte for him. And they wayted at the gates daye & night, that they mighte kyll him. Then the disciples toke him by nighte, & put him thorow the wall, and let him downe in a basket.

But whā Saul came to Jerusalem, he assayed to ioine himselfe to the disciples. And they were all afrayed of him, and beleued not, that he was a discipule. Nevertheless Barnabas toke him, and broughte him to the Apostles, and tolde them how he had sene the LORDE in the waye, and how he spake to him, & how he had done boldly at Damascon in the name of Iesu. And he was with them, and wente out and in at Jerusalem, and quyte him selfe boldly in the name of the LORDE Iesu. He spake also, and disputed with the Grekes. But they were aboute to slaye him. Whā the brethren knewe that, they brought him to Cesarea, and sent him forth to Tharsis. So the congregacions had rest thorow out all Jewry, and Galile, and Samaria, & were edified, and walked in the feare of the LORDE, and were fylled with the comforte of the holy goost.

It chaunced that as Peter walked thorow all quarters, he came also vnto the sayntes which dwelt at Lydda. There founde he a man named Eneas, which had lye vpon his bedd eight yeres sicke of the palsye. And Peter sayde vnto him: Eneas, Iesus Christ make the whole, arise, and make thy bedd for thy self. And he arose immediatly. And all they that dwelt at Lydda and at Saron, sawe him, and turned vnto the LORDE.

At Joppa there was a certayne woman that was a discipule, named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas: she was full of good woikes and almesse dedes, which she dyd. But it chaunced at the same tyme, that she was sicke, and dyed. Then washed they her, and layed her in a chamber. But for so much as Lydda was nye vnto Joppa, and the disciples herde that Peter was there, they sent two men vnto him, and desyred him, that he wolde take it for no grese to come vnto them.

Peter rose, and came with them. And whā he was come, they broughte him in to the chamber, and all the wyddowes stode rounde aboute him, wepyng, and shewed him the cotes and garnettes, which Dorcas made whyle she was with them. And whā Peter had put them all forth, he kneeled downe, made his prayer, and turned him vnto the body, and sayde: Tabitha, arise vp. And she opened hir eyes: and whā she sawe Peter, she sat hir downe agayne. But he gaue her the hande, and lifte her vp, and called the sayntes and the wedowes, and shewed her there alyue. And it was knowne thorow out all Joppa, & many beleued on the LORDE. And it fortuneth, that he taried a lōge season at Joppa by one Simō, which was a tanner.

The X. Chapter.

There was a man at Cesarea, named Cornelius (a captayne of the company, which is called the Italianys) a deuoute man, & one that feared God in all his house, & gaue much almesse to the people, and prayed God allwaye. The same sawe in a vision openly (aboute the nyenth houre of the daye) an angell of God entringe in to him, and sayenge vnto him: Cornelius. He looked vpon him, and was afrayed, and sayde: LORDE, what is it? He sayde vnto him: Thy prayers & thine almeses are come vp in to remembraunce before God. And now sende men vnto Joppa, & call for Simo, whose synname is Peter, which is at lodgyng with one Symon a tanner, whose house lyeth by y^e see syde: he shal tell y^e, what thou oughtest to do. And whā the angell which spake to Cornelius, was departed, he called two of his household seruantes, & a deuoute souldyer, of the which wayted vpon him: and tolde them all, and sent the to Joppa.

On the nexte daye after whan these were goinge on their iourney, and came nye vnto the cite, Peter wente vp in to a chamber to praye aboute the sixte houre. And whan he was hōgrie, he wolde haue eatē. But whyle they made ready for him, he fell in to a trance, and sawe heauē open, and a vessell cōmyng downe vnto him, as it had bene a greates lunnē clothe, knytt at the foure corners, and was let downe to y^e earth, wherin were all maner of foure footed bestes of the earth, & wyld beestes, and wommes, and foules of the ayre. And there came a voyce vnto him: Rysē Peter, slaye, & eat. But Peter sayde: Whā no, LORDE, for I neuer ate eny comen or vncleane thinge. And the voyce spake vnto him agayne y^e secōde tyme: What God hath clensed, y^e make not thou vncleane. This was done thryse. And y^e vessell was receaued vp agayne in to heauen.

But whyle Peter was combed in him selfe, what maner of vision this shulde be which he had sene, beholde, the men y^e were sent from Cornelius, enquired after Simo's house, and stode before the dore, and called, and axed whether Simon (whose synname was Peter) were lodged there. Whyle Peter was musinge of the vision, the spirete sayde vnto him: beholde, the men seke the. Arise therefore, and get the downe, & go with the, and doute not, for I have sent them.

Then wente Peter downe to the men, & were sent vnto him from Cornelius, and sayde: I am he whom ye seke: what is y^e cause, wherfore ye are come? They sayde: Cornelius the capteyne, a iust man and one that feareth God, and of good reporte amōge all the people of the Jewes, was warned by an holy angell, to sende for the in to his house, and to heare wordes of the. Then called he them in, and lodged them.

The nexte daye after wente Peter forth with them, and certayne brethren of Joppa bare him company. And y^e daye followinge came they to Cesarea. Cornelius wayted for the, and had called together his kynnesfolkes and speciall frendes. And as it chaunced y^e Peter came in, Cornelius mett him, and fell downe at his fete, & worshipped him. But Peter toke him vp, and sayde: Stande vp, I am a man also. And as he talked wth him, he wente in, and founde many that were come together, and he sayde vnto them: Ye knowe, that it is not lawfull for a man beinge a Jewe to ioine him selfe or to come to a stranger. But God hath shewed me, y^e I shulde call no mā comen or vncleane. Therefore haue I not daunted to come, as soone as I was sent for. I am here therefore, for what intent haue ye sent for me?

Cornelius sayde: It is now foure dayes ago, then fasted I, and at the nyenth houre I prayed in my house, and beholde, there stode a mā before me in a bryghte clothinge, and sayde: Cornelius, y^e prayer is herde, and thine almeses dedes are had in remembraunce in the sighte of God. Sende therefore to Joppa, and call for one Simon (whose synname is Peter) which is at lodgyng in y^e house of Simon y^e tanner, by the see syde: y^e same whā he cometh, shal speake vnto y^e. Then sent I vnto the immediatly, and thou hast done well, that thou art come. Now are we all here presente before God, to heare all thynges that are commaunded the of God.

Peter opened his mouth, & sayde: I now perceaue y^e of a trouth, that God hath no respecte of personnes, but in all people he feareth him, and worketh righteousnes, is accepted vnto him. We knowe of y^e preachinge that God sent vnto the children of Israhel, preachinge thorow Iesus Christ (which is LORDE ouer all) which preachinge was published thorow out all Jewry, & and begane in Galile after y^e baptisme that Iohn preached, how God anoynted the same Iesus of Nazareth with the holy goost and wth power, which wente aboute, & dyd good, and healed all those that were oppressed of the deuill, for God was with him. And we are witnesses of all that he dyd in the londe of the Jewes, & at Jerusalem. Whom they slew, and hanged on tre.

Whā God raysed vp on the thirde day, & caused him be openly shewed, not to all the people, but to y^e chosen witnesses of God euen vnto vs, which ate & dronke with him after he was risen yp from the deed.

he commaunded vs to preach vnto the people, and to testifie, that it is he which is ordeined of God a iudge of the lyuynge and of the deed. Of him beare all the prophetes witness, that thorow his name all they y^e beleue in him, shal receaue remysion of synnes. Whyle Peter was yet speakinge these wordes, the holy goost fell vpo all the that hadened vnto the worde. And the faithfull of the circūcision which came with Peter, were astonnyed, because that the gifte of y^e holy goost was shed out also vpon the heythen. For they herde that they spake with unges, and magnified God. The answered peter: Maye eny man forbydde water, that these shulde not be baptysed, which haue receaued the holy goost as well as we? And he commaunded them to be baptysed in the name of the LORDE. The prayed they him, that he wolde tary there certayne dayes.

The XI. Chapter.

The Apostles and the brethren that were in Jewrye, herde saye, that the heythen also had receaued the worde of God. And whan Peter was come vp to Jerusalem, they that were of the circūcision, chode with him, and sayde: Thou went in to men that are vncircumcysed, and hast eaten with them. But Peter beganne, and expounded the thinge in order vnto the, and sayde: I was in y^e cite of Joppa prayyng, and in a trance I sawe a vision, a vessell cōmyng downe, as it had bene a greates lunnē clothe with foure comers, and let downe from heauen, and came vnto me. In to the which I looked, and considered, and sawe foure footed bestes of the earth, and wyld beestes, and wommes, and foules of the ayre. And I herde a voyce, which sayde vnto me: Rysē Peter, slaye, & eat. But I sayde: Whā no, LORDE, for there neuer entred eny comen or vncleane thinge in to my mouth. Nevertheless the voyce answered me agayne from heauen: What God hath clensed, that call not thou vncleane. This was done thre tymes, and all was taken vp agayne in to heauen.

And beholde, immediatly stode there thre men before the dore of the house that I was in, sent from Cesarea vnto me. But the spirete sayde vnto me, that I shulde go with the, and doute nothinge. These sixe brethre also came with me, and we entred in to the mā's house.

And he shewed vs, how he had sene an angell stondinge in his house, which sayde vnto him: Sende men to Joppa, and call for Simon (whose synname is Peter) he shal tell y^e wordes, wherby thou and all thy house shal be saved. But whan I beganne to speake, the holy goost fell vpo them, like as vpon vs at y^e begynnynge. Then thoughte I vpon the worde of the LORDE, how he sayde: Iohn baptysed with water, but ye shalbe baptysed with y^e holy goost. For as moch then as God hath geuen them like giftes, as vnto vs, which beleue on the LORDE Iesus Christ, who was I that I shulde be able to withstōde God? Whan they herde this, they helde their peace, and praised God, and sayde: Then hath God also to the heythen graunted repentance vnto life.

They that were scatred abroad thorow y^e trouble y^e rose aboute Steven, walked on euerysyde vntyll phenices, and Cipers, and Antioche, and spake the worde vnto noman but onely vnto y^e Jewes. Neuertheles some of the were men of Cipers and Cyren, which came to Antioche, and spake also vnto the Grekes, & preached the Gospell of the LORDE Iesu. And y^e hande of the LORDE was with the. And a greates nombre belened, and turned vnto the LORDE.

This rydinges of them came to y^e eares of the cōgregacion at Jerusalem. And they sent Barnabas, that he shulde go vnto Antioche. Which whan he was come thither, & sawe the grace of God, he was glad, & exorted them all, that with purpose of herte they wolde contynue in the LORDE. For he was a good man, full of the holy goost and faith. And there was a greates multitude of people added vnto the LORDE. But Barnabas departed vnto Tharsus, to seke Saul. And whā he had founde hi, he broughe hi to Antioche. It chauced, that a whole yere they were there cōuersaunte together in the cōgregaciō, & taughte moch people, so that the disciples at Antioche were first called Christians.

In those dayes came there prophetes frō Jerusalem vnto Antioche. And one of them (whose name was Agabus) stode vp, and declared by the spirete a greates berth, that shulde come ouer the whole compasse of the earth: which came to passe vnder the Emperoure Claudius. But the disciples cōcluded (euery one acordyng to his abylyte) to sende an handreachinge vnto y^e brethren that were in Jewry: which thinge they also dyd, and sent it by the handes of Barnabas and Siml.

The XII. Chapter.

At the sametyme layed kynge Herode handes vpon certayne of the congregacion, to vexe them. As for James the brother of Jhon, him he slewe with the swerde. And whan he sawe that it pleased the Jewes, he proceeded farther to take Peter also. But it was Easter. Now whan he had taken him, he put him in prison, and deliuered him vnto foure quatermions of soudyers, to kepe him: and thought after Easter to bringe him forth to the people. And Peter was kepte in the prison. But prayer was made without ceasinge of the congregacion, vnto God for him. And whan Herode wolde haue broughte him out vnto the people, in the same nighte slepte Peter betwene two soudiers, bounde with two cheynes. And the keepers before the dore kepte the prison.

And beholde, the angell of the LORDE was there presente, and a lighte shyned in the habitation, and he smote Peter on the syde, and waked him vp, and sayde: Arise vp quykly. And the cheynes fell off from his bondes. And the angell sayde vnto him: Gydethe, and put on thy shues. And he dyd so. And he sayde vnto him: Cast thy mantle aboute the, and folowe me. And he wente out, and folowed him, and wist not, that it was truely that was done by an angell, but thoughte he had sene a vision. Neuertheles they wente thorow the first and seconde watch, and came to the yron gate, that lederh vnto the cite, which opened to the by his awne acorde. And they wente out, and passed thorow one strete, and immediatly the angell departed from him.

And whan Peter was come to himself, he sayde: Now I knowe of a truely, that y LORDE hath sent his angell, and deliuered me out of the honde of Herode, and from all the waytinge for of the people of the Jewes. And as he considered the thinge, he came to the house of Mary the mother of one Jhon, (which after his synname was called Marke) where many were gathered together, and prayed. As Peter knocked at the entry dore, there came forth a damsell to herten, named Rhoda. And whan she knewe Peters voyce, she opened not the entrye for gladnes, but rane in, and tolde, that Peter stode before y entrye. But they sayde vnto her: Thou art mad. Neuertheles she abode by it, that is was so. They sayde: it is his angell. But Peter continued knockinge. Whan they opened the dore, they sawe him, and were astonied. But he beckened vnto them with the hande, to holde their peace, & tolde them, how the LORDE had broughte him out of the prison. And he sayde: Shewe this vnto James, and to the brethren. And he departed, and wete in to another place.

Whan it was daye, there was not a lute a doo amoge the soudyers, what was become of Peter. Whan Herode had called for him, and founde him not, he caused the keepers to be examyned, and commaunded the to be caried awaye, and he wente downe into Jewry vnto Cesarea, and there abode. But he was displeased with the of Tyre and Sidon. Neuertheles they came vnto him with one accorde, and made intercession to Blastus the kynges chamberlayne, and desired peace, because their countre was nouthed by the kynges londe. But vpon a daye appointed, Herode put on y kyngly apperill, sat him downe vpon the iudgment seate, and made an oracion vnto them. As for the people, they cried therto: This is a voyce of God, and not of a man. Immediatly the angell of the LORDE smote him, because he gaue not God the honoure: And he was eaten vp of wormes, and gaue up the goost. But the worde of God grewe, and multiplied. As for Barnabas and Saul, they came agayne to Jerusalem, and deliuered the handreachinge, and toke with them Jhon, whose synname was Marke.

The XIII. Chapter.

There were at Antioche in the congregacion, prophetes and teachers, as Barnabas, and Simon called Nigger, and Lucius of Cyren, and Manahem Herodes the Tetrachas noiffelowe, and Saul. As they serued y LORDE, and fasted, the holy goost sayde: Separate me out Barnabas and Saul for the worke, whereunto I have called them. Then fasted they and prayed, and layed the handes on them, and let them go. And they beyng sent of the holy goost, came vnto Seleucia, from thence they sayled vnto Cypers. And whan they were come in to the cite Salamin, they shewed the worde of God in the synagoge of y Jewes. And they had Jhon to that mynister.

And whan they had gone thorow the yle vnto the cyte of Paphos, they founde a certayne Sorcerer and false prophet, a Jewe (whose name was Barjesa) which was with Sergius Paulus the ruler of the countre, a man of vnderstandinge. The same called Barnabas and Saul vnto him, and besyed to heare y worde of God. Then the Sorcerer Elimas (for so was his name by interpretation) withstode the, and soughte to turne awaye the ruler fro the faith. But Saul which is also called Paul, beyng full of the holy goost, looked vpon him, and sayde: Thou childe of the denell, full of all suttyle and all disceatfulnesse, and enemye of all righteounes, thou ceassest not to peruerse the straight wayes of y LORDE. And now beholde, the hade of the LORDE cometh vpon the, and thou shalt be blynde, and not see the Sonne for a season. And immediatly there fell on him a myst and darknesse, and he wente aboute, and soughte them that shulde lede him by the hande. Whan the ruler sawe what was done, he belened, and wised at the doctryne of the LORDE.

Whan Paul and they that were with him, were departed by shippe fro Paphos, they came to Perga in the londe of Pamphilia. But Jhon departed from them, and wente agayne to Jerusalem. Neuertheles they wandred thorow from Perga, and came to Antioche in the londe of Pisidia, and wete into the synagoge vpon the Sabbath daye, and sat downe. But after the lecture of the lawe and of the prophetes, the rulers of the synagoge sent vnto them, sayinge: Good brethren, yf ye haue eny sermon to exorte the people, saye on. Then stode Paul vp, and beckened with the hande (that they shulde holde their peace) and sayde:

Yemen of Israel, and yet that feare God, heere to: The God of this people chose our fathers, and exalted the people, whan they were straungers in the lode of Egypte, and with a mightie arme broughte he them out of it. And by the space of fortye yeares suffred he their maners in the wyldernes, and destroyed seven nacions in the lande of Canaan, and parted their londe amonge them by lot. After that gaue he them iudges by the space of foure hundred and fiftye yeares, vnto the prophet Samuel. And after that they desired a kynge, and God gaue vnto them Saul the sonne of Cis, a man of the trybe of Ben Jamin, fortye yeares longe. And whan he had put him downe, he set vp David to be their kynge, of whom he reported, sayinge: I haue founde David the sonne of Jesse, a man after my hert, he shal fulfill all my wyll.

Of this mans sede hath God (accordinge to the promesse) broughte forth vnto the people of Israel, y Sauoure Jesus: whan

Jhon had first preached before his comynge the baptyme of repentance vnto Israel. But whan Jhon had fulfilled his course, he sayde: I am not he, that ye take me for. But beholde, there cometh one after me, whose shues of his fete I am not worthy to lowse. Ye men and brethren, ye children of the generacion of Abraham, and they that feare God amonge you, vnto you is y worde of this saluacion sent. For the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and their rulers, for so much as they knewe him not, ner yet the voyces of the prophetes (which are red euery Sabbath) haue fulfilled them in condemninge him. And though they founde no cause of death in him, yet desired they Pilate to kyll him. And whan they had fulfilled all that was myrtten of him, they toke him downe from the tre, and layed him in a sepulchre. But on y thirde daye God rayfed him vp from the deed, and he appeared many dayes vnto the, that wente vp with him from Galile vnto Jerusalem, which are his witness vnto the people.

And we also declare vnto you y promes, which was made vnto our fathers, how that God hath fulfilled the same vnto vs their children, in y he rayfed vp Jesus agayne. As it is myrtten in the seconde psalme: Thou art my sonne, this daye haue I begotten the. But that he hath rayfed him vp fro the deed, now nomore to retorne to corrupcion, he sayde on this wyse: The grace promysed to David, wyl I faithfully kepe vnto you. Therfore sayeth he also in another place: Thou shalt not suffre thy holy rose corrupcion. For David, whan he in his tyme had serued the wyll of God, he fell a slepe, and was layed by his fathers, & sawe corrupcion. But he whos God rayfed vp agayne, sawe no corrupcion.

Be it knowne vnto you therfore ye men and brethren, y thorow this man is preached vnto you y foregouenness of synnes, and fro all y thinges, wherby ye mighte not be iustified in the lawe of Moses. But whosoeuer beleueth on this man, is iustified. Bewarre therfore, that it come not vpon you, which is spoken in the prophetes: Beholde ye despyers, and wonder at it, and perishe, for I do a worke in youre tyme, which ye shal not belene, yf eny man tell it you.

Whan the Jewes were gone out of the synagoge, the heythen besoughte them, y they wolde speake y worde vnto them betwene the Sabbath dayes. And whan the congregacion of the synagoge was broken vp, many Jewes and proselites & served God, folowed Paul and Barnabas, which spake to them, and exorted them, that they shulde contynue in the grace of God.

On y Sabbath folowinge, came almost the whole cite together, to heare the worde of God. But whan the Jewes sawe the people, they were full of indignacion, and spake agaynst that which was spoken of Paul, speakinge agaynst it, & blasphemynge. But Paul and Barnabas waxed bolde, and sayde: It behoued first the worde of God to be spoken vnto you: but now that yethus it frō you, and counce youre selues unworthy of euerlastinge life, lo, we turne to the Gentyles. For so hath the LORDE comāded vs: I haue set the to be a lighte vnto y Gentyles, & thou be y Saluacion vnto the ende of the earth. Whan the Gentyles herde that, they were glad, and praysed the worde of the LORDE, and beleued, euē as many as were ordeyned to euerlastinge life. And the worde of y LORDE was spred abroad thorow out all the region. Howbeit the Jewes moued the deuonce and honorable women, and the chesemen of the cite, and raysed vp a persecucion agaynst Paul and Barnabas and expelled them out of their costes. But they shoke of the dust of their fete agaynst them, and came to Iconium. And the disciples were fylled with ioye and with the holy goost.

The XIII. Chapter.

It fortunēd at Iconium, that they wete boeth together in to the synagoge of the Jewes, and spake so, that a greate multitude of the Jewes & of the Grekes beleued. But the vnbeleynge Jewes moued and dysquyered the soules of the heythē agaynst the biethē. So they had their beyng there a lōge season, and quyet them selues boldly in the LORDE, which gaue testimony vnto the worde of his grace, and caused tokens and wonders to be done by their handes. Howbeit the multitude of the cite was deuyled, some helde w the Jewes, and some with the Apostles.

But whan there rose vp an insurreccion of the heythē and of y Jewes, and of their rulers, to put them to shame, and to stone thē, they perceaued it, and fled vnto lystra and Derba cities of y countre of Licaonia, and vnto y region that lyeth rounde aboute, and therethey preached the Gospell.

And amonge them of Lystra, there was a man, which sat beyng impotent of his fete, and was crepell frō his mothers wombe, and had neuer walked, the same herde Paul speake. And whan he behelde him, and perceaued that he had faith to be made whole, he sayde a loude voyce: Stonde vp righte on thy fete. And he sprang vpon and walked. But whan the people sawe what Paul had done, they lifte vp their voyce, and sayde in y speache of Licaonia: The goddes are comelike vnto men, and are come downe vnto vs. And they called Barnabas Iupiter, and Paul Mercurius, because he was the preacher. But Jupiters priest which dwelt before their cite, broughte open and garlandes before the gate, and wolde haue done sacrifice with the people.

Whan y Apostles Barnabas and Paul herde that, they rent their clothes, and drayne in amonge the people, cryenge and sayinge: Remē, Why do yethis? We are mortal men also like vnto you, & preach vnto you y Gospell, that ye shulde turne from these vanethinges vnto y luyngē God, which made heauē and earth, and the see, and all that therein is, which in tymes past suffred all y heythen to walke after their awne wayes. Neertheles he hath not left hi selfe without wyneffe, in y he hath shewed his benefites, and geuen vs rayne from heauen, and fructfull seasons, fyllinge oure hertes with fode and gladnesse. And whan they sayde this, they scarce refrayned the people, that they dyd not sacrifice vnto them.

But there came thither certayne Jewes from Antioche and Iconiū, and perswaded the people, and stoned Paul, and dide him out of the cite, supposinge he had benedict. Howbeit as y disciples stode rounde aboute him, he rose vp, & came in to the cite. And on the nexte daye he departed with Barnabas vnto Derba, and preached the Gospell vnto the same cite, and taughte many of them. And they wete agayne vnto Lystra, and Iconium and Antioche, strengthinge the soules of y disciples, and exortinge thē to cōtinue in the faith: and that wetheymoch tribulacion must entre in to the kyngdome of God. And whā they had ordeyned them Elders by eleccion thorow all the congregacions, they prayed and fasted, and comended them vnto the LORDE, on whom they beleued.

And they wente thorow p̄sidia, and came to Pamphilia, and spake the worde at Perga, and wete downe to Attalia, and thence departed they by shippe vnto Antioche: from whence they were deliuered to the grace of God vnto y worke, which they had fulfilled. Whan they came there, they gathered the congregacion together, & shewed them, how greate thinges God had done with thē, and how he had opened the doore of faith vnto the heythen. And there they abode a longe tyme with the disciples.

The XV. Chapter.

And there came certayne frō Jewry, and taughte the biethren: Excepte ye be circumcysed after the maner of Moses, ye can not be saved. Now whā there rose a discōsion, and Paul and Barnabas had set them selues harde agaynst them, they ordeyned, that Paul and Barnabas and certayne other of them shulde go vp to Ierusalem vnto the Apostles and Elders, aboute this questio. And they were broughte on their waye by y cōgregacion, & wente thorow Phenices and Samaria, and declared the conuersacion of the heythen, and broughte greate ioye vnto all the biethren. Whan they came to Ierusalem, they were receaued of y cōgregacion, & of the Apostles, and of the Elders, & they tolde how greate thinges God had done with thē. Then rose there vp certayne of the secte of y pharises (which beleued) and sayde: They must be circumcysed and comāded, to kepe the lawe of Moses. But the Apostles and Elders came together, to reason vpon this matter.

Now whan there was moch dysputinge Peter rose vp, and sayde vnto thē: Ye men and biethren, ye knowe that a good whyle agoe, God chose amonge vs, & the heythē by my mouth shulde heare the worde of the Gospell, and beleue. And God the knowere of hertes bare wyneffe ouer thē, and gaue thē the holy goost, like as vnto vs, & put no difference betwixte vs & them, and purified their hertes thorow sayth. Now therfore why tempte ye God, with layenge vpon y disciples neckes the yocke, which neither our fathers ner we were able to beare? But we beleue to be saved thorow the grace of the LORDE Jesu Christ, like as they also. Therall y multitude helde their peace, and gaue audience vnto Paul and Barnabas, which tolde how greate tokens and wonders God had done by thē amonge the heythen. Afterwarde whan they helde their peace, James answered, and sayde: Ye men and biethren, herē vnto me, Simō hath tolde, how God at the first vsited to receaue a people vnto his name from amonge the heythen. And vnto this agree y wordes of the prophetes, as it is wyrtē: After this wyl I retorne and wyl buylde agayne y tabernacle of David, that is fallen downe, and that which is fallen in decaye therof, wyl I buylde agayne, and wyl set it vp, that the residue of men maye seeke after the LORDE: & also the heythen vnto whom my name is named, sayeth the LORDE, which doth all these thinges. A newne vnto God are all his workes from the begynnynge of y worlde. Wherefore my sentence is, that they which from amonge the heythen are turned vnto God, be not dysquyered, but to wyte vnto them, that they absteyne them selues from fylthyneffe of Idols, from whoredome, and from strangled, and blode. For Moses hath of olde tyme in euery cite them that preach him: and he is red in the synagoges euery Sabbath daye.

And the Apostles and Elders with the whole congregacion thoughte it good, to chose out men of them, and to sende them vnto Antioche with Paul and Barnabas, namely: Judas, whose synname was Barsabas, and Sylas (which were these men amonge the biethē) and gaue thē letters in their handes after this maner:

We the Apostles and Elders & biethren, wysly healeth vnto the biethē of the heythē which are at Antioche, and Syria and Celiicia. For so moch as we haue herde that certayne of onres are departed, and haue troubled you, and combred youre myndes, sayinge: ye must be circumcysed, and kepe y lawe (to whom we gaue no such commaundement) it sented good vnto vs, beyng gathered together with one accorde, to chose out men, and to sende them vnto you, with oure beloved Barnabas and Paul, men that haue to perced their lynes for y name of oure LORDE Jesu Christ. Therfore haue we sent Judas and Sylas, which shal also tell you the same with wordes. For it pleased the holy goost and vs, to laye no charge vpon you, more then these necessary poyntes: That ye absteyne from the offeringes of Idols, and from blode, and from strangled, and from whoredome. From the which yf ye absteyne youre selues, ye shal do well. Fare yewell.

Whan these were sent forth, they came vnto Antioche, and gathered the multitude together, and deliuered the epistle. Whan they had red it, they were glad of that cōsolacion. As for Judas & Sylas (which were prophetes also) they exorted y biethē with moch preachinge, and strenghted them. And whan they had taried there for a season, they were let go of the biethren in peace,

Unto the Apostles. Notwithstandinge Sy-las thoughte it good to hyde there styll.
But Paul and Barnabas cōtynued at An-tioche, teachinge and preachinge the worde of the LORDE, with ocher many.

Nevertheless after certayne dayes Paul sayde vnto Barnabas: let vs go agayne,
and vyset oure brethren thorow all the cities (wherin we haue shewed the worde of the LORDE) how they do. But Barnabas ga-ue counsell, that they shulde take with the Ihon, whose synname was Marke. Howbeit Paul thoughte it mete, not to take him with them, which departed from them in Pamphilia, and wente not with them vnto the worke. And so sharpe was the strife betweene them, that they departed asunder
one fro the ocher, and Barnabas toke Marke vnto him, and sayled vnto Cyprus. But Paul chose Syllas, and departed, beyng co-mytted of the brethren vnto the grace of God. He wente thorow Syria and Cilicia, stablishynge the congregacions.

The XVI. Chapter.

He came vnto Derba and to Lystra, and beholde, a certayne discipule was there named Timotheus, the sonne of a Jewish woman, which beleued, but his father was a Greke: yf same had a good repute amonge the brethre of Lystra and at Iconium. Paul wolde that the same shul-de go forth with him, and toke and circumcysed him because of the Jewes that were in those quarters. For they knewe all, that his father was a Greke. But as they wente thorow the cities, they deliuered them the sentence to kepe, which was concluded of the Apostles and Elders at Jerusalem. The were the congregacions stablished in the faith, and increased in nombre daylie.

But as they wente thorow Phrygia and the londe of Galacia, they were forbydden of the holy goost, to preache the worde in Asia. Howbeit as they came in to Mysia, they proued to take their iourney in to Bi-thinia, and the spere suffred them not.

Nevertheless whan they had passed tho-row Mysia, they came downe to Troada, and there appeared a vision vnto Paul by night, that there was a man of Macedonia which stode and prayed him, and sayde: Come downe to Macedonia, and helpe vs.
Whan he had sene y vision, we soughte im-mediatly to go, vnto Macedonia, beyng certified, that y LORDE had called vs thither, to preache the Gospell vnto them. The departed we from Troada, and came the straight course vnto Samothracia, on the nexte daye to Neapolis, and from thence philippis, which is the chiefe cite of the lande of Macedonia, and a fre cite. In this cite abode we certayne dayes.

On the daye of the Sabbathes we wente
out of the cite besyde the water, wheremen were wonte to praye, and we sat downe, and spake vnto the women that resorted thither.
And a deuoute woman (named Lydia) a seller of purple, out of the cite of Thyatira, herkened to, whose hert the LORDE opened that she gaue hede vnto the thinges that Paul spake. Whan she was baptysed, and hir housholde, she besoughte vs, and sayde:
If ye thynke that I beleue on the LORDE, then come in to my house, and abyde with me. And she constrained vs.

It fortuned whan we wente to praye,
there met vs a damsel, which had a spere of soychsayenge, and broughte hir master and maistresse greate vantage with soychsayen-ge: yf same folowed Paul and vs, and cryed, and sayde: These men are the seruantes of the most hye God, which shewe vs y way of saluacion. This dyd she many dayes. But Paul was not content with it, and tolde him aboute, and sayde vnto the spere: I maunde the in the name of Iesu Christ, that thou departe out of her. And he departed out at the same houre.

But whā hir master and maistresse sawe
that the hope of their vantage was gon, they toke Paul and Syllas, dunt them in the market place before y rulers, and broughte
the vnto the officers, and sayde: These men trouble oure cite, and are Jewes, and preach
an ordynance, which is not lawfull for vs
to receaue, ner to obserue, seynge we are Ro-maynes. And the people rāne on them, and the officers rente their clothes, and comanded them to be beaten with roddes. And whan they had beaten them sore, they cast
the in prison, and commanded the iayles to kepe them diligently. Which whan he had receaued soch commaundement, he cast the in to the ynnert prison, and put their feet in the stocks.

But at mydnight prayed Paul and Syllas, and prayled God. And the prisoners be-drem. Sodenly was there a greate earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken. And immediatly were all the dores open, and all their bondes lowsed. And the keper of the prison waked out of sleep, and sawe the prison dores open, he dunt
his swerde, and wolde haue kyllid him selfe.

for he thoughte y prisoners had bene fled.
But Paul cryed loude, and sayde: Do thy self
no harme, for we are all here.

He called for a lighte, and sprange in, and tumbled, and fell at the fete of Paul and Syllas, and broughte them out, and sayde: Syllas, what must I do, to be saued? They sayde: Beleue on the LORDE Iesus, and so shalt thou and thy housholde be saued. And they preached the worde of the LORDE vnto
him, and to all that were in his house.

And he toke them to him in the same hou-
re of the night, and washed their strypes.
And immediatly was he baptysed, and all his. And he broughte them in to his house, and set them a table, and reioysed with all his housholde, that he was become a bele-uer on God.

And whan it was daye, the officers of the cite sent mynisters, and sayde: Let those men go. And the keper of the prison tolde this sayenge vnto Paul: The officers haue sent hither, that ye shulde be lowse. Now therfore get you hēce, and go in peace. But Paul sayde vnto them: They haue beaten vs openly vncōdemned (where as we are yet Romaynes) and haue cast vs in prison,
and shulde they now chuse vs out piously?
Not so, but let them come them selues, and brynge vs out. The mynisters tolde these wordes vnto the officers. And they feared, whan they herde that they were Romaynes, and came and besoughte them, and prayed the to departe out of the cite. Then went they out of the prison, and entred in to the house of Lydia. And whan they had sent the brethren and comforted them, they departed.

The XVII. Chapter.

As they made their iourney thorow
Amphipolis and Apollonia, they camē to Thessalonica, where was a syna-goge of the Jewes. And Paul (as his maner was) wente in vnto them, and vpon the Sabbathes he spake vnto them of the scripture, opened it vnto the, and alleged, that Christ must nedes haue suffred, and ryse agayne from the deed: and this Iesus, whom I preach vnto you (sayde he) is y same Christ.
And some of the beleued, and were ioyned
vnto Paul and Syllas, a greate multitude also of the deuoute Grekes, and of the chiefe women not a fewe.

But the styffnecked Jewes had indignation, and toke vnto them certayne euell men which were vagabundes, and gathered a company, and set the cite in a rore, and preas-sed vnto the house of Jason, and soughte to brynge them out vnto the comon people.

But whan they founde them not, they drue
Jason, and certayne brethren vnto the rulers of the cite, and cryed: These that trouble all the worlde, are come hither also, whom Jason hath receaued piously. And these all do contrary to the decrees of the Emperoure, sayenge, that there is another kyng, one Iesus. They troubled the people, and the rulers of the cite, that herde this.
And whan they had receaued a sufficient answere of Jason and of the other, they let them go.

But the brethren immediatly sent awaye
Paul and Syllas by night vnto Berea.
Whan they came there, they wente in to the synagoge of the Jewes (for they were the Eldest amonge the at Thessalonica) which receaued the worde marvelous willingly, and searched the scriptures daylie, whether it were euen so. Then beleued many of them, and worshipfull women off the Grekes,
and men not a fewe. But whan the Jewes off Thessalonica had knowlege, that the worde off God was preached off Paul at Berea, they came, and moued the people there also. Howbeit the brethren sent Paul awaye then immediatly, to go vnto the see.
As for Syllas and Timotheus, they abode
there styll.

They that conueyed Paul, brought him
vnto Athens. And whan they had recea-ued a commaundement vnto Syllas and Ti-motheus, that they shulde come vnto him in all the haist, they wente their waye. But whyle Paul wayted for them at Athens,
his spere was moued in him, whan he sawe
the cite geue so to the worshippinge of ymages. And he spake vnto the Jewes and deuoute personnes in the synagoge, and in y market daylie vnto the that came to him. But certayne philosophers of y Epicurees and Stoikes disputed with him. And some sayde: What will this babler saye? But some sayde: he semeth to be a tidings brynger of new goddes (that was, because he had preached vnto the the Gospell of Iesus, and of the resurreccion.) And they toke him, and broughte him before the counsell house, and sayde: Maye we not knowe, what new doctryne this is that thou teachest? For thou bryngeest straunge tidings to oure eares. We wolde knowe therfore, what this meaneth.
As for all they of Athens, and straungers
gestes, they gaue the selues to nothinge els, rauntly. God which made y worlde, and all that therin is, for so moch as he is LORDE of heauen and earth, dwelleth not in temples made of handes, nether is he worshipped with mens handes, as though he had nedde of eny man, seynge he himself geneth life and breth vnto all men every where: and hath made of one bloude all the generacion of men to dwell vps all the face of y earth: and hath assygned borders appoynted before, how longe and farre they shulde dwell, that they shulde seke the LORDE, yf they mighte fele and fynde him.

E And truly he is not farre from every one of vs. For in him we lyue, moue, and haue oure beyng, as certayne of youre awne poetes also haue sayde: We are his generacion. For as moch then as we are the generacion of God, we oughte not to thinke that the Godheade is like vnto golde or syluer, or ymagery worke of the crafte or ymaginacion of man. And truly God hath ouersene the tyme of ignorance: But now he commaundeth all men every where to repente, because he hath appoynted a daye, in the which he wyl iudge the copasse of the worlde, with righteousnesse, by that one man in whos he hath appoynted it: and offred faith vnto all men, after that he had raysed him vp from the deed.

 When they herde of the resurreccion of the deed, some mocked. But some sayde: We wyl heare the agayne of this matter. So Paul departed from amonge them.  tus, which was lately come out of Italy: and his wife Priscilla (because the Emper^r Claudius had commaunded all Iewes to departe from Rome) and he diue vnto the. And because he was of the same crafte, he abode with the, and wroughte. Their crafte was to make tentes. And he preached in the synagoge every Sabbath daye, and exhorted the Iewes and the Grekes.

Whan Syllas and Timotheus were come fro Macedonia, Paul was constrained by the spiete to testifie vnto y Iewes, that Jesus was very Chust. But wha they sayde contrary and blasphemed, he shoke his rayment, and sayde vnto them: Your bloude be vpon youre awne heade. From hence forth I go blamelesse vnto the Gentyles. And he departed thence, and came in to the house of a man named Justus, which feared God, and his house was nexte vnto the synagoge. Howbeit Crispus the chiefe ruler of the synagoge, beleued on y LORDE with all his housholde. And many of the Couthians that gaue audience, beleued, and were baptysed.

The LORDE spake vnto Paul by a vision in y nighte: Be not afrayed, but speake, and holde not thy peace, for I am with thee, and noman shal inuade thee that shal hurte thee, for I haue moch people in this cite. He continued there a yere and sixe monethes, and taught them the worde of God.

But whan Gallio was ruler of the countre of Achaia, the Iewes made insurrection w one acorde agaynst Paul, & broughte him before the indgment seate, and sayde: This felowe counceleth men to worships God contrary to the lawe. Whan Paul was aboute to open his mouth, Gallio sayde vnto y Iewes: If it were a matter of wronge or an euell dede (O ye Iewes) reason wolde that I shulde heare you: but yf it be a questi on of wordes, and of names, and of y lawe amoge you, loke ye to it youre selues, I thinke not to be iudge there ouer. And he dioued them from the indgmet seate. Then all the Grekes toke Sosthenes the ruler of the Synagoge, and smote him before the indgment seate. And Gallio cared for none of thochinges.

Paul after y he had taried a good while, toke his leue of the brethren, and sayed in to Syria, Priscilla & Aquila bearinge him company. And he shored his heade at Cenchrea (for he had a vowe) & came downe to Ephesus, & leste them there. But he himselfe wete in to the synagoge, and reasoned with the Iewes. And they desyred him, that he wolde tary with them a longer season. And he cosented not, but bad them farwelle, and sayde: I must nedes in eny wyse kepe this feast that cometh, at Jerusalem: but yf God wyl, I wil retorne agayne vnto you.

And he departed from Ephesus, and came

meto Cesarea, and wente vp, and saluted y congregacion, and toke his iourney downe to Antioche, and taried there a certayne tyme, and departed, and walked thorow all y countre of Galatia and Phagia by ordie, and strengthened all the disciples.

There came vnto Ephesus a certayne Iewe, named Apollos (borne at Alexandria) an eloquent man, and mightie in the scriptures: the same was instructed in the waye of the LORDE, and spake feruently in the spiete, and taught diligently the thinges of the LORDE, and knewe but the baptyme off Ihon onely. The same beganne to speake boldly in the synagoge. Whan Aquila and Priscilla herde him, they toke him vnto the, and expounded the waye of God vnto him more perfectly. But whan he wolde go in to Achaia, the brethren wrote, and exorted the disciples to receaue him. And whan he was come thither, he helped them moch which beloued thorow grace. For he overcame the Iewes mightely, and shewed openly by y scripture, that Jesus was Chust.

The XIX. Chapter.

It is fortunied whan Apollos was at Corinthum, that Paul walked thorow the upper coastes, and came to Ephesus, and founde certayne disciples, vnto whom he sayde: Haue ye receaned y holy goost, sence ye beleued? They sayde vnto him: We haue not herde, whether there be an holy goost. He sayde vnto them: Where with then were ye baptysed? They sayde: With the baptyme of Ihon. Paul sayde: Ihon baptysed with the baptyme of repentance, and spake vnto y people, that they shulde beleue on him, which shulde come after him, that is, on Jesus, that the same is Chust. Whan they herde that, they were baptysed in the name of the LORDE Jesu. And whan Paul layed the handes on the, the holy goost came vpon them, and they spake with tun ges, and prophesied. And all the men were aboute twolue.

He wete into y synagoge, and preached boldly the monethes longe, teachinge, and tryunge them exortacions of the kyngdome of God. But whan dyuerse wayed herde hated, and beleued not, and spake euell of the waye of the LORDE before the multitude, he departed from them, and separated the disciples, and disputed daylye in the scole of one called Tyrannus. And this was done two yeres lōge, so that all they which dwelt in Asia, herde the worde of the LORDE Jesu, both Iewes & Grekes. And God wroughte no small miracles by the handes of Paul, so that from his body there were broughte naptynes or partettes vnto the sick, and the diseases departed from them, and the euell spietes wente out of them.

But certayne of the vagabonde Iewes which were confurers, undertoke to name y name of the LORDE Jesus, ouer those that had euell spietes, and sayde: We charge you by Jesus whom Paul preacheth. They were seuen sonnes of one Sceua a Iewe the hye priest, which dyd so. The euell spiete answered, and sayde: Jesus I knowe, and Paul I knowe, but who are ye? And the main whos the euell spiete was, ranne vpon them, and ouercame them, and cast them vnder him, so that they fled out of the same house naked and wounded. This was knowne vnto all the Iewes and Grekes which dwelt at Ephesus, and there fell a feare vpon them all. And y name of the LORDE Jesus was magnified. Many of the also that beleued, came and cosfessed, and shewed their woikes. But many of them that had vsed carious craftes, broughte the booke together, and burnt them openly: and they counted the pryce of them, and founde it of money fiftyn thousande pens. Somightely grewe y worbe of the LORDE, and preyayled.

Whan this was done, Paul purposed in the spiete to take his iourney thorow Macedonia and Achaia, and to go to Jerusalem, and sayde: After that I haue bene there, I must se Rome also. And he sent into Macedonia two that mynistred vnto him, Timotheus and Erastus. But he himselfe remayned in Asia for a season. At the same tyme there arose no litle a doo aboute that waye. For a certayne man named Demetrius a goldsmith, which made syluer shrynes for Diana, and broughte them of the crafte no small vantage. Them he gathered together, and the feloweworkme of the same occupacion, and sayde: Syis, ye knowe that by this crafte we haue vantage, and ye se and heare, that not onely at Ephesus, but almost also thorow out all Asia, this Paul turneth awaye moch people with his persuadyng, and sayeth: They be not goddes that are made with handes. Howbeit it shal not onely bringe oure occupacion to this poynthe to be set at naught, but also the temple of grea te Diana shal from hence forth be despyed, and hir maiestye also shal be destroyed, whos neuertheles all Asia and the wilde worshippinge.

Whan they herde this, they were full of

with, cried out, and sayde: Greate is Diana of the Ephesians. And all y^e cite was on a roore, and they rushed in with one assent in to the open place, and toke Gaius and Aristarchus of Macedonia, Pauls company ons. Whan Paul wolde haue gone in amonge the people, the disciples suffred him not. Certayne also of y^e chiefe of Asia which were Pauls good frendes, sent vnto him, and desired him, that he shulde not preasse in to the open place. Some cried one thinge, some another. And the congregacion was out of quyetee, and the more parte knewe not wherefore they were come together. Some of the people shoute forth Alexander, whan y^e Jewes thrust him forward. Alexander beckened with the hande, and wolde haue given the people an answer. But whan they knewe that he was a Jewe, there arose a shout of all, and cried the space of two houres: Greate is Diana of the Ephesians.

Whan the towne clark had styllled the people, he sayde: Xemen of Ephesus, what man is it which knoweth not, that the cite of y^e Ephesians is a worshipper of the greate goddesse Diana, and of the heavenly ymage? Seinge now that this can not be sayde agaynst, ye oughte to be contente, and to do nothinge without aduysment. Ye haue broughte hither these men, which are nether churchrobbers ner blasphemers off youre goddesse.

But yff Demetrius and they that are craftesmen with him, haue oughte to saye vnto eny man, the lawe is open, and there are rulers, let them accuse one another. But yf ye wil go aboute eny other thinge, it maye be determyned in a lawfull congregacion. For we stonde in ioperdy to be accused of this dayes vproure: and yet is there no man gylee, of a hom we myghte geue a rekenynge of this vproure. And whan he had sayde this, he let the congregacion departe.

The XX. Chapter.

Now whan the vproure was ceased, Paul called the disciples vnto him, and toke his leue of them, and departed to go in to Macedonia. And whan he had gone thorow those partes, and exhorted them with many wordes, he came in to Grece. And there abode thre monethes. But whan the Jewes layed wayte for him, as he was aboute to sayle in to Syria, he purposed to turne agayne thorow Macedonia. There accompanied him in to Asia, So-pater of Berrea: and of Thessalonica, Aristarchus and Secundus: and Gaius of Derba, and Timotheus: but of Asia, Tychicus and Trophimus. These wente before, and taried for vs at Troada: but we sayled after the Easter dayes from Philippos, vnto y^e fift daye, and came to them vnto Troada, and taried there seven dayes.

Vpon one of the Sabbathes, whan the disciples came together to breake bread, Paul preached vnto them, wyllinge to departe on the morow, and contynued the preachinge vnto mydnyght. And there were many lightes in the chamber, where they were gathered together. There sat a yonge man named Eurychos, in a wyndow, and fell in to a depe slepe (whyle Paul was speakinge) and was overcome with slepe, and fell downe from the chyrde losse, and was taken vp deed. But Paul wente downe, and fell on him, and enbraced him, and sayde: Make nothinge a doo, for his soule is in h^e. Then wente he vp, and brake the bread, and ate, and talked moch with the, tyll the daye brake, and so departed. As for the yongeman, they broughte him alyue, and were not a litle comforted.

But we wente afore in to the shippe, and sayled towarde Asson, wyllinge there to receaue Paul. For so had he appoynted, and wolde himselfe go on fore. Whan he was come to vs vnto Asson, we toke him in, and came to Mitylenes, and sayled from thence, and came on the nexte daye ouer agaynst Chios, and on the daye followinge we aryued at Samos, and taried at Tragilion, and on the nexte daye came we to Mileton: for Paul had determyned to sayle ouer by Ephesus, that he neede not to spende there tyme in Asia: for he haisted to be at Jerusalem vpon the Whitsundaye, yf it were possible for him.

But from Mileton he sent vnto Ephesus, and called for the Elders of the congregacion. Whan they were come to him, he sayde vnto them: Ye knowe sence the first daye that I came in to Asia, after what maner I haue bene with you at all tyme, and serued y^e LORDE with all humblaues of mynde, and with many teares and tribulations, which happened vnto me by y^e laynges of wayte of the Jewes, how y^e I haue kepte backe nothinge y^e was profitable, but that I haue shewed you, and taughte you openly, and priuately from house to house. And haue testified both vnto the Jewes and to the Grekes y^e the repentaunce toward

God, and faith towarde oure LORDE Jesus.

And now beholde, I go bounde in y^e spirit vnto Jerusalem, not knowinge what shal happen there vnto me, but y^e the holy goost witnesseth in euery cite, and sayeth, that bondes and troubles abyde me there. But I regard none of them, neither counte I my life dearer then my selfe, that I maye fulfyll my course with ioye, and the office y^e I haue receaued of the LORDE Jesus, to testifie the Gospell of the grace of God.

And now beholde, I knowe that ye shal se my face nomore, all ye, thorow whom I haue gone, and preached the kyngdome of God. Wherefore I take you to recorde this daye, that I am pure from the bloude of all men: for I haue kepte nothinge backe, but haue shewed you all the counsell off God. Take hede therfore vnto youre selues, and to all the flocke, amonge the which the holy goost hath set you to be Bishoppes, to fede the congregacion of God, which he hath purchaced thorow his owne bloude. For this I knowe, that after my departinge there shal enter in amonge you greuous wolues, which shal not spare the flocke. Ye eue from amonge youre awne selues shal men arise, speake ynge peruerse doctryne, to diuine disciples after them. Therfore awake, and remembre, that by the space of thre yeres I ceased not to warne every one off you both nyghte and daye with teares.

And now brethren I commend you vnto God, and to y^e worde of his grace, which is mightie to edifye you, and to geue you the inheritance amonge all them that are sanctified. I haue not desired syluer, golde or rayment off eny off you. For ye youre selues knowe, that these handes haue ministered vnto my necessities, and them that were with me. I haue shewed you all thinges, how that so labouringe ye oughte to receaue the weate, and to remembre the worde of the LORDE, how that he sayde: It is more blessed to geue, then to receaue.

And whan he had sayde this, he kneeled downe, and prayed with them all. But there was moch wepyng amonge them all, and they fell aboute Pauls necke, and kysed him, and were sory, most of all because of the worde which he had sayde, that they shulde se his face nomore. And they accompanied him vnto the shippe.

The XXI. Chapter.

Now whan it fortuneth that we had launched forth and were departed from them, we came with a straighe course vnto Coon, and on the daye followinge vnto the Rhodes, and from thence vnto Patara. And whan we founde a shippe ready to sayle vnto Phenices, we wente aboarde and set forth. But whan we came within the sighte of Cypers, we leste it on the leste hande, and sayled vnto Syria, and came vnto Tyre: for there the shippe shulde laye forth the ware. And whan we had founde disciples, we taried there seven dayes. And they tolde Paul thorow the spiere, that he shulde not go vp to Jerusalem. And it fortuneth whan we had fulfilled those dayes, we departed, and wente oure wayes, and they all broughte vs on oure waye with wyues and childre, tyll we were come out of y^e cite, and we kneeled downe vpon the shoure, and prayed. And whan we had taken oure leue one off another, we toke shippe, but they turned agayne vnto theirs. As for vs we ended the course from Tyre, and came to Ptolemaida, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one daye.

On the nexte daye we y^e were with Paul, departed, and came vnto Cesarea, and entered in to the house of Philippe the Euangelist (which was one of the seuen) and abode with him. The same had foure daughters, which were virgins, and prophesied. And as we taried there mo dayes, there came downe from Jewey a prophet, named Agabus. Whan he was come vnto vs, he toke Pauls gerdell, and bounde his handes and fete, and sayde: Thus sayeth y^e holy goost: The man whose gerdell this is, shal the Jewes bynde thus at Jerusalem, and shal deliuer him in to the handes of the heycht. Whan we herke this, both we and they that were of the same place, besoughte him, that he wolde not go vp to Jerusalem. Then answered Paul and sayde: What do ye, wepyng, and breakynge my hert? For I am redye, not onely to be bounde, but also to dye at Jerusalem for y^e name of the LORDE Jesus. But whan he wolde not be persuaded, we ceased, and sayde: The will of the LORDE be fulfyllled. And after those dayes we were ready, and wente vp to Jerusalem: There came with vs also certayne of the disciples off Cesarea, and broughte with them one of Cypers, named Mnason, an olde disciple, with whom we shulde lodge. Now whan we came to Jerusalem, the brethren receaued vs gladly. But on the nexte daye Paul wente in with us vnto James, and all the Elders came together. And whan he had saluted them, he tolde by order, what God had done among the heythen by his mynistracion.

C Whan they herde that, they prayesed the LORDE, and sayde vnto him: Brother, thou seyst how many thousande Jewes there are which beleue, and are all zelous ouer y lawe. But they are enfourmed agaynst the, that thou teachest all the Jewes which are amonge the heythen, to forsake Moses, and sayest that they oughte not to circumcise their children, ner to walke after the same custome. What is it therfore? The multitude must nedes come together, for they shal heare that thou art come. Do this therfore that we saye vnto the: We haue foure men, which haue a .vowe on them, take them vnto y, and purifise thyselfe with them, and do the cost on them, that they maye shawe their heades: and they shal knowe, that it is nothinge, wherof they are enfourmed agaynst the, but that thou also walkest and kepest the lawe. For as touching them that beleue amonge the heythen, we haue wyrtten, and concluded, that they shulde obserue no sode, but onely to kepe them selues from the offeringes of Idols, from bloude, from strangled, and from whoredome. Then Paul toke them vnto him, and was purifised with them on the nexte daye, and entred in to the temple, declaringe that he fulfilled the dayes of purificacion, tyll there was an offeringe offred for every one of them.

D But whan the seven dayes were almost fulfilled, the Jewes of Asia sawe him in the temple, and moued all the people, layed handes vpon him, and cryed: Yemen of Israel helpe, this is the man, that teacheth all men every where agaynst oure people, the lawe, and this place. He hath broughte Grekes also in to the temple, and hath defyled this holy place. For they had sene Trophimus the Ephesian with him in the cite, him they thoughte y Paul had broughte in to the temple. And all the cite was moued, and the people ranne together. And they toke Paul, and diue him out off the temple, and forth with the doores were shut to.

But whan they were aboute to kyll him, rydinges came to the chese capayne of the company, that all Jerusalem was moued. Which immediatly toke souldyers and capaynes vnto him, and ranne in amonge them. Whan they sawe the capayne and the souldyers, they leste saytinge of Paul.

Whan the capayne came nye, he toke him, and commaunded him to be bounde with two cheynes, and axed what he was, and what he had done. One cried this, another that amonge the people. But whan he coulde not knowe the certente because of the rumoure, he commaunded him to be caried in to the castell. And whā he came to the stepes, it fortuneth that he was borne of y souldyers because of the violence of the people. For the multitude off the people folowed after, and cryed: Awaye with him. Whan Paul was now to be caried in to the castell, he sayde vnto y capayne: Maye I speake vnto the? He sayde: Canst thou Greke? Art not thou the Egipcian, which before these dayes maydest an vproure, z leddest out in to the wyldernesse foure thousande priuy murthurers? Paul sayde: I am a man which am a Jewe off Tharsis, a cite of a famous cite in Celicia: I beseeke the, fre me to speake vnto the people. Whan he had geuen him lycence, Paul stode on the stepes, and beckened with the hande vnto the people. Now whan there was made a greatesylence, he spake vnto them in hebre, and sayde:

The XXII. Chapter.

Yemen, brethren, and fathers, heare I myne answer which I make vnto you. Whan they herde that he spake vnto them in the hebre, they kepte them re sylence. And he sayde: I am a man which am a Jewe, borne at Tharsis in Celicia, and broughte vp in this cite at the feet off Gamaliel, enfourmed diligently in the lawe of the fathers, and was seruent mynded to God warde, as ye all are also this daye, and I persecuted this waye vnto the death. I bounde them and deliuered them vnto prison, both men and women, as y hye priest also doth beare me wytnesse, and all y Elders: of whom I receaued letters vnto the brethren, and wente towarde Damascon, that I mighte brynge them which were there, bounde to Jerusalem, to be punished.

But it fortuneth as I made my iourney, and came nye vnto Damascon, aboute noone, sodenly there shone a greatesylence aboute me from heauen, and I fell to the earth, and herde a voyce which sayde vnto me: Saul Saul, why persecutest thou me? I answered: Who art thou LORDE? And he sayde vnto me: I am Iesus of Nazareth whom thou persecutest. As for thant that were with me, they sawe y lighte and were afrayed, but they herde not the voyce of him that spake with me. I sayde: LORDE, what shal I do? The LORDE sayde vnto me: Arise, and go in to Damascon, there shal it be tolde y of all that is appoynted the to do. But whan I sawe nothinge for the bryghtnesse of the lighte, I was led by the hande of them that were with me, and came to Damascon.

There was one Ananias, a deuoute man after the lawe, which had a good reporte of all the Jewes that dwelt there, the same came, and stepte vnto me, and sayde: Brother Saul, loke vp. And I looked vp vpon him the same houre. He sayde: The God of oure fathers hath ordeyned the before, that thou shuldest knowe his wyll, and se the thinge y is rightfull, and heare the voyce out of his mouth: for thou shalt be his wytnesse vnto all men, of the thinges which thou hast sene and herde. And now why tarest thou? Arise, and be baptyzed, and wase awaye thy synes, and call vpon the name of the LORDE.

But it fortuneth, that whan I was come agayne to Ierusalē, and prayed in the temple, I was in a trance, and sawe him. Then sayde he vnto me: Make haist, and get the soone out of Jerusalem, for they wyl not receaue the wytnesse that thou bearest of me. And I sayde: LORDE, they the selues knowe that I put in prison and bett in every synagoge them that beleued on the. And whā the bloude of Steuen thy wytnesse was shed, I stode by also, z consented vnto his death, and kepte the clothes of them that slew him. And he sayde vnto me: Go thy waye, for I wil sende the farre amonge the heythen.

They gaue him audience vnto this worde, and lifte vp their voyce, z sayde: Awaye with soch a felowe from the earth, for it is not reason that he shulde lyue. But as they cried, and cast off their clothes, z thre dust in to the ayre, the capayne bad brynge him in to the castell, and commaunded him to be beaten with rodde and to be examyned, that he mighte knowe, for what cause they cried so vpon him. And whan he bounde him with thonges, Paul sayde vnto the vndercapayne that stode by: Is it lawfull for you to scourge a man: hat is a Romaine, and vncodmned? Whan the vndercapayne herde that, he wote to the vpper capayne, and tolde him, and sayde: What wilt thou do? This man is a Romaine. Then ca me y vpper capayne, and sayde vnto him: Tell me, art thou a Romaine? He sayde: Yee. And the vpper capayne answered: With a greatesomme optayned I this freedom. But Paul sayde: As for me, I am a Romaine borne. The straight waye departed from him, they that shulde haue examyned him. And y chese capayne was afrayed, whan he knewe that he was a Romaine, and because he had bounde him. On the nexte daye wolde he knowe the certentye wherfore he was accused of the Jewes, and he lowsed him from the bondes, and commaunded the hye prestes and all their counsell to come together, and broughte Paul forth, and set him amonge them.

The XXIII. Chapter.

Paul behelde the counsell, and sayde: Yemen and brethren, I haue lyued with all good conscience before God vnto this daye. But the hye prest Ananias commaunded them that stode aboute him, to smyte hi on the mouth. Then sayde Paul vnto him: God shal smyte the thou paynted wall. Syttest thou and iudgest me after the lawe, and commaundest me to be smytten contrary to y lawe? And they that stode aboute hi, sayde: Reuylest thou Gods hye priest? And Paul sayde: Brethren, I wyll say that he was the hye priest. For it is wyrtte: The ruler of thy people shalt thou not curse.

But whan Paul knewe that the one parte was Saduces, and the other parte Pharises, he cried out in y counsell: Yemen and brethren, I am a Pharise, and the sonne of a Pharise. Of hope and resurreccion of the deed am I iudged. And whan he had so sayde, there arose a diffencion betwene y Pharises and the Saduces, and the multitude was denyded: for the Saduces saye that there is no resurreccion, nether angell, ner spiete: but the Pharises graunce both. And there was made a greatesylence. And y Scribes of the pharyses secte, stode vp, and strove, and sayde: We fynde no euell in this mā. But ysa spiete or an angell haue spokē vnto him, let vs not stryue agaynst God.

But whan the discension was greates, y vpper capayne feared, that Paul shulde haue bene plucked a sonder of them, and commaunded the souldyers to go downe, and to take him from them, and to brynge him in to the castell. But in the nighte folowinge, the LORDE stode by him, and sayde: Be of good cheare Paul, for as thou hast testified of me at Jerusalem, so must thou testifie at Rome also.

Now when it was daye, certayne of the Jewes gathered them selues together, and made a vowe nether to eate ner drynke, tyll they had kylled Paul. They were moche fortye, which had made this conspiracy. These came to the hye priestes and Elders, and sayde: We haue bounde oure selues wth a vowe, that we wil eate nothyng, tyll we haue slayne Paul. Nowtherfore geue yet knowlege to the vpper captayne and to the counsell, that he maye brynge him forth vnto you to morrow, as though ye wolde heare him yet better: As for vs, we are ready to kyll him, or euer he come nye you.

C But when Pauls sisters sonne herbe of their layenge awayte, he came, and entred in to the castell, and tolde Paul. So Paul called vnto him one of y^r vnder captaynes, and sayde: Brynge this yonge man to the vpper captayne, for he hath somewhat to saye to him. He toke him, and broughte him to the vpper captayne, and sayde: Paul the prisoner called me vnto him, and prayed me to brynge to the this yonge man, which hath somewhat to saye vnto the. Then the hye captayne toke him by the hande, and wente a lyde with him out of the waye, and axed him: What is it, that thou hast to saye vnto me? He sayde: The Jewes are agreed together, to desyre the, to let Paul be broughte forth to morrow before the counsell, as though they wolde yet heare him better. But folowe not thou their myndes, for there laye wayte for him moche then fortye men off them, which haue bounde them selues with a vowe, nether to eate ner drynke, tyll they haue slayne Paul: and euen now are they redye, and loke for thy promys.

Then the vpper captayne let the yonge man departe, and charged him to tell no man, that he had shewed him this. And he called vnto him two vndercaptaynes, and sayde: Make redye two hundred souldyers, that they maye go to Cesarea, and thre score and ten horsmen, and two hundred speare men at the thirde houre of the nyght, and delyuer the beastes, that they maye set Paul thereon, and brynge him safe vnto Felix the debyte, and he wrote a letter on this maner:

D Clandius Lysias, vnto the most mightie Debyte Felix, gretyng. The Jewes had taken this man, and wolde haue slayne him, then came I with souldyers, and rescued him, and perceaued that he is a Romaine. And when I wolde haue knowne the cause, wherfore they accused hi, I brought te him in to their counsell: then perceaued I, that he was accused aboute questions of their lawe. But there was no accusation worthy of death or of bondes. And when it was shewed me, that certayne Jewes layed wayte for him, I sent him straight waye vnto the, and commaunded the accusers also, that loke what they had agaynst him, they shulde tell the same before the. Fare well.

The souldyers (as it was commaunded them) toke Paul, and broughte him to Antipatras. But on the nexte daye, they lette y^r horse men to go with him, and turned agayne to the castell. When these came to Cesarea, they delyuered the letter vnto the Debyte, and presented Paul before him also. When the Debyte had red the letter, he axed off what countre he was. And when he vnderstode that he was of Celicia, he sayde: I wil heare the, when thine accusers are come also. And he commaunded him to be kepte in Herodes iudgment house.

The XXIII. Chapter.

After fyue dayes the hye prest Ananias came downe with the Elders, and wth the Orator Tertullus, which appeared before the Debyte agaynst Paul. When Paul was called forth, Tertullus began to accuse him, and sayde: Seynge that we lyue in greate peace by the meanes of y^r, and that many good thinges are done for this people thourough thy prouydence (most mightie Felix) that alowe we euer and in all places with all thankes. Notwithstandinge y^e I be nomore tedious vnto the, I praye the, that of thy curtesy thou woldest heare vs a few wordes.

We haue founde this man a pestilent fellowe, and a sterer vp of sedicion amonge all the Jewes thourough out all the woulde, and a manteyner of the secte of the Nazarenes, and hath taken in hande also to suspende the temple, whom we toke, and wolde haue iudged him accordinge to oure lawe. But Lysias the hye captayne came vpo vs, and with greate violence delyuered him out of oure handes, and commaunded his accusers to come vnto the: of whom (yf thou wilt enquire) thou mayest haue knowlege of all these thinges, wherof we accuse him. The Jewes likewise affirmed and sayde, that it was euen so.

But Paul (when the debyte had bedeviled vnto him, that he shulde speake) answer ed: Seynge I knowe that thou hast bene iudge now many yeares amonge this people, I wil not be astraied to answer for my selfe, because that thou mayest knowe, that there are yet nomore but twolve dayes sent I came vp to Jerusalem for to worshippe, and that they nether founde me in the temple disputinge with any man, or makinge any vpioure amonge the people, ner in y^r synagoges, ner in the cite: nether can they proue the thinges, wherof they accuse me. But this I confesse vnto the, that after this waye which they call heresye, so worshippe I the God of my fathers, that I beleue all that is wyrtten in the lawe and in the prophetes, and haue hope towardes God, that the same resurrection of the deed (which they them selues loke for also) shalbe, both of the iust and vniust. Therefore stande I to haue allwaye a cleare conscience towardes God and towardes men.

But after many yeares I came and broughte allmesse vnto my people, and offerings: wherupon they founde me purified in the temple withoute any maner of rumoure or vnquyetnesse. Howbeit there were certayne Jewes out of Asia, which shulde be here presente before the, and accuse me, yf they had oughte agaynst me: or els lets these same here saye, yf they haue founde any vnrighteousnes in me, whyle I stonde here before y^r counsell: excepte it be for this one worde, that I cried standinge amonge them: Of the resurrection off the deed am I iudged of you this daye.

C When Felix herde this, he byffered the (for he knewe very well of that waye) and sayde: When Lysias the vpper captayne cometh downe, I wil knowe y^r vttemost of youre matter. But he commaunded the vndercaptayne to kepe Paul, and to let him haue rest, and that he shulde forbydde none of his acquaintaunces to mynister vnto him, vnto come vnto him.

But after certayne dayes came Felix wth his wife Drusilla, which was a Jewesse, and called for Paul, and herde him of the faith in Christ. Howbeit when Paul spake off righteounesse, and off chastite and off the iudgment to come, Felix trembled, and answered: Go thy waye for this tyme. When I haue a conuenient tyme, I wil sende for the. He hoped also, that money shulde haue bene geuen him of Paul, therfore called he oft for him, and commened with him. But after two yeares came Porcius Festus in to Felix rowme. Yet Felix wyllinge to shewe

The XXV. Chapter.

Now when Festus was come in to the countre, ouer the dayes he wente vnto up from Cesarea to Jerusalem. Then appeared the hye priestes and the chiefe of the Jewes before him agaynst Paul: and intreated him, and desyred fauoure agaynst him, that he wolde sende for him to Jerusalem, and layed wayte for him, that they might slaye him by the waye. Then answered Festus, that Paul shulde be kepte at Cesarea, but that he himselfe wolde shortly go thither agayne. Let them therfore (sayde he) which are able amonge you, come downe with vs to accuse the man, yf there be oughte in him.

When he had taried amonge them more then ten dayes, he wente downe to Cesarea. And on the nexte daye he sat downe on the iudgment seate, and commaunded Paul to be broughte. When he was come, y^r Jewes which were come downe from Jerusalem, stode rounde aboute him, and broughte vp many and greuous quarels agaynst Paul, which they coulde not proue, whyle he answered for himselfe: I haue nether offended ought agaynst the lawe of the Jewes, ner agaynst the temple, ner agaynst the Emperoure.

But Festus wyllinge to shewe the Jewes a pleasure, answered Paul, and sayde: Wile thou go vp to Jerusalem, and there be iudged off these thinges before me? But Paul sayde: I stonde at the Emperours iudgment seate, where I ought to be iudged: to the Jewes haue I done no harme, as thou also knowest very well. If I haue hurte any man, or committed any thinge worthy off death, I refuse not to dye. But yf there are no such thinges as they accuse me off, then maye no man delyuer me vnto them. I appeale vnto the Emperoure. Then spake Festus with the Counsell, and answered: Thou hast appealed vnto the Emperoure, to the Emperoure shalt thou go.

After certayne dayes came Lynge Agrippa and Bernice to Cesarea to welcome Festus. And when they had taried there many dayes, Festus rehearsed Pauls cause vnto the Lynge, and sayde: There is a man left bounde of Felix, for whose cause the hye priestes and Elders of the Jewes appeared before me when I was at Jerusalem, and desyred a sentence agaynst him. Vnto whom I answered: It is not the maner off the Romaines to delyuer any man that he shal de perishe, before that he which is accused, haue his accusers presente, and receaue libertye to answer for him selfe to the accusation. Whā they were come hither together, I made no delaye, but sat the nexte daye in iudgment, and commaunded the man to be broughte forth. Of whom, whan the accusers stode vp, they broughte no accusation of soch thinges as I supposed: But had certayne questions agaynst him of their awne superstitions, and of one Jesus deed, whom Paul affirmed to be a lyue. Howbeit because I vnderstode not the question, I axed hi, whether he wolde go to Ierusalē, and there be iudged of these matters. But whā Paul had appealed, that he might be kepte vnto the knowlege of the Emperoure, I commaunded him to be kepte, tyll I mighte sende him to the Emperoure.

Agrippa sayde vnto Festus: I wolde fayne heare the man also. He sayde: Tomorrow shalt thou heare him. And on the nexte daye came Agrippa & Bernice with greate pompe, and wete in to the comon hall with the capraynes & chiefe mē of the cite. And at Festus commaundement, Paul was broughte forth. And Festus sayde: Kyng Agrippa, and all ye men which are here with vs, yese this man, aboute whom all the multitude of the Jewes haue entreated me, both at Ierusalē and here also, and cried, that he ought not to lyue eny longer. But whan I perceaued that he had done nothinge worthy off death, and that he himselfe also had appealed vnto the Emperoure, I determined to sende him, of whō I haue no certayne thinge to saye vnto my lord. Therefore haue I caused hi to be broughte forth before you, specially before the (Kyng Agrippa) that after examinacion had, I mighte haue somewhat to wryte. For me thynke it an vreasonable thinge to sende a prisoner, and not to shewe the causes which are layed agaynst him.

The XXVI Chapter.

Agrippa sayde vnto Paul: Thou hast leue to speake for thy selfe. The Paul sterched forth the hande, and answered for himselfe: I thinke my selfe happye (Kyng Agrippa) because I shal answer this daye before the, of all the thinges wherof I am accused of the Jewes: specially for somuch as thou art experte in all customs and questions, which are amonge the Jewes. Wherfore I beseeche the, to heare me patiently.

My lyuynge truly from youth vp (how it was led from the begynnynge amonge this people at Ierusalē) knowe all the Jewes which knewe me afore at the first, yf they wolde testifye, for after the most strayestete of oure Jewyshe lawe, I lyued a Pharise. And now stonde I, and am iudged because of the hope of the promises, that was made of God vnto oure fathers, vnto the which (promises) oure twelue trybes hope to come, seruyng God instātly daye and nighte. For the which hopes sake (Kyng Agrippa) I am accused of the Jewes. Wherfore is this iudged amonge you not to be belued, that God rayseth vp the deed?

I also verely thoughte by my selfe, that I oughte to do many contrary thinges cleane agaynst the name off Jesus off Nazareth, which I dyd at Ierusalē, whan I shut vp many sayntes in prison, wharpon I receaued auctorite of y hie prestes. And whā they shulde be put to death, I broughte the sentence. And thorow all the synagoges I pmyshed them oft, and compelled the to blaspheme, and was excedingemat vpon them, and persecuted them euē vnto straunge cities. Aboute which thinges as I wente to warde Damascon with auctorite and lycence of the hie prestes, euē at my daye (Kyng) I sawe in the waye, that a lighte from heauē (clearer then the brightnesse of the Sonne) shyned rounde aboute me, and them that iourneyed with me.

But whan we were all fallen downe to the earth, I herde a voyce speakynge vnto me, and sayge in hebrewe: Saul Saul, why persecutest thou me? It shalbe harde for the to kyde agaynst the prycke. But I sayde: LORDE, who art thou? He sayde: I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest. But ryse vp, and stonde vpon thy feete, fortherfore haue I appeared vnto the, that I mighte ordeyne the to be a mynister and witnesse of it that thou hast sene, and that I wyl yet cause to appeare vnto the. And I wil deluyne the from the people, and from the heythen, amonge whō I wil now sende the, to ope their eyes, that they maye turne from the darkness vnto the lighte, and from the power of dyuell vnto God, that they maye receaue forgiveness of synnes, and the enheritaunce with them that are sanctified by faith in me.

Wherfore (Kyng Agrippa) I was not faithlesse vnto y heauēly vision, but shewed it first vnto them at Damascon, and at Ierusalē, and in all the coastes of Jewry, and to the heythen, that they shulde do penitennance, and turne vnto God, and to do the righte workes of penitennance. For this cause the Jewes toke me in the temple, and wente aboute to kyll me. But thorow the helpe of God lent vnto me, I stonde vnto this daye, and testifye boeth vnto small and greate, and saye no other thinge, the that y prophetes haue sayde (that it shulde come to passe) and Moses, that Christ shulde suffre, and be the first of the resurreccion from the deed, and shew light vnto the people, and to the heythen.

Whan he thus answered for himselfe, Festus sayde with a loude voyce: Paul, thou art besydes thy selfe, much lernynge maketh y madd. But Paul sayde: I am not madd (most deare Festus) but speake the wordes of traeth and sobernesse: for y kyng knoweth this well, vnto whom I speake frely. For I thinke that none off these thinges is hyd from him: for this was not done in a corner. Beluest thou the prophetes, Kyng Agrippa? I knowe that thou beluest. Agrippa sayde vnto Paul: Thou persuadest me in a parte to become a Chyster. Paul sayde: I wolde to God, that (not onely in a parte but altogether,) I mighte persuaide not the onely, but all them that heare me this daye, to be soch I am, these bondes excepte. And whan he had spoken this, the kyng rose vp, and the Debyte, and Bernice, and they that sat with them, and wente asyde, and talked together, and sayde: This man hath done nothinge that is worthy of death or of bondes. But Agrippa sayde vnto Festus: This man mighte haue bene lowsed, yf he had not appealed vnto the Emperoure.

The XXVII Chapter.

Whan it was concluded that we shulde sayle in to Italy, they deluyered Paul and certayne other prisoners to the vndercaptayne named Julius, of the Emperours souldyers. And whan we were entred in to a shippe of Adramitium, to sayle by Asia, we lowsed from lond. And there was with vs one Aristarchus out of Macedonia off Thessalonica, and on the nexte daye we came vnto Sidon. And Julius intrated Paul curteously, and gaue him libertye to go to his frendes, and to refresh himselfe. And from thence launched we, and sayled harde by Cypers (because the wyndes were agaynst vs) and sayled ouer the see of Cilicia and Pamphilia, and came to Myra in Lycia.

And there the vndercaptayne founde a shippe of Alexandria, ready to sayle in to Ira

ly, and put vs therein. And whan we had sayled slowly, and in many dayes were scarcely come ouer agaynst Gnydon (for the wynde with stode vs) we sayled by Candy nye vnto the cite off Salmo, and came scarcely beyonde it. Then came we to a place, which is called Goodhauen, nye where vnto was the cite Laſea. Now whan mochtyme was spent, and saylinge was now ioperdous, because that they also had fasted ouerlonge, Paul exhorted them, and sayde vnto them: Syis, I se that this saylinge wyl be with hurte and moch dammage, not onely of the ladyng and of the shippe, but also of oure lyues.

Neuertheles y vndercaptayne belened the gouernoure of the shippe and y master, more then it that was spoken of Paul. And for somuch as the hauē was not comodious to wynter in, the more parte off them toke counsell to departe thence, yf by eny meanes they might come to phenices to wynter there, which is an haven of Candy, towarde the South west and North west wynde. Whan the South wynde blew, they supposinge to haue had their purpose, lowsed vnto Asson, and sayled past all Candy.

But not longe after, there rose agaynst their purpose a flawe of wynde, which is called the North east. And whan the shippe was caught, and coulde not resist y wynde, we let her go, and draue with the webder. But we came to an Ile named Claudia, where we coulde scarce get a boote. Which they toke vp, and used helpe, and bounde it vnder harde to the shippe, fearinge lest they shulde haue fallen in to the Sytes, and let downe the vessell, and so were caried. And whan we had bydden a greateshippe, on the nexte daye they made an out-castinge. And on the thirde daye with oure awne handes we cast out the tacklynge of the shippe. But whā nether Sonne nor starres appeared in many dayes, and no small tempest laye vpon vs, all the hope of oure life was taken awaye.

And after longe abstinence, Paul stode forth in the myddes of the, and sayde: Syis, ye shulde haue hertened vnto me, and not to haue lowsed from Candy, and not to haue broughte vs this harme and losse. And now I exhorte you to be of good cheare, for there shal none of oure lyues perishe, but the shippe onely.

For this night stode by me the angell off God (whose I am, & whō I serue) & sayde: Feare not Paul, thou must be broughte before ious places in the

the Emperoure. And lo, God hath geuen vn to the all the that sayle with the. Wherfore syis be of good cheare: for I beleue God, & it shal come so to passe, as it was tolde me. Howebeit we must be cast in to a certayne ylonde.

But whan the fourteenth night came, as we were caried in Adria aboute mydnight, & shipmen demed that there appeared some countre vnto them, and they cast out the leade, and founde it twetye feddoms: and whā they were gone a litle farther, they cast out the leade agayne, and founde systene feddoms.

D Then fearinge lest they shulde fall on some rocke, they cast foure anchors out of the sterne, and wysshed for the daye. Whan the shipmen were aboute to flye out of the shippe, and let downe the bote in to the see, (vnder a coloure as though they wolde cast anchors out of the fore shippe) Paul sayde to y. vndercaptayne and to the sondyers: Except these byde in the shippe, ye can not be saued. Then the sondyers cut of the rope from the bote, and let it fall. And whan it began ne to be daye, Paul exhorted them all to take meate, and sayde: To daye is the fourtene daye that ye haue caried and coneyned fasting, and haue receaved nothinge: Wherfore I praye you to take meate: for youre health: for there shal not one heer fall from the heade of eny of you. And whan he had thus spoken, he toke bried, and gaue thanks to God before them all, and brake it, and begane to eate. Then were they all of good cheare, and toke meate also. We were all together in the shippe two hundred thre score and systene soules. And whan they had eaten ynough, they lightened the shippe, and cast out the wheate in to the see.

E Whan it was daye, they knewe not the londe. But they spyed an haven with a banke, in to which they were mynded (yf it were possible) to thrust in the shippe. And whan they had take vp the anchors, they commytteed them selues to the see, and lowsed the rudder bandes, and hoysed vp the mayne sayle to the wynde, and dwe towarde londe. And whan we chaunced on a place which had the see on both the sydes, the shippe dashed vpon it. And the fore parte abode fast vnmoued, but the hynder parte brake thorow the violence of the waves.

The sondyers counsell was to kyll y prisoners, lest eny of them whan he had swymmed out, shulde flye awaye. But the vndercaptayne wyllinge to save Paul, kept them from their purpose, and commaunded that they which coude swimme, shulde cast them selues first in to the see, and escape vnto londe: and the other, some on boardes, some on broken peces of the shippe. And so it came to passe, that all the soules came safe vnto londe.

The XXVIII Chapter.

Whā we were escaped, we knewe that the Ile was called Melite. As for the people, they shewed vs no litle kyndnesse: for they kyndled a fyre, and receaved vs all because of the rayne that was come vpo vs, and because of the colde. Whan Paul had gathered a bondell of stiches, and layed them on the fyre, there came a vyper out of the heate, and leape on Pauls hande. Whan the people sawe the best hangen on his hande, they sayde amonge them selues: This man must nedes be a murderer, whō vengeance suffreth not to lyue, though he haue escaped the see. But he shoke of y best in to the fyre, and felte no harme. Howebeit they wayted, whā he shulde haue swollen, or fallen downe deed sodenly. But whan they had loked a greate whyle, and sawe y there happenyd no harme vnto him, they chaunged their myndes, and sayde that he was a God.

In the same quarters the chese man of the Ile whose name was Publius had a lordshipe: the same receaved vs, and lodged vs thre dayes curteously. It fortuned whā Publiuss facher laye sicke of the seners and of a bloody flure, Paul wente in vnto him, and prayed, and layed the handes on him, and healed him.

Whan this was done, othe also which had diseases in the Ile, came, and were healed. And they dyd vs greate honoure. And whan we departed, they laded vs with thynges necessary.

After thre monethes we sayled in a shippe of Alexandria, which had wyntred in the Ile, and had a badger of Castor and pollay. And whan we came to Syracusa, we taried there thre dayes. And whan we had sayled aboute, we came to Rhegium: and after one daye whan the south wynde blew, we came to Putiolus, where we founde brethē and were desyred of them to tarye there foure dayes, and so came we to Rome. And from thence whan the brethēn herde of vs, they came forth to mete vs to Apisforum and to the Thie taverns. Whan Paul sawe them, he thāked God, and wared bolde. But whā we came to Rome, the vndercaptayne dēd and the prisoners to y chese captayne. As for Paul, he had lene to byde alone with one souldyer that kepte him.

After thre dayes it fortuned, & Paul called y chese of y Jewes together. And whā they were come, he sayde vnto thē: Ye mēz brethē. I haue comytteed nothinge agaynst y people, ner agaynst y lawes of y fathers, yet was I bounde, deliuered out of Ierusalem in to y Romaynes hādes: which whā they had examyned me, wolde haue let me go, for so much as there was no cause of death in me. But whā y Jewes spake y contrary, I was constrained to appeale vnto y Emperō: not as though I had ought to accuse my people. For this cause haue I called you, enē wke you, & to speake w you: because y for y hope of Israel, I am bounde w this cheyne. They sayde vnto hī: We haue ner her receaved letter out of Jewry concerninge the, ner came there eny of the brethē. & shewed us spake eny harme of y. But we wyl heare of y, what thou thinkest: for we haue herde of this secte, that every where it is spoken agaynst. And whā they had appoynted hī a daye, there came many vnto hī in to his lodginge: vnto whō he expōsed y kyngdome of God & preached vnto thē of Iesu, out of y lawe and out of the prophetes, enē frō moynge vntill the enē. And some beleued y thinge & he sayde, but some beleued not.

But whā they agreed not amonge thē selues, they departed, whā Paul had spokē one worde: Full well hath the holy goost spokē by y prophet Esay vnto y fathers, & sayde: Goe vnto this people, and saye: With eares y shal heare, & not vnderstōde: & with eyes y shal see, & not perceaue. For y heart of this people is waxed grosse, & they heare hardly & their eares: & their eyes haue they closed, & they shulde not oncese w their eyes, & heare w their eares, & vnderstōde i their hertes, and be conuerted, & I mighte heale thē. Be it knowne therfore vnto you, & this saluaciō of God is sent vnto y Jewes, and they shal heare it. And whā he sayde y, & Jewes departed, & had a greate disputacion amonge thē selues. But Paul abode two whole yeres in his owne hyred dwellinge, & receaved all thē & came in vnto hī, preachinge y kyngdome of God, and teachinge those thynges which concerne the LORDE Iesus with all boldnesse, vnforbydden.

The Epistle
The Epistle of
the Apostle S. Paul to the Romaynes.

The first Chapter.

21

Paul the seruante of Iesus Christ, called to be an Apostle, & put aparte to preach the Gospell of God (which he promysed afore by his prophetes in y^e holy scriptures) off his sonne, which was begottē of y^e sede of Dauid after the flesh: and mightely declared to be the sonne of God after the spere which sanctifieth, sence the tyme that he rose agayne from the deed, namely, Iesus Christ oure LORDE, by whom we haue receaued grace and Apostelshippe amonge all theythen, to set vp the obedience of faith vnder his name, of whom ye are a parte also, which are called of Iesus Christ.

To all you that be at Rome, beloued of God, and sayntes by callinge. Grace be to you and peace fro God oure father, and the LORDE Iesus Christ.

First, I thanke my God thorow Iesus Christ for you all, that youre faith is spoken of thorow out all the worlde. For God is my witnesse (whom I serue in my spere in the Gospell of his sonne) that without ceassynge I make mencion of you beseking all wayes in my prayers, that I mighte once haue a prosperous iourney (by the will off God) to come vnto you. For I longe to se you, that I mighte bestowe vpon you some spirituall gifte to strengthe you (that is) that I mighte be comforted with you, thorow y^e faith & myne, which we haue together.

But I wolde ye shulde knowe (brethren) how that I haue often tymes purposed to come vnto you (but haue bene lettether to the Romaynes.

to) that I mighte do some good amonge you, like as amonge other Gentyles. I am better both to the Gutes, and to the vngutes, to the wyse and to the vnyse. Wherfore (as moch as I me) I am ready to preach the Gospell vnto you at Rome also.

For I am not ashamed of the Gospell of Christ: for it is the power of God, which veth all that beleue theron, the Jewe first also the Gute: for in it y^e righteousness that is of valye before God, is opened, which cometh out of faith to faith. As it is wrytten The iust shal lyue by his faith. For y^e wrath of God is declared from heauen vpon all godlynes and vnrightheousnes of men, which withholde the trueth of God in vnrightheousnes: because that it, which maye be knowne of God, is manifest with thē. For God hath shewed it vnto thē, that the inuisible thinges of God (that is, his euerlastinge power and Godheade) mighte be seene: whyle they are considered by the workes from the creation of the worlde: so that they are without excuse, in as moch as they knewe, that there is a God, and haue not praysed him as God ner thanked him, but became vayne in their ymaginacions, and their foolish hert was blynded. When they counted them selues wyse, they became fooles: and turned y^e glory of the incorruptible God in to y^e synnede of y^e ymage of a corruptible mā, & of bydes, & of soure forced, & of cepingne bestes. Wherfore God likewise gaue them vnto their hertes lustes in to vncleannes, to defyle their awne bodies in them selues, which turned the trueth of God vnto a lye, & worshipped and serued the creature more than the maker, which is blessed for ever. Amen.

Therefore God gaue thē vp vnto shamefull lustes. For their women chaunged the naturall vse in to the vnnaturall: likewise mā also lefte the naturall vse of the woman, and brient in their lustes one on another, as man with man wrought fylchines, and receaued in them selues the rewarde of that erreure, as it was accordinge. And as they regarded not to knowe God, euensō. God gaue thē vp in to a lawdemynde, to do thēse thinges which were not comly, beinge full of all vnrightheousnes, whordome, wickednes, conetousnes, maliciousnes, full of enuye, murther, strife, disceate, enuellodicious whisperers, backbyters, despyers of God, doers of wronge, proude, boasters, bringynge vp of euell thinges, disobedient to their elders, without vnderstandinge, couenent breakers, vnloynge, stubborne, vnmercifull which men, though they knowe the righteousness of God (that they which do soch, are worthy of death) yet not onely do the same, but also haue pleasure in those that do thē.

The II. Chapter.

Therfore canst thou not excuse thy selfe (O mā) who soeuer thou be that iudgest: for loke wherin thou iudgest another, thou condemnest thy selfe, in so moch as thou that iudgest, doest even the same. For we are sure that the iudgment of God is (accordinge to the trueth) ouer them that do soch. But thinkest thou this O thou man, that iudgest them which do soch thinges, and doest even the very same thy selfe, that thou shalt escape y^e iudgment of God? Or despyest thou the riches of his goodnesse, patience, and lōge sufferinge? Knowest thou not, that y^e loynge kyndnesse of God leadeth the to repentance?

But thou after thine harde and impenitent hert, heapest vnto thy selfe a treasure of wrath, agaynst the daye of wrath and of the openynge of the righteous iudgment of God, which shal rewarde euery man accordinge to his dedes: namely, prayse & honoure, and vncorruption, vnto them that with patience in doinge good, seeke euerlastinge life: But vnto them that are contentious & not obedient vnto the trueth, but obeye vnrightheousnes, shal come indignacion and wrath, treuble and anguyshe vnto all the soules of men that do euell, of the Jewe first and also of the Gute: But vnto all thē that do good (shal come) prayse and honoure, and peace, vnto the Jewe first, and also to the Gute.

For there is no respecte of personnes before God: Who so euer haue synned without lawe, shal perishe also without lawe: and whosoever haue synned in the lawe, shalbe iudged by the lawe. For before God, they are not righteous, which heare y^e lawe: but they that do the lawe, shalbe iustified. For yf the Gentyles which haue not the lawe, do of nature the thinges conteyned in the lawe, then they haungethe not the lawe, are a lawe vnto them selues, in that they shewe, that the worke of y^e lawe is wrytten in their hertes: whyle their conscience beareth witness vnto thē, and also the thoughtes which accuse or excuse them amonge them selues, in the daye when God shal iudge the secretes of men by Iesus Christ, accordinge to my Gospell.

But take heede, thou art called a Jewe, and trustest in the lawe, & makest thy boost to the Romaynes. So. lxxij.

of God, and knowest his will: & for so moch as thou art enformed out of y^e lawe, thou prouest what is best to do, and presumest to be a leader of the blynde: a lighte of them that are in darcknes: an ensformer of y^e vnwyse: a teacher of y^e simple: which hast the ensample of knowlege & of the trueth in the lawe.

Now teachest thou other, and teachest not thy selfe. Thou preacheest that a man shulde not steale, and thou stealest. Thou sayest, that a man shulde not breake wedlocke, and thou breakest wedlocke. Thou abhorrest ymages, and robbest God of his honoure. Thou makest thy boost of the lawe, and thorow breakeynge of the lawe thou dishonorest God. For thorow you is the name of God euell spoken of amonge the Gentyles, as it is wrytten.

The circumcision verely awayleth, yf thou kepe the lawe: but yf thou breake the lawe, then is thy circumcision become vncircumcision. Therefore yf the vncircumcision kepe the righte thinges conteyned in the lawe, shal not his vncircumcision be counted for circumcision? And so it that of nature is vncircumcision, and fulfilleth the lawe shal iudge the, which vnder the letter and circumcision trasgresseth the lawe. For he is not a Jew which is a Jewe outwarde: neither is that circumcision which is done outwardly in y^e flesh: But he is a Jewe, which is wydd within. And the circumcision of y^e hert is the circumcision, which is done in the spere and not in the letter: Whose prayse is not of men, but of God.

The III. Chapter.

What furtheraunce then haue the Jewes? Or what a vantage they circuncision? Surely very moch. First vnto them was commytted what God spake. But where as some of them byd not beleue theron, what then shulde their vnde leue make the promes of God of none effecte? God forbid. Let it rather be thus, that God is true, and all men lyars. As it is wrytten: That thou mayest be iustified in thy sayenges, and shuldest overcome, whā thou art iudged.

But yf it be so, that oure vnrightheousnes prayseth y^e righteousness of God, what shal we saye? Is God then vnrightheous, that he is angrie therfore? I speake thus after the manner off men) God forbid. How mighte God thē iudge y^e worlde? For yf the trueth of God be thorow my lye the more excused vnto his prayse, why shulde I thē be iudged yet as a synner? & not rather to do thus (as we are euell spoken of, and as some reporte, that we shulde saye) Let vs do euell, & good maye come therof. Whose dāfaciō is inste.

B What saye we then? Are we better then they? No, in no wyse: for we haue proued afore, & both the Jewes and Grekes are all vnder synne. As it is wyrttē: There is none righteous, no not one. There is none & vnderstonde, there is none that selet after God. They are all gone out of the waye, they are altogether become vnpofitable: there is none that doeth good, no not one. Their throte is an open sepulchre, with their tunges they haue disceaued, the poyson off Aspes is vnder their lippes. Their mouth is full of cursynge and bytternesse. Their feete are swifte to shed bloude. Destruction & wrechidnes are in their wayes, and & waye of peace haue they not knowne. There is no feare of God before their eyes.

But we knowe, & what soeuer the lawe sayeth, it sayeth it vnto them which are vnder the lawe, & euery mouth maye be stoped, & & all the world maye be decter vnto God, because & by & dedes of the lawe no flesh maye be iustified in his sighte. For by the lawe cometh but the knowlege of synne. But now without addinge to of & lawe is the righteousness which auaileth before God, declared, hauinge witness of & lawe and the prophetes: but I speake of & righteousness before God, which cometh by the faith on Jesus Christ, vnto all, and vnto all them that beleue.

C For here is no difference. For they are all synners, and wātethe prayse that God shulde haue of the, but without deseruynge are they made righteous eue by his grace, thorow the redempcion that is done by Christ Jesu, whom God hath set forth for a. Mer cysate thorow faith in his bloude, to shewe the righteousness which auaileth before him, in that he forgiveth the synnes, which were done before vnder the sufferance of God, which he suffred, that at this tyme he might shewe & righteousness which auaileth before him: & he onely might be righteous, & the righteous maker of him which is of the faith on Jesus.

Where is now then thy reioysynge? It is excluded. By what lawe? By the lawe of workes. Nay, but by the lawe of faith. We holde therefore that a man is iustified by faith, without the workes of the lawe. Or is God the God of the Jewes onely? Is he not also the God of the Heythen? Yes verely the God of the Heythen also, for so moch as he is the God onely that iustifieth the circumcision which is of faith, and the uncircumcision thorow faith. Destroys wethen the lawe thorow faith? God forbid. But we mantayne the lawe.

The fourth Chapter.

What shal we saye then, that Abrahā & father as pertayninge to & flesh & dyd synde? This we saye: As Abrahā were made righteous thorow workes, then hath he wherin to reioyse, but not before God. But what sayeth & scripture? Abrahā beleued God, & & was counted vnto him for righteousness. Vnto hi & goeth abou te & workes, is the rewarde not rekened of fauoure, but of dutye: Howbeit vnto him, & goeth not aboute with workes, but beleueth on him & iustifieth the vngodly, is his faith counted for righteousness. Euen as Dauid sayeth also, that blessednes is onely that mans, vnto whō God counteth righteousness without addinge to of workes, when he sayeth: Blessed are they, whose vngodlynes are forgiven, and whose synnes are couered. Blessed is the man, vnto whom the LORDE imputeth no synne.

Now this blessednes, goeth it ouer the circumcision, or ouer the uncircumcision? We must nedes graunte, & Abrahā's faith was counted vnto hi for righteousness. How was it then rekened vnto him? In the circumcision, or in the uncircumcision? Doubtes not in the circumcision, but in the uncircumcision. As for the toke of circumcision: he receaued it for a seale off the righteousness off faith, which he had yet in & uncircumcision, & he shulde be a father of all the & beleue, beinge in & uncircumcision, & it might be counted vnto the also for righteousness: & that he might be a father of circumcision, not onely of the that are of & circumcision, but of them also that walke in the foote steps of the faith, which was in the uncircumcision of oure father Abrahā.

For the promes (that he shulde be & hey re of the world) was not made vnto Abrahā or to his sede thorow the lawe, but thorow the righteousness of faith. For yf they which are of the lawe be heyres, the is faith wayne, and the promes of none effecte, for so moch as the lawe causeth but wrath. For where the lawe is not, there is also no transgression. Therefore was the promes made thorow faith, that it myght come off fauoure, whereby the promesse myght be made sure vnto all the sede: not onely vnto him which is off the lawe, but also vnto him that is of the faith of Abrahā, which is the father of vs all. As it is wyrtten: I haue made the a father of many Heythen before God, whom thou hast beleued: which quickeneth the deed, and calleth it which is not, that it maye be.

D And he beleued vnto hope, where nothinge was to hope, that he shulde be a father of many Heythen. Accordinge as it was sayd vnto him: Euen so shal thy sede be. And he was not faynte in faith, neither considred his awne body, which was deed already, whyle he was almost an hundred yearre olde, neither the deed wombe of Sara. For he doubted not in the promes of God thorow vnbelleue, but was stronge in faith, and gaue God the prayse: & was sure, that loke what God promysed, he is able to make it good. And therefore was it rekened vnto him for righteousness. But this is not wyrttē onely for his sake, & it was counted vnto him, but also for oure sakes: vnto whō it shalbe counted, yf we beleue in him, that raysed vp oure LORDE Jesus from the deed. Which was genen for oure synnes, and raysed vp for oure righteousness sake.

The V. Chapter.

Because therefore that we are iustified by faith, we haue peace with God thorow oure LORDE Jesus Christ, by whō also we haue an inraunce in faith vnto this grace, wherein we stonde, & reioyse in the hope of & glorie for to come, which God shal geue. Not onely &, but we reioyse also in troubles, for so moch as we knowe, & trouble bryngeth paciēce, paciēce bryngeth experiece, experiece bryngeth hope: As for hope, is letteth vs not come to confusion, because the loue of God is shed abroad in oure hartes, by the holy goost which is geuen vnto vs. For whan we were yet in eate acorbin geto the tyme, Christ dyed for vs vngodly. Now dyeth there seace eny man for the righteous sake: Peradventure for a good man durst one dye. Therefore doth God set forth his loue toward vs, in & Christ dyed for vs, whan we were yet synners: Noch more then shal we be saued from wrath by him, seynge we are now made righteous thorow his bloude.

B For yf we were recōcyed vnto God by & death of his sōne, whā we were yet enemies: moch more shal we be saued by him, now & we are reconcyled. Not onely that, but we reioyse also in God thorow oure LORDE Jesus Christ, by whom we haue now recatred the attonement.

Wherfore as by one man synned entred in to the world, and death by & meanes off synne: euen so wence death also ouer all men, in so moch as they all haue synned. For synne was in & wolde vnto the lawe: but where no lawe is, there is not synne regarded. Neuertheles death reigned from Adam vnto Moses, euen ouer them also that synned not with like transgression as dyd Adam, which is & ymage of him & wōs to come.

But it is not with the gifte as with the synne: for yf thorow the synne of one many be deed, yet moch more plenteously came the grace and gifte of God vpon many by the fauoure that belonged vnto one man Jesus Christ.

And the gifte is not onely ouer one synne, as death came thorow one synne of one that synned. For the iudgment came of one synne vnto condemnacion, but the gifte to iusti fye from many synnes. For yf by & synne of one, death raigned by the meanes of one, moch more shal they which receaue the abundaunce of grace and of the gifte vnto righteousness, raigue in life by & meanes of one Jesus Christ. Likewise the as by the synne of one, condemnacion came on all men, euen so also by the righteousness of one, came the iustification off life vpon all men. For as by the disobedience of one, many became synners, euen so by the obedience of one shal many be made righteous.

But the lawe in the meane tyme entred, that synne shulde increace. Neuertheles where abundaunce of synne was, there was yet more plenteousnes of grace: that, like as synne had reigned vnto death, eue so mighte grace reigne also thorow righteousness to everlastinge life by the meanes of Jesus Christ.

The VI. Chapter.

What shal we saye then? Shal we contynue in synne, that there maye be abundaunce of grace? God forbid. How shal we lyue in synne, & are deed from it? Knowe ye not, that all we which are baptysed into Jesu Christ, are baptysed in to his death? Therefore are we buried w him by baptye in to death, that, like as Christ was raysed vp from the deed by the glory of the father, euen so we also shulde walke in a new life. For yf we be grafted w him vnto like death, then shal we be like the resurreccion also: For so moch as we knowe, that oure elde man is crucified with him, that the synfull body might cease, that

Pet. 4. a hence forth we shulde serue synne nomore.
* For he that is deed, is made righteous fro synne.

B But yf we be deed with Christ, we beleue, Tim. 2. b that we shal lyue also with him, and are sure, * that Christ raysted from the deed, dyeth nomore: Death shal haue nomore power ouer him. For as touchinge that he dyed, he dyed concerning synne once: but as touchinge that he lyueth, he lyueth vnto God. Likewyse ye also, counte youre selues to be euen deed concernynge synne, and to lyue vnto God thorow Iesus Christ oure L O R D E. Let not synne reigne therfore in youre mortall bodye, that ye shulde obeye vnto the lustes of it. Neither geue ye ouer youre membres vnto synne to be wapens of vnrightheousnes, but geue ouer youre selues vnto God, as they that off deed are become lyuynge, and youre membres vnto God to be wapens off rightheousnes. For synne shal not haue power ouer you, in so much as ye are not vnder the lawe, but vnder grace.

How then? Shal we synne, because we are not vnder y lawe, but vnder grace? God forbid. * Knowe ye not, that loke vnto who ye geue ouer youre selues as seruauntes to obeye, his seruauntes ye are to whom ye obey, whether it be of synne vnto death, or of obediēce vnto rightheousnes? But God be thanked, that though ye haue bene the seruauntes of synne, ye are now yet obedient of herte to the ensample off the doctryne, wherunto ye are comytted. For now that ye are made fre from synne, ye are become the seruauntes of rightheousnes.

I wil speake grossly, because of the weakness of youre flesh. Like as ye haue geuen ouer youre membres to the seruyce of vncleanness, from one wickednesse to another: La. 2 so now also geue ouer youre membres to the seruyce of rightheousnes, that they maye be holy. For whan ye were the seruauntes of synne, ye were losse from rightheousnes. What frute had ye at that tyme in those thinges, wherof ye are now ashamed? For the ende of such thinges is death. But now that ye be fre from synne, and are become the seruauntes of God, ye haue youre frute that ye shulde be holy: but the ende is everlastinge life. * For death is the rewarde of synne, but the gifte of God is everlastinge life.

The VII. Chapter.

Nowe ye not brethrien (for I speake vnto them that knowe the lawe) how that y lawe hath power vpon

a man as longe as he lyueth: For the woman y is in subiection to the man, is bounde vnto the lawe whyle the man lyueth: but yf the man dye, then is she loosed from the lawe that concerneth the man. * Xf she be now with another man, whyle the man lyueth, she shal be called a wedlocke breaker. But yf the man be deed, then is she fre from the lawe, so that she is no wedlocke breaker, yf she be with another man.

Euen so my brethrien, ye also are deed vnto the lawe by the body of Christ, that ye shulde be with another (namely w him which is raysted vp from the deed) that we shulde brynge forth frute vnto God. For whan we were in the flesh, the synfull lustes (which were stered vp by the lawe) were mightie in oure membres to brynge forth frute vnto death. But now are we loosed from the lawe, and deed vnto it, that helde vs captiue, so that we shulde serue in a new conuersacion of the spiete, and not in the olde conuersacion of the letter.

What shal we saye then? Is the lawe synne? God forbid: Neuertheles I knewe not synne, but by y lawe. For I had knowe noching of lust, yf the lawe had not sayde: * Thou shalt not lust. But then toke synne occasion at the commandement, and stered vp in me all maner of lust. For without the lawe synne was deed. As for me, I lyued some tyme without lawe. Howbeit whan the commandement came, synne ruyued, but I was deed. And the very same commandement that was geuen me vnto life, was founde to be vnto me on occasion of death. For synne toke occasion at the commandement, and diseaued me, and slewe me by the same commandement. * The lawe in dede is holy, and the commandement holy, iust and good. Is that then which is good, become death vnto me? God forbid. But synne, that it mighte appeare how y it is synne, hath wrought me death thorow good: that synne mighte be out of measure synfull by the commandement. For we knowe, that the lawe is spirituall, but I am carnall, * solde vnder synne: because I knowe not what I do. For I do not y I will, but what I hate, y do I. Xf I do now that which I wil not, the graunte I, that the lawe is good.

So then it is not I that do it, but synne that dwelleth in me: for I knowe that in me (y is, in my flesh) there dwelleth no good thinge. To wyll is present w me, but to performe y which is good, I fynde not. For y good that I wyll, do I not: but the euill which I wil not, that do I. Xf I do now that I wil not, then is it not I that do it, but synne that dwelleth in me.

Thus fynde I now by the lawe, y whan I wil do good, euill is present with me. For I delice in the lawe of God after the inward man: but I se another lawe in my membres, which stryeth agaynst y lawe of my mynde, and taketh me prisoner in y lawe of synne, which is in my membres. O wretched man that I am, who shal delyuer me from the body of this death? I thanke God thorow Iesus Christ oure L O R D E. So then w the mynde I serue y lawe of God, but with the flesh the lawe of synne.

The VIII. Chapter.

Then is there now no damnacion vnto che that are in Christ Iesu, which walke not after the flesh, but after y spiete. For y lawe of y spiete (y bryngeth life i Christ Iesu) hath made me fre fro the lawe of synne & death. * For what vnpow-er was vnto y lawe (in as much as it was weak because of the flesh) y perfourmed God, & sent his sonne in y similitude of synfull flesh, & by synne dāned synne in y flesh: that the rightheousnes requyred of the lawe, mighte be fulfilled in vs, which walke not after the flesh, but after the spiete. For they that are fleshly, are fleshly mynded: but they that are goostly, are goostly mynded. To be fleshly mynded, is death: but to be goostly mynded, is life and peace. For to be fleshly mynded is enemye agaynst God, * syth it is not subdued vnto y lawe of God, for it can not also. As for che that are fleshly, they can not please God. Howbeit ye are not fleshly, but goostly, yf so be that the spiete of God dwell in you. But who so hath not the spiete of Christ, the same is not his. Neuertheles yf Christ be in you, then is the body deed because of synne. But the spiete is life for rightheousnes sake.

Wherfore yf the spiete of him, that raysted vp Iesus from the deed, dwell in you, then shal euen he also that raysted vp Christ from the deed, quyeke youre mortal bodies, because y his spiete dwelleth in you. Therefore brethrien we are now betters, not to the flesh, to lyue after the flesh: for yf ye lyue after y flesh, ye must dye: but yf ye mortyfy the dedes of the body thorow the spiete, ye shal lyue. For who so euer are led by the spiete of God, are Gods childre: for ye haue not receaued the spiete of bondage to feare eny more, but ye haue receaued y spiete of adopc-cion, wherby we crye: Abba, deare father. * The same spiete certifieth oure spiete, that we are the childre of God. Xf we be childre, then are we heyres also, namely the heyres of God, and heyres annexed with Christ, yf so be that we suffer together, that we maye be also glorified together.

For I suppose, that the afflictions off this tyme, are not worthy of y glorye, which shalbe shewed vpon vs. * For the seruent is ginge of y creature loth for the appearing of the childre of God, because the creature is subdued vnto vanyte agaynst his will, but for his wyll that hath subdued her vpon hope. For the creature also shal be fre from the bondage of corrupcion, vnto the glorious libertye of the childre of God. For we knowe, that every creature grogeth, and trauayleth with vs in payne vnto the same tyme.

Not they only, but we oure selues also, which haue the first frutes of the spiete, growe within in oure selues for the chylshippe, and loke for y delyuerance of oure bodye. For we are iudged i dede, howbeit i hope: but y hope that is sens, is no hope: for how can a man hope for that which he seeyeth? But yf we hope for that which we senot, the do we thorow pacience abyde for it.

Likewyse the spiete also helpeth oure weakness: for we knowe not what we shulde desyre as we oughte: * neuertheles y spiete it selfe maketh intercession mightely for vs with vnoutspeakable gronynge. Howbeit he y searcheth the hert, knoweth what the mynde of the spiete is: for he maketh intercession for the sayntes acordinge to the pleasure of God. But sure we are, that all thinges serue for the best vnto them that loue of God, which are called of purpose. For those whom he knewe before, hath he ordeyned also before, y they shulde be like fashionned vnto y shappe of his sonne, y he mighte be the first begotte amonge many brethrien. As for those whom he hath ordeyned before, them hath he called also: and whom he hath called, the hath he also made rightheous: and whom he hath made rightheous, them hath he glorified also.

What shal we saye then vnto these thinges? Xf God be on oure syde, who can be agaynst vs. * Which spared not his owne sonne, but hath geuen him for vs all: how shal he not with him geue vs all thinges also? Who wil laye any thinge to y charge of Gods chosen? Here is God that maketh righteous, who will then condemne? Here is Christ that is deed, yee rather which is rayed vp agayne, which is also on y righte hande of God, and maketh intercession for vs.

Who will separate vs from the loue of God? Trouble? or anguyshe? or persecucion? or hunger? or nakednesse? or perrell? or swerde? As it is wrytten: For thy sake are we kylled all the daye longe, we are counted as shepe appoynted to be slayne. Neuerthelesse in all these chinges we ouercome farre, for his sake that loued vs. For sure I am, that nether death ner life, nether angell, ner rule, nether power, nether thinges present, nether thinges to come, nether heyrh, ner loweth, nether any other creature shalbe able to separate vs from the loue of God, which is in Christ Jesu oure LORDE.

The IX. Chapter.

Saye the truely in Christ, and lye not (wherof my conscience beareth me witness in the holy goost) that I haue greete heynesse & contynnall sorowe in my hert. I haue wysshed my selfe to be cursed from Christ for my brethren, that are my kynsmen after the flesh, which are off Israel: vnto whom pertaineth the childshipp, and the glory, and the couenantes and lawe, and the seruyce of God, and the promyses: whose are also the fathers, off whom (after the flesh) cometh Christ, which is God ouer all, blessed for euer, Amen. But I speake not these thinges, as though the worde of God were of none effecte: for they are not all Israelites, which are of Israell: nether are they all children, because they are the sede of Abraham: but in Isaac shal the sede be called vnto the, that is, They which are children after the flesh, are not the children of God, but the children of the promys: counted for the sede. For this is a worde of the promys, where he sayeth: Aboute this tyme wyl I come, and Sara shal haue a sonne.

Howbeit it is not so with this onely, but also when Rebecca was with childe by one (namely by oure father Isaac) or euer the childre were borne, & had done nether good ner bad (that the purpose of God might stode accordinge to the eleccion, not by the deservynge of workes, but by the grace of the caller) is so as sayde thus vnto her: The greater shal serue the lesse. As it is wrytten: Jacob haue I loued, but Esau haue I hated.

What shal we saye then? Is God then vnrightheous? God forbyd. For he sayeth vnto Moses: I shewe mercy, to whom I shewe mercy: and haue compassion, on whom I haue compassion. So lyeth it not then in any mans wyll or runnyng, but in the mercy of God. For the scripture sayeth vnto Pharaos: For this cause haue I stered the vp, euen to shewe my power on the, that my name might be declared in all lodes. Thus hath he mercy on whom he wyl: and whom he wyl, he hardeneth.

Thou wilt saye then vnto me: Why blameth he vs yet? For who can resiste his will? O thou man, who art thou, that disputest with God? Sayeth the worke to his workman: Why hast thou made me on this fashion? Hath not the potter power, out of one lompe of claye to make one vessell vnto honoure, and another vnto dishonoure? Therfore when God wolde shewe wrath, and to make his power knowne, he brought forth with greete patience the vessels off wrath, which are ordeyned to damnacion: that he might declare the riches off his glorye on y vessels of mercy, which he hath prepared vnto glorye, whom he hath called (namely vs) not onely of the Iewes, but also of the Gentyles. As he sayeth also by Osee: I wil call that my people, which is not my people: and my beloved, which is not y beloved. And it shal come to passe in y place, where it was sayde vnto them: Ye are not my people, there shal they be called the children of the lyuynge God. But Esay crieth euer Israel: Though the nombr of the children of Israel be as the sonde of the sea, yet shal there but a remnant be saved. For there is the worde, that syniseth and shorteneth in righteousnes: for a shoute worde shal God make vpon earth. And as Esay sayde before: Excepte the LORDE of Sabaoth had lefte vs, we shulde haue ben as Sodoma, and like vnto Gomorra.

What shal we saye then? This wil we saye: The heythen which folowed not righteousnes, haue ouertaken righteousnes: but I speake of the righteousnes that cometh of faith. Agayne, Israel folowed the lawe of righteousnes, and attained not vnto the lawe of righteousnes. Why so? Euen because they soughte it not out of faith, but as it were out of the deservynge of workes. For they haue stombled at the stomblyng stone. As it is wrytten: Beholde, I laye in Sion a stone to stoble at, and a rocke to be offended at: and who so euer beleueth on him, shal not be confounded.

The X. Chapter.

Rethren, my hertes desyre, & prayer vnto God for Israel is, that they might be saved. For I beare them recorde, that they are zelous for Gods cause, but not w vnderstandinge. For they knowe not the righteousnes which auayleth before God, and go aboute to manteyne thair awne righteousnes: and thus they are not subdued vnto the righteousnes, that is off value before God. For Christ is the ende of the lawe, vnto righteousnes for euer y beleueth. Moses wryteth of y righteousnes, which cometh of the lawe, that the man which doth y same, shal lye therein. But y righteousnes which cometh of faith, speake on this wyse: Saye not in thine hert: Who wil go vp in to heauen? (that is nothin ge els then to fetch Christ downe) Or who wyl go downe in to y depe? (that is nothin ge els then to fetch vp Christ from the deed.) But what sayeth the scripture? The worde is nye the, euen in thy mouth and in thine hert. This is y worde of faith y we preach. For yf thou knowlest Jesus with thy mouth, that he is the LORDE, and beleuest in thine hert, that God hath rayed him vp from the deed, thou shalt be saved. For yf a man beleue from the hert, he shalbe made righteous: and yf a man knowlege with the mouth, he shal be saved. For the scripture sayeth: Who so euer beleueth on him, shal not be confounded.

Here is no difference, nether of the Jewe ner of the Gentyle. For one is LORDE of all, which is riche vnto all y call vpo him. For who so euer shal call vpon the name of the LORDE, shalbe saved. But how shal they call vpo him, on whos they beleue not? How shal they beleue on him, of whos they haue not harde? How shal they heare without a preacher? But how shal they preach, excepte they be sent? As it is wrytten: How beutyfull are the fete of the y preach peace, y bryng ge good tidings: But they are not all obedient vnto the Gospell. For Esay sayeth: LORDE, who beleueth oure preachinge? So the faith cometh by hearynge, but hearin ge cometh by the worde of God.

But I saye: Haue they not herbe? No doubt their sounde wote out in to all londes, and their wordes in to the endes of the world. But I saye: Hath not Israel knowne? First, Moses sayeth: I wil prouoke you to enuye, by them that are not my people: & by a foolish nacion wyl I anger you. Esay after him is holde, and sayeth: I am founde of them, that soughte me not: & haue appeared vnto them, that aied not after me. But vnto Israel he sayeth: All the daye longe haue I stretched forth my handes vnto a people y beleueth not, but speaketh agaynst me.

The XI. Chapter.

Saye then: Hath God thrust out his people? God forbyd: for I also am an Israelite, of the sede of Abraham out of the tribe of Ben Iamin. God hath not thrust out his people, whom he knewe before. Or wore ye not what the scripture sayeth of Elias, how he maketh intercession vnto God agaynst Israel, and sayeth: LORDE, they haue slayned thy prophetes, & dydged downe thine altares, and I am lefte ouer onely, and they seke my life. But what sayeth the answer of God vnto him? I haue reserved vnto me seuenthoulande men, which haue not bowed their knee before Baal. Eue so goeth it now at this tyme also w this remnant after y eleccion of grace. If it be done of grace, the is it not of deservynge: els were grace no grace. But yf it be of deservynge, then is grace nothin ge: els were deservynge no deservynge.

Wherthe? Israel hath not optayned y which he soughte, but the eleccion hath optayned it. As for y other, they are blynded. As it is wrytten: God hath geuen them the spere of vnquyer nesse, eyes that they shulde not se, and eares that they shulde not heare, eue vnto this daye. And Dauid sayeth: Let their table be made a snare to take the with all, & an occasion to fall, & a rewarde vnto the. Let their eyes be blynded that they se not, and euer bowe downe their backes.

I saye then: Haue they therfore stombled, y they shulde cleane fall to naughte? God forbyd: but thorow their fall is saluacion happened vnto y heythen, that he might prouoke them to be zelous after them. For yf their fall be the riches of the wolde, and the mynistrynge of the riches of the heythen: how much more shulde it be so, yf their fulnesse were there? I speake vnto you heythen: for in as much as I am y Apostle of the heythen, I wil prayse myne office, yf I might prouoke them vnto zele, which are my fleshe, and saue some of them. For yf the losse of them by the recouyng of the wolde, what were that els, then as yf life were taken of the deed? If the begynnynge be holy, then is all y dome holy: and yf the roote be holy, then are the braunches holy also.

But though some of y braunches now be broke, and thou, what thou wast a wyld olive tree, art grafte in amonge them, and made

partaker of the rote and sappe of the olyue tre, boost not thy selfe agaynst the braunches. If thou boost thy selfe agaynst them, then bearest not thou the rote, but the rote beareth the. Thou wilt saye then: the braunches are broke of, that I mighte be grafted in. Thou sayest well. They are broken of because off their vnbeleue, but thou stondest thorow beleue. Be not thou hye mynded, but feare, feynge God hath not spared the naturall braunches, lest he also spare not the.

Beholde therfore the kyndnesse and rigorousnes off God: on them which fell, rigorousnes: but towarde the kyndnes, yf thou contynue in the kyndnesse. Els shalt thou be hewē of: and they, yf they byde not styll in vnbeleue, shal be grafted in agayne. For God is of power to grafte the in agayne. For yf thou be cut out of the naturall wilde olyue tre, and grafted (contrary to nature) in the good olyue tre, how moch more shal they that are naturall, be grafted in their awne olyue tre agayne?

I wolde not that this secrete shulde be hyd from you brethre (lest ye shulde be wyse in youre awne cōsalties) that partly byndnesse is happened vnto Israel, so longe tyll the fulnesse of the theythen be come in, and so all Israel shalbe saued. As it is wyrtten: There shal come out of Sion he that doth deliuer, and shal turne away vngodlynes from Jacob. And this is my couenaunt with them, whā I shal take away their synnes. As concernynge the Gospell, I holde them as enemies for youre sakes: but as touchinge the eleccion, I loue them for the fathers sakes.

For verely the gistes 2 callynge of God are soch, that it can not repent him of them. For likewise as ye also in tyme passid haue not beleued, but now haue opcrayned mercy thorow their vnbeleue: Euen so now haue they not beleued on the mercy which his happened vnto you, that they also maye opcrayne mercy. For God hath closed vp all vnder vnbeleue, that he mighte haue mercy on all.

O the depensse of the riches, both of the wyddome and knowlege of God: how incomprehensible are his iudgements, and his wayes vnscheacheable. For who hath knowen the mynde of the LORDE? Or who hath bene his counsell geuer? Or who hath geue him ought afore hande, that he mighte be recompenced agayne? For of him, and thorow him, and in him are all thinges. To him be prayse for euer, Amen.

Desete you brethre by the mercynesse of God, that ye geue ouer youre bodies for a sacrifice, & is quycke holy, and acceptable vnto God, which is yb reasonable seruyng off God. And fashion not youre selues like vnto this worlde, but be chaunged thorow the reueryng off yb mynde, & ye maye proue, what thinge that good, & acceptable, 2 perfecte wil of God is. For I saye thorow the grace & is geue me, vnto every man amonge you: that no man esteeme off him selfe more, then it becometh him to esteeme: but that he discretly iudge of himselfe, acordinge as God hath deale vnto every man the measure of faich. For like as we haue many membres in one body, but all the membres haue not one maner of operation: Euen so we beyng many are one body in Christ. But amonge oure selues every one is the membre of another, and haue diuers giftes, acordinge to the grace that is geuen vnto vs. If eny man haue the gifte of prophecieng, let it be acordinge to the faich.

* Let him that hath an office, waye vnto the office: let him that teacheth, take heed to the doctryne: Let him that exhorteth, geue attendaunce to the exhortacion. If eny mā geuech, let hi geue with singlenesse. Let him that ruleth, be diligent. * If eny man shewe mercy, let him do it with chearfulnesse. Let loue be without dissimulation. Hate that which is euell: Cleue vnto that which is good. Be kynde one to another with brotherly loue. In geuyng honoure go one before another. * Be not slouthfull in the busynesse that ye haue in hande. Be seruent in the spiete. Applye youre selues vnto theyr me. Reioyse in hope, be patient in trouble. Continue in prayer. Distribute vnto the necessities of the sayntes. * Be glad to harbarow. Blesse the that persecute you. Blesse, 2 curse not. Be merry with them that are merry and wepe with them that wepe.

Be of one mynde amonge youre selues. Be not proude in youre awne cōsalties, but make youre selues equalle to them of & lowe sorte. Be not wyse in youre awne opinions. Recompense vnto no man euell for euell. Prouyde honestie afore haue towarde every mā. If it be possible (as moch as in you is) haue peace with all men.

Dearly beloved, auenge not youre selues, but geue rowme vnto the wrath off God. For it is wyrtte: Vengeance is myne, and I wil rewarde, sayeth & LORDE. Therfore

if thine enemye hunger, fede him: If he thyrst, geue him drinke. For in so doinge thou shalt heape coales of fyre vnto his heade. Be not ouercome with euell, but ouercome thou euell with good.

The XIII. Chapter.

Let every soule submyt hym selfe to the auctonite off the hyer powers. * For there is no power but of God. The powers that be, are ordeyned of God: so that who so euer resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinaunce of God. And they that resist, shal receaue to them selues dānacion. For rulers are not to be feared for good workes, but for euell. If thou wilt be without feare off the power, do well then, and thou shalt haue prayse of the same: for he is the minister off God for thy wealch. But yf thou do euell, then feare, for he beareth not the swerde for naughte. For he is the minister of God, a taker of vengeance, to punyssh him that doth euell. Wherfore ye must nedes obeye, not onely for punysshment, but also because of conscience. For this cause must ye geue tribute also. For they are Gods mynisters, which māteyne & samie defence.

Geue to every man therfore his due: tribute, to whom tribute belongeth: custome, to whom custome is due: feare, to whom feare belongeth: honoure, to whom honoure pertyneth. Owe nothinge to eny man, but to loue one another. For he that loueth another, hath fulfilled the lawe. For where it is sayde: (Thou shalt not breake wedlocke: thou shalt not kyll: thou shalt not steale: thou shalt not beare false witness: thou shalt not lust) and yf there be eny other commaundement, it is comprehēded in this worde: Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy selfe. Loue doth his neighbour no euell. Therfore to loue & fulfillynge of the lawe.

And for so moch as we know this, namely the tyme, that the houre is now for vs to ryse from slepe (For now is oure saluacion nearer, then whan we beleued: the nighte is past, but the daye is come nye.) Let vs therfore cast awaye yf workes of darknesse, and put on the armour of lighte. Let vs walke honestly as in the daye, not in excesse off eatinge and in dronkenesse, not in chambryng and wantonnesse, not in stryfe and enuyng: but put ye on the LORDE Iesus Christ, and make not prouysion for & flesh, to fulfill the lustes of it.

The XIII. Chapter.

Im that is weake in the faich, receaue vnto you, and trouble not the com-

sciences. One beleueth that he maye eate all thinge: but he that is weake, eateth herbes. Let not him that eateth, despyse him that eateth not: and let not him which eateth not, iudge him that eateth: for God hath receaued him. * Who art thou, that iudgest another mans seruaut? He stondeth or falleth vnto his LORDE: See he maye well stōde, for God is able to make hi stōde. Some man putteth differēce betwene daye 2 daye, but another man counteth all dayes alike. * Let every man be sure of his meanynge. He that putteth difference in the daye, doth it vnto the LORDE: & he that putteth no differēce in the daye, doth it vnto & LORDE also. He & eateth, eateth vnto the LORDE, for he geueth God thākes: and he that eateth not, eateth not vnto & LORDE, and geueth God thākes. For none of vs lyueth to him selfe, and none dyeth to him selfe. If we lyue, we lyue vnto the LORDE: If we dye, we dye vnto the LORDE. Therfore, whether we lyue or dye, we are the LORDES.

Forther to dyed Christ, and rose agayne, and renyued, that he mighte be & LORDE both of deed and quykke. But why iudgest thou & brother? Or thou other, why despysest thou & brother? We shal all be brought before & iudgmēt seate of Christ. For it is wyrtte: As truly as I lyue, (sayeth the LORDE) all knees shal bowe vnto me, 2 all tēges shal knowlege vnto God. Thus shal every one of vs geue accomptes for himselfe vnto God. Let vs not therfore iudge one another enymore. But iudge this rather, & nomā put a stumblinge blocke or an occasion to fall in his brothers waye. * I knowe, 2 am full certified in & LORDE Iesu, & there is nothinge comen of it selfe: but vnto him & iudgeth it to be comen, to him is it comen. But yf & brother be greued ouer & meate, the walkest thou not now after charite. Destroye not wth thy meate, him, for whom Christ dyed.

Se therfore that youre treasure be not euell spokē of. For the kyngdome of God is not meate and drynke, but rightousnes, 2 peace, and ioye in the holy goost. He that in these thinges serueth Christ, pleaseth God, 2 is comended of me. Let vs therfore folowe those thinges which make for peace, 2 thinges wherwith one maye edifye another. Destroye not yf worke of God for eny meates sake. All thinges truly are cleane, but it is euell for & mā, which eateth wth hurte of his cōscience. It is moch better & thou eate no flesh, and drynke no wyne, nor eny thinge, wherby thy brother stomber, or faller, or is made weake. Hast thou faith, haue it with y selfe before God happye is he, that cōdemneth not him selfe in y thinge which he alowerth. But he that maketh conscience of it and yet eateth, is dampned: because he doeth it not of faith. For what so euer is not of faith, that same is synne.

The XV. Chapter.

What are stronge ought to beare y frailnesse of them which are weake, and not to stonde in oure owne confaytes. Let every one of vs ordie him selfe so, that he please his neighbour vnto his welth, and edifyinge: For Christ pleased not him selfe, but as it is wrytten: The rebukes of them which rebuked the, are fallen vpon me. What so euer thinges are wrytten afore tyme, are wrytten for oure learninge: that we thow patience and comfote off the scriptures, might haue hope. The God of patience and consolacion graunte you to be like mynded one to warde another, accordinge vnto Iesu Christ, that ye beyng of one mynde, maye w one mouth prayse God the father of oure LORDE Iesu Christ.

Wherfore receaue ye one another, as Christ hath receaued you to the prayse off God. But I saye that Christ Iesus was a mynister of the circumcision for the truech of God, to cōfirme the promyses made vnto the fathers, and that the heythen mighte prayse God because of mercy, as it is wrytten: For this cause wyl I prayse the amonge the Gētyles, and synge vnto thy name. And agayne he sayeth: Reioyse ye heythen with his people. And agayne: Prayse the LORDE all ye Gentiles, and laude him all ye nacōs. And agayne Esay sayeth: There shal be the rote of Jesse, and he that shal rye to rule the Gētyles, in him shal the Gētyles trust. The God off hope fyll you w all ioye and peace in beleuyng, y yemaye be plenteous in hope thow y power of the holy goost.

I my selfe am full certified of you (my brethren) that ye youre selues are full of goodnes, fylled with all knowlege, so that ye are able to exhoire one another. Nevertheless (brethren) I haue km what more boldly wrytten vnto you, as one that putteth you in remembraunce, for the grace that is geue me of God, that I shulde be a mynister of Iesu Christ amonge the heythen, to declare the gospell of God, that the heythen mighte be an acceptable offeringe vnto God, sanctified by the holy goost. Therefore maye I boost my selfe thow Iesu Christ, that I medle with thinges perceyninge vnto God. For I durst not speake ought, excepte Christ had wrought the same by me, to make the heythen obediēt thow worde and dede, thow the power of tokens and wonders, and thow the power of the spere of God, so that from Ierusalem, and rōde abowte vnto Illyricon, I haue fylled all with the Gospell of Christ. So haue I enforced my selfe to preach y Gospell, not where Christes name was knowne, lest I shulde buylde on another mans foundacion, but as it is wrytten: To whom he was not spoken of, they shal se: and they that haue not herde, shal vnderstande. This is also the cause, wherfore I haue bene oft tymes let to come vnto you. But now synch I haue nemore place in the countrees, hauyng yet a desyre many yeares sence to come vnto you, whan I shal take my iourney in to Spayne, I wil come to you: for I trust that I shal passe y waye and se you, and to be broughte on my waye thitherwarde by you: but so, that I firste fresh my selfe a litle with you.

But now go I to Ierusalem, to mynister vnto the sayntes. For they of Macedonia and Achaia haue wyllingly prepared a comen colleccion together, for the poore sayntes at Ierusalem. They haue done it wyllingly, and their detters are they. For yf y they be made partakers off their spiritual thinges, their dute is to mynister vnto the in bodely thinges. Now whan I haue pafourmed this, and haue broughte the frute sealed, I wil take my iourney by you in to Spayne. But I am sure whan I come vnto you, that I shal come with y full blis synge of the Gospell of Christ.

I beseeke you brethren thow oure LORDE Iesu Christ, and thow the lone of the spere, y ye helpe me in my busynes with your prayers vnto God for me, that I maye be deliuered from the vnbeleuers in Ierusalem, and that this my seruyce which I doo to Ierusalem, maye be accepted of the sayntes. I maye come vnto you with ioye by y will of God, and refresh me my selfe with you. The God of peace be with you all. Amen.

The XVI. Chapter.

I commend vnto you Phebe oure sister, which is a mynister of the congregacion of Cenchrea, that ye receaue her in the LORDE, as it be cometh the sayntes, and that ye helpe her in what soeuer busynesse she hath made off you. For she hath succoured many, and myne awne selfe also.

Grete Pisca and Aquila my helpers in Christ Iesu, which for my life haue layed downe their awne neckes: vnto whom not I only gene thankes, but all the congregacions of the heythen. Grete the congregacion also in their house. Salute Epenetos my beloued, which is y first frute amonge the of Achaia i Christ. Grete Mary, which hath bestowed moch labour on vs. Salute Andronicus y Junia my colens, y felowe prisoners, which are awncient Apostles, y were before me in Christ. Grete Amplias my beloued in y LORDE. Salute Urban y helper in Christ, y Stachis my beloued. Salute Apelles approued in Christ. Salute them which are of Aristobolus housholde. Salute Herodion my kynsman. Grete the which are of Narcissus housholde in the LORDE. Salute Tryphena y Tryphosa, which haue laboured in y LORDE. Salute my beloued persis, which hath laboured moch y LORDE. Salute Rufus y chosen in y LORDE: y his mother y myne. Grete Asyncritus, Phlego, Herman, Patrobas, Herman, y y brethren w the. Salute Philologus y Julia, Terius y his sister, y Olympia, y all the sayntes. w the Salute one another w an holy kysse. The congregacions of Christ salute you.

I beseeke you brethren, make them which cause deuysion y gene occasions of enell, contrary to y doctryne which ye haue learned, to abyde them. For they y are soch, serue not the LORDE Iesu Christ, but their awne belly: y thow swete preachinges y flateringe wordes, they disceane y herces of y innocēt. For youre obedience is published amonge all men, therfore am I glad of you.

But yet I wolde haue you wyse in that which is good, y symple in euell. The God of peace treade Sathan vnder y fete shortly. The grace of y LORDE Iesu Christ be with you. Timotheus my helper, y Lucius, y Jason, y Sopater my kynsmen salute you. Tertius which haue writte this epistle in y LORDE, salute you. Gaius myne ooste y y oost of y whole cōgregacion saluteth you. Erastus y chāberlaine of y cite saluteth you. Quartus a brother saluteth you. The grace of y LORDE Iesu Christ be w you all. Amen.

To him y is of power to stablyshe you, accordinge to my Gospell y preachinge of Iesu Christ, wherby is vttered y mystery which hath bene kepte secrete, sence y wolde began, but now is opened, y shewed by the scriptures of y prophetes, at the cōmandement of the euerglastinge God, vnto y obediēce of the faith amonge all heythen: to the same God, which alone is wyse, be prayse thow Iesu Christ for euer. Amen.

of the Apostle S. Paul to the Corinthians.

Paul, called to be an Apostle of Jesus Christ, chosen of will of God, and brother. Sosthenes, unto the congregation of God which is at Corinthum, to them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, sayntes by callinge, with all them that call vpon the name of oure LORDE Jesus Christ, in every place both off theirs and oures. Grace be with you and peace from God oure father, and from the LORDE Jesus Christ.

I thanke my God allwayes on youre behalfe, for the fauoure of God which is geue you in Jesus Christ, that in all poyntes ye are made ryche by him, in every worde, and in all maner of knowlege (eue as I preachinge of Christ is confirmed in you) so that ye wante nothinge in eny gyste, and wayte but for the appearinge of oure LORDE Jesus Christ: which shal strength you also vnto yende, that ye maye be blamelesse in the daye of oure LORDE Jesus Christ. For God is faithfull, by who ye are called vnto the fellowshippe of his sonne Jesus Christ oure LORDE.

But I beseeke you brethren thow the name of oure LORDE Jesus Christ, that ye all speake one thinge, and let there be no discension amonge you, but that ye be perfecte in one meanynge. For it is shewed me (my brethren) of you, by them which are of y householde of Cloes, that there is stryfe amonge you. I speake of that, which every one of you sayeth: I holde of Paul. Another, I holde of. Apollo. The thirde, I holde of Ce-

to the Corinthians.

phas. The fourth, I holde off Christ. Is Christ then deuyled in partes? Was Paul crucified for you? Or were ye baptysed in y name of Paul? I thanke God that I haue baptised none of you, but Crispus and Gaius: lest eny shulde saye, I in myne awne name had baptised. I baptysed also y householde of Stephana. I farthermore knowe I not, whether I baptysed eny other. For Christ sent me not to baptys, but to preach the Gospell, not with wysdome of wordes, lest y crosse of Christ shulde haue bene made of none effecte.

For the worde of y crosse is foolishnesse to the that perishe: but vnto vs which are saued, it is the power of God. For it is written: I wyl destroye the wysdome of the wise, z wil cast away the vnderstandinge of y prouder. Where are the wise? Where are y scribes? where are y disputers of this worlde? hath not God made the wysdome of this worlde foolishnesse? For in so moche as the worlde by the wysdome therof knewe not God in his wysdome, it pleased God thow foolish preachinge to saue them y beleue. For the Jewes requyre tokens, and the Grekes are after wysdome. But we preach Christ the crucified: to the Jewes an occasion off fallinge, and vnto the Grekes foolishnes. But vnto them that are called (both Jewes and Grekes) we preach Christ the power of God and the wysdome off God.

For the foolishnes of God is wyser then men: and the weaknes of God is stronger then men. Brethren loke on youre callinge, how that not many wysen after the flesh, nor many mightie, nor many of hye degree are called: but that foolish is before the worlde, hath God chosen, that he mighte edifye the wise: And that weak is before y worlde, hath God chosen, y he mighte confounde the mightye. And the vyle and despised before the worlde hath God chosen, yee and that which is nothinge, that he mighte destroye that which is oughte, that no flesch shulde reioyse in his presence. Of the same are ye also in Christ Jesu, which of God is made vnto vs wysdome and righteousnes, and sanctifieng and redēcion, that accordinge as it is wrytten: he that reioysch shulde reioyse in the LORDE.

The II. Chapter.

And brethren, whā I came vnto you, I came not w hye wordes o: hye wysdome, to shewe vnto you the preachinge of Christ. For I shewed not forth myselfe

The first Epistle

to the Corinthians. No. lxxiiij.

amonge you that I knewe eny thinge, saue only Jesus Christ, euen the sam that was crucified. And I was amonge you in weaknes, and in feare, and in much tremblinge: and my worde and my preachinge was not with entysinge wordes of mans wysdome, but in shewinge of the spire and of power: that youre faith shulde not stonde in the wysdome of men, but in the power of God.

That we speake of, is wysdome amonge the y are perfecte: not y wysdome of this worlde, nether of the rulers of this worlde which go to naughte: but we speake of the wysdome of God, which is in secreete and lych hyd: which God ordeyned before the worlde vnto oure glorie: which none of y rulers of this worlde knewe. For yf they had knowne it, they had not crucified the LORDE of glorie, but as it is wrytten: The eye hath not sene, and the eare hath not herde, nether hath it entred in to the hert of man that God hath prepared for them that loue him.

But God hath opened it vnto vs by his spire. For the spire searcheth out all thinges, yee euen the depeneses of the Godhead. For what mā knoweth what is in man, save the spire of mā which is in him? Euen so no man knoweth what is in God, saue y spire of God. As for vs, we haue not receaved the spire of this worlde, but the spire which cometh of God, so that we can knowe what is geue vs of God: which we also speake, not with conynge wordes of mā's wysdome, but with the conynge wordes of the holy goost, and iudge spirituall matters spiritually. Howbeit the naturall man perceaueth nothinge of y spires of God. It is foolishnes vnto him, and he can not perceau it: for it must be spiritually discerned. But he that is spirituall, discusseth all thinges, and he is iudged of noman. For who hath knowne y mynde of the LORDE? Or who shal enforme him? But we haue the mynde of Christ.

The III. Chapter.

And brethren, coulde not speake vnto you as vnto spirituall, but as vnto carnall, euen as vnto babes in Christ. I gaue you mylke to drynke, and not meat, for ye mighte not then awaye withall, ne ther maye ye yeteuen now, in so moche as ye are yet fleshye. For seynge there is ennyen stryfe, and discencion amonge you, are ye not fleshy, z walke after y maner of men? For whan one sayeth: I holde of Paul: another, I holde of Apollo, are ye not the fleshy.

ye: What is Paul? What is Apollo? Euen mynisters are they, by whom ye are cometo the beleue, and the same, accordinge as the LORDE hath geuen vnto every man. I haue planted, Apollo hath watred, but God hath geuen the increace. So then nether is he that planteth, eny thinge, nether he that watreth, but God which geueth the increace. As for him that planteth, and he that watreth, y one is as the other: but yet shal every one receaue his rewarde accordinge to his labour. For we are Gods labourers, ye are Gods husbandry, ye are Gods buyldinge.

Accordinge to the grace of God which is geuen vnto me, as a wise buylder haue I layed the foundation, but another buylderth thereon. Yet let every man take hede how he buylderth thereon. For other foundacion can noman laye, then that which is layed, the which is Jesus Christ. But yf eny man buylde vpon this foundacion, golde, syluer, precious stones, tymber, haye, stobbe, every mā's worke shal be shewed. For the daye of the LORDE shal declare it, which shal be shewed with fyre: and the fyre shal trye every mā's worke what it is. If eny mans worke that he hath buyldertheron, abyde, he shal receaue a rewarde: If eny mans worke burne, he shal suffre losse: but he shal be saued himselfe, neuertheles as thow fyre.

Knowe ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the spire of God dwelleth in you? If eny man defyle the temple of God, him shal God destroye. For the temple of God is holy, which ye are. Let no mā disceane himselfe. If eny man thinke himselfe wise amonge you, let him become a foole in this worlde, that he maye be wise. For the wysdome off this worlde is foolishnes with God. For it is wrytten: he compasseth the wise in their craftynesse. And agayne: The LORDE knoweth the thoughtes of the wise, that they are vayne. Therfore let no man reioyse in men. For all is yours, whether it be Paul or Apollo, whether it be Cephas or the worlde, whether it be life or death, whether it be presente or for to come. All is yours, but ye are Christes, and Christ is Gods.

The III. Chapter.

Let every man this wise effeme vs, euen for the mynisters of Christ, and stewardes of the secretes of God. Now is there no more requyred of the stewardes, then, that they be founde faithfull. It is but a small chinge vnto me, that I shulde be iudged of you, or of mans daye, nether iudge I myne awne selfe. I knowe noughte by my selfe, yet am I not thereby iustified. It is the LORDE that iudgeth me. Therfore iudge ye nothinge before I tyme, vntyll the LORDE come, which shal bringe it to lighte that is hyd in darknesse, and open the counsels of I hertes, and the shal every one haue prayse of God.

B These thinges brethien haue I described in myne awne preson in Apollos for youre sakes, that ye mighte lerne by vs, that no man counte hygher of him self, then aboue is wrytten, that one be not puffed up agaynst another for eny mans cause. For who preferreth the? What hast thou that thou hast not receaved? If thou hast receaved it, why makest thou the thy boost, as though thou haddest not receaved it? Now ye are full, now ye are made riche, ye raigne without vs, and wolde God ye dyd raigne, that we mighte raigne with you.

We thinke that God hath set forth vs Apostles for the lowest off all, even as those that are appoynted vnto death. For we are a gasynge stocke vnto I wolde and to the angels, and vnto men. We are fooles for Chustes sake, but ye are wyse in Christ: We weake, but ye stronge: We honorable, but we despyed. Euen vnto this daye we hunger and thurst, and are naked, and are besetted with fystes, and haue no certayne dwellinge place, and laboure and worke with oure awne handes. We are reuyled, and yet we blisse: we are persecuted, and suffre it: We are euell spoken of, and we praye: We are become as it were the very outscraping of I wolde, yee the ofscouringe of all men vnto this tyme.

C I wryte not this to shame you, but as my deare childre I warne you. For though ye haue ten thousande instructours in Christ yet haue ye not many fathers. For I haue begotten you in Christ Iesu thorow I Gospel: Wherefore I exhorte you, be ye my followers. For this cause haue I sent vnto you Timotheus (which is my deare sonne, and faithfull in the LORDE) that he maye put you in remembraunce of my wayes, which are in Christ, eue as I teach every where in all congregacions. Some are puffed up, as though I wolde come nomore at you. But I wil come to you shortly (yf the LORDE wyl) and wyl knowe, not the wordes of the that are puffed up, but I power. For the Kingdome of God is not in wordes, but in power. What wil ye? Shal I come vnto you?

the robb, or with loue and the sperte of mekenesse.

The V. Chapter.

I Here goeth a comen reporte, that there is whordome amonge you, and soch whordome, as is not once named amonge the heythen, that one shulde haue his fathers wife. And ye are puffed up, and haue not rather sorowed, that he which hath done this dede, mighte be put from amonge you. For I verely as absent in body, but present in sperte, haue determyned already as though I were present (concernyng him that hath done this dede) in I name of oure LORDE Iesus Christ, wha ye are gathered together with my sperte, and with the power of oure LORDE Iesus Christ, to deliuer him vnto Sathan for the destruction of the flesh, that the sperte maye be saved in the daye of the LORDE Iesus.

Your reioysinge is not good. Anowe ye not that a litle leuen sowreth the whole lump of dowe? Pourge out therfore the olde leuen, that ye maye be new dowe, like as ye are swete bled. For we also haue an Easter lambe, which is Christ, that is offered for vs. Wherefore let vs kepe Easter, not in olde leuen, ner in the leuen of malicionsnes, and wickednes, but in the swete bled of purenesse and of the truethe.

I wrote vnto you in the Epistle, that ye shulde haue nothinge to do with whoremongers, and that meant I not at all of the whoremongers of this wolde, ether of the couetous, or of extortioners, or of the that worshippe ymages, for then must ye nedes haue gone out of the wolde. But now haue I wrytten vnto you, I ye shulde haue nothinge to do with them: (Namely,) yf there be eny man that is called a brother, and is an whoremonger, or couetous, or a worshipper of ymages, ether a raylar, or a drunkarde, or an extortioner, with soch shal ye not eat. For what haue I to do to iudge them that are without? Do ye not iudge the that are within? As for them that are without, God shal iudge them. Put awaye fro you him that is euell.

The VI. Chapter.

Now dare one off you haue anyge business with another, go to lawe before the vnrighteous, and not before the sayntes? Do ye not knowe that the sayntes shal iudge the worlde? Yf the worlde that shalbe iudged off you, are ye not good ynough to iudge small matters? Anowe not that we shal iudge the angels? how much more thinges that pertaine to the temporall life? Therfore yf ye haue iudgements of temporall matters, take them that are despyed in the congregacion, and set them to be iudges. This I saye to youre shame. Is there utterly no wyse man amonge you? What not one at all, that can iudge betwene brother and brother? but one brother goeth to lawe with another, and that before the vnbeleuers?

Now therfore is there utterly a fante amonge you, that ye go to lawe one with another. Why rather suffre ye not wronge? Why suffre ye not youre selues rather to be defrauded? but ye youre selues do wronge and defraude, and that euen the brethie. Anowe ye not that I vnrighteous shal not inheret the Kingdome of God? Denot disceauet. Neither whoremongers, ner worshippers off ymages, ner breakers off wedlocke, ner weaklinges, nether abusers of them selues with mankynde, ner thenes, nether the couetous, ner drunkardes, ner cursed speakers, ner extortioners shal inheret the Kingdome of God. And soch haue some of you bene, but ye are washed, ye are sanctified, ye are made righteous by the name of the LORDE Iesus, and by the sperte of oure God.

I maye do all thinges, but all thinges are not profitable. I maye do all thinges, but I wil be broughte vnder no mans power. Meates are ordeyned for I bely, and the bely for meates. But God shal destroye both it and them. The body belongeth not vnto whordome, but vnto the LORDE, and the LORDE vnto the body. God hath rayssed vp the LORDE, and shal rayse vs vp also by his power. Anowe ye not that youre bodies are the members of Christ? Shal I now take the members of Christ, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid. Ye do ye not knowe, that he which cleueth vnto an harlot, is one body? For they shalbe two (sayeth he) in one fleshe. But he that cleueth vnto the LORDE, is one sperte.

If whordome. All synnes I a man doth, are without the body. But he that commyteth whordome, synneth agaynst his awne body. Ye knowe ye not that youre body is the temple of the holy goost? Whom ye haue of God, and are not youre awne? For ye are dearly boughte. Prayse ye God therfore in y body and in y sperte, which are Gods.

The VII. Chapter.

Wh concerninge the thinges wherof ye wrote vnto me, I answer: It is good for a man not to touche a woman. Nevertheless to avoide whordome, let every man haue his awne wife, and let every woman haue hir awne husbunde. Let the man geue vnto the wife due beneuolence: like wyse also the wife vnto I man. The wife hath not power ouer hir awne body, but the husbunde: I like wyse the man hath not power ouer his awne body, but the wife. Withdrawe not y selues one fro another, excepte it be with the consent of both for a tyme, that ye maye geue youre selues vnto fastinge and prayer, and the come together agayne, lest Sathan tempte you for y inconynte eye. But this I saye of sanctuare, and not of commaundement. Howbeit I wolde rather I all me were as I am. Nevertheless every one hath his proper gifte of God: one thus, another so. To them verely I are vnnaried and to weddowes I saye: It is good for the that they abyde also as I do. But yf they cannot absteyne, let them marry. For it is better to marry, then to burne.

But vnto them that are married, commaunde not I, but the LORDE, that the wife separate not her selfe from the husbunde: but yf she separate her selfe, I she remayn vnnaried, or be reconcyled to hir husbunde: and let not the husbunde put awaye his wife from him.

As for the other, vnto the I saye I, not I LORDE: If eny brother haue an vnbeleuyng wife, and she is content to dwell with him, let him not put hir awaye. And yf a woman haue an vnbeleuyng husbunde, and he is content to dwell with her, let her not put him awaye. For the vnbeleuyng husbunde is sanctified by the wife, and the vnbeleuyng wife is sanctified by the husbunde: or els were youre children vncleane, but now are they holy. But yf the vnbeleuyng departe, let him departe. A brother or a sister is not bounde in such cases, but God hath called vs in peace. For what knowest thou O woman, whether thou shalt saue I man? Or what knowest thou O man, whether thou shalt saue the woman? But euen as God hath distributed vnto every one and as the LORDE hath called every man, so let him walke: and so orden I in all congregacions.

If eny man be called beyng circumcysed let him take no heythen shippe vpon him. If eny man be called in the heythen shippe, let him not be circumcysed. Circumcision is nothinge, and vncircumcision is nothinge, but the keepinge of the commaundementes of God. Let every one abyde in the callinge to the Corinthians. Ho. lxxv.

1. Tim. 5. 2 ge wherin he is called. Art thou called a servant, care not for it: neuertheless yf thou mayest be fre, use it rather. For he that is called in the LORDE beyng a seruante, is a fre man of the LORDE. Likewise he that is called beyng fre, is a seruante of Christ. We are dearly boughte, be not ye the seruantes of men. Brethren let every one wherin he is called, therein abyde with God.

As concerninge virgins, I haue no commandement of the LORDE, neuertheless I saye my goodmeanyng, as I haue opayned mercy of the LORDE to be faithfull. I suppose it is good for y present necessite: for it is good for a man so to be. Art thou bounde vnto a wife, seke not to be lowsed: Art thou lowsed fro a wife, seke not a wife. But yf thou take a wife, thou synnest not. And yf a virgin mary, she synneth not. Neuertheles soch shal haue trouble in the fleshe. But I fauoure you.

Howbeit this I saye brethren: the tyme is shorte. Farthermore this is the meanyn-ge, y they which haue wyues, be as though they had none: and they that wepe, be as though they wepte not: and they that re-ioyse, be as though they reioysed not: z they that bye, be as though they possessed not: z
they that vse this worlde, be as though they used it not. For the fashion off this worlde passeth awaye. But I wolde that ye shulde be without care. * Zethat is syngle, careth for the thinges of the LORDE, how he maye please the LORDE. But he that is married, careth for the thinges of the worlde, how he maye please his wife, and is deuyed. A woman and a virgin that is syngle, careth for the thinges of the LORDE, that she maye be holy both in body z also in spie-te. But she that is married, careth for y thin-ges of the worlde, how she maye please hir husbande.

This I saye for youre profit, not that I will tangle you in a snare, but forthat which is honest and comly vnto you, that ye maye cōtinually cleue vnto the LORDE without hynderaunce. But yf eny man thinke that it is vncōmly for his virgin yf she passe the tyme of mariage, and yf nede so requyre, let him do what he lyst, he synneth not, let the be coupled in mariage. Neuertheless he that purposeth surely in his hert, hauynge no nede, but hath power of his awne wyll, and determeth so in his hert to kepe his virgin, doth well. Synally, he that ioyneth his virgin in mariage, doth well: but he that ioyneth not his virgin in mariage, doth better. The wife is bounde to the lawe, as lon-ge as hir husbāde lyueth. But yf hir husbande slepe, she is at liberty to mary vnto whom she wil, onely that it be done in the LORDE. But she is happier yf she so abyde after my iudgment. I thinke verely that I also haue the spieete of God.

The VIII. Chapter.

As touchinge thinges offered vnto y-dols, we are sure y we all haue knowlege. Knowledge puffeth a mā vp, but loue edifyeth. Neuertheless yf eny mā thinke
y he knoweth eny thinge, he knoweth not yet how he oughte to knowe. But yf eny man loue God, the same is knowne of him.

So are we sure now concerninge the metes offered vnto ydols, that an ydoll is adthinge in the worlde, and that there is no other God but one. And though there be that are called goddes, whether in heauen or in earth (as there be goddes many and la-des many) yet haue we but one God, euen
the father, of whō are all thinges, and we
in him: z one LORDE Jesus Christ, by whō
are all thinges, and we by him.

But everyman hath not knowlege: for me make yet conscience ouer the ydoll, and eate it as a thinge offered vnto ydols: and so their conscience beyng weakē, is despyed.
Neuertheless meate furethureth not vs vnto God. Yf we eate, we shal not therfore be better: yf we eate not, we shal not therfore be the lesse. But take hede that this yomeliberty be not an occasion off fallynge vnto y weake. For yf eny man se the (which hath knowlege) sit at the table in the ydolls house, shal not his conscience whyle it is weakē, be occasioned to eate of the ydolls offerin-ges? And so thorow thy knowlege shal the weake brother perishe, for whō Christ dyed.
But whan ye synne so agaynst the brethien,
and wounde their weakē conscience, ye synne agaynst Christ. Wherfore yf meate offer-de my brother, I wyl neuer eate flesh, lest I offende my brother.

The IX. Chapter.

Am I not an Apostle? Am I not fre?
* Haue I not sene Jesus Christ our LORDE: Are not ye my worke in the LORDE? Yf I be not an Apostle vnto other, yet am I youre Apostle: for the seale of my ne Apostleshippe are ye in the LORDE. My ne answer vnto them that are me, is this:
Haue we not power to eate and drynke? Is ue we not power also to leade aboute a sistato wife, as well as other Apostles, and as the brethien of the LORDE, and Cephas?

Or haue onely I and Barnabas not power
this to do? Who goeth a warfare at eny tyme vpon his awne wages? Who planteth a vynyarde, and eateth not of the frute ther-of? Who sedeth a flocke, and eateth not of the mylke of the flocke?

Saye I these thinges after the maner of men? Sayeth not the lawe the same also?
For it is wyrtten in the lawe off Moses:
Thou shalt not mofell the mouth of the ore that treadeth out the come. Doth God take thought for the oxen? Or sayeth he it not altogether for oure sakes? For no doute it is wyrtte for oure sakes. For he that eareth, shulde eare vpon hope: and he y thiofsheth, shulde trose vpon hope, y he mighte be partaker of his hope. * Yf we haue sowne vnto
you spiritual thinges, is it a greates hyge yf we reape yd bodely thinges? But yf other be partakers of this power on you, wherfore are not we rather? * Neuertheless we haue not used this power, but suffice all thin-ges, lest we shulde hynder the Gospell off Christ. Knowe ye not that they which laboure in the temple, haue their lyuynge of y
temple: and they that wayte at the altare,
mye the altare? * Euen thus also hath y LORDE ordeyned, that they which preach
the Gospell, shulde lyue of y Gospell. * But I haue used none of these thinges.

Nether wyte I therof, that it shulde be done so vnto me: for I had rather dye, the than my man shulde brynge my reioysinge to naughte. For in that I preach the Gospell,
I made not boost my selfe, for I must nedes do it. And wo vnto me, yff I preach not the Gospell. Yf I do it with a good wyll,
I shal haue my rewarde: but yff I do it agaynst my wyll, yet is the office commytted vnto me. Wherfore the shal I be rewarded? (Namely therfore) that I preach the Gospell, and do the same frely for naughte,
that I abuse not my libertye in y Gospell.
For though I am fre from all men, yet haue I made my selfe every mans seruante, y
I mighte wyne y moo. * Vnto the Jewes
I am become as a Jewe, to wyne y Jewes.
To them that are vnder the lawe, I am become as though I were vnder the lawe, to wyne them which are vnder the lawe.

Vnto them that are without lawe, I am become as though I were without lawe (where as yet I am not without the lawe of God, but am in y lawe of Christ) to wy-ne the that are without lawe. To the wea-ke, am I become as weake, to wyne the weake. * I am become of all fashions vnto everyman, to saue some at y leest. But this I do for the Gospels sake, that I mighte be partaker therof.

Knowe ye not, that they which runne in a course, runne all, yet but one receaueth the rewarde? Runne ye so, that ye maye optay-
ne. Every one that pouereth masterye, absteineth from all thinges, and they do it, that they maye optayne a corruptible crowne,
but we to optayne an vncorruptible crow-
ne. I therfore so runne, not as at an vncertaine thinge: So fighte I, not as one y bea-teth y ayre: but I tame my body, and bryn-ge it in to subieccion, lest whan I preach vnto
other: I my selfe be a cast awaye.

The X. Chapter.

Brethren, I wolde not that ye shul-
de be ignorant of this, that oure fathers were all vnder the cloude, *
and all passed thorow the see, z were all baptised vnder Moses in the cloude and in the see, * and dyd all eate of one spirituall mea-te, and dyd all drynke of one spirituall drynke: but they dronke of the spirituall rocke
that folowed the, which rocke was Christ.
Neuertheless in many of them had God no delyte, for they were smytten downe in the wyldernesse.

These are ensamples vnto vs, y we shul-
de not lust after euill thinges, as they lusted.
Nether be ye worshippers off ymages, as were some of them. Acordinge as it is wyrt-te: The people sat downe to eate and drynke, and rose vp to playe. Nether let vs com-mytte whordome, * as some of them comytted whordome, and fell in one daye the z twenty thousande. Nether let vs tempte Christ, * as some of them tempted him, and were destroyed of serperes. Nether murmur ye, * as some of them murmured, and were destroyed thorow the destroyer.

All these thinges happened vnto the for ensamples, but they are wyrtte to warne vs,
vpon whom the ende of y worlde is come.
Therfore let him that thinketh he stondeth,
take hede, lest he fall. There hath yet no tēptacion overtaken you, but soch as foloweth the nature of man. Neuertheless * God is faithfull, * which shal not suffice you to be tempted aboute youre strength, but shal in the myddes of y temptacion make a waye to come out, that ye maye beare it. Wherfore my dearly beloued, fle from worshippinge of ydols. I speake vnto them which haue discreciō, iudge ye what I saye. The cuppe of chateigeyng wherwith we geue chances, is it not the partakinge of the bloude of Christ: The bread that we breake, is it not of partaking of the body of Christ: For many are one bread and one body, in as much as we all are partakers of one bread.

C Beholde Israel after the flesh. They eat the sacrifices, are they not partakers of the altar? What shall I now sayethen? Shall I saye that the Idoll is any thinge? Or that it which is offered vnto the Idoll is any thinge? Nay. But this I saye, that loke what the heychen offre, that offre they vnto deuils, and not vnto God. Now wolde I not that ye shulde be in the fellowship of deuils. Ye can not drynke of the cuppe of the LORDE and of the cuppe of the deuils. Ye can not be partakers of the LORDES table, and of the table of deuils. Or wyl we prouoke the LORDE? I maye do all thinges, but all thinges are not profitable. I maye do all thinges, but all thinges edifie not. Let noman seeke his awne profit, but let euery man seeke anothers welch.

What soener is solde in the fleshmarket, that eate, and are no question for conscience sake. For the earth is the LORDES, and all that therein is. Ifeny of the flesh becomen not, byd you to a feast, and yf ye be disposed to go, what soener is set before you, that eate, as in geno question for conscience sake.

D But yfeny man saye vnto you: This is offered vnto Idols, the eate not of it, for his sake that sheweth it, and for hurtinge of conscience. (The earth is the LORDES and all that therein is.) Neuertheles I speake of conscience, not thine, but of y other. For why shulde my liberty be iudged of another mans conscience? For yf I take my parte with thankes, why am I euell spoken of, for y thinge wherefore I geue thankes?

Therefore whether ye eate or drynke, or what so ever ye do, do all to y prayse of God. Be not ye an occasion of fallinge, nether to the Jewes, ner to the Gentyles, ner to the congregacion of God, eue as I also please all men in all thinges, not settinge myne awne profit, but the profit of many, that they might be saued. Solowe ye me, as I do Christ.

The XI. Chapter.

I Commende you brethien, that ye remembre me in all poyntes, and kepe the ordinaunces, eue as I deliuered them vnto you. But I certifie you, that Christ is the heade of every man. As for y man, he is the heade of y woman, but God is Christs heade. Every man that prayeth or prophecieth, and hath any thinge on his heade, shameth his heade. But every man that prayeth or prophecieth with vncouered heade, dishonesteth his heade. For it is enen a lyke moch as yf she were shaven. If the womā be not couered, let hir heer also be cut of. But yf it be vncomey for a woman to haue hir heer cut of or to be shaven, then let hir couer hir heade. Neuertheles the man oughte not to couer his heade, for so moch as he is the ymage and glory of God: but the womā is the glory of the man. For the man is not of the woman, but the woman of the man. Neither was the man created for the womans sake, but the womā for the mans sake.

Therefore ought the woman to haue a power vpon hir heade, for the angels sake. Neuertheles nether is the man without y woman, nether the woman without the mā in the LORDE. For as the woman is of the man, euen so commeth the man also by the woman, but all of God. Judge ye by yf selues, whether it be comly, y a womā praye before God bare headed? Or doth not nature teach you, y it is a shame for a man yf he weere lōge heer, y a prayse to y womā, yf she weere lōge heer? For hir heer is geue heer to couer her withall. But yf there be eny man amonge you that hath lust to stryue, let him knowe, that we haue no such custome, nether the congregacions of God. But this must I warne you of: I commende it not, that ye come together not after a better maner but after a worse. First, whan ye come together in the congregacion, I heare, that there are discensions amonge you, and I partly beleue it. For there must be sectes amonge you, that they which are perfecte amonge you, might be knowne.

Now whan ye come together, the LORDES supper can not be kepte. For whan it shulde be kepte, euery mā taketh his awne supper afore. And one is hōgrie, another is dronke. Haue ye not houses to eate and drynke in? Or despise ye y congregacion of God, and shame them that haue not? What shall I saye vnto you? Shall I prayse you? In this prayse I you not. That which I deliuered vnto you, receaued I of the LORDE. For the LORDE Jesus the same nighte in the which he was betrayed, toke the bread, y gaue thankes, and brake it, and sayde: Take ye, y eate ye, this is my body, which is broken for you. This do in the remembrance of me. After the same maner also he toke y cuppe whan supper was done, and sayde: This cuppe is the new Testament in my blonde, this do (as oft as ye drynke it) in the remembrance of me. For as oft as ye shal eate of this bread, y drynke of this cuppe, ye shal shewe the LORDES death, vntyll he come.

Wherfore who soener shal eate off this bread, and drynke off this cuppe of the LORDE vnrworthy, shalbe guiltye of the body and bloude of the LORDE. But let a man examen himselfe, and so let him eate of this bread, and drynke of this cuppe. For he that eateth and drynke vnrworthy, eateth y drynke his awne damnacion, because he maketh no differēce of the LORDES body. Therefore are there so many weak and sicke amonge you, and many slepe. For yf we iudged oureselues, we shulde not be iudged. But whan we are iudged, we are chastened of y LORDE, that we shulde not be dāned with the worlde. Wherfore my brethien, whan ye come together to eate, tary one for another. But yf eny man hunger, let him eate at home, that ye come not together vnto cō dampnacion. As for other thinges, I wil see them in order whan I come.

The XII. Chapter.

I S concerninge spirituall giftes (brethien) I wolde not that ye were ignorant. Ye knowe that ye were heychen and wente youre wayes vnto dōme Idols, eue as ye were led. Wherfore I declare vnto you, that no man speakyng the spete of God, despyeth Jesus. And no man can saye that Jesus is the LORDE, but by the holy goost.

There are dyuerse giftes, yet but one spete: and there are dyuerse offices, yet but one LORDE: and there are dyuerse operations: yet is there but one God, which worketh all in all. The giftes of the spete are geuen vnto every man to profite the cōgregacion. To one is geuen thorow the spete the vterance of wisedome: to another is geuen the vterance of knowlege accordinge to the same spete: to another, faith in the same spete: to another, the giftes of healinge in the same spete: to another, power to do miracles: to another, prophecieng: to another, iudgment to discerne spetes: to another, dyuerse tinges: to another, the interpretacion of tinges. These all doth y same onely spete worke, and distributeth vnto euery man, accordinge as he will.

For as the body is one, and hath yet many members, neuertheles all the members of the body though they be many, are yet but one body: euen so Christ also. For we are all baptysed in one spete to be one body, whether we be Jewes or Gentyles, whether we be bonde or fre, and haue all. dronke of one spete. For the body also is not one membre, but many. As the sote saye: I am not y hand, therfore am I not a membre of the body. is he therfore not a membre of y body? And yf the eare saye: I am not the eye, therfore am I not a membre of the body, is he therfore not a membre of the body? If all the body were an eye, where were then the hearinge? If all were hearinge, where then the smellinge? But now hath God set the membres, euery one severally in the body, as it hath pleased him. Neuertheles yf all the membres were one membre, where were then the body? But now are the membres many, yet is the body but one.

The eye can not saye vnto the hande: I haue no nede of the: or agayne the heade vnto the fete, I haue no nede of you: but rather a greate deale the membres of the body which seme to be most feble, are most necessary: and vpon those membres of the body which we thinke least honest, put we most honestie on: and oure vncomey partes haue most beute on. For oure honest membres neade it not. But God hath so measured y body, and geuen most honoure vnto that membre which had nede, that there shulde be no stryfe in the body, but that the membres shulde indifferently care one for another. And yf one membre suffre, all the membres suffre with him: and yf one membre be had in honoure, all the membres are glad with him also. But ye are the body of Christ, and membres, euery one of another.

And God hath ordeyned in the congregacion, first the Apostles, secondly prophetes, thirdly teachers, then doers of miracles, after that the giftes of healinge, helpers, gouerners, dyuerse tinges. Are they all Apostles? Are they all prophetes? Are they all teachers? Are they all doers of miracles? Haue they all the giftes of healinge? Speake they all with tinges? Can they all interpret? But covet ye the best giftes. And yet shewe I you a more excellent waye.

The XIII. Chapter.

I though I spake with the tinges of men and angels, and yet had not lone, I were euen as soundinge brasse, or as a tynkinge Cymball. And though I coulde prophecy, y vnderstode all secretes, and all knowlege, and had all faith, so that

Ioh. 7. 3Mat. 10. 2
Luc. 9. 2
Eph. 4. 11
Act. 13. 1

I coulde moue moſt anyes out of their places, and yet had not loue, I were nothinge. And though I beſtowed all my goodes to fede & poore, and though I gaue my body euen that I burned, and yet haue not loue, it profiteth me nothinge.

Loue is patient & courteous, loue enuyeth not, loue doth not ſtewardly, is not puffed up, dealeth not diſhoneſtly, ſecketh not his owne, is not prouoked vnto anger, chynketh not euell, reioyseth not ouer iniquity, but reioyseth in the truth, beareth all thinges, beleeueth all thinges, hopeth all thinges, ſuffereth all thinges.

B Though prophecies faile, or tunces ceaſe, or knowlege periſhe, yet loue ſalleth neuer awaye. For oure knowlege is vnperfecte, and oure prophecyinge is vnperfecte. But whā that which is perfecte, cometh, then ſhal the vnperfecte be done awaye.

Whan I was a childe, I ſpake as a childe, I vnderſtoode as a childe, I imagined as a childe. But as ſoone as I was a man, I put awaye childiſhnes. Now we ſee thorow a glaſſe in a darke ſpeakynge, but thē ſhal we ſee face to face. Now I knowe vnperfectly: but thē ſhal I knowe enē as I am knowne. Now abydeith faith, hope, loue, theſe thre but the greateſt of theſe is loue.

The XIII. Chapter.

A Aboute for loue. Couet ſpirituall giſtes, but ſpecially that ye maye prophecye. For he ſpeaketh with tunces, ſpeaketh not vnto men, but vnto God: for no man heareth him. Howbeit in ſpree he ſpeaketh miſteries. But he that propheciethe, ſpeaketh vnto men to ediſenge, & to exhortacion, and to comfort. He that ſpeaketh with tunces, ediſieth himſelfe: but he that propheciethe, ediſieth the congregacion. I wolde that ye all ſpake with tunces, but rather that ye prophecied. For greater is he that propheciethe, then he that ſpeaketh with tunces: excepte he alſo expounde it, that the congregacion maye haue ediſenge. But now brethren yf I come vnto you, and ſpeake with tunces, what ſhal I profet you, excepte I ſpeake vnto you ether by reuelacion or by knowlege, or by prophecyinge, or by doctrine?

B Likewyſe is it alſo in ſ thinges that geue ſounde, and yet lyue not: whether it be a pype or an harpe, excepte they geue diſtinct ſoundes from them, how ſhal it be knowne what is pyped or harped? And yf the trope geue an vncertaine ſounde, who wil prepare himſelfe to the battayll? Euen ſo yelike wyſe, whan ye ſpeake with tunces, excepte ye ſpeake playne wordes, how ſhal it be knowne what is ſpoke: for ye ſhal but ſpeake in ſ ayre. So many kyndes of voyces are in the worlde, and none of them is without ſignificacion. Yf I knowe not now what ſ voyce meaneth, I ſhal be an aleaunt vnto him that ſpeaketh: & he that ſpeaketh, ſhal be an aleaunt vnto me. Euen ſo ye (for ſo much as ye couet ſpirituall giſtes) ſeeke & ye maye haue plenty to the ediſenge of the congregacion. Wherefore let him that ſpeaketh with tunces, praye, that he maye interpret alſo. Yf I praye with tunces, my ſpree prayeth, but my vnderſtōdinge bryngeth no man ſute. How ſhal it be then? Namely thus: I wil praye with ſpree, and wil praye with the vnderſtōdinge alſo: I wil ſynge psalmes in the ſpree, and wil ſynge psalmes with ſ vnderſtōdinge alſo.

But whan thou genceſt thankes with ſpree, how ſhal he that occupieth therewith of the vnlearned ſaye Amen at thy gence of thankes, ſeynge he knoweth not what thou ſayeſt? Thou genceſt well thankes, but the other is not ediſyed. I thanke my God, that I ſpeake with tunces more then ye all. Yet had I leuer in the congregacion to ſpeake ſyue wordes with my vnderſtōdinge & I maye enſourme other alſo, rather then ten thouſande wordes with tunces. Brethren be not children in vnderſtōdinge, howbeit as concerninge maliciouſnes be childiſh, but in vnderſtōdinge be perfecte. In the laſt it is wyrtten: With other tunces and with other lippes wil I ſpeake vnto this people, and yet ſhal they not ſo heare me, ſayeth the LORDE. Therfore are tunces for a token, not to thē that beleue, but to them that beleue not. Contrary wyſe, prophecyinge, not to them that beleue not, but to them which beleue.

Yf the whole congregacion now came together into one place, & ſpake all with tunces, and there came in they that are vnlearned, or they which beleue not, ſhulde they not ſaye, that ye were out of youre wyrttes? But yff all prophecied, and there came in one which beleueſt not, or one vnlearned, he ſhulde be boked of them all, and iudged of all, and ſo ſhulde the ſecrete of his hert be opened, and ſo ſhulde he fall downe vpon his face, worſhippinge God, and knowleginge, that of a truth God is in you. How is it then brethren? Whan ye come together, euery one hath a psalme, hath doctrine, hath a tunc, hath a reuelacion, hath an interpretation.

Let all be done to ediſyng. Yf eny mā ſpeake with tunces, let him do it him ſelfe beyng the ſeconde, or at the moſt him ſelfe beyng the thirde, and one after another, and let one interpret it. But yf there be not an interpreter, then let him kepe ſylence in the congregacion, howbeit let him ſpeake to himſelfe and to God. As for the prophetes, let two or thre ſpeake: and let the other iudge. But yf eny reuelacion be made vnto another that ſytteth, then let the firſt holde his peace.

Let maye all prophecye one after another that they all maye lerne, and that all maye haue comfort. And the ſpree of the prophetes are ſubiecte vnto the prophetes. For God is not a God off diſcension, but off peace, like as in all congregacions off the ſayntes. Let youre wyues kepe ſylence in the congregacion, for it ſhal not be permytted vnto thē to ſpeake, but to be vnder obedience, as yf lawe ſayeth alſo. But yf they will lerne eny thinge, let them be their huſbādes at home. For it becommeth not womē to ſpeake in the congregacion. Or ſpronge the worde of God from amonge you? Or is it come vnto you onely? Yf eny man thynke himſelfe to be a prophet, or ſpirituall, let him knowe what I wyte vnto you, for they are the commandementes of the LORDE. But yf eny man be ignorant, let him be ignorant. Wherefore brethren, couet to prophecye, and forbyd not to ſpeake with tunces. Let all thinges be done honeſtly and in order.

The XV. Chapter.

I Declare vnto you brethren, the Goſpell that I haue preached vnto you (which ye haue alſo accepted, and in the which ye ſtoode, by the which alſo ye are ſaned) after what maner I preached it vnto you, yf ye haue kepte it, excepte ye haue beleued in vayne. For firſt of all I deliuered vnto you that which I alſo receaued, how that Chriſt dyed for oure ſynnes accordinge to the ſcriptures, and that he was buried, and that he roſe agayne the thirde daye accordinge to the ſcriptures, and that he was ſene of Cephas, then of the twelue: after that was he ſene of mo then fyue hundred brethren at once, whereof there are yet many alyue, but ſome are fallen aſlepe. Afterwarde was he ſene of James, then of all the Apoſtles. Laſt of all was he ſene of me alſo, as of one borne out of due tyme. For I am yf leſt of the Apoſtles, which am not worthy to be called an Apoſtle, becauſe I perſecuted

the congregacion of God. But by the grace of God I am that I am. And his grace in me hath not bene vayne, but I haue laboured more then they all: howbeit not I but the grace of God which is w me. Now whether it be I or they, thus haue we preached, and thus haue ye beleued.

But yf Chriſt be preached, that he is ryſen from the deed, how ſaye then ſome amonge you, that there is no reſurreccion of the deed? Yf there be no reſurreccion of the deed, then is Chriſt not ryſen. Yf Chriſt be not ryſen, then is oure preachinge in vayne, and youre faith is alſo in vayne: yee and we are founde falſe witneſſes of God, becauſe we haue teſtified agaynſt God, that he hath rayſed vp Chriſt, whom he hath not rayſed vp, yf the deed ryſe not agayne. For yf the deed ryſe not agayne, thē is Chriſt alſo not ryſen agayne. But yf Chriſt be not ryſen agayne, then is youre faith in vayne, and ye are yee in youre ſynnes: they alſo that are fallē a ſlepe in Chriſt, are periſhed. Yf in this liſe onely we hope on Chriſt, then are we of all men the moſt miſerable.

But now is Chriſt ryſen from the deed, and is become the firſt frutes of them that ſlepe. For by one man cometh death, and by one man the reſurreccion of the deed. For as they all dye in Adam, ſo ſhal they all be made alyue in Chriſt, but euery one in his order. The firſt is Chriſt, then they that beſeige vnto Chriſt, whan he cometh. Then the ende, whā he ſhal deliuer vp the kyngdome vnto God the father, whan he ſhal put downe all rule, and all ſuperiorite, & power. For he muſt raygne, tyll he haue put all his enemies vnder his fete. The laſt enemy that ſhal be deſtroyed, is death, for he hath put all thinges vnder his fete. But whā he ſayeth, that all thinges are put vnder him, it is manifeſt that he is excepted, which put all thinges vnder him. Whan all thinges ſhal be ſubdued vnto him, then ſhal the ſonne himſelfe alſo be ſubiecte vnto him, which put all thinges vnder him, that God maye be all in all.

Or els what do they which are baptiſed ouer y deed, yf the deed ryſe not at all? Why are they then baptiſed ouer the deed? And why ſtonde we in ioperdy euery houre? By oure reioyſyng which I haue in Chriſt Jeſus & LORDE, I dye daylie. That I haue fought with beaſtes at Ephesus after y maner of men, what helpeth it me, yf the deed ryſe not agayne? Let vs eate and drynke, for tomorrow we ſhal dye. Be not ye diſceanted.

Heb. 2. 14Eph. 2. 2. b
Sap. 2. 2

The first Epistle

to the Corinthians.

Quell speakinges corruppe good maners. Awake righte vp, and synne not: for some haue not y knowlege of God. This I saye to youre shame.

But some man mighte saye: How shal the deed aryse? And with what maner off body shal they come? Thou fool, y which thou sowest is not quykened, excepte it dye. And what sowest thou? thou sowest not y body that shalbe, but a bare corne, namely of wheate, or of some other. But God geueth it a body as he wil, and vnto euery one of y sedes his owne body.

All fleshe is not onemaner of fleshe, but there is one maner fleshe of men, another of beastes, another of ffishes, another of byrdes. And there are heauenly bodies, and there are earthy bodies: but the heauenly haue one glory, and y earthy another. The Sonne hath one clearnes, the Moone hath another clearnesse, and the starres haue another clearnesse: for one starre excelleth another in clearnesse: Euen so the resurrection of the deed. It is sowne in corrupcion, and shal ryse in vncorruption: It is sowne in dishonoure, and shal ryse in glory: It is sowne in weaknesse, and shal ryse in power: It is sowne a naturall body, and shal ryse a spirituall body.

If there be a naturall body, there is a spirituall body also. As it is wyrtten: The first man Adam was made in to a naturall life, and the last Ada in to a spiritual life. Howbeit the spirituall body is not the first, but y naturall, and then the spirituall. The first man is of the earth, earthy: y seconde ma is fro heauē, heauēly. As the earthy is, soch are they also that are earthy: and as y heauenly is, soch are they also y are heauenly. And as we haue borne the ymage of the earthy, so shal we beare the ymage of the heauenly also. This I saye brethien, that flesh y bloude cannot inheret y kyngdome of God: neither shal corrupcion inheret vncorruption.

Beholde, I saye vnto you a mystery: We shal not all slepe, but we shal all be chaunged, and that sodenly and in the twinklinge of an eye, at the tyme of the last trompe. For the trompe shal blowe, and the deed shal ryse vncorruptible, and we shalbe chaunged. For this corruptible must put on vncorruption, and this mortall must put on immortallite. But when this corruptible shal put on vncorruption, and this mortall shal put on immortallite, the shal the worde be fulfilled that is wyrtten: Death is swallowed vp in victory. Death, where is thy styng? Hell, where is y victory? The styng of death is syn-

ne: The strength of synne is the lawe. But thankes be vnto God, which hath geue vs the victory thow oure LORDE Iesu Chust. Therefore my deare brethie, be ye fast, vnmoueable, y allwaye rich in the worke of the LORDE, for as moch as yet knowe, that youre labour is not in vayne in the LORDE.

The XVI. Chapter.

Concernynge the y gadderynge that is made for the sayntes, as I haue ordeyned in the congregacions of Galacia, euen so do ye also. Vpon some Sabbath daye let euery one of you put aside by himselfe, and laye vp what so euer he thinketh mere, that the colleeccion be not to gather when I come. When I am come, whom so euer ye shal alowe by youre letters, the myll I sende to brynge youre liberalite vnto Ierusalem. Neuertheles yf it be mete, that I go thither also, they shal go with me. But I wil come vnto you, when I go thow Macedonia: for thow Macedonia wil take my iourney. With you peradventure wil I abyde, or els wynter, that ye maye brynge me on my waye, whiche so euer I go.

I wil not se you now in my passage, for I hope to abyde a whyle with you, yf the LORDE shal suffre me. But I wil tary at Ephesus vntill whiesontyde. For a great and frutesfull doie is opened vnto me, and there are many aduersaries. Yf Timotheus come, se that he be without feare with you, for he worketh y worke of the LORDE as I do. Let no man therfore despyse him, but conuaye him forth in peace, that he maye come vnto me, for I loke for him with the brethien.

As for brother Apollo, be ye sure, that I greatly desyied him to come vnto you with the brethie. And his mynde was not at all to come at this tyme, but he wil come when he hath oportunitie. Watch ye, stonde fast in the faith, quyte you like men, and be strong: let all youre thinges be done in loue.

But brethien (ye knowe the house off Stephana, that they are the first frutes in Achaia, and that they haue appoynted the selues to minister vnto the sayntes) I exhort you to be obedient vnto soche, and to all that helpe and labour. I am glad of the comynge of Stephana and Fortunatus, and Achaicus. For loke what was lackynge vnto me on youre parte, y haue they supplied: they haue refreshed my spere and youre. Knowe them therfore that are soch.

The congregacions of Asia salute you.

The ii. Epistle

to the Corinthians. Fo. lxxvii.

The seconde Epistle of the Apostle S.

Paul, to the Corinthians.

The first Chapter.

Aquila and Priscilla salute you moch in the LORDE, and so doth the congregacion that is in their house. All the brethren salute you. Salute ye one another with an holy kysse. The salutation of me Paul to myne awne hande. Ifeny ma loue not the LORDE Iesu Chust, the same be Anathema Maharan Martha. The grace of the LORDE Iesu Chust be with you. My loue be with you all in Chust Iesu. Amen.

Paul an Apostle of Iesu Chust, by the will of God, and brother Timotheus. Vnto the congregacion of God which is at Corinth, with all the sayntes which are i all Achaia.

Grace be with you, and peace fro God oure father, and from the LORDE Iesu Chust.

Blessed be God the father of oure LORDE Iesu Chust, the father of mercy and y God of all comforte, which comforteth vs in all oure trouble: in so moch y we are able to comforte them that are in any maner of trouble, with the same comforte wherwith n e oure selues are comforted of God. For as the afflictions of Chust are plenteous in vs, euen so is y consolacion plenteous by Chust. But whether we haue trouble or comforte, it is done for youre welch. Yf it be trouble, it is done for youre cōforte and health, which health sheweth h. r power, in that ye suffre the same afflictions which we suffre. Yf it be comforte, it is done also for youre comforte and health. Therefore is oure hope fast for you, in as moch as we knowe, that, like as ye are partakers of the afflictions, so shal ye be partakers also of the consolacion.

Brethien we wolde not haue you ignorant of oure trouble, which happened vnto vs in Asia, for we were greued out off measure passynge strength, so that we euen dispared of life, and had concluded in oure selues y we must nedes dye. But this was done, because we shulde not put oure trust in oure selues, but in God, which rayseth vp the deed to life agayne: which delynered vs from so greate a death, and yet delynereth daylie, on whom we trust, that he wil delyner vs here after also, by the helpe of youre prayer for vs: that on oure behalfe many thankes maye be geuen by many personies, for the gifte that is geuen vs.

For oure reioysinge is this, euen the testimony of oure conscience, that in synghenes & godly purenesse, not in fleshly wysdome, but in the grace of God, we haue had oure conversacion in the worlde, but most of all with you. For we wyte nothinge els vnto you, then that ye rede and also knowe. Rec & I trust that ye shal fynde vs vnto the ende, euen as ye haue founde vs partly.

For we are youre reioysinge, euen as ye also are oure: reioysinge in y daye of the LORDE Jesus. And in this confidence was I mynded the other tyme to come vnto you (that ye mighte haue yet another pleasure more) & to passe by you into Macedonia, & to come againe out of Macedonia vnto you & to be led forth to Jermye warde of you.

Whan I thus wyse was mynded, dyd I vse lightnesse? Or are my thoughtes fleshly? Not so: but with me yee is yee, and nay is naye. O faitfull God, that oure worde vnto you hath not bene yee and naye. For Gods sonne Jesus Christ, which was preached amonge you by vs (namely, by me and Siluanus and Timotheus) was not yee and naye, but in him it was yee. For all the promyses of God are yee in him, & are Amē in him, to the prayse of God by vs. But it is God which stablysheth vs wth you in Christ, and hath anoynted us, and sealed us, and geuen the earnest of the spirete in oure hertes.

The II. Chapter.

De I call God to recorde vnto my soule, that to sauoure you withall I came not agayne vnto Corinthum. Not that we are lordes ouer youre faith, but we are helpers of youre ioye, for ye stonde in faith. But I determyned this wth my selfe, that I wolde not come agayne to you in heynes. For yf I make you sory, who is it that shal make me glad, but the same which is made sory by me? And the same haue I wyrtten vnto you, lest whā I come, I shulde take heynes of them, of whom I oughte to reioyse: for somoch as I haue this confidence in you all, that my ioye is the ioye of you all. For in greate trouble and angurish of hert wrote I vnto you with many teares: not y ye shulde be sory, but that ye mighte perceave the loue, which I haue most specially vnto you.

But yf eny man haue caused sorowe, the same hath not made me sory, but partly, lest I shulde grieve you all. It is sufficient, that the same man is so rebuked of many, so that from hence forth ye oughte the more to forgive him and to comforte him, lest he be swallowed vp in ouer moch heynesse. Wherfore I exhorte you, that ye shewe loue vnto him. For therfore dyd I wyte vnto you also, that I mighte knowe the profe of you, whether ye were obediēt in all thinges. But loke vnto whō ye forgave eny thinge, I forgive hi also. For I also, yf I forgave ought vnto eny mā, that forgave I for youre sake in the rowme of Christ, lest we shulde be persecuted of Sathan. For his thoughtes are not vnto us.

But whā I came to Troada to preach y Gospel of Christ (and a doore was opened vnto me in y LODRE) I had no rest in my spirete, because I founde not Titus my brother: but I toke mylene of them, and went awaye into Macedonia. Rec thankes be to God, which allwaye geueth vs the victory in Christ, and openeth y sauoure of his knowlege by vs in euery place. For we are vnto God the good sauoure of Christ, both amonge thē y are saved, & amonge thē y perishe. To these, y sauoure of death vnto life: but vnto y other, the sauoure of life vnto life. And who is mete chert? For we are not as many are, which choppe & change the woide of God, but eue out of purpense, and out of God, in y sighte of God, I speake we in Christ.

The III. Chapter.

Agynne we then agayne to prayse of selues? Or nede we (as some other) of pistles of commendacion vnto you: or letters of commendacion from you? For oure epistle wyrtten in oure hertes: which vnderstonde and red of all mē, in that ye are knowne, how that ye are y epistle of Christ, mynistrad by vs, and wyrtte, not with ink, but with the spirete of the helyyngge God: not in tables of stone, but in fleshy tables of the hert. Soch trust haue we thorow Christ to God warde, not that we are sufficient of oure selues to thynke eny thinge, as of our selues, but oure ablenesse cometh of God, which hath made vs able, to be y mynistras of the new Testament: not of the letter, but of the spirete. For the letter killeth, but the spirete geueth life.

But yf the mynistracion y killeth the row the letter, and was figured in stones, was glorious, so that the childre of Israel mighte not beholde the face of Moses, for y clearnesse of his countenance, (which glory neuertheles is done awaye how shal not y mynistracion of y spirete be moch more glorious? For yf the office that preacheth damnacion be glorious, moch more doth the office that preacheth righteounesse excede in glory. For y other parte that was glorified is nothinge glorified in respecte of this excedinge glory. For yf that which is done awaye, be glorious, moch more shal y which remaineth, be glorious.

Seynge then that we haue soch trust, we vse greate boldnesse, and do not as Moses, which put a vayle before his face, so that y children of Israel mighte not se the ende of it, that is done awaye. But their myndes are blynded. For vnto this daye remaineth the same coveringe vnto this daye in the olde Testament, whan they rede it, which in Christ is put awaye. But euen vnto this daye whan Moses is red, the vayle hangeth before their hertes: Neuertheles whā they turne to the LORDE, the vayle shalbe taken awaye. For the LORDE is a spirete: & where the spirete of the LORDE is, there is libertye. But now the glory of y LORDE appeareth in vs all with open face, and we are chaunged into the same ymage, from one clearnesse to another, euen as of the spirete of the LORDE.

The III. Chapter.

Therefore seyngge we haue soch an office (euen as mercy is come vpon vs) we saynte not, but cast from vs the doctes of vnhonestye, and walke not in craftines: nether corruppe we the worde of God, but open the truch, and repute oure selues to euery mans conscience in the sighte of God.

If oure Gospel be yet hyd, it is hyd in them that are lost: amonge whom the God of this worlde hath blynded y myndes of them which beleue not, that y lighte of the Gospel of the glory of Christ (which is the ymage of God) shulde not shyne vnto them. For we preach not of selues, but Jesus Christ to be the LORDE, and oure selues youre seruantes for Jesus sake.

For God that comānded the light to shyne out of darcknesse, hath geuen a cleare shyne in oure hertes, & by vs y light of y knowlege of the glory of God mighte come forth, in the face of Jesus Christ.

But this treasure haue we in earthen vessels, that y power which excelleth mighte be of God, and not of vs. We are troubled on euery syde, yet are we not without shifte. We are in pouertie, but not vterly without somwhat. We are persecuted, but we are not forsaken. We are oppressed, neuertheles we perish not. We allwayes beare aboute in oure body the dyenge of the LORDE Jesus & the life also of the LORDE Jesus mighte appeare in oure body. For we which lyue, are alwayes delynered vnto death for Jesus sake, that the life also of Jesus mighte appeare in oure mortall flesch.

Therefore is death now mightie in vs, but life in you. But seyngge that we haue the same spirete of faith (acordinge as it is wyrtten: I beleue, and therefore haue I spokē,) we also beleue, & therefore we speake, for we knowe that he, which rayseth vp y LORDE Jesus, shal rayse vs vp also by y meanes of Jesus, and shal see vs with you. For all thinges do I for youre sakes, that the plereous grace by the thākesgeyngge of many, maye redounde to the prayse of God. Therefore are we not weery, but though y outwarde man be corrupte, yet the inward is renewed daye by daye. For oure trouble, which is but temporal and lighte, worketh an excedinge and an eternall weighte of glorye vnto us, which loke not on the thinges that are sene, but on them which are not sene. For y thinges which are sene, are temporal: but the thinges that are not sene, are eternall.

The V. Chapter.

We knowe surely, y yf oure earchy house of this dwellyngge were destroyed, we haue a buyldyngge ordeyned of God, an house not made with handes, but euerlastyngge in heauen. And in the same sighe we also after oure masson, which is from heauen: and longer to be clothed therewith, so yet, yf that we be founde clothed, and not naked. For as longe as we are in this tabernacle, we sighe and are grieved, for we had rather not be vnclorhed, but to be clothed vpon, that mortalite mighte be swallowed vp of life. But he that hath ordeyned vs for this, is God, which hath geuen vs the earnest of the spirete. Therefore are we allwaye of good cheare, and knowe, that as longe as we dwell here in the body, we are not at home with the LORDE: for we walke in faith, and se him not. Neuertheles we are of good comforte, and had leuer to be absent from the body, & to be at home with the LORDE.

Wherfore, whether we be at home or fro

home, we endeavour oure selues to please him. For we must all appeare before the iudgment seate of Christ, & every one maye receaue in his body, accordinge to & he hath done, whether it be good or bad. Seynge then that we knowe, how that the LORDE is to be feared, we fare saye with men, but we are knowne well ynough vnto God: I trust also, that we are knowne in your consciences. We prayse not oure selues agayne vnto you, but geue you an occasion to reioyse of vs, & ye maye haue to reioyse agaynst them, which reioyse after the outward appearance, and not after the hert. For yf we do to moch, we do it vnto God: yf we kepe measure, we do it for youre sakes. For the loue of Christ constraineth vs, in as moch as we thus iudge, that yf one be deed for all, then are all deed. And therfore dyed he for all, that they which lyue, shulde not hence forth lyue vnto them selues, but vnto him, which dyed for them and rose agayne.

Therfore hence forth knowe we noman after & flesh: and though we haue knowne Christ also after the flesh, yet knowe we him now so noman. Therfore yf any man be in Christ, he is a new creature. Olde thinges are past awaye, & beholde, all are become new. Neuertheles all thinges are off God, which hath reconcyled vs vnto himselfe by Jesus Christ, and hath geuen vs the office to preach the attonement. For God was in Christ, and reconcyled the worlde vnto himselfe, and counceled not ether synnes vnto them, and amonge vs hath he set vp the worde of & attonement. Nowe the are we messangers in the rowme of Christ, enen as though God exhorted by vs. We beseeke you now therfore in Christes steade, that ye be at one with God: for he hath made him which knewe no synne, to be synne for vs, & we by his meanes shulde be that righteousnes, which before God is allowed.

The VI. Chapter.

As helpers therfore exhorte you, that ye receaue not & grace of God in vayne. For he sayeth: I haue herbe the in the tyme accepted, and in the daye of saluacion haue I succoured the. Beholde, now is the accepted tyme, now is the daye of saluacion. Let vs geue no man occasion of euell, that oure office be not euell spoken of: but in all thinges let vs behaue oure selues as the mynisters of God: in much patience, in troubles, in necessities, in anguishes, in stripes, in persequentes, in vprours, in laboures, in watchinges, in fastyn-

ges, in purenesse, in knowlege, in longe sufferinge, in kyndnesse, in the hely goost, in loue vnfaigned, in the woide of the truth, in the power of God, by the armour of righteousness on the right hande and on the lefte, by honoure and dishonoure, by euell repute and good repute: as discouters, & yet true as vnknowne, and yet knowne: as dyenge, and beholde, we lyue: as chastened, and not kyled: as sorrowinge, and yet allwaye mery as poore, & yet make many rich: as hawynge nothinge, & yet possessinge all thinges.

O ye Corinthians, oure mouth is open vnto you, oure hert is made large. We attain no straytnesse on oure behalfe: but where as ye are in straytnesse, that do ye of youre owne hertely meanynge. I speake to you, as to children, that haue life rewarde with vs. Set youre selues therfore at large.

Bear not a straunge yock with the m beleuers. For what fellowshipe hath righteousness with vnrightheousnes? What company hath lighte with darknesse? How agreeth Christ with Belial? Or what parte hath the beleuer with the infydele? How accordeth temple of God with ymages? Ye are the temple of the lynyng God, as sayeth God: I wyl dwell in them, and walke in them, and wyl be their God, & they shalbe my people. Wherfore come out from amonge them, and separate youre selues. (sayeth the LORDE) and touche no vncleane thinge, so wyl I receaue you, & be youre father, & ye shalbe my sonnes and doughters, sayeth & Allmightie LORDE.

The VII. Chapter.

Synge now that we haue soch pynnes (dearly beloved) let vs cleane oure selues from all fylthynges of the flesh and spere, and growe vnto full holynesse in & feare of God. Understode us right. We haue hurte no man, we haue corrupted no man, we haue defrauded no man. I speake not this to cōdanne you, for I haue shewed you before, that ye are in oure hertes, to dye and to lyue with you. I am very bolde toward you, I make moch boost of you, I am filled with comforte, I am excedyng ioyous in all oure tribulacion. For whan we were come into Macedonia, oure flesh had no rest, but we were troubled on every syde: ourt was fightinge, inwarde was feare. Neuertheles God that comforteth the afflicted, comforted vs by the cōmyng of Titus.

Not onely by his cōmyng, but also by the cōsolacion wherwith he was cōforted of you, whan he tolde vs yf desyre, your pyng, yf seruet mynde for me, so & I now reioyse & more. For where as I made you sorry by the letter, it repenteth me not, though I dyd repere. For I se, that the same epistle made you sorry (though it were but for a season). But now I reioyce, not that ye were sorry, but that ye were sorry to repentance. For ye sorrowed godly, so that in nothinge ye were hurte by vs. For godly sorrowe causeth repentance vnto saluacion, not to be repented of: but worldly sorrowe causeth death. Beholde, where as ye haue had godly sorrowe, what diligence hath it wrought in you? See a sufficiet answer, displeasure, feare, desyre, a seruēt mynde, punishment. For in all poyntes ye haue shewed youre selues, that ye are cleare in that matter.

Wherfore though I wrote vnto you, yet is it not done for his cause that dyd hurte, neither for his cause that was hurte, but that youre diligence (which ye haue for vs in the sighte of God) mighte be manifest to you. Therfore are we comforted, because ye are comforted: but excedyngly the more ioyed we, for the ioye of Titus, because his spere was refreshed of you all. I am therfore not now ashamed, though I boasted my selfe vnto him of you: but like as all is true that I haue spokē vnto you, enen so is oure boasting vnto Titus founde true also. And his inwarde affection is more abundaunt toward you, whan he remembreth the obedience of you all, how ye receaued him with feare and treblinge. I reioyse, that I maye be bolde ouer you in all thinges.

The VIII. Chapter.

Do you to wit (brethren) the grace of God, which is geue in the congregacions of Macedonia. For their reioyng was most abundaunt, whan they were tryed by moch trouble: & though they were excedyngly poore, yet haue they geue excedyngly richely, and that in synghleness. For to their power (I beare recorde) yee and beyonde their power, they were wyllinge of their awne acorde, and prayed vs with grea te instaunce, that we wolde receaue their benefite and fellowshipe of the habdaunce that is done for the sayntes: And not as we looked for, but gaue ouer them selues first to the LORDE, and afterwarde vnto vs by & wyl of God, so that we coulde not but desyre Titus, that like as he had begonne afore he wolde enen so accomplish the same benivolence amonge you. Now as ye are rich in all poyntes, in faith and in woide, and in knowlege, and in all diligence, and in youre loue toward vs, enen so se that ye be plenteous also in this benyuolence. This I saye not as commaūdyng, but seynge, ether are so diligent, I proue youre loue also, whether it be perfecte or no. For ye knowe the liberallite of oure LORDE Jesus Christ, which though he be riche, yet for youre sakes he became poore, & ye thow his pouerte mighte be made riche.

And my counsell herin I geue, for this is profitable for you, which haue begonne a yeaer ago, not onely to do, but also to wyl. But now persourme the dede also, that like as there is a ready mynde to wil, there maye be a ready mynde also to persourme the dede: of that which ye haue. For yf there be a wyllinge mynde, it is accepted accordinge to that a man hath, not accordinge to that he hath not. This is not done to the intent, that other shulde haue ease, and ye cōtribun ce, but that it be a lyke. Let youre abundaunce sacref their lacke in this tyme off berch: that their abundaunce also herafter maye supplee youre lacke, that there maye be equallite. As it is wyrtten: He & gathered moch, had not the more: and he that gathered little, wanted nothinge. That es be vnto God, which put in the hert of Titus, the same diligence toward you. For he accepted the request in dede, yee he was rather so well wyllynge, that of his awne acorde, he came vnto you.

We haue sent with him that brother, whose prayse is in the Gospell thow out all the congregacions. Not onely that, but he is chosen also of the congregacions, to be a felowe with vs in oure iourney, for this benyuolence that is mynistrd by vs vnto the prayse of the LORDE, and to steepe vp youre prompte mynde, and to bewarre, lest any mā reporte euell of vs because of this plenteousnes, which is mynistrd by vs: and therfore remake we promission for honest thinges, not onely before the LORDE, but also before men.

We haue sent with them also a brother of oures, whom we haue oft proued diligent in many thinges, but now moch more diligent. And this haue we done in grea te hope toward you, whether it be for Titus sake (which is my felowe and helper amonge you) or for oure brethren (which are Apostles of the congregacions, & the prayse of Christ.) Shewe now the profe off youre loue and off oure boasting of you, vnto these, and opely in the sighte of the congregacions.

Whe handreachinge vnto y sayn-tes, it is no nede for me to wyte vnto you: for I knowe youre redynesse of mynde, wherof I boast my selfe amonge them of Macedonia, and saye: Achaia was ready a yere agoo. And youre seruente hath provoked many. Neuertheles yet haue we sent these brethren, lest our reioysinge
ouer you shulde be in vayne in this behalfe, that ye mighte be ready, as I have reported of you: lest whan they of Macedonia come with me, and fynde you vnprepared, we (I wyl not saye ye) shulde be ashamed in this presumpcion of boasting.

Wherfore I thoughte it necessary to ex-hoite the brethren, to come before hande vnto you, for to prepare this blessinge promy-sed afore, that it mighte be ready, so that it be a blessinge, and not a defraudinge. This I thynke: that he which soweth lile, shal
reape lile also: and he which soweth plentifully, shal likewise reape plentifully, every one acordinge as he hath purposed in his hert, not grudgingly, or of compulsion. For God loveth a chearfull gener. God is able to make you riche in all grace, & ye in all thinges hanyng sufficent to the vtremost, maye be riche to all maner of good workes. As it is wrytten: he hath sparfed abroad & geue to y poore, his righteousnes remayneth for euer.

Whe that geueth sode vnto the poorer, shal multiplye youre sode, and shal multi-plye youre sode, and increase the frutes of y righteousnes, that in all thinges ye maye be made riche vnto all singleness, which causeth thorow vs, thanksgyvinge vnto God.
For the handreachinge of this colleccion not onely supplie the nede off the sayntes, but also is abundaunt herin, that for this laudable mynistracion many mighte geue thankes vnto God, and prayse God for y obedient professyng of the Gospell of Christ, &
for y singleness in distributyng vnto the,
and to all men, and in their prayer for you,
which longe after you, for the abundaunt grace of God in you. Thankes be vnto God for his vnspokeable gifte.

The X. Chapter.

Paule my selfe beseeke you by the mekenesse and softnesse off Christ, which whan I am present amonge you, am of small reputacion, but am bolde towarde you beyng absent. I beseeke you that I nede not be bolde whan I am present, & to vse y boldnesse wherewith I am supposed to be bolde, agaynst some, which repete vs as though we walke after y flesh: for though we walke in the flesh, yet fighte we not after a fleshy maner. For the wapens of our warre are not fleshy, but mightie before God to cast downe strong holdes, wherewith

we overthrowe ymaginacions, & every hye thinge & exalteth it selfe agaynst the knowlege of God, and bringe in to captivite all vnderstandinge to the obedience of Christ, & are ready to take vengeance on all disobedience, whan youre obediēce is fulfilled. So ke ye on thinges after y vter apparell:

When any man trust of himselfe y he is Christes, let him thinke this also by himselfe, & like as he is Christes, eue so are we Christes also. And though I shulde boast my selfe somewhat more of our auctorite, which y LORDE hath geue vs to edifye and not to destroye, it shal denot be to my shame. This I saye, lest I shulde seme, as though I wen-te aboute to make you afraied with letters.
For the pistles (saye they) are sore and stron-ge, but his bodely presence is weake, and his speache rude. Let him y is soche, thinke on this wys: that as we are in worde by letters whan we are absente, soch are we also in dede whan we are present. For we darre not reken a comparacion oure selues, vnto some that praise them selues: Neuertheles whyle they measre them selues by them selues, and holde onely of them selues, they vnderstande not ainge.

Wherfore we wil not boast of selues aboumeasre, but onely acordinge to the meas-re of the rule, wherewith God hath distribued vnto vs the measure to reach euen vnto
you. For we stretch not of selues to farre as though we had not reached vnto you. For euen vnto you haue we come with the Gos-pell of Christ, and boast not oure selues out of measre in other mens laboures: Yee and we hope whan youre faith is increased in you, that we wil come farther (acordinge to oure measre) and preach the Gospell vnto them that dwell beyonde you, and not to re-ioyse in that, which is prepared with another mans measure.

The XI. Chapter.

Let him that reioyseth, reioyse in the LORDE: for he y prayseth him selfe
se, is not allowed, but he whos y LORDE prayseth. Wolde God ye coulde suffime a lile in my foolishnes, yet do ye forbere me. For I am gelous ouer you & godly gelousy. For I haue married you vnto one ma-to bringe a chaste virgin vnto Christ. But I feare, lest as y serpent begyled Eue & hasutteltie, eue so y wyttes shulde be corrupte from the singleness that is in Christ. For ys he that cometh vnto you, preach another Jesus, whom we haue not preached, or ys he receaue another spere, & ye haue not receaued, or another Gospell which ye haue not accepted, ye might right well haue bene content. For I suppose that I am no lesse than the hye Apostles are. And though I be rude in speakeyng, yet am I not rude in knowlege. Howbeit amonge you I am knowne to be vtremost. Or dyd I synne therin because I submytted my selfe, that ye mighte be exalted?

For I preached vnto you the Gospell of God, freely, and robbed other congregacions,
and toke wages of the, to preach vnto you.
And whan I was present with you, and had nede, I was grauous to no man: for y
which was lackyng vnto me, the brethren which came fro Macedonia, suppleed. And in all thinges I kepte myselfe so, & I shulde not be greuous to you, & so wyl I kepe my selfe. As surely as the trouth of Christ is in me, this reioysinge shal not be taken frome in the regions of Achaia. Wherfore because I shulde not loue you? God knoweth. Ne-uertheles what I do and wyl do, that do I to cut awaye occasion, from the which seke occasion, that they mighte boast the selues to be like vnto vs. For soch false Apostles & disceatfull workes fashion them selues like vnto the Apostles of Christ. And that is no maruell: for Sathan himselfe is chaunged into y fashion of an angell of lichte. Therfore is it no greare thinge, though his my-nistres fashion them selues as though they were the preachers of righteousness, whose ende shal be acordinge to their dedes.

I saye agayne, lest any man thynke that I am folish: or els take me euen now as a fo-le, & I maye boast my selfe a lile also. That I speake now, that speake I not after the LORDE, but as it were in foolishnes, whyle
we are now come to boasting: Seyng that many boast them selues after y flesh, I wil boast my selfe also. For ye suffre folles gladly, in so much as ye youre selues are wys. For ye suffre euen ys a man bringe you in to bondage, ys a man put you to dishonesty, ys a man take ought fro you, ys a man exalte himselfe ouer you, ys a man smyte you on the face. I speake concernyng rebuke, as though we were weake.

Wherin so euer now any man darre be bolde (I speake folishly) therin darre I be bolde also. They are Hebrewes, so am I. They are Israelites, euen so am I. They are the side of Abraham, so am I. They are the my-nistres of Christ (I speake as a folle) I am more in laboures more abundaunt, in strypes aboue measure, in perismentes more plenteously, in death oft. Of the Jewes recea-ued I hve tymes fortye strypes, one lesse.

Thryse was I beaten with rodde. I was once stoned. I suffred thryse shypwracke:
nighte and daye haue I bene in the depe of the see: I haue oft iourneyed: I haue bene oft in perils of waters, in perils amonge murtherers, in perils amonge the Jewes, in perils amonge the heythen, in perils in cities, in perils in the wylderners, in perils vpon the See, in perils amonge false brethren, in laboure & trauayle, in moch watchinges, in hunger and thyrst, in moch fastinges
in colde and nakednesse: Besyde those thyn-ges which are outwarde, namely my daylie combraunce, my daylie care for all congrega-cions. Who is weake, and I be not weake?
Who is offended, & I burne not? If I must nedes make my boast, I wil boast my selfe of myne infirmyte. God y father of oure LOR-DE Jesus Christ, which is blessed for euer, knoweth that I lyen not. At Damascon the gouernoure of y people vnder kynge Are-tas, kepte y cite of the Damascenes, & wol-de haue taken me, and at a wyndowe was I let downe in a basket thorow the wall, &
so escaped his handes.

The XII. Chapter.

It profiteth me nothinge (no doute) to boaste. Neuertheles I wil come to y visions and reuelacions off the LORDE. I knowe a man in Christ aboue fourtene yeres agoo (whether he was in y body, I can not tell: or whether he was out of the body, I can not tell, God knoweth.)
the same was taken vp in to the thirde heauen: and I knowe the same man (whether he was in y body or out of the body, I can not tell, God knoweth) how that he was taken vp in to Paradise, and herde wordes not to be spoken, which no man can vter. Here of wyl I boast, but of my selfe wyl I make no boast, excepte it be of myne infirmytes.
And though I wolde boast my selfe, I dyd
not foolishly, for I wolde saye the trouth.
But I refrayne my selfe, lest any man shulde thinke of me aboue y he seych in me, or heareth of me. And lest I shulde exalte my selfe out of measre because of the hye reuela-cions, there is a warnyng geuen vnto my flesh, euen y messaunger of Satan, to buffet
me, that I shulde not exalte my selfe out off
measre: for y which I besoughte the LOR-

DE thyste, that it mighte departe fro me. And he sayde vnto me: My grace is sufficient for the. For my strength is made perfecte thorow weaknes. Very glad therfore wil I reioyse in my weaknes, that the strength of Christ may dwell in me.

B Therefore am I content in infirmities, in rebukes, in necessities, in persecutions, in anguishes for Christes sake: for whā I am weake, thē am I stronge. I am become a fo-le i boasting my selfe: & he haue compelled me. For I oughte to be comended of you, in so moch as I am in nothings inferior to y^e hye Apostles. Though I be nothings, yet are y^e tokens of an Apostle wrought amonge you, with all pacifice, with signes, & with wordes & with mightie dedes. For what is it, wherein ye are inferiours to the other congregacions: excepte it be y^e I haue not bene greuous vnto you. Forgeue me this wronge. Beholde, I am ready the thirde tyme to come vnto you, and wyl not be chargeable vnto you. For I like not youres, but you. For y^e childre ought not to gather treasure for the elders, but the elders for the childen. I wil very gladly bestowe, and wyl be bestowed for youre soules: though y^e more I loue you, the lesse am I loued: agayne.

C But let it be so that I grieved you not, ne nertheles for so moch as I was craftey, I roke you wth gyle. Haue I defrauded you by any of the, whō I sent vnto you: I desired Titus, & with him I sent a brother: dyd Titus defraude you? Haue we not walked in one spere: Were we not in like foote steps: Agayne, thynke ye y^e we excuse oure selues? We speake in Christ in the sighte of God. But all this (dearly beloved) is done for y^e edifyenge. For I feare, lest whan I come, I shal not fynde you such as I wolde: and lest ye shal fynde me such as ye wolde not: lest there be amonge you, debates, envyenges, wratches, stryuynges, bacbytinges, whyssperinges, swellinges, vprours: lest whan I come agayne, God bringe melowe amonge you & lest I be constrained to bewaile many of the y^e haue synned before, & haue not repented ouer y^e vncleynesse and whordome, and wantonnes, which they haue comytted.

The XIII. Chapter.

Now come I the thirde tyme vnto you. In the mouth of two or thre witnesses shal every matter be established. I haue tolde you before, & tell you before as present y^e seconde tyme, & wyte it now beyng absent, vnto the which in tyme passed haue synned, & to all other: yf I come agayne, I wil not spare, seynge that ye like experiece of him, which speaketh in me, euen Christ, which amonge you is not weak, but is mightie amonge you. And though he was crucified in weaknes, yet lyueth he in the power of God. And though we are weake in him, yet lyue we with him in the power of God amonge you.

Prooue youre selues, whether ye are in the faith, examē youre selues. Or knowe ye not y^e selues, y^e Jesus Christ is in you? Excepte ye be cast awayes. But I trust ye knowe, y^e we are not cast awayes. I desire before God y^e ye do no euill: not y^e we shulde seme comendable, but y^e ye shulde do y^e which is good, & let vs be as cast awayes. For we maye do nothings agaynst y^e trueth, but for y^e trueth. We are glad whan we are weake, & ye stronger: & the same alio we wysshe for, namely y^e perfectnesse. Therefore wyte I these thinges beyng absent, lest whā I am present, I shal de vse sharpnesse, acordyng to the power, which the LORDE hath geue me to edifye, and not to destroye.

Synally brethien, reioyse, be perfecte, & forte y^e selues, be of one mynde, be peaceable, and the God of loue and peace shal be with you. Salute one another with an holy kysse. All the sayntes salute you. The grace of oure LORDE Jesus Christ, & the loue of God, and the fellowship of y^e holy goost be with you all. Amen.

The seconde Epistle to the Corinthians.
Sent from Phillippus in Macedonia, by Titus and Lucas.

The Epistle of
the Apostle S. Paul
to the Galathians.

The summe of this Epistle.

- Chap. I. Paul rebuketh them, because they were fallen awaye from the Gospell, sheweth his owne conuersion, magnifyeth his office as apostleshippe, and declareth himselfe to be equall with the hye apostles.
- Chap. II. He withstandeth Peter in the face, and proueth that the lawe and circumcisions are not necessary to saluacion.
- Chap. III. He rebuketh the pasted fastnes of the Galathians, shewing the vnperfectnes of the lawe, and declareth neuertheles that it was not geuen for naught.
- Chap. IIII. Paul sheweth that thorow Christ we be deliuered from the lawe, and rebuketh the vnhankfullnesse of the Galathians.
- Chap. V. He laboureth to drawe them awaye from circumcision, sheweth them the banayl betwixte the spere and the flesh, and the fruites of them both.
- Chap. VI. He exhorteth them to brotherly loue, and one to beare with another. In the laste warreth them to beware of circumcision.

The Epistle of
the Apostle S. Paul
to the Galathians.

The first Chapter.

Paul an Apostle (not of men, nor by mā, but by Jesus Christ & by God the father, which ray-sed him vp fro y^e dead) & all the brethre which are wth me. Vnto the congregacions in Galacia.

Grace be with you, and peace fro God the father, and oure LORDE Jesus Christ, which gaue him selfe for oure synnes, that he mighte deliuer vs from this present euill world, acordyng to the wyll of God oure father, to whom be prayse foreuer and euer. Amen.

I marvell y^e ye are so soone turned (from him that called you in the grace of Christ) vnto another Gospell: which is nothings els, but that there besome, which trouble you, and intende to peruerter the Gospell of Christ.

Neuertheles though we oure selues, or an angell from heauē preach vnto you any other Gospell, thē y^e which we haue preached vnto you, the same be acursed. As we haue sayde afore, so saye we now agayne: yf any mā preach vnto you any other thinge, thē y^e ye haue receaued, y^e same be acursed. Preach I men now or God: Or go I aboute to please men: yf I shulde yet please men, I were not the seruaunt of Christ.

But I certifie you brethien, y^e the Gospell which is preached of me, is not of men. For I nether receaued it ner lerned it of mā, but by the reuelacion of Jesus Christ. For ye haue herde of my conuersacion afore tyme in the Jeweshippe, how that beyōde measure I persecuted the congregacion of God, and spoyled it, and preyayled in the Jewe shippe aboute many of my companions in my nacion, & was a moch more feruent man teyner of the tradicions of the fathers.

But whan it pleased God which separated me from my mothers wombe, and called me by his grace, for to declare his sonne in me, that I shulde preach him thorow the Gospell amonge the heythen, immediatly I commened not of the matter with flesh and bloude: nether came I to Jerusalem vnto them which were Apostles before me: but wente my wayes in to Arabia, and came agayne to Damascon. Then after thre yea-re I came to Jerusalem to se Peter, and abode with him fyftene dayes. As for the other Apostles, I sawe none of them, saue James the LORDES brother.

The thinges that I wyte vnto you, beholde, God knoweth, I lye not. After that wente I into the coastes of Syria and Celsia: but of face I was vnkowne to y^e Christen congregacions in Jewye. Neuertheles they had herde onely, that he that persecuted vs in tyme passed, preacheth now y^e faith which some tyme he destroyed: and they praysed God in me.

The II. Chapter.

Then after foure yea-res, I wente
te vp agayne to Jerusalem with Barnabas, and toke Titus with me also.
But I wente vp by reuelacion, and commend with the of y^e Gospell, which I preach amonge the heythen: but specially with the
which were in reputacion, lest I shulde runne or had runne in vayne. But Titus which was also with me, was not compelled to be circiseyde, though he was a Greke: and that because of certayne incommers bey-ng false brethre, which came in amonge other,
to spye out oure libertye, which we haue in Christ Jesus, that they mighte bringe vs
in to bondage: To whom we gaue no row-me, no not for the space of an houre, as concernyng to be broughte in to subieccion: y^e
the trueth of the Gospell mighte comynue with you.

As for the that seemed to be greute, what they were in tyme passed, it maketh no matter to me. For God loketh not on the out-warde appareance of men. Neuertheles they which seemed greute, taught me nothin-ge: but contrary wyse, whan they sawe that the Gospell ouer the vncircumcision was es-mytted vnto me, as y^e Gospell ouer y^e circicision was commytted vnto Peter. For he y^e was mightie with Peter to the Apostle.

shippe over the circumcision, the same was mightie with me also amonge the heythen) they perceaved the grace that was geuen vnto me.

James and Cephas and Iohn, which seemed to be pillars, gaue me and Barnabas & righte handes, and agreed with vs, that we shulde preach amonge the heythe, and they amonge the Jewes: onely that we shulde remember the poore, which thinge also I was diligent to do.

But whā Peter was come to Antioche, I withstode him in & face: for he was worthy to be blamed. For afore there came certayne from James, he ate with the heythe. But whā they were come, he withdrew and separated himselfe, fearinge the which were of the circumcision. And the other Jewes dyssembled with him likewise, in so much & Barnabas was brought in to their simulation also. But whā I sawe that they waltered not right after & tructh of the Gospell, I sayde vnto Peter openly before all: If thou beynge a Jewe, lyuest after the maner of the Gentyles, and not as do the Jewes, why causest thou the Gentyles then to lyue as do the Jewes?

C Though we be Jewes by nature, and not synners of the Gentyles, yet (in so much as we knowe, that a man is not made righteous by the dedes off the lawe, but by the faith on Jesus Christ) we have believed also on Jesus Christ, & we might be made righteous by the faith of Christ, and not by the dedes of the lawe, because that by the dedes of the lawe no fleshy shal be iustified.

If re then which seke to be made righteous by chust, shulde be yee founde synners & felues, is not Christ then the mynister of synne? God forbid. For yf I buyde agayne & which I have destroyed, then make I my selfe a trespasser. But I knowe the lawe amended vnto the lawe, that I might lyue vnto God. I am crucified with Christ, yet do I lyue: neuerthelesse now not I, but Christ lyueth in me. For yf I lyue in the faith of yf sonne of God which loved me, and gaue himselfe for me. I cast not awaye the grace of God. For yf righteousness come by the lawe, then dyed Christ in vayne.

The III. Chapter.

V Ye folishe Galathians, who hath bewitched you, that ye shulde not beleue the tructh? To whō Jesus Christ was describ'd before the eyes and amonge you crucified. This onely wolde I lerne of you: Receaued ye the sperte by the dedes of the lawe, or by the preachinge of the faith? Are ye so vnwyse? Ye beganne in the sperte, wolde ye ende now the in the flesh? Have ye suffred so much in vayne? If it beels in vayne, he that getteth you the sperte, and doth soch greate actes amonge you, doth he it the row the dedes of the lawe, or by & preachinge of the faith? Euen as Abrahā belongeth to God, and it was counted vnto him for righteousness. Thus ye knowe, that they which are of faith, are Abrahams children.

The scripture sawe afore hande, that God iustificth the heythen thorow faith. The fore shewed it glad tydings afore vnto Abraham, and sayde: In the shal all the heythen be blessed. So then they which be of faith, are blessed with faithfull Abraham. For as many as go aboute with the works of the lawe, are vnder & curse: for it is wrytē: Cursed be every man, which cōtynueth not in all thinges that are wrytē in the booke of the lawe, to do them. That no man is iustified by the lawe in the sighte of God, is curyd: For & Iust shal lyue by his faith. The lawe is not of faith, but the mēche doth & same, shal lyue therein. But Christ hath deliuered vs from & curse of the lawe, whā he became a curse for vs. (For it is wrytē: Cursed is every man that hangeth on tre) & the blessinge of Abraham might come on the Gentyles in Christ Jesu, and we might receaue & promysed sperte, thorow faith.

Brethren, I wil speake after the maner of men. Though it be but a mā's Testamēt, yet no man despyseth it, or addeth eny thinge thereto, whā it is confirmed. To Abraham and his sēde were the promyses made. He sayeth not: In the sedes, as in many, but in thy sēde, as in one, which is Christ. This Testamēt (I saye) which afore was confirmed to Christ warde, is not disannulled (that the promes shulde be made of none effect) by the lawe which was geuen beyonde foure hundred & thirtie yeres thereafter. For yf the enheritaunce be gotten by the lawe, then is it not geuen by promes. But God gaue it frely vnto Abraham by promes.

Wherfore the serueth the lawe? It was added because of transgression, tyll the sēde came, to the which the promes was made. And it was geuen of angels, by the hande of the mediator. A mediator is not a mediator of one onely, but God is one.

Is the lawe then agaynst the promyses of God? God forbid. Howbeit yf there had bene geuen a lawe which coulde haue geue life, the no doute righteousness shulde come of the lawe. But yf scripture hath shut vp all vnder synne, that & promes shulde come by the faith on Jesus Christ, geue vnto the that beleue. Before faith came, we were kepte and shut vp vnder the lawe, vnto the faith which shulde afterwarde be declared. Thus yf lawe was & scolemaster vnto Christ, that we might be made righteous by faith. But now that faith is come, we are no more vnder the scolemaster. For ye all are the children of God by the faith in Christ Jesu. For as many of you as are baptysed, haue put on Christ. There is nether Jewe ner Gien here is nether bōde ner fre: here is nether man ner woman, for ye are all one in Christ Jesu. Yf ye be Christes, the are ye Abrahams sēde and heyres acordinge to the promes.

The III. Chapter.

Whē I saye: As longe as the heyre is a childe, there is no difference betwene him and a seruant, though he be lorde of all yf goodes: but he is vnder tutors and governors, vntill the tyme appoynted of the father. Euen so we also, whā we were children, were in bondage vnder the outwarde tradicions. But whā the tyme was fulfilled, God sent his sonne, borne of a woman, and put vnder the lawe, to redeme them which were vnder the lawe, that we might receaue yf childshippe. For so much the as ye are children, God hath sent the sperte of his sonne in to oure hertes, which cryeth: Abba, deare father. Wherfore now, thou art not a seruant, but a sonne. Yf thou be a sonne, then art thou the heyre of God thorow Christ. Notwithstandinge whā ye knewe not God, ye dyd seruyce vnto them, which by nature are no Goddes. But now synge ye knowe God (ye rather are knowne off God) how is it that ye turne you backe agayne vnto the weake and beggerly tradicions, wher vnto ye desyre agayne a fith to be in bondage?

Ye obserue dayes and nethes, and tymes and yeres. I am in feare of you, lest I haue bestowed labour on you in vayne. The the I beseeke you, be ye as I am, for I am as ye are. Ye haue not hurte me at all. For ye knowe how that in weaknes after yf flesh I preached yf Gospell vnto you at the first: and my tentacion which I suffred after the flesh, ye despyed not, nether abhorred, but receaued me as an angell of God, yee euen as Christ Jesu. How happy were yehen? For I beare you recorde, that yf it had bene possible, ye had plucked out youre owne eyes, and geue them vnto me. Am I therefore become yf enemy, because I tell you yf tructh?

They are gelous ouer you amysse. See they wolde make you to fall backe, that ye might be seruet to the warde. It is good to be seruent, so yf it be allwaye in a good thinge, and not onely whā I am present w you. My litle children (of whom I trauayle in byrth agayne, vntill Christ be fashioned in you) I wolde I were w you now, and coulde change my voyce, for I stode i doute of you.

Tell me ye that wylbe vnder the lawe, haue ye not herde the lawe? For it is wrytten, that Abraham had two sonnes: the one by a bonde mayde, the other by a fre woman. As for him that was of the bōde mayde, he was borne after yf flesh: but he which was of the fre woman, was borne by promes. These wordes betoken somewhat. For these women are the two Testaments: The one from the mount Sina, that gendireth vnto bondage, which is Agar. For Agar is called in Arabia yf mount Sina, and reacheth vnto Jerusalem which now is, and is in bondage with hir children.

But Jerusalem that is aboue, is the fre woman, which is the mother of vs all. For it is wrytē: Reioyse thou barren, that bearest no child: breake forth and crye thou yf trauaylest not, for the desolate hath many mo childre, then she which hath an husband. As for vs (brethren) we are the children of Isaac acordinge to the promes.

But like as at that tyme, he that was borne after the flesh, persecuted him yf was borne after the sperte, euen so is it now also. But what sayeth the scripture? Put awaye the bonde mayden and hir sonne: for the sonne of yf bondmayde shal not be heyre with yf sonne of the fre woman. So now brethren, we are not children of the bonde mayde, but of the fre woman.

The V. Chapter.

Sonde fast therfore in the libertye wherewith Christ hath made vs fre, and be not wrapped agayne in the yocke off bondage. Beholde, I Paul say vnto you: Yf ye be circumcysed, Christ profiteth you nothinge at all. I testifie agayne vnto every man which is circumcysed that he is bounde to kepe the whole lawe. Ye are gone quyte from Christ, as many as ye as wylbe made righteous by the lawe and are fallen from grace. But we wa in the sperte off hope, to be made righteous by faith. For in Christ I am not circumcision eny thinge worth ner vncircumcision, but faith which by loue is mighty in operacion. Let anne well, who was a let vnto you, that ye shulde not obeye the trueth? Soch counsell is not of him that hath cailed you. A litle leuen sowreth the whole lombe of dowe.

B I haue trust towarde you in J LORDE, that ye wylbe none otherwys mynded. But he that troubleth you, shal beare his iudgment, what so euer he be. Brethren yf I yet preach circumcision, why do I suffre persecution? then had the slander off the crosse ceased. Wolde God they were rote out fro amonge you, which trouble you. But brethren, ye are called vnto liberty, onely let not youre libertie be an occasion vnto the flesh, but by loue serue one another. For all the lawe is fulfilled in one worde, namely in this: so ne thy neighbour as thy selfe. But yf ye bite and deuoure one another, take hede, that ye be not consumed one of another.

C I saye: Walke in the spire, and so shal ye not fulfill the lustes off the fleshe. For the flesh lusteth agaynst the spire, and the spire agaynst the flesh. These are contrary one to the other, so that ye can not do that which ye wolde: But and yf ye be led of the spire, then are ye not vnder the lawe. The dedes of J flesh are manifest, which are these: Adoutrye, whordome, vnclenes, wantonnes, Idolatrye, witchcraft, hatred, variance, zeale, wrath, stryfe, sedicion, sectes, envye, murthur, dronkenness, glotony, and soch like: of the which I tell you before, as I haue tolde you in tyme past, that they which commytte soch, shal not inheret the kyngdome of God. But the frute of the spire, is loue, ioye, peace, longe sufferinge, gentleness, goodnesse, faithfulness, mekenesse, temperance. Agaynst soch is not J lawe: But they that are Christes, haue crucified their flesh, with the lustes and desyres.

The VI. Chapter.

A S we lyue in the spire, let vs walke also in the spire. Let vs not be vayne glorious, prouokinge one another, and envyege another. Brethren, yf eny man be overtaken of a faute, ye which are spirituall, enforme him with a meke spire: and visdine thine owne selfe, that thou also be tempted. Beare ye one anothers burden, and so shal ye fulfill the lawe of Christ. yf eny man thinke himselfe to be somwhat in wede he is nothinge) the selfe. Let every man prone owne word, and the shal he haue reioysinge in his awne selfe, and not in another. For every one shal beare his owne burden.

But let him that is taught with the worde, mynister in all good thinges, vnto him that teacheth him. Be not diseased, God wil not be mocked. For what soeuer a man soweth, that shal he reape. He that soweth vpon the flesh, shal of the flesh reape destruction: But he that soweth vpon J spire, shal of the spire reape life everlastinge. Let vs not be weery of well doynge: for whā the tyme is come, we shal reape without ceassing. Whyle we haue tyme therfore, let vs do good vnto all men: but specially vnto the which are of J housholde of faith.

Beholde, with how many wordes I haue wrytten vnto you with myne awne hande. They that wil please in the flesh, constrain you to be circuncysed, onely lest they shal be persecuted with the crosse of Christ. For euē they them selues which are circuncysed, kepe not the lawe, but wolde haue you circuncysed, that they mighte reioyse in your flesh. But God forbyd that I shulde reioyse, save onely in the crosse of oure LORDE Jesus Christ, wherby the worlde is crucified vnto me, and I vnto the worlde. For J Christ Jesu nether circumcision avayleth in thinge, ner vncircumcision, but a new creature. And as many as walke acordyng to this rule, peace and mercy be vpon the, and vpon Jrael of God. From hence forth let no man put me to busynesse, for I beare in my body the markes of the LORDE Jesu Christ, the grace of oure LORDE Jesu Christ be with youre spire Amen.

The Epistle of
the Apostle S. Paul
to the Ephesians.

The summe of this Epistle.

Chap. I. The everlastinge ordinance and election of God in sayunge all men thow Christ Jesus his sonne. We are ordened vnto good workes. The dominion of Christ.
Chap. II. Paul sheweth them what manner of people they were before their conversion, and what they are now in Christ.
Chap. III. He sheweth the cause of his prisonment, desyryng them not to saynte because of his trouble, and prayeth God to make the steadfast in his spire.

Chap. III. He exhorteth them vnto mekenesse, longe sufferinge, vnto loue and peace, euery one to serue and edifie another with the gifte that God hath geue him, to beware of straunge doctrine, to laye asyde the olde conuersacion of greedy lustes, and to walke in a new life.

Chap. V. He exhorteth them vnto loue, warreth them to beware of vnclennes, couetousnesse, foolish talkyng and false doctryne: to be circumspecte, to avoyde dronkennesse, to reioyse and to be thankfull towarde God, to submytt the selues one to another, to teacheth how women shulde obeye their husbands, and how longynly men ought to intreate their wyues.

Chap. VI. How children shulde behaue them selues towarde their fathers and mothers: Li seruautes towarde their masters: Magystrates towarde their seruantes. An exhortacion to the spirituall battayll, and what weapons Christen men shalde fight withall.

The Epistle of
the Apostle S. Paul
to the Ephesians.

The first Chapter.

Paul an Apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God. To J sayntes which are Ephesus, to the that beleue on Jesus Christ.

Grace be with you and peace from God oure father, and fro the LORDE Jesus Christ.

Blessed be God the father of oure LORDE Jesus Christ, which hath blessed vs w all manner of spirituall blessinge in heauynly thynges by Christ: acordyng as he had chosen vs by him, or enert the foundation of the worlde was layed, that we shulde be holy and without blame before him in loue, and ordeyned vs before, to receaue vs as children thow Jesus Christ, acordyng to the pleasure of his will, vnto the prayse of the glory of his grace, wherby he hath made vs accepted in the Beloved, in whom we haue redemption thow his bloude (namely) the forgiveness of synnes, acordyng to J riches of his grace, which he hath shed vpon vs abundantly in all wysdome and prouidence: and hath opened vnto vs the mystery of his wil acordyng to his pleasure, which he had purposed in himselfe, J it shulde be preached: whā the tyme was fullcome, that all thinges shulde be gathered together by Christ, both the thinges which are in heauen, and also the thinges that are vpon earth, euen by him; by whom also we are come to the inheritance: we that were therto predestinate before, acordyng to J purpose of him, which worketh all thinges after J counsell of his owne wyll, that we mighte be to the prayse of his glory, euen we that before beleued on Christ, on whō also ye beleued, after that ye herde the woide of trueth, namely J Gospell of youre saluacion: wherin when ye beleued, ye were sealed with the holy spire of promys, which is the earnest of oure inheritance to oure redemption, that we mighte be his owne, to the prayse off his glory.

Wherefore I also, (in so moch as I haue herde of the faith which ye haue in J LORDE Jesu, and of youre loue vnto all J sayntes) ceasse not to geue thankes for you, and make mencion of you in my prayers, that J God of oure LORDE Jesus Christ, the father of glory maye geue vnto you the spire of wysdome, and open vnto you the knowlege of himselfe, and lighten the eyes of youre vnderstandinge, that ye maye knowe what is the hope of youre callinge, and what the riches of his glorious inheritance is vpon the sayntes, and what is the exceeding greatnesse of his power towarde vs, which beleue acordyng to J workinge of his mightie power, which he wroughte in Christ, whan he raysed him vp fro the deed, and set him on his righte hande i heauynly thinges, aboue all rule, power, and mighte, and dominacion, and aboue all that maye be named, not onely in this worlde, but also in J worlde to come. And hath put all thinges vnder his feete, and hath made him aboue all thinges: the heade of the congregacion, which is his body, and the fulnesse of him that filleth all in all.

The II. Chapter.

And quyetened you also, whan ye were deed thowow trespasses and synnes, in the which in tyme past ye walked, acordyng to the course off this worlde,

Col. 1.2

and after the pryncce that ruleth in the ayre namely, after y^e spirete, which now worketh in the children of vnbeleue. amonge whom we also had oure conuersacion in tyme past in the lustes of oure flesh, and dyd the wyll of the flesh and of the mynde, and were naturally the children of wrath, euen as well as other.

Eph. 1.7
Act. 1.5

But God which is riche in mercy thoro his greates loue wherewith he loued vs eue whā we were deed in synnes, hath quyetened vs in Christ. for by grace are ye saued) and hath rayed vs vp with him, and set vs with him in heauely thinges thoro Christ Jesus, & in tymes to come he might shewe the exceeding riches of his grace, in kyndnesse to vs warde in Christ Jesu. for by grace are ye saued thoro faith, and that not of youre selues. for it is y^e gifte of God, not of woikes, lest any mā shulde boast him selfe. for we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesu. vnto good woikes, to y^e which God ordeyned vs before, that we shulde walke in them.

Tit. 1.2

Wherfore remembre, that ye (which afore tyme were Geneyles after the flesh, and were called vncircumcision, of the that are called circumcicion after the flesh, which circumcicion is made with the hande) that ye at the same tyme were without Christ, and reputed aleaunte from the comen welch of Israel, and were straungers from the Testaments of promes, therfore had ye no hope, and were without God in this worlde. But now ye that be in Christ Jesu, and afore tyme were farre of, are now made nye by the bloude of Christ.

Phil. 1.2
Col. 1.2

for he is o^r peace, which of both hath made one, and hath broken downe the wall, that was a stoppe betwene vs, and hath also thoro his flesh put awaye the cause off hatred (namely the lawe of the commaundmentes contayned in the lawe wyrtten) that of wayne he might create one new man in him selfe, and make peace, and to reconcy le both vnto God in one body thoro the crosse, and so he slewe y^e hatred thoro his owne selfe, and came and preached peace in the Gospell, vnto you which were as farre of, and to the that were nye. for thoro him we both haue inraunce in one spirete vnto the father.

Eph. 2.14
Col. 1.14

Now therfore ye are nomore gestes and straungers, but cicesins with the sayntes, & of the household of God, buylded vpon y^e foundation of y^e Apostles and prophetes. where Jesus Christus is y^e heade cornerstone

Cor. 1.2
Pec. 1.2

in whom euery buyldinge coupled together groweth to an holy temple in the LORDE in whom ye also are buylded together, in an habitation of God in the spirete.

The III. Chapter.

For this cause I Paul am a prisoner of Jesus Christ for you heren, accordinge as ye haue herde of y^e offyce of the grace of God which is geuen to you warde. for by y^e reuelacion was the mystery shewed vnto me, as I wrote abou in fewe wordes: wherby whan ye reade it, maye perceauemyne vnderstondynge in y^e mystery of Christ, which (mystery) in tyme past was not opened vnto the childre of as it is now declared to his holy Apostles and prophetes by the spirete: namely, the the heythen shulde be inheritous also, and of the same body, and partakers of his pimes in Christ by the Gospell, wherof I am made a mynister accordinge to the gifte of the grace of God, which is geuen me accordinge to the workynge of his power.

Vnto me y^e the lest of all sayntes is the grace geuen, that I shulde preach amonge the heythen y^e vnsearcheable riches of Christ, and to make all men se, what is the felishpe of the mystery, which frō the begynnyng of the worlde hath bene hyd in God, which made all thinges thoro Jesus Christ to the intent that now vnto the rulers and powers in heauē might be knowne by the congregacion the manifolde wysdome of God, accordinge to y^e eternall purpose, which he hath shewed in Christ Jesu oure LORDE by whom we haue boldnesse and inraunce in all confidēce thoro faith on him. Wherfore I desyre that ye saynte not because of my tribulacions, & I suffre for you, which is youre prayse.

For this cause I bowe my knees vnto the father of oure LORDE Jesus Christ, which is the true father, ouer all that is called father in heauen and in earth, that he graunte you (accordinge to y^e riches of his glory) be strengthened with power by his spirete in y^e inwarde mā, that Christ maye dwell in you re heres by faith, that ye beyng erored and grounded in loue, maye be able to comprehend with all sayntes, what is the breadth, and the length, and the depth, and the height, and to knowe the loue of Christ, which low yet passeth all knowlege: that ye maye be fylled with all maner of fulnesse of God.

Vnto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly, aboue all that we are or v-derstonde (accordinge to y^e power that worketh in vs) be prayse in the congregacion, which is in Christ Jesu, at all tymes for ever and ever, Amen.

The III. Chapter.

Therfore which am prisoner in the LORDE, exhorte you, that ye walke as it becometh y^e callinge wherin ye are called, with all humblenes off mynde and mekenes, and longe sufferinge, forbearinge one another in loue, and be diligent to kepe the vnite of the spirete thoro the bonde of peace. One body and one spirete, eue as ye are called in one hope of youre callinge. One LORDE, one faith, one baptyeme, one God and father of vs all, which is aboue all, and thoro all, and in you all.

Vnto every one of vs is geuen grace, accordinge to the measure off the gifte off Christ. Therfore sayeth he: he is gone vp an hye, and hath led awaye captiue captiue, and hath geue giftes vnto men. That he wente, vp what is it, but that he first came downe in to y^e lowest partes of y^e earth: he that came downe, is euen the same which is gone vp aboue all heauens, to fulfill all. And y^e same hath set some to be Apostles, some to be prophetes, some to be Euangelistes, some to be shepherdes & teachers, wherby the sayntes might be coupled toger ther thoro comen seruyce to the edifiēge of y^e body of Christ, tyll we all come vnto one maner of faith and knowlege of the sonne of God, and become a perfecte man in to the measure of the perfecte age of Christ: that we be nomore children, & waueringe & caried aboute with every wynde of doctryne thoro the wickednes of men and craftynes, wherby they laye awaye for vs to diseaue vs.

But let vs folowe the truthe in loue, and in all thinges growe in him, which is the heade, euen Christ, in whom all the body is coupled toger, and one membre hangeth by another thoro out all y^e ioyntes. Wherby one mynistrerth vnto another (accordinge to the operacion as every membre hath his measure) and maketh, that y^e body groweth to the edifiēge of it selfe in loue.

This I saye therfore, and testifie in the LORDE, that ye walke nomore as y^e other heythen walke in the vanite of their mynde, blynded in their vnderstondinge, beyng straungers frō the life which is in God thoro the ignoraunce that is in them, because of the blyndnes of their hert: which beyng past repentance, haue geue them selues ouer vnto wantonnes, to worke all maner of vnclennes euen with gredynesse.

But ye haue not so learned Christ, yf so be that ye haue herde of him, & are taught in him, euen as the truthe is in Jesu. So then as concernynge the conuersacion in tyme past: laye from you that olde man which marreth him selfe thoro disceuable lustes: but be ye renued in the spirete of youre mynde, and put on that new man, which is shapen after God, in true righteousnes and holynes. Wherfore put awaye lyenge, and speake every man the truthe vnto his neghboure, for as moch as we are membres one of another. Be angrie, but synne not. Let not y^e Sonne go downe vps y^eoure wrath: nether geue place to the bachtyer. he that hath stolen, let him steale nomore: but let him labour rather, and do some good with his hondes, that he maye haue to geue vnto him that needeth.

Let no filthy communicacion procede out of youre mouth, but that which is good to edifye withall, whā nede is, that it be gracious to heare. And greue not the holy spirete of God, wherewith ye are sealed vnto y^e daye of redempcion. Let all bytternes, and fearfines, and wrath, and roaringe, & cursed speakynge be farre frō you with all maliciousnes. But be ye curteous one to another, mercifull, and forgeue one another, eue as God hath forgeuen you in Christ.

The V. Chapter.

Ye the folowers therfore of God as deare children, and walke in loue, euen as Christ loued vs, and gaue him selfe for vs an offerynge and sacrifice of a swete sauoure vnto God. As for whoredome and all vnclennes, or couetousnes, let it not be named amonge you, as it becometh sayntes: nether fylchines, ner folish talkynge, ner ieastynge (which are not comly) but rather geuyng of thātes. for be sure, that no where monger, or vnclane person, or couetous person (which is a worshipper off ymages) hath inheritaunce in the kyngdome of Christ and of God. (Let no man diseaue you with vayne wordes) for because of these commeth the wrath of God vpon the children of vnbeleue. Be not ye therfore companions with them. for sometyme ye were darknesse, but now are ye lighte in y^e LORDE.

Walke as the children of lighte. (as y^e frute of the spirete is all manner of goodnes, and righteousnes and trueth) and prone what is pleasing vnto the LORDE, and haue no fellowship with y^e vnfruitfull workes of darknes, but rather rebuke the. For it is shame euen to name those thinges, which are done of them in secretes. But all thinges are manifest, whan they are rebuked of the lighte. For what so euer is manifest, that same is lighte. Therefore sayeth he: * Awake thou that sleepest, and stande vp fro the deed, and Christ shal geue the lighte.

* Take hede therefore how ye walke circumspectly, not as the vnwise, but as y^e wise, and redeme the tyme, for it is a miserable tyme. Wherefore be not ye vnwise, but vnderstande what the wil of the LORDE is, * and be not drunken with wyne, wherein is excess: but be full of the spirete * and talke amonge youre selues of psalmes, and ymnes, and spirituall songes, synginge and making melody vnto the LORDE in youre hertes * genyngethantes alwayes for all thinges vnto God the father, in the name of oure LORDE Iesus Christ, submyttinge youre selues one to another in the feare of God.

Let the women submytte them selues vnto their husbannes, as vnto the LORDE. * For the husbann is the wyues heade, euē as Christ also is the heade of the congregacion, and he is the Sanioure of his body. Therefore as the congregacion is in subiection to Christ, likewise let the wyues be in subiection to their husbannes in all thinges.

Ye husbannes loue youre wyues, enen as Christ loued the congregacion, * and gaue himselfe for it, to sanctifie it, * and clenched it in the fountayne of water by the worde, to make it vnto himselfe a glorious congregacion, hauynge no spot ner wrinkle, ner eny such thinge, but that it shulde be holy and without blame.

So oughte men also to loue their wyues, enen as their awne bodies. * Each loneth his wife, loneth himselfe. So no mā euer yet hated his awne fleshe, but nourisheth and cherisheeth it, enen as the LORDE doth also the congregacion. For we are members of his body, of his flesh and of his bones. * For this cause shal a man leaue father and mother, and cleue vnto his wife, and they two shal be one flesh: This is a greatesse crete: but I speake of Christ and the congregacion. Nevertheless do ye so, that every one of you loue his wife enen as himselfe: but let the husbande.

The VI. Chapter.

Ye children, obey youre elders in the LORDE, for that is righte. Honour thy father and thy mother (* That is the first commaundement, that hath promysed) that thou mayest prosper, and be longe vpon earth. And ye fathers, prouoke not youre children vnto wrath, but bringe the vp in the nourture and in formacion of the LORDE.

* Ye seruantes, obey youre bodily masters, with feare and tremblinge, in singleness of youre hert, enen as vnto Christ, not with seruyce onely in the eye sighte, as men pleasers: but as the seruantes off Christ, doynge the wyll off God from the hert with good wyll. Thynte that ye serue the LORDE and not me: and be sure, that what good soeuer a man doth, he shal receaue it agayne of the LORDE, whether he be bond or fre.

And ye masters, do euen the same vnto the, puttyng awaye threathnynges, and knowe that euen youre master also is in heauen, * nether is there eny respecte of persones with him.

Finally my brethien, be stronge in the LORDE, and in the power of his might: put on the arm of God, that ye may stande stedfast agaynst the craftie assautes off the deuill. For we wrestle not agaynst flesh and bloude, but agaynst rule, agaynst power, namely, agaynst the rulers of the worlde, of the darknesse of this worlde, agaynst y^e spites of wickednes vnder the heauen. For this cause take ye the armour of God, y^e ye may be able to resiste in the euell daye, and stande perfecte in all thinges.

* Stande therfore, and youre loynes gird aboute with the truth, hauynge on the brest plate of righteousnes, and shod vpon y^e feete with the gospel of peace, that ye may be prepared: Aboue all thinges take holde of the shyld of faith, wherewith ye may quenche all the fyrie dardres of the wicked. And take the helme of saluacion, and the swerde of the spirete, which is the worde of God.

* And praye alwayes with all maner of prayer and supplicacion in the spirete, and watch there vnto with all instaunce and supplicacion for all sayntes and for me, that the worde may be geuen me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to vtter the secretes of the Gospel, wherof I am a messaunger in bondes, that I may speake therein freely, as it becommeth me to speake.

But that ye maye also knowe, what case I am in, and what I do, Tychicus my deare brother and faithfull mynister in the LORDE, shal shewe you all: whom I haue sent vnto you for the same cause, that ye mighte knowe what case I stande in, and that he mighte comforte youre hertes.

Peace be vnto the brethie, and loue with faith, from God the father, and from the LORDE Iesu Christ. Grace be with all them that loue oure LORDE Iesu Christ vnfaignedly. Amen.

Sent from Rome vnto the Ephesians, by Tychicus.

The Epistle of the Apostle S. Paul to the Philippians.

The summe of this epistle.

Chap. I. He exhorteth them to increace in loue, in knowlege and experience of godly thinges: maketh mention of his prisonment at Rome, is glad to heare Christ preached, is content to dye or lyue, and prayeth them to lede a godly conuersacion, to be of one mynde, and to feare no persecucion.

Chap. II. He exhorteth them to vniue and brotherly loue, and to beware of strife and vaine glory: And for a sure ensample he layeth Christ before them.

Chap. III. He warneth the to beware of false teachers, whom he calleth dogges and enemies of Christ, and reproveth many owne righteousnesse.

Chap. IIII. He saluteth certayne of them, exhorteth them to be of honest conuersacion, and thanketh them because of the promysion, that they made for him beyng in prison.

The first Chapter.

Paul and Timotheus the seruantes of Iesu Christ. Vnto all the sayntes in Iesu Christ, which are at Philippi, with the Bishoppes and mynisters.

Grace be with you and peace from God oure father, and from the LORDE Iesu Christ.

* I thanke my God, as oft as I remembre you (which I allwayes do in all my prayers for you all, and praye with gladnesse) because of youre fellowship which ye haue in the Gospel from the first daye vnto now, and am surely certified of this, y^e he which hath begonne that good * worke in you, shal go forth with it vntill y^e daye of Iesus Christ: as it becommeth me to indge of you all, because I haue you in my hert, as those that are partakers with me of grace in my bondes, in defendinge and stablyshinge of the Gospel.

For God is my * recorde, how I longe after you all euen fro the very hert rote in Iesu Christ. * And for the same I praye, y^e y^e lone maye increace more and more in all maner of knowlege and in all experience, y^e ye maye proue what is best, that ye maye be pure, and such as hurte no mans conscience, vnto the daye of Christ: fylled with the frutes of righteousnes, which come by Iesu Christ vnto the glorie and prayse of God.

I wolde ye vnderstode brethien, that my busynes is happened vnto the greater furtheraunce of the Gospel, so that my bondes in Christ are manifest thorow out all y^e indgement hall, and in all other places: In so much that many brethien in the LORDE, are boldened thorow my bondes, and darre more largely speake the worde without feare. Some (no doute) preach Christ of enuye and stryfe, but some of good wil. The one parte preacheth Christ off stryfe and not purely, supposynge to adde more aduersite vnto my bondes. The other parte of loue, for they knowe that I lye here for the defence of the Gospel.

What then? So that Christ be preached all maner of wayes (whether it be done by occasion or of true meaning) I reioyce therein, and wil reioyce. For I knowe that the same shal chaunce to my saluacion, * thorow youre prayer and mynistryng of the spirete of Iesu Christ, as I loke for and hope, that in no thinge I shalbe ashamed: but y^e with all confidence (as alwayes in tymes past, euē so now) Christ shalbe magnified in my body whether it be thorow life or thorow death. For Christ is to me life, and death is to me anantage. But in as much as to lyue in y^e frutesfull to me for the worke, I what I shal chose, for both these harder vpon me. * I desyre to be with Christ, which thinge better (for me) but to abyde: nedefull for you.

The III. Chapter.

D And this am I sure of, that I shall abide, and continue with you all, for the furtherance and joye of your faith, that ye maye abundantly reioyce in Christ Iesu thowme, by my comynge to you agayne. Onely let your conuersacion be as it becommeth the Gospell of Christ, that whether I come & se you, or els be absent, I maye yet heare of you that ye cōtinue in one spieete and one soule, labourynge (as we do) to mayntayne the faith of the Gospell, and in nothynge fearinge your aduersaries, which is to them a token off perdition, but vnto you of saluacion, and that of God. For vnto you it is geuen, not onely that ye shulde beleue on Christ, but also suffre for his sake, and to haue euen the same fighte, which ye haue sene in me, and now heare of me.

The II. Chapter.

If there be amonge you any consolacion in Christ, yf there be any comforte of loue, yf there be any fellowship off the spieete, yf there be any compassion and mercy, fulfill my ioye, that ye diuine one waye, hauninge one loue, beyng of one accorde, and of one mynde: that there be nothynge done thowme stresse and wayne glory, but that thowme mekenesse of mynde every man esteeme another better then himselfe: and let every mā loke not for his awne profyt, but for the profyt of other.

Let the same mynde be in you, that was in Christ Iesu: which beyng in the shappe of God, though he it not robbery to be equall with God, but made himselfe of no reputacion, and toke vpon him the shappe of a seruaunt, became like another man, and was founde in his apparell as a man: he humbled himselfe, and became obedient vnto the death, euen vnto the death of the crosse.

Therefore hath God also exalted him, and geuen him a name, which is aboue all names, that in the name of Iesus every kne shulde bowe, both of thinges in heauen of thinges vpon earth, and of thinges vnder the earth, and that all tungen shulde confesse, that Iesus Christ is the LORDE vnto prayse of God the father.

Therefore my dearly beloved, as ye haue obeyed (not onely in my presenche, so much more in my absence) euen your awne saluacion withynge. For it is God which he wyll and the deed, euen of his owne good wyll. Do all thinges without murmuringes and disputinges, that ye maye be faultles and pure, and the childre of God without rebuke, in the mydes of y croked and peruerse nacion, amonge whom se that ye shyne as lightes in the woulde, holdinge fast the worde of life, vnto my reioysinge in the daye of Christ, that I haue not runne in vayne, nether laboured in vayne. And though I be offered vpon vpon the offeringe & sacrifice of your faith, I am glad, and reioyce with you all: be ye glad also, and reioyce ye with me.

I trust in the LORDE Iesus, to sende Timothy shortly vnto you, that I also maye be of good comforte, whan I knowe what case ye stonde in. For I haue noman that is so like mynde to me, which with so pure affeccio careth for you: for all other sette their awne, not that which is Iesus Christ. But ye knowe the profyt of him: for as a child vnto the father, so hath he mynistrd vnto me in the Gospell. Him I hope to sende, as soone as I knowe how it wyll go with me. But I trust in the LORDE, that I also my selfe shal come shortly.

Nevertheless I thoughte it necessary to sende vnto you the brother Epaphroditus, which is my companyon in labour and fellowe soudyer, and your Apostell, and my mynister at mynede, for so much as he longed after you all, and was full of heuyn, because ye had herd that he was sicke. And no dout he was sicke, and that nye vnto death: but God had mercy on him, and not on him onely, but on me also, lest I shulde haue had sorowe vpon sorowe.

I haue sent him therefore the more hastily, that ye mighte se him, and reioyce agayne, and that I also mighte haue the lesse sorowe. Receaue him therefore in the LORDE with all gladnes, and make moch of soe: for because of the worke of Christ, he went so farre, that he came nye vnto death, and regarded not his life, to fulfill that serua which was lackynge on your parte toward me.

The III. Chapter.

WORSHIP my brethren, reioyce in the LORDE. Where as I wyte euer othe thinge vnto you, it greuneth me not, and maketh you the sorer. Bewarre off dogges, bewarre off wil workers, bewarre off discension: for we are the circumcision, euen we that serue God in the spieete, and reioyce in Christ Iesu and haue no confidence in the flesh, though I haue wherof I mighte reioyce in y flesh. Xf any other mē thynke that he hath wherof he mighte reioyce in the flesh, moch more I, which was circūcysed on the eight daye, one of the people of Israel, of the trybe off Ben Jamin, an hebrue of the hebrues: as concernynge the lawe a Pharise: as concernynge seruentye I persecuted the congregacion: and as touchynge the righteounes which is in the lawe, I was vnrutable.

But the thinges that were vantage vnto me, haue I counted losse for Christes sake. And I thynke all thinges but losse, for that excellent knowledge sake of Christ Iesu my LORDE: for whom I haue counted all thinge losse, and do iudge them but donge, that I mighte wyne Christ, & be founde in him, not hauynge myne awne righteounes which cometh of the lawe, but by the faith of Christ (namely) the righteounes which cometh of God in faith, to knowe him and the vertue of his resurrection, and the fellowship of his passion, that I maye be conformable vnto his death, yff by any meanes I mighte attayne to the resurrection from the deed. Not that I haue attained vnto it all ready, or that I am already perfecte: but I folowe, yf I maye comprehend that, wherein I am comprehended off Christ Iesu. Brethren, I counte not my selfe yet that I haue gotten it: but one thinge I saye: I forget that which is behynde, and stretch my selfe vnto that which is before, & preece vnto y march apoynted, to optayne the rewarde of the hie callinge of God in Christ Iesu.

Let vs therefore (as many as be perfecte) be thus wyse mynded: and yf ye be otherwyse mynded, I praye God open euen this vnto you. Nevertheless in that wher vnto we are come, let vs procede by one rule, that we maye be of one accorde. Brethren, be ye y followers of me, and loke on the which walke so as ye haue vs for an ensample. For many walke (off whom I haue tolde you often, but now I tell you wepyng) euen enemies of the crosse of Christ, whose ende is damnacion, whose God is the belly, & whose glory shalbe to their shame, which are earthly mynded. But our conuersacion is in heauen, from whence we loke for the Saviour Iesu Christ y LORDE, which shal change y vyle body, y it maye be like fashio ned vnto his glorious body, acordynge to y workynge wherby he is able to subdue all thinges vnto himselfe.

Wherfore my biethie dearly beloved, I longed for my ioye & my crowne contynue so in the LORDE ye beloved. I praye Eudias, & beset Syntiches, that they be of one mynde in the LORDE. And I beset the my faithfull yod fellows, helpe the women, which haue laboured with me in the Gospell, with Clement & with my other helpers, whose names are in the boke of life. Reioyce in the LORDE allwaye, & agayne I saye, Reioyse. Let your softnes be knowne vnto all men. The LORDE is euen at honde. Be not carefull, but in all thinges let y petitions in prayer and supplication, with geuyng of thankes be knowne before God. And y peace of God, which passeth all vnderstandinge, kepe your hertes and myndes in Christ Iesu.

Furthermore brethren, what soeuer thinges are true, what soeuer thinges are honest, what soeuer thinges are iust, what soeuer thinges are pure, what soeuer thinges are pertaune to loue, what soeuer thinges are of honest report: yf there be any vertuous thinge, yf there be any laudable thinge, haue those same in y mynde, which ye haue both lerned and receaued, and herde and sene in me: those thinges do, and the God of peace shal be with you. I reioyse greatly in y LORDE, that now at the last ye are reuiued agayne to care for me, as ye cared for me afore, but ye lacked oportunitie. I speake not this because of necessity: for I haue lerned in what soeuer state I am, therewith to be contente. I can be lowe, and I can be hie. Every where and in all thinges I am mete, both to be full, and to be hongrie: to haue plenty, and to suffre neede. I can do all thinges thowme Christ, which strengeth me. Notwith standinge ye haue done well, that ye bare parte with me in my tribulacion.

But ye of Philippos knowe, that in the begynnynge of the Gospell whan I departed fro Macedonia, no congregacion bare parte with me concernynge geuyng and receauynge, but ye onely. For vnto Tessalonica ye sent once and afterwarde agayne vnto my necessity. Not that I seke giftes, but I seke the frute, that it be abundaunt in y rekenynge. For I haue all, and haue plenty. I was euen fylled whan I receaued of Epaphroditus, that which came from you, an odoure of sweetenes, a sacrifice accepted & pleasaunt vnto God. My God fulfill all y neede, acordynge to his riches in glory I Christ Iesu.

Vnto God and oure father be prayse for euer and euer Amen.

Salute all y sayntes in Christ Jesu. The brethre that are with me, salute you. All the sayntes salute you, but specially they that are of the Emperours house. The grace of oure LORDE Jesu Christ be with you all,
Amen.

Wrytten from Rome by

The Epistle of the Apostle S. Paul to the Colossians.

The summe of this Epistle.

Chap. I. He geueth thankes vnto God for their faith, loue, and hope: prayeth for their increase and sheweth how we are the kyngdome of God, obtained by Christ, which is the heade of the congregacion.

Chap. II. What greete care paul toke for all congregacions. He exhorteth them to be stedfast in Christ, to beware of false teachers and worldly wysdome, and deserveth the false prophetes.

Chap. III. He putteth them in remembrance of the spirytual resurrection, to laye asyde all maner of corrupte lynyng, to be frutesfull in all godlynesse and vertue, and sheweth all degrees their duty.

Chap. III. He exhorteth them to be seruent in prayer, to walke wysely vnto them that are not yet come to the true knowlege of Christ,
and so saluteth them.

The first Chapter.

And an Apostle of Jesu Christ by the will of God, and brother Ti-motheus.

To y sayntes which are at Colossa and brethren that beleue in Christ.

Grace be with you and peace from God

oure father z frs the LORDE Jesu Christ.

We geue thankes vnto God and the father of oure LORDE Jesu Christ, prayenge allwayes for you (sence we herde of your faith in Christ Jesu, and of youre loue to all sayntes) for y hopes sake which is layed vp in stoare for you in heauen: of the which ye haue herde before by the woide of truth in the Gospell, which is come vnto you, eue as it is in to all the world: and is frutesfull, as it is in you, sence y daye y ye herde and knewe
the grace of God in y truth, as ye learned of Epaphras oure deare felowe seruante, which is a faithfull mynister of Christ for you, which also declared vnto vs youre loue
in the sprete.

For this cause we also, sence the daye y
we herde of it, ceasse not to praye for you, z desyre that ye mighte be fulfilled with the knowlege of his will, in all wysdome and spirytual vnderstandinge, that ye mighte walke worthy off the LORDE, to please him in all chinges, and to be frutesfull in all good woikes, and growe in the knowlege of God: z to be strengthened wth all power ac-cordinge to the mighte of his glory, to all pa-cience and long sufferinge with ioyfulness, and geue thankes vnto the father, which hath made vs mete for the inheritaunce of sayntes in lighte.

Which hath deliuered vs frs the power of darknesse, z translated vs in to the kyngdome of his deare sonne (in whom we haue redempcion thorow his bloude, namely, the forgyuenes of synnes.) Which is the ymage of the inuisible God, first begotten before all creatures. For by him were all thinges created, that are in heauen and earth, thinges visibill and thinges inuisibill, whether they be maisties or lordshippes, ethi-rules or powers: All thinges are created by him and in him, and he is before all thinges, and in him all thinges haue their beyng.

And he is the heade of the body, namely, of the congregacion. he is the begynninge and first begotten from the deed, that in all thinges he mighte haue the premyerce. For it pleased the father, that in him shoulde dwell all fulnesse, and that by him all thinges shoulde be reconciled vnto himselfe, whether they be thinges vpon earth in heauen, that thorow the bloude on the crosse he mighte make peace euen thorow his owne selfe. And you (which were in tymes past straungers and enemies, because your myndes were set in euill woikes) hath

he now reconciled in the body of his fleshy thorow deathe, to make you holy, and unbla-meable z without faute in his awne sighte, yf ye contynue grounded and stablished in the faith, and be not moued awaye from y
hope of the Gospell, wherof ye haue herde:
which is preached amonge all creatures y are vnder heauen, wherof I Paul am made a mynister.

Now ioye I in my sufferinges, which I suffre for you, and fulfill that which is behynde of the passions of Christ in my fleshy,
for his bodies sake, which is the congregacion, wherof I am made a mynister,
acordinge to y Godly office of preachinge,
which is geuen vnto me amonge you, that I shoulde richely preach the woide of God, namely, that mystry which hath bene hyd sence the worlde beganne, and sence the begynnyng of tymes: but now is opened vnto his sayntes, to whom God wolde make knowne the glorious riches of this mystry amonge y heychen: which (riches) is Christ in you, eue he that is the hope of glory, whs
we preach, and warne all men, and teach all men in all wysdome, to make euery man perfekte in Christ Jesu: wherin I also laboure, and stryue acordinge to the workyng of him which worketh mightely in me.

The II. Chapter.

Wolde ye knowe what fightyng I haue for youre sakes, and for them of Laodicea, and for as many as haue not sene my personne in the fleshy, that their herces mighte be comforted and knytt together in loue, to all riches of full vnderstand-inge, which is in the knowlege of the mystry of God the father and of Christ, in whom are hyd all the treasures of wysdome and knowlege.

This I saye, lest eny man shoulde begyle
you with entysyng wordes. For though I be absent in the fleshy, yet am I present with you in the sprete: ioyenge, and beholdinge youre order and the stedfastnes of you-re faith in Christ. As ye haue therfore re-ceaved Christ Jesu the LORDE, enen so wal-ke in him, and be rotd z buylded in him, and be stedfast in faith, as ye haue learned: z be plenteous in the same in geuyng thankes.

Beware lest eny mā spoyle you thorow philosophy and disceatfull vanite after the traditions of men, and after the ordinaunces of the worlde, and not after Christ. For in him dwelleth all the fulnes of the Godhead bodily, and ye are complete in him, which is the heade of all rule and power: in whom

also ye are circumeysed with circuncision
without handes, by puttyng of the synfull body of the fleshy: (namely) with the circumcysion of Christ, in that ye are buried with him thorow baptyme: in whom ye are also rysen agayne thorow faith, that is wrought
by the operacion of God, which raysed him
vp from the deed.

And with him he quyetened you, whan
ye were deed in synnes, and in the vncircumcysion of youre fleshy, and hath forgyuen vs
all synnes, and put out the handwrytyng that was agaynst vs (contayned in the lawe wrytten) and that hath he taken out of the waye, and fastened it to the crosse: And hath spoyled rule and power, and hath made a shewe of them openly, and triumphed
ouer them in his awne persone.

Let no man therfore trouble youre con-sciences aboute meate or drynke, or for a pece
of an holy daye, as the holy daye of y newe Mone, or of the Sabbath dayes, which are the shadowe of the thinges that were for to come: but the body selfe is in Christ. Let no man make you shote at a wronge mark, which after his owne chosynge walketh in humblenes and spirytualtye of angels, thin-ges which he neuer sawe, and is vayne, and pust vp in his owne fleshy mynde: and holdeth not himselfe to the heade, wherof the whole body by ioyntes and complex receaueth nourishment, and is knyt together, and so groweth to the greatnes that commeth of God.

Wherfore yf ye be deed with Christ from the ordinaunces of the worlde, why are ye holden the with soch tradicions, as though ye luyed after the worlde? As whan they saye: Touch not this, taste not that, handle not that. All these thinges do hurte vnto men, because of the abuse of them, which abuse commeth onely of the commaunde-mentes and doctrynes of men: which thin-ges haue a shyne of wysdome thorow chosen spirytualtie and humblenes, and in that they spare not the body, and do the fleshy no worshippe vnto his nebe.

The III. Chapter.

If ye be ryisen now with Christ, seke
those thinges then which are aboue
where Christ is, syttinge on the righ-te hande of God. Set youre mynde on the thinges which are aboue, not on y thinges that are vpon earth. For ye are deed, your life is hyd with Christ in God.
Whan Christ o life shal shewe himselfe, the shal ye also appeare with him in glory.

The first Epistle of the Apostle S. Paul to the Thessalonians.

The summe of this Epistle.

- Chap. I. He thanketh God for them, that they are so steadfast in faith and good works, and receaue the gospell with soday earnest.
- Chap. II. He putteth them in mynde of the godly conuersacion that he led amonge them when he preached the gospell vnto them, thanke God that they receaue his worde so frute fully, and excuseth his absence.
- Chap. III. He sheweth how greatly he was reioysed, when Timothy tolde him of their faith and loue.
- Chap. IIII. He exhorteth them to steadfastnesse, to kepe them selues from synne and vnclenly conuersacion, to loue one another: rebuffeth ydellnesse, and speaketh of the resurrection.
- Chap. V. He enfourmeth them of the daye of dome and conyng of the LORDE, exhorteth them to watch, and to regarde soch as preach Gods worde amonge them.

The first Chapter.

PAUL and Silvanus and Timothy. Vnto the congregacion of the Thessalonians, in God the father and in the LORDE Jesus Christ.

Grace be with you, and peace from God our father and from the LORDE Jesus Christ. We geue thankes vnto God allwaye for you all, makinge mention of you in our prayers without ceasinge, and call to remembraunce your worke in the faith, and your labour in loue, and your patience in hope, which is our LORDE Jesus Christ before God our father. Because we knowe (brethren, beloved of God) how that ye are elect: for our Gospell hath not bene with you in word only, but both in power and in the holy goost, and in much certayntie, as ye knowe after what maner we were amonge you for your iakes.

ge that he hath done, for there is no respect of persons (with God.)

Ye masters, do vnto your seruantes that which is iust and equall, and knowe, ye also haue a master in heauen.

The III. Chapter.

Continue in prayer, and watch in the same with thankesgivinge, and praye also together for vs, that God open vnto vs the dore of the worde, to speake the mystery of Christ (wherefore I am also in bonds) that I maye utter & shewe, as it becometh me to speake. Walke wyfely toward them that are without, and redeme & ryme. Let your speach be allwaye sauourable, seasoned with salt, that ye maye knowe how to answer euey man.

Tichicus the deare brother and faithfull mynister & fellowe seruante in the LORDE, shall tell you what case I am in. Whom I have sent vnto you for the same purpose, that he mighte knowe how ye do, & that he mighte comforte your hertes, with one. Onesimus a faithfull and beloved brother, which is one of you: they shall shewe you of all thinges, which are adoyng here. Aristarchus my pryson fellowe saluteth you, and Marcus Barnabas sisters sonne, couchinge whom ye receaued commaundementes: If he come vnto you, receaue him, and Iesus, which is called Justus, which are of the circumcision. These onely are my helpers in the kyngdome of God, which were to my comfortacion.

Epaphras a seruante of Christ, which is one of you, saluteth you, & allwaye laboureth feruently for you in prayers, & ye maye stonde perfecte and full, in all that is the will of God. I beare him recorde, that he hath a feruent mynde for you, and for the at Laodicea, and at Hierapolis. Deare Lucas the physician saluteth you, and so doth Demas. Salute the brethren, which are at Laodicea, and salute Nymphas, and the congregacion which is in his house. And when the epistle is red of you, cause it to be red also in the congregacion at Laodicea, & that ye likewise red the epistle of Laodicea. And saye to Archippus: Take heed to the office which thou hast receaued in the LORDE, that thou fulfill it. My salutation with the hande of me Paul. Remember my bonds. Grace be with you, Amen.

Sent from Rome by Tichicus and Onesimus.

Montifye therfore youre membres which are vpon earth, whoredome, vnclennes, vnnatural lust, euell concupiscence, and couetousnes, which is a worshippinge of Idols: for which thinges sakes the wrath of God commeth vpon the children of vnbeleue: in the which thinges ye walked some tyme, when ye lyued in them.

But now put all awaye fro you: wrath, fearcenesse, maliciousnes, cursed speakyng, fylchic wordes out of youre mouth. & ye not one to another. Put of & olde man with his workes, and put on & newe, which is renued in knowlege after & ymage of him that made him: where there is no Gierke, Jewe, circumcision, vncircumcision, Barbarons, Scythian, boode, fre: but Christ is all and in all.

Nowherfore as the electe of God, holy and beloved, put on tender mercye, kyndnes, humblenes of mynde, mekenesse, longe sufferinge, forbearinge one another, and forgyng one another, yf any man haue a quarrell agaynst another. Like as Christ hath forgyuen you, euen so do ye also. But aboue all thinges put on loue, which is the bonde of perfectnesse. And the peace of God rule in your hertes, to the which (peace) ye are called also in one body: and se & ye be thankfull.

Let & worde of Christ dwell in you plentifully in all wysdome. Teach and exhoite your owne selues with psalmes and ymnes, and spirituall songes which haue sauoure with them, synginge in your hertes to the LORDE. And what soeuer ye do in worde or worke, do all in the name of the LORDE Jesu, & and geue thankes vnto God the father by him.

Ye wyues, submytte youre selues vnto your husbandes, as it is comly in the LORDE. Ye husbands, loue your wyues, and be not bytter vnto them.

Ye children, obeye your elders in all thinges, for that is well pleasynge vnto the LORDE.

Ye fathers, rate not your children, lest they be of a desperate mynde.

Ye seruantes, be obedient vnto your bodely masters in all thinges, not with eye seruyce as men pleasers, but in synglenes of hert, fearinge God. What so euer ye do, do it truly, euen as vnto the LORDE and not men. And besure, that of the LORDE ye receaue the rewarde of & enheritaunce. The LORDE Christ. But he that doth & shall receaue for the wrong

And ye became the folowers of vs and of the LORDE: and receaued the worde in much affliction with ioye of the holy goost: so that ye were an example to all that beleued in Macedonia and Achaia. For fro you was the worde of the LORDE noysed out, not onely in Macedonia & Achaia, but in all quarters also is yd faith in God spied abroad: so that it neberth not vs to speake any thinge at all. For they them selues shewe of you, what maner of entryng in we had vnto you, and how ye are turned vnto God from ymages, for to serue the lyuynge and true God, and to lōke for his sonne from heauē: whom he raysed vp from the deed, euen Iesus, which hath deliuered vs fro the wrath to come.

The II. Chapter.

Of your selues (brethren) knowe of our intrasice vnto you, how that it was not in wayne, but as we had suffred afore, & were shamefully intreated at Philippos (as ye knowe) we were bolde in our God, to speake vnto you & Gospel of God with much sryuynge. For our exhortacion was not to bringe you to erreour, ner yet to vnclennes, nether was it with guile: but as we are allowed of God, that the Gospell shulde be commytted vnto vs to preache, euen so we speake, not as though we wolde please me, but God, which tryeth our hertes.

For we haue not gone aboute with flateringe wordes (as ye knowe) ner wayted for our owne profite: God is recorde) nether soughte we prayse of men, nether of you ner of any other, whan we mighte haue bene chargeable vnto you as the Apostles off Christ, but we were tender amonge you.

Like as a noisse cherissheth his children, euen so had we hartely affeccion toward you, and wolde with good wyl haue dealte vnto you, not onely the Gospell of God, but our lyues also, because ye were deare vnto vs.

Ye remembre brethren our labour and trauayle. For daye and nighte wroughte we (because we wolde not be chargeable vnto any of you) and preached the Gospell of God amonge you. Ye are witnesses, and so is God, how holyly and iustly and vnblameable we behaued our selues amonge you that belene: as ye knowe, how that as a his children, euen so exhorted and besoughte euery one that wolde walke worthely before God, which hath called you vnto his kyngdome & glorie.

The first Epistle to the Thessalonians.

For this cause thanke we God without ceasinge, because that whā ye receaved of us the worde of the preachinge of God, ye receaved it not as y^e worde of men, but (eue as it is of a trueth) the worde of God, which worketh in you that beleue.

Heb. 10. d For ye brethren are become the folowers off the congregacions off God which in Jewry are in Christ Iesu, so that ye haue suffred even like thinges of youre kynsmen, as they haue suffred of the Jewes. Which as they put the LORDE Iesus to death, and their awne prophetes, euen so haue they persecuted vs also, and please not God, and are contrary to all men, forbyddinge vs to speake vnto the heythens that they mighte be saved, to fulfill their synnes allwaye: for the wrath is come vpon them already vnto y^e vttemost.

Mat. 23. d But we (brethren) for as moch as we haue bene kepte from you for a season, as concerninge the bodely ptesence, but not in the hert, we haue haisted the more with greate desyre to se you personally. Therfore wolde we haue come vnto you, (I Paul) two tymes, but Sathan withstode vs. For who is oure hope, or ioye, or crowne of reioysing, are not ye in y^e sighte of oure LORDE Iesus Christ at his commynge? Yes ye are oure prayse and ioye.

Act. 17. a, b The III. Chapter. Wherfore sence we coulde no longer forbear, we thoughte it good to remayne at Athens alone, & sent Timotheus oure brother and mynister of God, and oure helper in y^e gospell of Christ, to stablysh you and to comforte you in youre faith, that noman shulde be moued in these troubles: (for ye youre selues knowe, that we are euen appoynted there vnto. And whan we were with you, we tolde you besore, that we shulde suffre tribulacion, euen as it is come to passe, & as ye knowe.) For this cause seyng I coulde no longer forbear, I sent, that I mighte haue knowlege of youre faith, lest happily the tempter had tempted you, and lest oure laboure had bene in vayne.

But now that Timotheus is come fro you vnto vs, and hath shewed vs of youre faith and loue, & how that ye haue allwaye good remembraunce of vs, desyng to se vs, I am to se you: therfore brethren ionin you in all oure trouthe thorow youre faith. For alwey, yf ye stonde stedfast in y^e LORDE. For what thankes can we recom-

pence to God agayne for you, because of this ioye that we haue conceyvinge you before oure God? We praye exceedingly daye and night, that we mighte se you presently, and fulfill that which is lackyng in y^e faith.

God himselfe & father & LORDE Iesus Christ gyde oure iourney vnto you. But the LORDE increace you, & make you flowe ouer in loue one towarde another, and towards all men (euen as we do towarde you) that y^e hertes maye be stable and vnblynde in holynes before God oure father, at the commynge of oure LORDE Iesus Christ with all his sayntes.

The III. Chapter. Wherfore we beseeche you brethren and exhorte you in the LORDE Iesus, that ye increace more and more, euen as ye haue receaved of us how ye oughte to walke and to please God. For ye knowe what commandementes we geue you by oure LORDE Iesus Christ. For this is the will of God, euen youre sanctification, that ye shulde absteyne from whoredome, & every one of you shulde knowe how to kepe his vessell in holynes and honoure, not in the lust of concupiscence, as the heythens which knowe not God. And that noman go to farre, nor defraude his brother in bargayninge. For the LORDE is the auenger of all such thinges, as we haue sayde testified vnto you afore tyme. For God hath not called vs to vndernesse, but vnto holynes. & therfore that despyseth, despyseth not man, but God, which hath geuen his holy spere in to you.

But as touchinge brotherly loue, remember that I wyte vnto you, for ye yourselves are taught of God to loue one another: yee and that thinge ye do vnto all the brethren, which are thorow out all Macedonia. But we beseeche you brethren that ye increace yet more and more, and that ye study to be quyet, and to medle with youre awne busynesse, and to worke with youre awne handes, as we commanded you, that ye maye walke honestly towarde the that are without, and that nothinge be lackyng vnto you.

We wolde not brethren that ye shulde be ignorant concerninge them which are fallen a slepe, that ye sorrowe not as othere which haue no hope. For yf we beleue that Iesus dyed and rose agayne, euen so the alld which slepe by Iesus, shal God bringe with him. For this we saye vnto you in the word of the LORDE, that we which lyue and remainyng in the comynge, of the LORDE,

The first Epistle

shal not come yet they which slepe. For the LORDE himselfe shal come downe fro heauen with a shoute and voyce of y^e Archangel and with the trompe of God, and the dead in Christ shal aryse first: then shal we which lyue and remayne, be caught vp with them also in the cloudes, to mete the LORDE in the ayre, and so shal we euer be with the LORDE. Wherfore comforte youre selues one another with these wordes.

The V. Chapter. We of y^e tymes and seasons (brethren) it is no nede to wyte vnto you. For ye yourselves knowe perfectly, that the daye of the LORDE shal come euen as a thefe in the night. For whan they shal saye: Tush, It is peace, there is no danger, then shall soden destruction come vpo the, euen as the payne of a woman trauaylinge with childe, and they shal not escape. But ye brethren are not in darknes, that that daye shulde come on you as a thefe. Ye are altogether children of lighte, and children of the daye. We are not of the night, nether of darknesse.

Therfore let vs not slepe as do other, but let vs watch, and besober. For they that slepe, slepe in the night: and they that be drunken, are drunken in the night. But let vs which are of the daye, be sober, armed with the breastplate of faith and loue, and with y^e helmet of hope to saluacion.

For God hath not appoynted vs vnto wrath, but to obtayne saluacion by y^e means of oure LORDE Iesu Christ, which dyed for vs: that whether we wake or slepe, we shulde lyue together with him. Wherfore comforte youre selues together, and edifye one another, euen as ye do.

We beseeche you brethren, that ye knowe them which laboure amonge you, and haue the ouersight of you in the LORDE, and geue you exhortacion, that ye haue the more in loue for their workes sake, and be at peace with them. We desyre you brethren, warne them that are vnruly, cōforte the feble mynbed, forbear the weake, be pacient towarde all men. Se that none recompence euell for euell vnto eny man: but euer folowe that which is good, both amonge youre selues and to all men.

Reioyse alwaye, praye contynually, in all thinges be thankfull: for this is the will of God in Christ Iesu towarde you. Quench not y^e spere: despise not propheciages: proue alle thinges, & kepe y^e which is good. Absteyne fro all suspicious thinges. The very God spere sanctifye you thorow out. And I praye God, that youre whole spere, soule & body be kepte blameles vnto y^e comynge of oure LORDE Iesus Christ. Faithfull is he which hath called you, which wil also do it. Brethren, praye for vs. Greete all the brethren with an holy kysse. I charge you by y^e LORDE, that this epistle be red vnto all y^e holy brethren. The grace of oure LORDE Iesus Christ be with you, Amen.

Paul and Siluanus and Timotheus.

To the congregacion of y^e Thessalonians in God oure father and in the LORDE Iesus Christ.

Grace be with you, and peace from God oure father, and from the LORDE Iesus Christ.

We are bounde to thanke God allwayes for you brethren, as it is mete: because that youre faith groweth exceedingly, and the loue of euery one of you increaseth towards another amonge youre selues, so that we oure selues make oure boast of you (in the congregacions of God) of youre paciēce and faith in all youre persecucions and troubles that ye suffre, which is a token of the righteous iudgment of God, that ye are counted worthy of the kyngdome of God, for the which, ye also suffre.

Unto Timothy my

naturall sonne in the faith.

Grace, mercy, and peace from God our father, and our LORD Jesus Christ.

As I besoughte y to abyde still at Ephesus (whan I departed in to Macedonia) enē so do, that thou commaunde some, that they teach none other wyse, neither gene he be to fables and genealogies, which are endlesse, and brede doutes more then godly edifyinge, which is by faith. For y these summe of the commandment is lone of a pure hert, and of a good conscience, and of faith vnfayned. From the which some haue erred, & haue turned vnto vayne tangelynge, wyllyng to be doctours of the scripture, and vnderstonde not what they speake, neither wherof they affirme.

But we knowe that the lawe is good, yf a man vse it lawfully, vnderstondinge this, that the lawe is not geuen vnto the righteous, but to the vnrightheous & disobedient, to the vngodly & to synners, to the vnholy & vncleane, to murtherers of fathers and murtherers of mothers, to manslaughterers, to who remongers, to the that defyle them selues with mankynde, to menstealers, to lyars, to perjured, & so forth yf there be eny other thinge y is contrary to y wholsome doctryne, accordinge to y Gospell of y glory of the blessed God, which (Gospell) is comytted vnto me.

And I thanke Christ Jesus o LORD, which hath made me stronge, for he counted me faithfull, & put me in office, whā before I was a blasphemour, & a persecuter, & a tyrant: but I obtayned mercy, because I dyd it ignorantly in vbelene. & neuertheles the grace of o LORD was more abundant thow y faith & lone which is in Christ Jesus.

oure sayenges, sende vs worde of him by a letter, and haue nothinge to do with him, y he maye be ashamed. Yet counthe him not as an enemye, but warne him as a brother.

The very LORD of peace geue you peace allwayes by all meanes.

The LORD be with you all. The salutation of me Paul with myne aw-hande: This is

I wyte, The grace of our LORD Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

Sent from Athens.

The first Epistle of the Apostle S. Paul to Timothy.

The summe of this epistle.

Chap. I. He exhorteth Timothy to wayte vpon his office: namely, to se that nothige be caughte but Gods worde. &c. He sheweth also wherfore the lawe is good, and telleth these sware and glad tidings, that Christ Jesus came in to the world to saue synners, example of himselfe.

Chap. II. He exhorteth to praye for all men. He will not haue women to be ouer costely arrayed, ner to teach in the congregacion, but to be in sylence, and obeye their husbandes.

Chap. III. What maner of man a byshopp shoulde be, and what condicions his wife and children shoulde haue. The properties also requyred in a deacon or mynister, and in his wife.

Chap. IIII. He prophesieth of the latter dayes, and exhorteth Timothy to the diligent reahynge of the holy scripture.

Chap. V. He teacheth him how he shal behaue himselfe in rebuynge all degrees. An ordure concernynge wyddowes.

Chap. VI. The dute of seruantes toward their masters. Agaynst such as are not satisfied with the worde of God. Agaynst curiouse men. A good lesson for rich men.

all they might be dāned, which beleue in the truneth, but had pleasure in vnrightheousnes.

But we are bounde to geue thanks alwaye vnto God for you, brethrien beloued of the LORD, because that God hath from the begynnynge chosen you to saluacion in the sanctifyinge of the spire and in belouynge of the truneth, wher vnto he hath called you by oure Gospell, to optayne the glory of oure LORD Jesus Christ.

Therefore brethrien stonde fast, and kepe the ordinaunces which ye haue lerned, whether it were by oure preachinge or by epistle. But oure LORD Jesus Christ himselfe, and God oure father, which hath loued vs and geuen vs everlastynge consolacion, and a good hope thow grace, comforte your hertes, and stablysh you in all doctryne & good doynge.

The III. Chapter.

Wherefore brethrien praye for me, that the worde of God maye haue fre passage and be glorified as it is with you, and that we maye be deliuered from vnreasonable and euell mā. For faith is not euery mā. But the LORD is faithfull, which shal stablyshe you and kepe vs from euell. We haue confidence in the LORD to you wards, that ye boch do and wyl do that which we comaunde you. The LORD gyde youre hertes vnto the lone of God and pacience of Christ.

But we requyre you brethrien, in the name of oure LORD Jesus Christ, that y withdraue youre selues from euery bitha that walketh inordinatly, and not after the institution which he receaued of vs. For y o selues knowe, how ye oughte to folow vs: for we behaued not oure selues inordinatly amonge you, neither toke we bryd of eny man for naughte, but wrought w laboure and trauayle night and daye, lest we shoulde be chargeable to eny of you. For but that we had anctouite, but to geue oure selues for an ensample vnto you to folowe vs. And whan we were w you, this we warned y of, that yf there were eny which wolde not worke, y same shulde not eate. For we heare saye, that there are some which walke amonge you inordinatly, and worke not at all, but are busy bodies. But them that are soch, we comaunde and exhorte by oure LORD Jesus Christ, that they worke with quyetnes, and eate their awne bryd.

Neuertheles brethrien, be not ye wearied of well doynge. But yf eny man obey not to recōpence tribulacion vnto the tronble you: but vnto you which are tronbled, rest with vs. whā the LORD Jesus shal shewe himselfe from heauen, with the angels of his power, and with flaminge fyre, to geue vengeance vnto them that knowe not God, and to them that obeye not the Gospell of oure LORD Jesus Christ. Which shal be punyshed with everlastynge damnacion, from y presence of the LORD, and from the glory of his power, whan he shal come to be glorified in his sayntes, and to be come marvelous in all them that beleue: because ye haue beleued oure testimony vnto you of the same daye. Wherfore we praye allwayes for you, that oure God make you worthy of y callinge, and fulfill all delectacion of goodnes, and the worke of faith in power, that y name of oure LORD Jesus Christ maye be praysed in you, and ye in him, accordinge to the grace of oure God, and of the LORD Jesus Christ.

The II. Chapter.

W beseeke you brethrien by the comynge of o LORD Jesus Christ, and in that we shal assemble vnto him, that ye be not sodenly moued frō youre mynde, and be not tronbled, neither by spire, neither by wordes, ner yet by letter, which shulde seme to be sent from vs, as though y daye of Christ were at hande. Let no man disceauē you by eny meanes. For the LORD cometh not, excepte the departynge come first, and that that Man of synne be opened, euen the some of perdition, which is an aduersary, and is exalted aboue all y is called God or Gods seruyce, so that he sitteth as God in the temple of God, and boasteth himselfe to be God.

Remembreye not, that whan I was yet with you, I tolde you these thinges. And now ye knowe what withholdeth it, enē that it mighte be vttered at his tyme. (For the mystery of the iniquyte worketh already, tyll he which now onely letteth, be take out of the waye.) And then shal that wicked be vttered, whom the LORD shal consume with y spire of his mouth, & shal destroye with the appareance of his comynge: euen him, whose comynge is after the wyng of Sathan, with all lyenge power, and signes and wonders, and with all deceauablenes of vnrightheousnes amonge them that perishe, because they receaued not the lone of y truneth, that they might haue bene saved. Therefore shal God sende them stronge delusion, that they shulde beleue lyes, y unto Timothy. Ho. xcij.

C For this is a true sayenge, and by all mea-nes worthy to be receaved, that Christ Jesus came in to y^e worlde to save synners, of whom I am chese. For with stondynge for this cause obtayned I mercy, that Jesus Christ mighte princypally shewe in me all longe pacience, to the ensample of them which shulde beleue in him vnto eternall life. So then vnto God kyng euerlastinge, immortall and invisible, and wyse onely,
be honoure and prayse for ever and ever
Amen.

This commandement comynge I vnto
the (my sonne Timothy) acordinge to y^e prophesies which in tyme past were prophesied of the, that thou in them shouldest fghte a good fghte, hauryng faith & good conscience, which some have put awaye fro them, and as concernyng faith haue made hypocrisie: of whose nombre is Hymeneos and Alexander, whom I haue deliuered vnto Satan, that they mighte be taughte, nomore to blaspheme.

The II. Chapter.

Wherfore therefore, y^e above all thin-ges, prayers, supplications, interces-sions and geuyng of thakkes be had for all men, for kynges, and for all that are in auctorite, that we maye lyue a quyet &
peaceable life in all godlynes and honestie.
For that is good and accepted in y^e sighte of God oure Sauoure, which wil haue all men saved, and to come vnto the knowlege of y^e tructh. For there is one God, and one mediatour betwene God and men, (namely) the man Christ Jesus, which gaue him selfe
a ransom for all men, that at his tyme it shulde be preached, wherunto I am ordeyned a preacher & an Apostle (I tell y^e tructh in Christ and lye not) a teacher of the heycht
in faith and in the tructh.

I wil therfore that men praye in all places, liftynge vp pure hâdes without wrath or downyng. Likewise also the women, that they araye them selues in comly apparell with shamyfastnes and discrete behaues, not with broided heer, or golde, or perles, or costly aray: but with such as it becommeth wemen that professe godlynes thow good woikes. Let the woman lerne in sylence with all subiection. I suffre not a woman to teach ner to haue auctorite ouer the man, but for to be in silence. For Adam was first formed, and the Eve: Adam also was not disceaved,
but the woman was disceaved, and hath brought in the trasgression. For with stondynge thow bearyng of children she shal be saue, yf she contynne in faith and in love

in the sanctifyenge with discrecion.

The III. Chapter.

This is a true sayenge: If a man con-fesse y^e office of a Bisshope, he deserveth
a good worke. But a Bisshope must be blamelesse, the husbâde of one wife, sober, discrete, manerly, harberous, apt to teach: Not geuen to much wyne, no fighter, not geuen to filchy lucre: but gentle, ab-horryng stryfe, abhorryng couetousnes: &
one that ruleth his awne house honestly, hauryng obedient children with all honestie.
(But yf a man can not rule his owne house,
how shal he care for the congregacion of God?) He maye not be a yonge scolar, lest he be puffed up, and fall in to the iudgment of euell speaker. He must also haue a good repote of them which are without, lest he fall in to the rebuke and snare of the euell speaker.

Likewise must the ministers be honest,
not double tonged, not geuen to much wyne,
neither vnto fleschly lucre, but hauryng the mystery of faith in pure conscience. And let them first be proued, and then let them minister, yf they be blamelesse.

Then so must their wyues be honest, not euell speakers, but sober and faithfull in all things. Let the ministers be, euery one the husbâde of one wyfe, and such as rule their children well, and their owne household.
For they that minister well, get them sel-ues a good degree and greete libertie in the faith which is in Christ Jesus.

These things wyte I vnto the, trustyn-ge shortly to come vnto the: but yf I tary
longe, that then thou mayest yet haue knowlege, how thou oughtest to behaue thy selfe
in Gods house, which is the congregacion of the lyuynge God, the piler and ground of tructh: and without naye, greete is that mystery of godlynes. God was shewed in the flesh: was iustified in the spere: was one of angels: was preached vnto the hethen: was belened on in the world: was re-ceaved up in glory.

The III. Chapter.

The spere speaketh euidently, that in y^e latter tymes some shal departe
from the faith, and shal geue heed vnto sperees of erroure, and deuylishe doctrynes, of them which speake false thow ypocrysie, and haue their conscience marked with an whote yron, forbyddynge to mary, and comandynge to abstayne fro the meates,

which God hath created to bereceave to geuyng thakkes of them which beleue and knowe the tructh. For every creature off God is good, and nothynge to be refused, y^e is receaved with thankesgeuyng: for it is sanctified by the worde of God and prayer.
If thou shalt put the brethien in remembraunce of these things, thou shalt be a good mynister of Jesus Christ, which hath bene nourished up in the wordes of faith and of good doctryne, which thou hast folowed hitherto.

As for vngodly and olde wyues, sables, cast them awaye, but exercise thy selfe vnto godlynes. For bodely exercise purifyeth litle, but godlynes is profytable vnto
all things, as a thinge which hath promyses of the life that is now, and of the life for to come. This is a sure sayenge, & of all par-tes worthy to be receaved. For therfore we laboure and suffre rebuke, because we hope in the lyuynge God, which is the Sauoure
of all men, but specially of those that beleue.
Such things commaunde thou and teach.
Let no man despise y^e youth, but be thou vnto them that beleue, an ensample, in worde, in conuersacion, in love, in y^e spere, in faith, in purenesse.

Geue attendaunce to readyng, to exhortacion, to doctryne, vntyll I come. Be not negligent in the gifte that is geuen the thow prophecie, with layenge on of the han-des of the Elders. These things exercise ye, and geue thy selfe vnto them, that thine increase maye be manifest vnto euery man.
Take hede vnto thy selfe, and to learnynge, conynne in these things. For yf thou so do, thou shalt saue thy selfe, and them that heare the.

The V. Chapter.

Revoke not an Elder, but exhorte
him as a father: and the yonger men
as brethien: the elder women as mothers: the yonger as sisters with all purenes.
Honour wedowes, which are true wedowes.
If any wedowe haue children or neues, let them lerne first to rule their awne houses godly, and to recompence their elders. For this good & acceptable before God. But she that is a right wedowe, & desolate, putteth hir trust in God, & conynneth in prayer and supplication nighte and daye. But she that lyueth in pleasures, is deed, euen yet a lyue.
And these things commaunde, that they maye be without blame. But yf there be enymman that proudeyth not for his awne, and specially for them of his household, the same hath denyed the faith, and is worse

then an infydele.

Let no wedowe be chosen vnder thre score yere olde, and such one as was y^e wife of one man, and well reported of in good wor-kes, yf she haue brought vp children well, yf she haue bene harberous, yf she haue was-shed the sayntes fete, yf she haue mynistered vnto the which were in aduersite, yf she were continually geuen to all maner of good woikes. But yf yonger wedowes refuse. For whan they haue begonne to waxe wanton agaynst Christ, then wil they mary, hauryng their damnacion, because they haue broke y^e first faith. Besydes this they are ydell, and lerne to runne aboute fro house to house. Not onely are they ydell, but also crystyll ge & busybodies, speakynge things which are not comly.

I wil therfore that the yonger women
mary, beare children, gyde the house, to geue y^e aduersary no occasion to speake euell. For some are turned backe already after Sacha.
If any man or woman that beleueth haue wedowes, let them make prouision for the,
and let not the congregacion be charged:
that they which are righte wedowes, maye
haue ynough.

The Elders that rule well are worthy of double honoure, most specially they which laboure in the worde & in teachinge. For y^e scripture sayeth: Thou shalt not moue the mouth of y^e ore y^e treader out y^e come. And:
The labourer is worthy of his rewarde.
Agaynst an Elder receaue none accusacion, but vnder two or thre witnesses. That that synne, rebuke in the presence of all, that other also maye feare.

I testifie before God and the LORDE
Jesus Christ, and y^e electe angels, that thou obserue these things without haistie iudgment, and do nothynge partially. Laye hon-des soderly on no man, neither be partaker of other mens synnes. Bepe y^e selfe pure. Drynke no lenger water, but vse a litle wyne for y^e stomackes sake, and because thou art oft tymes sicke. Some mens synnes are open, so that they maye be iudged afore hande: but some mens (synnes) shal be manifest hereafter. Likewise also good woikes are manifest afore hande: and they that are other wyse can not be hyd.

ten of. Se that they which haue beleuyng masters, despyse them not because they are brethren, but rather do seruyce, for so much as they are beleuyng, and beloued, and partakers of the benefite.

These thinges teach and exhorde. If any man teach otherwys, and agreeth not vnto the wholesome wordes of oure LORDE Jesus Christ, and to the doctryne of godlynes, he is puffed vp, and knoweth nothyng, but waysteth his brayne aboute questions and strynges of wordes: wherof spryng enuys, stryfe, raylinges, euell surmysinges, wayne disputaciōs of such men as haue corrupted myndes, and are robbed of the truthe, which thynte that godlynes is lucre: from such separate thy selfe. Howbeit it is greater advantage, who so is godly, and holdeth him content with that he hath. For we broughte nothyng in to the worlde, therefore is it a playne case, we can cary nothyng out. When we haue fode and rayment, let vs therewith be content. For they that wylbe riche, fall in to the temptacion and snare, and in to many folishe and noysome lusses, which drawen men in destruction and damnacion. For Conetousnes is the rote of all euill, which whyle some lusted after, they erred from the faith, and tangled them selues with many sorowes.

But thou man of God, flye soche thinges: folowe righteousnes, godlynes, faith, loue, pacience, mekenes: fighte a good fighte of faith: laye honde on eternall life, where vnto thou art called, and hast professed a good profession before many witnesses.

I geue the charge before God, which quyeteneth all thinges, and before Jesu Christ, which vnder Pontius Pilate witnessed a good witnessyng, that thou kepe the commendement, without spot, vnrerieuable, vntill the appearinge of oure LORDE Jesus Christ, which appearinge (at his tyme) he shal shewe that is blessed, and mightie onely, the kynge of all kynges, and LORDE of all lordes: which onely hath immortallite, and dwelleth in a lighte, that no man can attayne: whom no man hath sene, neither can se. Vnto whom be honoure and empyre enelastinge, Amen.

Charge the which are riche in this worlde, that they be not proude, nor trust in the vncertaine riches, but in the lyuynge God (which geueth vs abundantly all thinges to eate and drinke: that they do good: that they be rich in good workes: that they geue and distribute with a good will: gatheryn ge vp treasure for them selues, a good foundation, agaynst y tyme to come, that they maye laye honde on eternall life.

O Timothy, kepe that which is committed vnto the, and avoide vngodly wayes wordes, and oppositions of science falsly called, which whyle some professed, they beuerred as concernynge the faith. Grace be with the, Amen.

The seconde Epistle of the Apostle S.

Paul to Timothy.

The summe of this epistle.

Chap. I. Paul exhorteth Timothy to fastnesse and pacience in persecucion, and continue in the doctryne that he had taught him. A commendacion of Onesiphorus.

Chap. II. Like as in the first chapter, so he exhorteth him to be constant in trouble, suffer manly, and to byde fast in the whole doctrine of oure LORDE Jesus Christ.

Chap. III. Reprophieth of the perilous tymes, setteth out ypocrites in their culoms, and lech vs what they be with in, for all they se face outwardly. Persecucion for the gospel.

Chap. IIII. Exhorteth Timothy to be small in the worde, and to suffer aduersite: maketh mention of his awne death, and byddeth Timothy come vnto him.

The first Chapter.

In an Apostle of Jesu Christ, by the wyl of God, to preach the promes of y life which is in Christ Jesu.

To my deare son Timothy.

Grace, mercy, and peace from God the father and from Christ Jesu oure LORDE.

I thanke God, whome I serue fro my fore elders in a pure conscience, that without ceassynge I make mencion of the in my prayers night and day: and longe to seth (whan I remembre thy teares) so that I am fylled with ioye, whan I call to remembrance the vnsayned faith that is in the, which dwelt first in thy graundmother Lois, and in thy mother Eunice: And am assured, that it dwelleth in y also. Wherefore I warne the, that thou steepe vp y gifte of God which is in the by puttyng on of my handes. For God hath not geuen vs the spere of feare, but of power, and of loue, and of righte vnderstandynge.

The ij. Epistle

Be not thou ashamed therfore of y testimony of LORDE, nether of me, which am his prisoner: but suffre thou aduersite also to the Gospel, acordyng to the power of God, which hath saved vs, and called vs with an holy calling: not acordyng to our dedes, but acordyng to his owne purpose and grace, which was geuen vs in Christ Jesu before the tyme of the worlde, but is now declared openly by the appearinge of oure Sauoure Jesu Christ. Which hath taken awaye y power of death, and hath brought life and immortallite vnto lighte, thorow the Gospel: wher vnto I am appoynted a preacher and an Apostell, and a teacher of the heythens: for the which cause I also suffre these thinges, neuertheles I am not ashamed. For I knowe whom I haue beleued, and am sure that he is able to kepe that which I haue committed vnto his kepynge agaynst that daye.

Hold the aser y ensample of the wholesome wordes, which thou heardest of me, concernynge faith and loue in Christ Jesu. This hye charge kepe thou thorow the holy goost, which dwelleth in vs. This thou knowest, that all they which are in Asia, be turned fro me, of which sorte are Phylas and Hermogenes. The LORDE geue mercy vnto the house of Onesiphorus: for he oft refreshed me, and was not ashamed of my cheyne: but whan he was at Rome he soughte me out very diligently, and founde me. The LORDE graunte vnto him, that he maye fynde mercy with the LORDE in that daye. And how much he mynistred vnto me at Ephesus, thou knowest very well.

The II. Chapter.

Thou therfore my sonne, be stronge thorow the grace which is in Christ Jesu. And what thinges thou hast herde of me by many witnesses, the same committe thou vnto faithfull men, which are apte to teach other. Thou therfore suffre affliction as a good souldyer of Jesu Christ. To mā that warreth, tangleth himselfe with worldly busynesses, and that because he wolde please him, which hath chosen him to be a souldyer. And though a man stryue for a masterye, yet is he not crowned, excepte he stryue lawfully. The husbandman that vnto Timothy. Ho. xciiij.

laboureth, must first enioye the frutes. Consider what I saye. The LORDE shal geue the vnderstandynge in all thinges.

Remembre that Jesus Christ, beyng of the seide of David, rose agayne fro the deed, acordyng to my Gospel, where in I suffre as an enell doer even vnto bandes: but the worde of God is not bounde. Therfore suffre I all for the electes sakes, that they also mighte optayne the saluacion in Christ Jesu with eternall glory.

This is a true sayenge: If we be deed with him, we shal lyue with him also: If we be pacient, we shal also raigne with him: If we denye him, he also shal denye vs: If we beleue not, yet abyde he faithfull, he can not denye himselfe. Of these thinges put thou them in remembrance, and testifie before the LORDE, that they stryue not aboute wordes, which is to no profit, but to peruertere the hearers.

Study to shewe thy selfe vnto God a lawdable workman, that nedeth not to be ashamed, denyng the worde of truthe iustly. As for vngodly and wayne talkynges, eschue them: for they helpe much to vngodlynes, and their worde stretteth as both a canker: Of whose nombre is Symeon and Philetus, which as concernynge the truthe haue erred, sayenge, that the resurrection is past already, and haue destroyed the faith of dyuerse personnes.

But y sure grounde of God stonbeth fast, and hath this scale: The LORDE knoweth them that are his, and let every mā that calleth vpon the name of Christ, departe from iniquyte. Lot withstandynge in a greathouse are not onely vessels of golde and of syluer, but also of wode and of earthe: some for honoure, and some to dishonoure. But yf a man purge himselfe from such felowes, he shalbe a vessel sanctified vnto honoure, mete for the LORDE, and prepared vnto all good workes. Fle thou the lustes of youth, but folowe righteousnes, faith, loue, peace with all them that call vpon the LORDE with pure hert. As for folish questions and such as teach not, put them fro the: for thou knowest that they do but geuer stryfe. The seruant of the LORDE ought not to stryue, but to be gentle vnto every man: apte to teach, one that can forbear the euell, one y can with mekenesse enforme hem: yf God at eny tyme wyl geue the chaunce for to knowe the truthe agayne from the snare of the are holden in prison of him

The III. Chapter.

WH this shalt thou knowe, that in the last dayes shal come paelous tymes. For there shalbe men which shal holde of the selues, conetous, boasters, proude, cursed speakers, dishobedient to their elders, vntowardly, vngodly, vntynde, truce breakers, false accusers, ryatours, scarce, despyers of them which are good, traycours, heady, hie mynded, greddy vpon voluptuousnes more then the louers of God, hauynge a shyne off godly luyngge, but denyenge the power therof. And soch avoyde. Of this sorte are they which rane fro house to house, z bryngge in to bondage women ladde th synne: which (women) are led with dyuerse lustes, enen luyngge, and are neuer able to come vnto the knowlege of the truthe.

But like as Iannes and Iabres withstode Moses, even so do these also resist the truthe: me they are of corrupte myndes, and lewde as cōcernynge y faich: but they shal pteayle no longer. For their folishnes shal be manifest vnto all men, as theirs was.

But thou hast sene thi experience of my doctryne, my fasshion of luyngge, my purpose, my faich, my long sufferynge, my loue, my patience, my persecutions, my afflictions, which happened vnto me at Antioche, at Iconium, at Lystra, which persecutions I suffred patiently, and from the all the LORD deluyered me. Yee and all they that wil lyue godly in Christ Jesu, must suffre persecution. But the euell men and disceauers shal ware worse and worse, disceauynge and beyng disceaned.

But contrynue thou in the thinges that thou hast lerned, which also were comytred vnto the, seyngge thou knowest of whō thou hast learned them, And for so moch as thou hast knowne holy scripture of a childe, the same is able to make y wys vnto saluacion thorow the faich in Christ Jesu. For all scripture genē by inspiracion of God, is profitable to teach, to improue, to amende, and to instructe in righteousnes, that a man off God maye be perfecte, and prepared vnto all good woites.

The III. Chapter.

Testifie therfore before God z before the LORD Jesu Christ, which shal come to iudge the luyngge and the deed, at his appareynge in his kyngdom: each hon the woide, be feruent, be it out of feason: Improue, rebuke, h all longe sufferynge and doctryne wil come, whan they

shal not suffre wholsome doctryne, but after their awne lustes shal they (whose eares ytche) get them an heape of teachers, and shal turne their eares from the truthe, and shalbe geuen vnto fables. But watch thou in all thinges, suffre aduersite, do the woite of a preacher of the Gospel, fulfyll thine office vnto the vttemost.

For I am now ready to be offered, and the tyme of my departing is at hande. I haue foughte a good fighte: I haue fulfilled the course: I haue kepte the faich. From hence forth there is layedpp for me a crowne of righteousnes, which the LORD the righteous iudge shal geue me in y daye: wherfore not vnto me onely, but vnto all them that lone his comynge. Make spede to come vnto me at once.

For Demas hath lefte me, and leueth this present woide, and is departed vnto Tessalonica, Crescens in to Galacia, Titus vnto Dalmacia, Onely Lucas is with me. Take Marke, z bryngge him with the: for he is profitable vnto me to the mynistracion. Tychicus haue I sent to Ephesus. The cloke that I leste at Troada with Carpus bryngge with the whan thou comest: and the booke, but specially the parchemēt. Alexander the copperfrynch dyd me moch euell, the LORD rewarde him acordinge to his dedes, of whom be thou ware also. For he withstode oure woordes sore.

In my first answerynge no man assisted me, but all forsoke me. I praye God that he be not layed to their charges. Nor withstandynge the LORD stode by me, z strenghted me, that by me the preachinge shulde be fulfilled to the vttemost, and that all they the shulde heare. And I was deluyered out of the mouth of the lyon. And the LORD shal deluer me from all euell doyngge, and shal kepeme vnto his heauenly kyngdome. To whom be prayse for ever and ever. Amen.

Salute Pusca and Aquila, and y house holde of Onesiphorus. Erastus abode at Couthum. But Trophimus leste I sike at Miletū. Make spede to come before wynter. Eubolus, and Pudens, and Linas, and Claudia, and all the biethren salute the. The LORD Jesu Christ be with thy spere. Grace be with you, Amen.

The seconde epistle vnto Timothy, wrytten from Rome, whā Paul was presented the seconde tyme before the Emperoure Nero.

The Epistle of the Apostle S. Paul unto Titus.

The summe of this epistle.

Chap. I. Paul exhorteth Titus to ordene prestes or bishoppes in euery cite, declareth what maner of men they ought to be that are chosen to that office, and chargerh Titus to rebuke soch as withstande the gospel.

Chap. II. He telleth him how he shal teach all degrees to behaue them selues.

Chap. III. Of obedience to soch as bein auctorite. He warneth Titus to beware of foolish and vnprofitable questions.

The first Chapter.

IN the seruante of God, and an Apostle off Iesus Christ, to preach the faich off Gods electe, and the knowlege of y truthe, which ledeth vnto godlynes, vpon the hope of eternall life: which God that can not lye hath promysed before the tymes of the worlde: but at his tyme hath opened his worde thorow preachinge, which is comytred vnto me acordinge to the commandemēt of God oure Sanioure.

Vnto Titus my naturall sonne after y comen faich.

Grace, mercy, and peace from God the father, and fro the LORD Jesu Christ oure Sanioure.

For this cause leste I the in Creta, that thou shuldest persourme that which was lackynge, and shuldest ordeyne Elders in euery cite, as I appoynted y. If any be blamelesse, the husbände of one wife, hauynge faithfull children, which are not slaundered of ryote, nether are dishobedient. For a Bishoppe must be blamelesse, as the steward of God: not wylfull, not angrie, not geuen vnto moch wyne, no fyghter, not greddy of filchye lucre: but harbarous, one that lo-ueth goodnes, sober mynded, righteous, holy, temperate, and soch one as cleneth vnto the true woide of doctryne: that he maye be able to exhoite with wholsome lernynge. z to improue them that saye agaynst it.

For there are many dishobedient, and talkers of vanite, and disceauers of myndes: namely they of the circūcision, whose mouthes must be stopped: which peruerter whole houses, teachinge thinges which they oughte not, because of filchye lucre. One of them selues euen their awne prophet, sayde: The Cretayns are alwayes lyars, euell beetes, and slowe belien. This witness is true. Wherfore rebukethem sharply, y they maye be sonnde in the faich, and not to take hede vnto Jewes fables and commaundementes of men, which turne them awaye from the truthe. Vnto y cleane are all thinges cleane: but to the vnclane z vnbeleuers, there is nothynge cleane, but both their mynde z conscience is defyled. They saye that they knowe God, but with the dedes they denye him: for so moch as they are abhominable and dishobedient, and vnnete to all good woites.

The II. Chapter.

WH thou speake thou that which becometh wholsome lernynge. That y elder men be sober, honest, discrete, sounde in the faich, in loue, in patience. And the elder women likewise that they shewe them selues as it becometh holynes, that they be no false accusers, not geuen to moch wyne, that they teach honest thinges, that they enfourme the yonge women to be sober mynded, to lone their husbādes, to lone their childre, to be discrete, chaste, huswysly, good, obedient vnto their awne husbādes, that the woide of God be not euell spoken of. Exhoite the yonge men likewise, that they be sober mynded. Aboue all thinge shewe thy selfe an ensample off good woites, with vncorrupte doctryne, with honestye, with the wholsome woide which can not be rebuked: that he which withstandeth maye be ashamed, hauynge nothynge in you that he maye dispraye.

Exhoite the seruantes, to be obediēt vnto their masters, to please in all thinges, not answeringe agayne, nether to be pylers, but to shewe all good faithfull in all thinges they maye do to the doctryne off God oure Sanioure. For the grace of God that bryngeth nacion vnto all men, hath appeared, and teacheth vs, that we shulde denye vngodly nes, and * wordly lustes: and that we shulde lyue discretly, righteously, and godly in this worlde, loyng for that blessed hope and ap pearynge of the glory of y greate God and of oure Sauoure Jesu Christ: * which gaue him selfe for vs, to redeme vs fro all vnrighteousnes, and to pouge vs to be a peculiar people vnto himselfe, to be feruently geuen vnto good workes. These thinges speake and exhorte, and rebuke with all earnest. Se that no man despyse the.

The III. Chapter.

B Arne them * that they submytte them selues vnto Prynces and to the hyer auctorite, to obey the officers, to be ready vnto all good workes, that they speake euell of no man, that they be no stryvers, but soft, shewynge all mekenes vnto all men. For we oure selues also were in tymes past, vnwyse, disobedient, in erreure, seruyng lustes and dyuerse maners of voluptuousnes, lynyng in malicioussnes and enuye, full of hate, hatynge one another.

But after that y kyndnesse and loue of God oure Sauoure to man warde appeared, not for y dedes of righteousnes which we wroughte, but after his mercy he saued vs by the * fontayne of the new byrth, and rennyng of the holy goost, which he shed on vs abundantly, thorow Jesu Christ oure Sauoure: y we beyng made righteous * by his grace, shulde be heires of eternall li fe acordynge to hope. This is a true sayge.

B Of these thinges wolde I that thou shuldest speake earnestly, that they which are become belouers in God, might be diligent to excell in good workes: for these thinges are good and profiteable vnto me. As for folish questions, and genealogies, and braulynge and strynges aboute y lawe, auoyde the, for they are vprofitable and vayne. A ma that is geuen vnto heresy, after y first and seconde monicion, auoyde, and knowe, that he that is soch, is peruerred, z synneth euentlynned by his awne iudgment.

Whan I shal sende Artemas or Tichicus vnto y, make spede to come to me vnto Nicopolis, for I haue determyned there to ynter. Brynge Zenas y Scribe and Apol s on their iourney diligently, that nothin be lackynge vnto them. And let oures al excell in good workes, as farre as they maye, that they be not Ze reioysyth to heare of the faith and loue of Philemon, whom he despyeth to forgoe his seruante Onesimus, and loyngly to receaue him agayne.

And the prisoner of Jesu Christ, and brother Timotheus.

Vnto Philemon the beloued, and oure helper, and to the beloued Appia, and to Archippus & felowe sonny, and to the congregacion in thy house.

Grace be with you, and peace from God oure father and from the LORDE Jesu Christ.

I thanke my God, makynge mencionall wayes of the in my prayers (for so much as I heare of thy loue and faith which thou hast on the LORDE Jesu, and toward all sayntes) that oure comen faith maye be freefull in the, thorow knowlege of all y good that ye haue in Christ Jesu. Grete ioye and consolacion haue I in thy loue. For by the (brother) the sayntes are hertely refreshed.

Wherfore though I haue great boldnes in Christes commaunde the that which be cometh the, yet for loues sake I rather besite y, though I be as I am, en Paulage, and now a prisoner also of Jesu Christ. I besee the for my sonne * Onesimus (whom I haue begotten in my bondes) which in tyme past was to the vprofitable, but now profitable both to the and me. Whom I haue sent agayne: but receaue thou him (the is) euery myne awne hert. For I wolde haue kepte him styll with me, that in thy steade he might haue mynistrd vnto me in y bondes of y Gospell. Where theles without thy mynde wolde I do nothynge, that y good which thou doest, shulde not be of compulsion, but wyllingly.

now as a seruant, but aboue a seruant, euen a brother beloued, specially to me, but how much more vnto y, both in y flesh and in the LORDE: If thou holde me for thy companyon, receaue him then euen as my selfe. But yf he haue hurte the, or owerh the oughte, that laye to my charge. I Paul haue wrytten it with myne awne hande, I wil recompence it: so that I do not saye vnto y, how that thou owest vnto me euen thine owne selfe. Euen so brother, let me enioye the in the LORDE: refresh thou my hert in the LORDE.

Trustynge in thine obediēce, I haue wrytten vnto the, for I knowe that thou wilt do more then I saye. Moreover prepare me lodgynge, for I hope that thou wilt receaue me. I shal be geuen vnto you. There salute the, Epaphras my felowe prisoner in Christ Jesu, Marcus, Aristarchus, Demas, Lucas, my helpers. The grace of oure LORDE Jesu Christ be with youre sperte, Amen.

The first Epistle of the Apostle S. Peter.

The summe of this Epistle.

Chap. I. Ze sheweth that thorow the abundant mercy of God we are begotten agayne to a lyuely hope, and how faith must be tryed by the saluacion in Christ is no newe, but a thinge prophesied of olde. Ze exhorte the to a godly conuersacion, for so much as they are now borne a new by the worde of God.

Chap. II. Ze exhorte the men to laye asyde all vyce, sheweth that Christ is the foundation wher upon they be buylt, prayeth them to absteyne fro fleshy lustes, and to obeye worldly rulers. Now seruantes shulde behaue them selues toward their masters. Ze exhorte the to suffre after the ensample of Christ.

Chap. III. Now wyues ought to ordre them selues toward their husbands and in their apperell the dutye of me toward their wyues. Ze exhorte all men to write and loue, and patiently to suffre trouble. Of true baptisme.

Chap. IIII. Ze exhorte the men to cease from synne, to spende no more tyme in vyce, to be sober and apte to prayer, to loue each other, to be patient in trouble, and to beware that no man suffre as an euell doer, but as a Christen man, and not to be ashamed.

Chap. V. A speciall exhortacion for all bisshoppes or prestes to fede the flocke of Christ, and what their dutie is, and what rewarde they shal haue yf they be diligent. Ze exhorte the ponge personnes to submytt the selues to the elder, euery one to loue another, to be sober, & to watch, that they maye resist the enemye.

The first Epistle of the Apostle S. Peter.

The first Chapter.

Ze I am an Apostle of Jesu Christ, to the that dwell here and there as straungers thorow out Pontus, Galacia, Capadocia, Asia and Bithynia, electe acordynge to the foreknowlege of God the father thorow sanctifiēge of the sperte, vnto obediēce and * sprentlyng of the bloude of Jesu Christ.

Grace and peace be multiplied with you.

* Blessed be God and the father of oure LORDE Jesu Christ, which acordynge to his greatemercy hath begotten vs agayne vnto a lyuely hope * by the resurrection of Jesu Christ from the dead, to an incorruptible and vndesyled inheritaunce, which neuer shal fade awaye, but is reserved in heauen for you that are kepte by the power of God thorow faith to saluacion, which is prepared all ready to be shewed in the last tyme: in the which ye shal reioyse, though now for a litle season (yff neberequyre) ye are in heynes thorow many folde temptacions: that youre faith once tryed (beyng much more precious then the corruptible golde that is tryed thorow the fyre) might be founde vnto laude, glory and honoure at the appearynge of Jesu Christ: whom ye haue not sene, and yet loue him: * in whom now ye beleue, though ye se him not. Euen so shal ye reioyce also with vnoutspeakable and glorious ioye, receauynge the ende of youre faith, euen the saluacion of youre soules.

Of which saluacion the prophetes haue enquired and searched, which prophesied off the grace that shulde come vpon you: searchynge whan or at what tyme the sperte off Christ that was in them, shuld signifye, which (sperte) testified before the passions that shulde come vnto Christ, and the glory that shulde folowe after. Vnto the which (prophetes) it was declared, the not vnto them selues, but vnto vs the shuldemynter the thinges which are now shewed vnto you, by them which thorow holy goost sent downe from heauen, haue preached vnto you the thinges * in which angels delyteto beholde.

Wherfore gyde op the * i youre mynde, be sober, and trust

on the grace that is brought vnto you, by the declaringe of Iesus Christ, as obedient child, not fashionyng your selues to y^e olde lustes of ignorance: but as he which hath called you is holy, eue so be ye holy also in all youre conuersacion: for it is wrytten:

Be ye holy, for I am holy.
And yf so be that ye call on the father, which without respect of personnes indgeth, accordyng to every mans worke, se ye passe yf tyme of youre pilgrimage in feare: and knowe, that ye were not redeemed wth corruptible syluer and golde, from youre vayne conuersacion (which ye receaved by the tradicions of the fathers): but with the precious bloude of Christ, as of an innocent and undefyled lambe, which was ordeyned before the worlde was made, but is declared in these last tymes, for youre sakes, which thorow him beleue on God, that raysted him vp from the deed, and hath geue him the glory, that ye mighte haue faith & hope in God: Euen ye which haue purifyed youre soules in obeyenge the trueth thorow the spere, for to loue brotherly without faynyng, & feruently one to loue another wth a pure hert, as they that are borne a new, not of corruptible seide, but of vncorruptible, eue by the lyuynge worde of God, which endureth for ever. For all flesh is as grasse, and all the glory of man is as the floure of grasse. The grasse withereth, & the floure falleth awaye but the worde of the LORDE endureth for ever. This is the worde, that is preached amonge you.

Wherefore laye asyde all malitiousnes and all gyle, and ypocrisie, and enuy, and all bacbytinge, & as new borne babes desyre that reasonable mylke, which is without corrupcion, that ye maye growe therein, yf so be that ye haue. tasted how frendly the LORDE is. Vnto whom ye are come, as to the lyuynge stone, which is disallowed of men, but chosen of God and precious. And ye also as lyuynge stones are made a spirituall house, and an holy priesthode, to offere vp. spirituall sacrifices, acceptable vnto God by Iesus Christ. Wherefore it is conteyned in the scripture: Beholde, I put in Sion an heade corner stone, elect & precious, and he that beleueth on him, shal be cofounded. to be offended at, namely in the which stumble at yf worde, and beleue not that wheron they are set.

But ye are that chosen generacion, that kingly priesthode, that holy nation, that peculiar people, yf ye shulde sheare the vertues of him, which hath called you out of darkness in to his marvelous light: Euen you which in tyme past were not a people, but now are the people of God: which were vnder mercy, but now haue obtained mercy.
Dearly beloved, I beseeke you as strangers and pilgrims, absteyne fro the fleshly lustes, which fighte agaynst the soule, and lede an honest conuersacion amonge the heathen, that they which bacbyte you as euell doers, maye see youre good workes, and prayse God in the daye of visitacion.

Submytte youre selues vnto all maner ordinaunce of men for the LORDES sake whether it be vnto the kyng as vnto yf the heade, or vnto rulers, as vnto them that are sent of him, for the punishment of euill doers, but for the praye of the that do well. For so is the will of God, that ye with well doynge shulde put to sylence the ignorance of foolish men as fre, and not as hauynge the libertye for a cloke of wickednes, but as the seruantes of God. Honour all men. Loue brotherly fellowshipe. Feare God. Honour the kyng.

Ye seruantes, obey youre masters with all feare: not onely yf they be good and courteous, but also though they be frowarde. For that is grace, yf a man for consciencetowarde God endure greife, and suffre wronge. For what praye is it, yf wha ye be buffeted for y^e fautes, ye take it patiently? But yf whan ye do well, ye suffre wronge, and take it patiently, that is grace with God. For here vnto are ye called, for so much as Christ also suffred for vs, leauynge vs an ensample, that ye shulde folowe his footestepes, which dyd no synne, nether was there gyle founde in his mouth: which whan he was reuyled, reuyled not agayne: wha he suffred, he threatened not: but commytted the cause vnto him, that iudgeth righteously: which his owne selfe bare oure synnes in his body vpon the tre, that we shulde be deluyred from synne, & shulde lye vnto righteousnes: by whose strypes ye were healed. For ye were as shepe goynge astraye, but now are turned vnto the shepherde and Bisshoppe of youre soules.

The III. Chapter.

The first Epistle

of S. Peter. Ho. xvi.

Itemyse let the wyues be in subiection to their husbannes, that euen they which beleue not the worde, maye withoute the worde be wonne by yf conuersacion of the wyues, whan they beholde yf pure conuersacion in feare. Whose apperell shal not be outwarde wth brydded heer, & hanginge on of golde, or in puttyng on of gorgeous aray, but let yf inward m^a of yf hat be vncorrupte wth amekere & quyet spere, which before God is moch set by. For after this maner in the olde tyme, dyd yf holy wem^e which trusted in God, eyer the selues, & were obedient vnto their husbannes: Euen as Sara obeyed Abraham, and called him lord: whose doughters ye are, as longe as ye do well, not beyng afayed for eny trouble.
Likewyse ye men, dwell with them accordyng vnto knowlege, geuynge yf hono^r vnto the wife, as to the weaker vessel: & as vnto the yf are heyres with you of the grace of liue, that youre prayers be not let.

But in conclusion be ye all of one mynde, one suffre with another, loue as brethien, be pitifull, be courteous. Recopence not euell for euell, nether rebuke for rebuke: but contrary wyse, blesse: and knowe that ye are called thereto, euen yf ye shulde be heyres of yf blesynge. For who so listeth to lye, and wolde same le good dayes, let him refrayne his tonge from euell, and his lippes yf they speake no gyle. Let him eschue euell, & do good: let him seke peace and ensue it. For yf eyes of the LORDE are ouer the righteous, & his eares are open vnto their prayers. But yf fauour of the LORDE beholde the yf do euell. And who is it that can harme you, yf ye folowe that which is good? For with stoynge yf blessed are ye, yf ye suffre for righteousnes sake. Feare not yetheir threatnyng, ne ther be troubled, but sanctifye the LORDE God in youre hertes. Be ready allwayes to geue an answer to every m^a, that axeth you a reason of the hope that is in you, and that with mekenes & feare, hauynge a good conscience, that they which bacbyte you as euell doers, maye be ashamed, that they haue falsly accused youre good conuersacion in Christ.

For it is better (yf the wyll of God be so) that ye suffre for well doynge, the for euell doynge. For as much as Christ hath once suffred for oure synnes, yf iust for the vniust, for to bryng vs to God: & was slayne after the flesh, but quyetened after the spere.

In the which spere he also wente, and preached vnto yf spertes that were in prizon, which in tyme past beleued not, whan God once a bode and suffred patiently in the tyme of Noe, whyle the Arke was a preparynge: Wherin fewe (that is to saye eight soules) were saved by water. Which signifyeth yf bap tyme yf now saneth vs: not yf puttyng awaye of the fylch of the flesh, but in yf a good conscience consenteth vnto God by yf resurrection of Iesus Christ, which is on the righte hande of God, and is gone in to heaue, angels, power and mighte subdued vnto him.

The III. Chapter.

Or as moch then as Christ hath suffered for vs in yf flesh, arme youre selues likewyse with the same mynde. For he which suffreth in the flesh, ceaseth fro synne, yf hee forth (as moch tyme as yett remayneth in yf flesh) he shulde not lye after the lustes of me, but after the wil of God. For it is ynough, yf we haue spent yf tyme past of the life, after the will of yf heathen, wha we walked in wantannesse, lustes, dyconenes, glory, ryotous dryntynge, & abhominable Idolatrye. And it semeth to the a straungethinge, yf ye runne not also wth them vnto the same excess of ryote, & speake euell of you. (Which shal geue accptes vnto hi yf is ready to iudge yf quyet & yf deed.) For vnto this purpose also was yf Gospell preached vnto the deed, yf they shulde be iudged like other m^e & flesh, but shulde lye vnto God in yf spere. The ende of all thiges is at haue.

Be ye therfore sober & watch vnto praye: but aboute all thinges haue sentent loue amonge you one to another. For loue couereth the multitude of synnes. Be ye herberous one to another without grudgyng, & mynister one to another, everyone with the gifte yf he hath receaved, as good stewardestes of the manifest grace of God. If eny m^a speake, let hi speake it as yf wordes of God. If eny man haue an office, let him execute it as out of the power yf God mynistreth vnto hi, yf God maye be praysed in all thinges thorow Iesus Christ, To wh^o be hono^r and demynion for ever and ever Amen.

Dearly beloved, maruell not at this yf heate (which is come amonge you to trye you) as though some straunge thinge happened vnto you: but reioyce, in as moch as ye are partakers of Chustes passios, yf wha his glory appeareth, ye maye be mery & glad. If ye be reuyled for yf name of Christ, blessed are yf sperte (which is yf sperte of glory & resteth vpon you. On their parte spoken of, but on yf parte he is). But se that none of you si cherer, or as a these, or as an euell doer, or as a busy body in other mens matters. If any man suffice as a Christen man, let him not be ashamed, but let him prayse God on this behalfe. For tyme is come, that iudgment must begynne at the house of God. If it first begynne at vs, what shal the ende be of the which beleue not the Gospell of God? And yf yf righteous scarcely be saved, where shal yf vngodly & synner appeare? Wherefore let them that suffer accordynge to the will off God, commytte their soules vnto him with well doynge, as to the faithfull creator.

The V. Chapter.

The Elders which are amonge you I exhorte, which am also an Elder, and a witnes off the afflictions in Christ, and partaker of the glory that shal be opened. See Christes flocke which is amonge you, and take the oversight of the, not as though ye were compelled thereto, but wyllingly: not for the desyre of filchye lucre, but of a good mynde: not as though ye were lordes over the parishys, but that ye be an ensample to the flocke: & whan the chiefe shepherde shal appeare, ye shal receaue the incorruptible crowne of glory.

Likewyse ye yoger submytte youre selues vnto the elder. Submytte youre selues every man one to another, and knye yd selues together in lowlynes of mynde. For God resisteth the proude, but gentyll grace to the humble. Submytte yd selues therfore vnder the mightie hande of God, that he maye exalte you whan the tyme is come. Cast all youre care on him, for he careth for you.

Besober and watch, for yd aduersary yf denell, walketh aboute as a roaringe lion, sekynge whom he maye deuoure, whom resisteth fast in the faith, and knowe, that youre bretheren in the woulde haue euen the same afflictions.

But yf God of all grace, which hath called you to his everlastinge glory in Christ Jesu, shal his owne selfe make you perfecte, which suffice a litle season: en he shal settle, strength, and stablish you. To him be prayse and domynion for euer and euer, Amen.

By Siluanus youre faithfull brether (as I suppose) haue I wyrt vnto you breuely, exhorteinge and testifyenge, how that this is the true grace of God wherin ye stode. The seconde Epistle of the Apostle S. Peter.

The summe of this epistle.

Chap. I. For so moch as the power of God hath geuen them all thinges perryng to life, he exhorte the to fye the corrupcion of worldly lust, to make their callinge in with good workes and frutes of faith. He mentyon of his owne death, declaringe the LORDE Jesus to be the true sonne of God, as he himselfe hath sene vpon the mount.

Chap. II. He prophecieth of false teachers, and sheweth their punishment.

Chap. III. He exhorte the men to beware of such as wolde make the beleue, that the word of the LORDE were slacke in commynge, and them to lede a godly life, and to lode vnto the commynge of the LORDE, whiche taryenge is saluacion, and because he wolde haue no man lost, but wolde receaue all to repentaunce.

The first Chapter.

Simon Peter a seruant and an Apostle of Jesus Christ. Vnto the which we opayned like faith with vs in the righteousness that cometh of our God, and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Grace and peace be multiplied with y thorow the knowlege of God and of Jesus Christ our LORDE.

For so moch as his godly power hath geuen vs all thinges (that pertaine vnto life and godlynes) thorow the knowlege of the which hath called vs by his owne glorie and power, wherby the excellent and most gentyll promysse are geue vnto vs: namely, that ye by the same shulde be partakers of the godly nature, yf ye fye the corrupte lust of the woulde: Geue ye all youre diligence therfore here vnto, and in youre faith mynister vertue: in vertue, knowlege: in knowlege, temperancy: in temperancy, patience: in patience, godlynes: in godlynes, brotherly loue: in brotherly loue, generall loue. For these thinges be plenteous in you, they wil not let you be ydle nor vnfructfull in y knowlege of our LORDE Jesus Christ. But that lacketh these thinges, is blynde, & gropeth for the waye with the hade, and hath forgotten, that he was censed from his sinnes.

Wherefore (brether) geue the more diligence

ce, to make youre callinge and eleccion sure: for yf ye do such thinges, ye shal not fall, and by this meanes shal there be plenteously mynistered vnto you an entrynge in vnto y everlastinge kyngdome of our LORDE and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Therfore wil I not be negligēt to put you allwayes in remembraunce of such thinges: though ye knowe them youre selues, and be stablished in the present tructh. Notwithstandinge I thinke it meete, as longe as I am in this tabernacle, to sterc you vp by puttinge you in remembraunce. For I am sure, that I must shortly put of my tabernacle, euen as our LORDE Jesus Christ hath shewed vnto me. Yet wyl I do my diligēce, that allwaye after my departynge ye maye haue wherewith to kepe these thinges in remembraunce.

For we folowed not deceaueable fables, whan we declared vnto you the power and commynge of our LORDE Jesus Christ: but with our eyes we sawe his maiestie, whan he receaued of God the father honour & prayse, by a voyce that came vnto him from the excellent glory, after this maner: This is my deare sonne, in whom I haue deyle. And this voyce herde we broughte downe fro heauen, whan we were with him on the holy mount.

We haue also a sure worde of prophecie, and ye do well that ye take hede ther vnto, as vnto a lighte: that shyneth in a darke place vntill the daye dawne, and the daye starre aryse in youre hertes. And this shal ye knowe first, that no prophecie in the scripture is done of eny priuate interpretation. For the prophecie was neuer broughte by the wyl of man, but the holy men of God spake, as they were moued off y holy goost.

The II. Chapter.

But there were false prophetes also amonge the people, euen as there shalbe false teachers amonge you likewise, which preuely shal brynge in damnable sectes, euen denyenge the LORDE that hath boughte them, and shal brynge vpon them selues swift damnacion: and many shal folowe their damnable wayes, by whiche the waye of the tructh shal be euell spotted: and thorow curteousnes shal they with fayned wordes make marchaundise of you, vnto whiche the iudgment is not negligēt in tarien ge of olde, and their damnacion slepech not. For yf God spared not the angels that synned, but cast them downe with the cheynes of darknes in to hell, and deliuered the ouer to be kepte vnto iudgment: Neither Gen. 7. a spared the olde woulde, but saued Noe the preacher of righteousness himselfe beyng yf eight, and brought the floude vnto the woulde of the vngodly: And turned the cities of Gen. 19. a Sodom and Gomor into ashes, ouerthine them, damned them, and made on them an ensample, vnto those that after shulde lyue vngodly: And deliuered inst 2. oth which was vexed with the vngodly conversacion of yf wicked. For in so moch as he was righteous and dwelt amonge them, so that he must nedes se it and heare it, his righteous soule was grieved from to daye to daye with their vnlawfull dedes. The LORDE knoweth how to deliuer the godly out of tentacion, and how to reserue the vniust vnto the daye of iudgment for to be punished: but specially them that walke after the flesh in yf lust of vncleannes, and despyse the rulers: beyng presumptuous, stubboine, and feare not to speake euell of the yf are in auctourite: whiche Iuda. 1. b the angels yet which are greater both in power and might, beare not that blasphemous iudgment agaynst them of the LORDE. But these are as yf brute bestes, which Iuda. 12. a naturally are broughte forth to be catte and destroyed: speakeinge euell of yf they knowe Iuda. 1. b not, and shal perishe in their owne destruction, and foreceane yf rewarde of vnrightheousnes.

They counte it pleasure to lyue deliciously for a season: Spottes are they and fylthy: lyuynge at pleasure and in disceauable wayes: feastyng w that which is yourres, hauynge eyes full of aduoutrye, and can cease from synne, entysinge vnstable soules: hauynge an hert exercised w couetousnes: they are cursed children, and haue forsaken the righte waye, and are gone astraye: followinge the waye of Balaam the sonne of Num. 22. a Boso, which loued the rewarde of vnrightheousnes: but was rebuked of his iniquyte. The same and domme beast spake with mas voyce, & forbade the foolishnes of yf prophet.

These are welles without water, & cloydes caried aboute of a tēpest: to whiche yf myst Iuda. 1. c of darknesse is reserued for euer. For they speake yf proude wordes of vanite, vnto yf vtemost, and entyse thorow wantannes vnto yf luste of the flesh, euen them that were cleane escaped, and now walke in erreoure: and promyse them libertye, where as they them selues are seruautes off corrupcion. For off Ioh. 8. c whom so euer a man is overcome, vnto the same is he in bondage. For yf they (after Luc. 9. f they haue escaped from the fylthynges of the

we haue herde, which we haue sene with eyes, which we haue looked vpon, and of handes haue handled of the worde of life: and the life hath appeared, and we haue sene, and beare wytnes, and shewe vnto you y life that is everlastinge, which was with the father, and hath appeared vnto vs. That which we haue sene & herde, declare we vnto you, that ye also maye haue fellowshipe with vs, and that oure fellowshipe maye be with the father and with his sonne Iesus Christ.
And this wyte we vnto you, that your ioye maye be full.

And this is the trydynge which we haue
herde of him, & declare vnto you, that God is lighte, and in him is no darknes at all.
If we saye that we haue fellowshipe with him, and yet walke in darknes, we lye, and do not the trueth. But yf we walke in lighte, euen as he is in lighte, then haue we fel-lowschipp together, and the bloude of Iesus
Christ his sonne clenseth vs from all synne.
If we saye that we haue no synne, we disceane oure selues, and the trueth is not in vs. But yf we knowlege oure synnes, he is faithfull and iust to foregeue vs oure synnes, & to clense vs from all vnrightheousnes. If we saye, we haue not synned, we make him a liar, and his worde is not in vs.

The II. Chapter.

Little childien, these thinges wyte
I vnto you, that ye shulde not syn-ne: and yf eny man synne, we haue
an advocate with the father, euen Iesus Christ which is righteous: and he it is that optayneth grace for oure synnes: not for oure synnes onely, but also for the synnes of all the worlde. And hereby are we sure that we knowe him, yf we kepe his comaundemē

tes. He that sayeth: I knowe him, and kepeth not his comaundemētes, is a liar, and the trueth is not in him. But who so keperh his worde, in him is the loue of God perfecte in dede. Hereby knowe we, that we are in him. He yf sayeth he abyderh in him, oughte to walke euen as he walked.

Brethren, I wyte no new comaundement vnto you, but that olde comaundement, which ye haue herde from the begyn-nyng: The olde comaundement is the worde, which ye haue herde from the begynnynge. Agayne, a new comaundement wyte I vnto you, a thinge that is true in him & also in you: for the darknesse is past, and the true lighte now shyneth.

He that sayeth he is in lighte, and hateth his brother, is yet in darknesse. He yf loneth his brother, abyderh in the lighte, and there is none occasion of feuell in him. But he yf hateth his brother, is in darknes, and walketh in darknes, and can not tell whither he goeth, for yf darknes hath blynded his eyes.

Babes, I wyte vnto you, that yf syn-nes are foregeuen you for his names sake. I wyte vnto you fathers, how that ye haue knowne him which is from y begynnynge.
I wyte vnto you yongemen, how that ye haue overcome the wicked. I wyte vnto you little childien, how that ye haue knowne the father. I haue wyrtten vnto you fathers, how that ye haue knowne him, which is fro
the begynnynge. I haue wyrtten vnto you yongemen, how that ye are stronge, and the worde of God abyderh in you, and ye haue overcome that wicked.

Se that ye loue not the worlde, nether yf thinges that are in the worlde. If eny man loue the worlde, the loue of the father is not in him: for all that is in the worlde (namely the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pryde of life) is not of the father, but of the worlde. And the worlde passeth awaye and the lust therof. But he that ful-fyllerh the wyll of God, abyderh foreuer.

Little childien, it is the last houre, and (as ye haue herde that Antechrist shal come) euen
now are there many become Antechrist-tes already: whereby we knowe, that it is yf last houre. They wente out fro vs, but they were not of vs: for yf they had bene of vs, they wolde no doute haue contynned with vs. But that they maye be knowne, how that they are not all of vs.

nyng. For it had bene better for them, not to haue knowne the waye of rightheousnes,
then after they haue knowne it, to turne
from the holy comaundement, that was geuen vnto them. It is happened vnto them acordynge vnto the true prouery: yf dogg is turned to his vomyte agayne, and yf swine that was washed, vnto hir walowynge in

The III. Chapter.

This is the seconde Epistle that I now wyte vnto you (ye dearly beloued) wherein I stire vp and warne your pure mynde, that ye maye remembre
the wordes, which weretolde before of the holy prophetes: and also the comaundement of vs, that be the Apostles of the LOR-DE and Sauoure.

This first vnderstonde, that in the last dayes there shal come mockers, which wyll walke after their awne lustes, & saye: Where is the promes of his commynge? For sence the fathers fell on slepe, euery thinge contynuech as it was from the begynnynge of y creature. This they knowe not (and that wylfully) how that the heauens were afore tyme also, and the earth out of the water, & was in the water by the worde of God, yet was the worlde at that tyme destroyed by the same with the floude. But the heauens which are yet, and yf earth, are kepte in store by his worde, to be reserued vnto fyre agaynst the daye of iudgment and damnacion of vngodly men.

Dearely beloved, be not ignorant of this one thinge, how that one daye is with the LORDE as a thousande yeare: and a thousande yeare as one daye. The LORDE is not slacke to fulfyll his promes (as some mecounthe slacknesse) but is paciēt to vs warde, and wyl not that eny mā shulde be lost,
but that everyman shulde amende himselfe.
Nevertheless, the daye of the LORDE shal come euen as a thefe in the night: in the which (daye) the heauens shal perishe with a greate noyse, and the Elementes shal mel-te with heate, and the earth and yf workes
that are therein, shal burne.

If all these thinges shal perishe, what maner persons then ought ye to be in holy conuersacion and godlynes, lokyng for and hastyng vnto the commynge of the LOR-DE: In the which the heauens shal perishe with fyre, and the elementes shal melte with heate. Nevertheless, we loke for a new heauen and a new earth, acordynge to his promes wherein dwelleth rightheousnes.

Wherefore dearly beloved, seynge that ye loke for such thinges, be diligent, yf ye maye
be founde before him in peace without spee
and vndefyled: and counte the long sufferynge of oure LORDE youre saluacion. Euen as oure dearly beloved brother Paul (acor-dinge to the wysdome geue vnto him) wyte vnto you: yee speakinge therof almost in all Epistles, wherein are many thinges har-de to be vnderstonde, which they that are vnierned and vnstable, peruerse, as they do the other scriptures also, to their awne di-nacion.

Ye therfore beloved, seynge ye knowe
before hande, beware, lest ye also be plucke awaye thorow the erreure of yf wicked, and fall from yf owne stedfastnes. But growe in grace, and in the knowlege of oure LOR-DE and Sauoure Iesus Christ. To him be praise now and for ever, Amen.

of S. Iohn.

but ye knowe it, & are sure, & no lye cometh of y^e trouth. Who is a liar, but he y^e denyeth y^e Jesus is Christ: The same is y^e Antichrist, y^e denyeth the father & y^e sonne. Whosoever denyeth the sonne, the same hath not the father. Loke what ye have herde now from y^e begynnynge, let the same abyde in you. Yf y^e which he herde from the begynnynge shal remayne in you, then shal ye also abyde in y^e sonne and in the father. And this is the promys y^e hath promysed vs, eu^er eternall life.

1 Jo. 2. 23
1 Jo. 2. 24

This haue I wrytten vnto you concerninge the that disceane you. And the anoyntinge which ye haue receaued of him, dwelleth in you: & ye nede not y^e any mā teach you, but as the anoyntinge teacheth you all thinges, euen so is it true, & is no lye. And as it hath taughte you, eu^er so abyde ye therein. And now babes, abyde in hi, y^e whā he shal appeare, we maye be bolde, & not be made ashamed of him at his commynge. Yf ye knowe y^e he is righteous, knowe also that he which doth righteousness, is borne of him.

The III. Chapter.

Wholde what lone the father hath shewed on vs, y^e we shulde be called the childre of God. Therefore y^e wolde knoweth you not, because it knoweth not him. Dearly beloved, we are now y^e childre of God, and yet hath it not appeared what we shalbe. But we knowe y^e when he shal appeare, we shal be like him: for we shal se him as he is. And every man y^e hath this hope in him, pourgeth him selfe, euen as he is pure. Who so euer comyttereth synne, comyttereth vnrighteousnes also, and synne is vnrighteousnes. And ye knowe that he appeared to take awaye oure synnes: and in him is no synne. Who so euer abyde in him, synneth not: who so euer synneth, hath not sene him nether knowne him.

Luc. 20. d
1 Jo. 2. 22
1 Jo. 2. 23
1 Jo. 2. 24

Babes, let no man disceane you. He that doeth righteousness, is righteous, euen as he is righteous. He that comyttereth synne, is of the deuell: for the deuell synneth since y^e begynnynge. For this purpose appeared the sonne of God, to loose the woordes of the deuell. Whoso euer is borne of God, synneth not: for his sēde remayneth in him, & he cā not synne, because he is borne of God. Y^e this are the children of God knowne & the children of the deuell. Who so euer doeth not righteousness, is not of God, nether he loveth not his brother.

1 Jo. 2. 22

man this is the tydinges which ye haue couerled on the begynnynge, that ye shulde haue sene another, not as Cain, which was of the wicked, and slewe his brother. And wherfore slewe he him? euen because his awne woordes were euell, and his brothers righteous. Maruayle not (my brethren) though the wolde hate you. We knowe y^e we are translated from death vnto life, because we loue the brethren. He that loveth not his brother, abyde in death. Whosoever hateth his brother, is a manslayer. And ye knowe that a manslayer hath not eternall life abydinge in him.

Hereby haue we perceaued lone, that he gaue his life for vs, and therfore ought we also to geue oure lyues for the brethren. But he y^e hath this wolde good, & feyth his brother haue nede, and sturteeth vp his hert frō him, how dwelleth the lone of God in him? My litle children, let vs not loue with wordes nether with tonge, but with y^e dede, and with the trouth. Hereby knowe we, that we are of the verite, and can quyte oure hertes before him. But yf oure hert condemne vs, God is greater the oure hert, and knoweth all thinges. Dearly beloved, yf oure hert condemne vs not, then haue we a fre boldnes to God warde. And what so euer we aske, we shal receaue it: because we kepe his commandementes, and do those thinges, which are pleasaunt in his sighte.

And this is his comāndement, that we beleue on y^e name of his sonne Jesus Christ, and loue one another, as he gaue comāndement. And he that keperh his comāndementes, dwelleth in him, and he knoweth him. And hereby knowe we that he abyde in vs, euen by the sperte which he hath geuen vs.

The III. Chapter.

Early beleued, beleue not ye any sperte, but proue the spertes, whether they be of God. For many false prophetes are gone out in to the world. Hereby shal ye knowe the sperte of God. Every sperte which confesseth, that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is of God: And every sperte which confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is not of God. And this is that sperte of Antichrist, off whom ye haue herde, how that he shal come, and euen now already is he in the world. Litle children, ye are off God, and haue overcome them: for greater is he that is in you, then he that is in the world. They are off the world, therefore speake they off the world, and the world heareth vnto them. We are of God, and he that knoweth God, hearkeneth vnto vs.

The first Epistle

of S. Iohn. Ho. xcix.

he that is not of God, heareth vs not. Here by knowe we the sperte of trouth, and y^e sperte of erroure.

Dearly beloved, let vs loue one another, for lone cometh of God. And every one y^e loneth, is borne of God, and knoweth God. He that loneth not, knoweth not God: for God is lone. By this appeared the lone of God to vs warde, because that God sent his onely begotten sonne in to this world, that we mighte lyue thowow him. Herein is lone, not that weloued God, but that he loued vs, and sent his sonne to make agremēt for oure synnes.

Dearly beloved, yf God so loued vs, we oughte also to loue one another. No man hath sene God at any tyme. Yf we loue one another, God dwelleth in vs, and his lone is perfecte in vs. Hereby knowe we that we dwell in him, and he in vs, because he hath geuen vs of his sperte. And we haue sene, & testifie that the father sent the sonne to be the Saviour of the world. Whosoever now confesseth y^e Jesus is the sonne of God in him dwelleth God, and he in God: and we haue knowne and beleued the lone that God hath to vs.

God is lone, and he that dwelleth in lone dwelleth in God, and God in him. Here in is the lone perfecte with vs, that we shulde haue a fre boldnesse in the daye of iudgment: for as he is, eu^er so are we in this world. Feare is not in lone, but perfecte lone casteth out feare: for feare hath paynesfulness. He that feareth, is not perfecte in lone.

Let vs loue him, for he loued vs first. Yf any man saye: I loue God, & yet hateth his brother, he is a liar. For he that loveth not his brother whom he seyth, how can he loue God, whom he seyth not? And this comāndement haue we of him, that he which loveth God, shulde loue his brother also.

The V. Chapter.

Who so euer beleueth that Jesus is Christ, is borne of God. And who so euer loneth him that begat, loveth him also which was begotten of him. By this we knowe that we loue Gods children, when we loue God, and kepe his comāndementes. For this is the lone of God, that we kepe his comāndementes, and his comāndementes are not greuous. For all that is borne of God, overcome the world: and this is the victory that overcome the world, eu^er oure faith. Who is it y^e overcome the world, but he which beleueth that Jesus is the sonne of God?

This is he that cometh with water and bloude, euen Jesus Christ: not with water onely, but with water and bloude. And it is the sperte that beareth wytnes: for the sperte is the trouth. (For there are thre which beare recorde in heauen: the father, the worde, and the holy goost, & these thre are one.) And there are thre which beare recorde in earth: the sperte, water and bloude, and these thre are one.

If we receaue the witnesse of men, the witnesse of God is greater: for this is the wytnesse of God, which he testified of his sonne. He that beleueth on y^e sonne of God, hath the wytnes in him selfe. He that beleueth not God, hath made him a liar. And this is that recorde, euen y^e God hath geuen vs eu^erlastinge life. And this life is in his sonne. He that hath the sonne of God, hath life: he that hath not the sonne of God, hath not life.

These thinges haue I wrytten vnto you, which beleue on the name of the sonne of God, that ye maye knowe, how that ye haue eu^erall life, and that ye maye beleue on y^e name of the sonne of God. And this is the fre boldnesse which we haue toward him, that yf we aske any thinge acordinge to his wyll, he heareth vs. And yf we knowe that he heareth vs what so euer we aske, then are we sure that we haue y^e petitions, which we haue desired of him.

If any man se his brother synne a synne not vnto death, let him aske, and he shal geue him life, for the synne not vnto death. There is a synne vnto death, for the which I saye I not that a man shulde praye. All vnrighteousnes is synne, and there is synne not vnto death.

He wyrteth vnto a certayne lady, reioyseth that her children walke in the trueth, exhorteth the vnto loue, warneth them to beware of such disceauers as denye that Iesus Christ came in the flesh, prayeth them to contynue in the doctrine of Christ, and to haue nothinge to do with them that bringe not this lernyng.

In the Elder. To y electe lady and hir childre whom I loue in the trueth: & not I only, but all they also that haue knowne the trueth, for the truthe sake which dwelleth in vs, and shalbe with vs for ever.

Grace, mercy, and peace be with you fro the LORDE Iesus Christ & some of the fathers in the trueth and in loue.

I am greatly reioysed, that I haue founde amonge thy children, them that walke in y trueth, as we haue receaued a commaundement of the father. And now lady I beseeke the (not as though I wrote a new commaundement vnto the, but the same which we haue had from the begynnynge) that we loue one another. And this is the loue, that we walke after his commaundementes.

This is the commaundement (as ye haue herde fro the begynnynge) that we shulde walke therin. * For many disceauers are come in to the worlde, which confesse not y Iesus Christ is come in the flesh: this is a disceauer and an Antechrist. Take hede to youre selues, that we lose not that which we haue wrought, but that we maye receaue a full rewarde. Whoso cuer transgresseth, and abydeh not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God: he that abydeh in y doctrine of Christ, hath both the father and the sonne.

* If eny man come vnto you, and bringe not this doctrine, receaue him not in to the house, nether salute him: for he that saluteth him, is partaker of his euell dedes. I had many thinges to wyte vnto you: neuerthe-

He is glad of Gaius, that he walketh in the trueth, exhorteth him to be lounge vnto the poore christen in their persecucion, sheweth the vynde dealinge of Diotrephes, and the good reporte of Demetrius.

In the Elder. To the beloued Gaius, whom I loue in the trueth. My beloued, I wyrteth she in all thinges, that thou prospere and fare well even as thy soule prospereth. I reioysed greatly, when the biethren came, and testified of the trueth that is in y, how thou walkest in the trueth. I haue no greater ioye, the to heare that my childre walke in the trueth.

My beloued, * thou doest faithfullly what so ener thou doest to the biethren and to straungers, which haue borne witness of thy loue before the congregacion: and thou hast done well that thou dydest bringe them forwarde on their iourney, worthily before God. For because of his names sake they wente forth, and toke nothinge of the biethren. We therfore oughte to receaue such, that we mighte be helpers vnto the trueth.

I wrote to the congregacion, but Diotrephes, which loueth to haue the preeminence amonge them, receaued vs not. Wherefore, if I come, I wil declare his dedes which he doeth, leastinge vps vs with malicious wordes: nether is he therewith content. Nor only he himselfe receaueth not the biethren, but also he forbyddeth them that wolde, and thrusteth them out of the congregacion.

My beloued, folowe not y which is euell, but that which is good. He that doeth well, is of God: but he that doeth euell, seyth not God. Demetrius hath good reporte of all men, and of the trueth: yee and we oure selues also beare recorde, and ye knowe that oure recorde is true. I had many thinges to wyte, but I wolde not with ynke, and papyr wyte vnto the. But I trust shortly to see the, and so wil we speake together mouth to mouth. Peace be with the. The louers salute the. Chap. I. How God dealt lounge with the of the olde tyme in sendynge them his prophetes, but moche more mercy hath he shewed vs in that he sent vs his owne sonne. Of the most excellent glory of Iesus Christ, which in all thinges is like to his father.

Chap. II. He exhorteth vs to be obedient vnto the new lawe which Christ hath geuen vs and not to be offended at the infirmitie and lowe degre of Christ: & whyt it was necessary that for oure sakes he shulde take such an humble state vpon him, that he mighte be like vnto his biethren.

Chap. III. He requyeth vs to be obedient vnto the worde of Christ, which is more worthy then Moses. The punishment of such as wyll needs harden their hertes.

Chap. IIII. The Sabbath or rest of the Christen punishment of vnbelouers. The nature of the worde of God.

Chap. V. Christ is oure hyeprest, the seate of grace, and more excellent then the hyeprestes of the olde lawe.

Chap. VI. He goeth forth with the thinge that he beganne in the latter ende of the fyft chapter, and exhorteth them not to faynt, but to be stedfast and patient: for so moche as God is sure in his promesse.

Chap. VII. He compareth the presthode of Christ vnto Melchisedech, but to be farre more excellent.

Chap. VIII. The office of Christ is more worthy then the prestes office of the olde lawe, which was vnperfecte, and therfore abrogate.

Chap. IX. The profit and worthynesse of the olde Testament, and how farre the new excelleth it.

Chap. X. The olde lawe had no power to clese away synne, but Christ dyd it with offerynge vps his body once for all. An exhortacion to receaue this goodnesse of God that fully with patience and stedfast faith.

Chap. XI. What faith is, and a commendacion of the same. The stedfast beleue of the fathers in olde tyme.

Chap. XII. An exhortacion to be patient and stedfast in trouble and aduersite, vpon hope of enerlastinge rewarde. A commendacion of the new Testament above the olde.

Chap. XIII. He exhorteth vs vnto loue, to hospitalite, to thinke vpon such as be in aduersite, to manteyne wedlocke, to avoyde curtosnesse, to make moche of the that preache Gods worde, to beware of straunge lernynge, to be content to suffer rebuke with Christ, to be thankful vnto God, and obedient vnto oure heaues.

The first Chapter.

GOD in tyme past diuersly & many wayes, spake vnto y fathers by prophetes, but in these last dayes he hath spoken vnto vs by his sonne, * whom he hath made heyre of all thinges, by whom also he made the worlde. * Which (sonne) beyng the brightnes of his glory, & the very ymage of his substaunce, bearinge vp all thinges with the worde of his power, * hath in his owne personne purged oure synnes, and is set on the righte hande of the maiestie on hye: beyng eue as moche more excellent the y angels, as he hath optayned a more excellent name then they.

For vnto which of the angels sayde he at eny tyme: Thou art my sonne, this daye haue I begotten the? And agayne: * I will be his father, & he shalbe my sonne: And agayne, wha he bringeth in the fyft begotte sonne in to the worlde, he sayeth: * And all the angels of God shal worshippe him. And of the angels he sayeth: He maketh his angels spieres, & his mynisters flames of fyre. But vnto y sonne he sayeth: * God, y seate endureth for euer & euer: the cepter of y kyngdome is a right cepter. Thou hast loved righteousnes, & hated iniquyte: wherfore God (which is thy God) hath anoynted the with the oyle of gladnesse above y felowes. * And thou LORDE in y begynnynge hast layed the foundation of the earth, and y heaues are the workes of thy handes, * they shal perishe, but thou shalt endure: they all shal ware olde as doth a garment, and as a vesture shalt thou chaunge them, and they shalbe chaunged. But thou art y same, and thy yeares shal not fayle. Vnto which of the angels sayde he at eny tyme: * Syt thou on y righte hande, tyll I make thyne ene neare thy fete stole: Are they not all synners? & spieres, sent to mynister for t, as, which shalbe heyres of saluacion.

The Epistle

The II. Chapter.

Wherfore we oughte to gethe more hede vnto the thinges which we haue herde, lest we perishe. For yf the worde which was spoken by angels, was stedfast, and every trasgression and disobedience receaued a iust recompence of rewarde, how shal we escape, yf we despise so grea-

Heb. 1. 1. c de it, God bearynge witness thereto, with tokens, wonders and dyuerse powers, and giftes of the holy goost accordinge to his owne wyll.

For vnto the angels hath he not subdued the worlde to come, wherof we speake. But one in a certayne place witnesseth & sayeth: What is man, that thou art myndefull of him? or the sonne of man, that thou vntest him? After thou haddest for a litle season made him lower the angels, thou crownedst him with honoure and glory, and hast set him aboue the workes of thy handes. Thou hast put all thinges in subieccion vnder his fete. In that he subdued all thinges vnto him, he lefte nothinge that is not put vnder him. Nevertheless now se we not all thinges yet subdued vnto him. But him, which for a litle season was made lesse then the angels, we se that it is Jesus: which is crowned with honoure and glory for the sufferynge of death, that he by the grace of God, shulde raise of death for all men. For it became him, for whom are all thinges, and by whome are all thinges (after he had broughte many children vnto glory) that he shulde make the LORDE of their saluacion perfecte thowrow sufferynge, for so moch as they all come of one, both he that sanctifieth, & they which are sanctified.

For the which causes sake, he is not ashamed to call them brethren, sayenge: I will declare thy name vnto my brethren, and in the myddes of the congregacion wil I prayse the. And agayne: I wil put my trust in him. And agayne: beholde, here am I and my children, which God hath geuen me.

For as moch then as the children haue flesh and bloude, he also himselfe likewise toke parte with them, & he thowrow death, mighte take awaye & power of him, which had lordshippe ouer death, that is to saye, yf denell: that he mighte deliuer the which thowrow feare of death were all their liue tyme in daunger. ham tabeth he on him. Wherfore in all thinges it became him to be made like vnto his brethren, that he mighte be mercifull and a faithfull hyeprest in thinges concerninge God, to make agrement for the synnes of people. For in that he himselfe suffered and was tempted, he is able to succer them that are tempted.

The III. Chapter.

Wherfore holy brethren, ye that are partakers of the heavenly callinge, consyder the Embeassatour and hyeprest of our profession, Christ Jesus, which is faithfull to him that ordeyned him, even as was Moses in all his house. But this man is worthy of greater honoure then moyses, in as moch as he which prepareth the house, hath greater honoure in it, then the house it selfe. For every house is prepared of some man: but he that ordeyned all thinges, is God. And Moses verely was faithfull in all his house as a mynister, to beare witness of those thinges which were to be spoken afterwarde: But Christ as a sonne hath rule ouer his house, whose house are we, yf we holde fast the confidence and reioysynge of that hope vnto the ende.

Wherfore, as & holy goost sayeth: Todaye yf ye shal heare his voyce, harden not youre hertes, as in the promysse in the daye of temptacion in the wyldernes, wher your fathers tempted me, proued me, and sawe my workes for ye yeres longe. Wherfore I was greued wth that generacion, and sayde: They erre ever in their hertes. But they knewe not my wayes, so that I swam in my wrath, that they shulde not enter into my rest.

Take hede brethren, that there be not in eny of you an euell hert of vnbeleue, to departe from the lynynge God: but exhorte youre selues daylie, whyle it is called todaye, lest eny of you ware hardhearted thowrow yf disceitfulnes of synne. For we are become partakers of Christ, yf we kepe sure vnto yf ende the begynnynge of the substance, solonge as it is sayde: Todaye, yf ye shal heare his voyce, harden not youre hertes, as in the promysse. For some whan they herde, prouoked, howbeit not all they came out of Egypte by Moses. But with whom was he displeased fortye yeres longe? Was he not displeased with them & synned, whose carcases were ouerthrowne in the wyldernes? To whom swaue he, & they shulde not enter in to his rest, but vnto the & beleued not? And wese they coulde not enter in because of vnbeleue.

The Epistle

The III. Chapter.

Let vs feare therfore, lest eny of vs forsake the promysse of enterynge in to his rest, shulde seme to come behinde: for it is declared vnto vs as well as vnto the. But the worde of preachynge helped not the, whan they that herde it, beleued it not. (For we which haue beleued, enter in to his rest) accordynge as he sayde: Euen as I haue swome in my wrath, They shal not enter in to my rest. And what spake he) verely longe after that the workes fro the begynnynge of the worlde were made: For he spake in a certayne place of the seuenth daye, on this wyse: And God rested on the seuenth daye from all his workes. And in this place agayne: They shal not come in to my rest.

Seynge it foloweth the, that some must enter there in to: and they, to whom it was first preached, entered not therein for vnbeleue sake, therfore appoynteth he a daye agayne after so longe tyme, and sayeth: Todaye (as it is rehearsed by David) Todaye yf ye shal heare his voyce, then harden not youre hertes. For yf Josua had geuen them rest, the wolde he not afterwarde haue spoken, of another daye. Therfore remaineth there yet a rest vnto the people of God. For he that is entered in to his rest, ceaseth from his workes, as God doth from his.

Let vs make hast therfore to enter in to that rest, lest eny man fall after the same ensample of vnbeleue. For & worde of God is quicke, and mightie in operacion, and sharper then eny two edged swerde, and entereth thowrow, euen to the denynginge of the soule & the spere, and of yf ioyntes & the mary, and is a iudger of the thoughtes & intetes of the hert, necher is there eny creature invisible in sighte of him. But all thinges are naked & bare vnto the eyes of hi of whome we speake.

The V. Chapter.

Seynge then that we haue a greahyeprest, eue Jesus & sonne of God, which is entered in to heauen, let vs holde oure profession. For we haue not an hyeprest which can not haue compassion on our infirmities, but was in all poyntes tempted, like as we are, but without synne. Let vs therfore go boldly vnto the seate of grace that we maye receaue mercy, and fynde grace to helpe in the tyme of nede.

For every hyeprest that is taken fro among men, is ordeyned for men in thinges pertaininge to God, to offer giftes and sacrifices for synners which can haue compassion on the ignorant, and on them that are out of the waye, for so moch as he himselfe also is compassed aboute with infirmyte. Therfore is he bounde to offer for synners, as well for him selfe as for yf people. And nomā taketh & honoure vnto himselfe, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron.

Euen so Christ glorified not himselfe to be made hyeprest, but he & sayde vnto him: Thou art my sonne, this daye haue I begotten the. As he sayeth also in another place: Thou art a prest for ever after the order of Melchisedech. And in yf dayes of his fleshe, he offered vp prayers & supplications, wth strege cryenge & teares vnto him & was able to saue him fro death: & was herde also, because he had God in honoure. And though he was Gods sonne, yet lerned he obedience, by those thinges which he suffered. And he beyng made perfecte, became the cause of euerlastynge saluacion, vnto all the & obeye him, and is called of God an hyeprest after the order of Melchisedech. Wherof we haue many thinges to saye, which are hard to be vttered, because ye are dull of hearynge. For where as concernynge the tyme ye oughte to be teachers, yet haue ye nede agayne, & we teach you the first preceptes of the worde of God: and are become such as haue nede of mylke, and not stronge meate. The VI. Chapter.

Wherfore let vs leaue the doctryne of pertaynyng to the begynnynge of a Christen life, and let vs go vnto perfeccion: and now nomore laye & foundation of repentaunce from deed workes, and of faith toward God, of baptyeme, of doctryne, of layenge on of handes, of resurreccion of the deed, & of eternall iudgment. And so wil we do yf God permytte. For it is not possible, that they which were once lighted, and haue tasted of the heavenly gyfte, and are become partakers of the holy goost, & haue tasted of & good worde of God, and of the power of the worlde to come, yf they fall awaye (and concernynge them selues crucifye the sonne of God afreshe, and make mocke off him) that they shulde be re-

Nevertheless (ye dearly beloued) we trust to se better of you, and & saluaciō is nyer, though we thus speake. For God is not vnrighteous, that he shulde forget your worke and laboure of loue, which ye shewed in his name, whan ye mynistrēd vnto the sayntes, and yet mynister. Yee and we desyre, that every one of you shewethe same diligence, to the stablyshinge of hope euen vnto the ende, that ye saynte not, but folowe them which thorow faith and paciēce inheret the promyses. For whan God made promes to Abraham, because he had no greater to sweare by, he sweare by himselfe, and sayde: Surely I wil blesse the and multiplye & in dede. And so he abode paciēly, and optayned the promes.

Mat. 23. d

Gen. 22. c

Exo. 22. b

As for men, they sweare by him that is greater then them selues: and the ooth is the ende of all stryfe to confirme the thinge amonge them. But God, wyllinge very abundantly to shewe vnto the heyres of promes the stableness of his counsell, added an ooth & by two immutable thinges (in the which it is vnpossible & God shulde lye) we might haue a stronge consolacion: euen we, which are fled to holde fast the hope that is set before vs, which (hope) we haue as a sure and stedfast anker of oure soule. Which (hope) also entreth in, in to those thinges that are within & vayne, whiche the fouerūner is for vs entred in, eue Jesus, which is made an hye priest for euer after & order of Melchisedech.

The VII. Chapter.

Gen. 14. a

This Melchisedech kynge of Salem (which beyng priest of the most hye God, met Abraham as he returned agayne from the slaughter of the kynge, & blessed him, vnto whom Abraham also gaue riches of all the goodes) first is by interpretacon kynge of righteousness: after that is he kynge of Salem also (that is to saye, kynge of peace) without father, without mother, without kynne, and hath nether begynnynge of dayes, ner ende of life: but is likened vnto the sonne of God, and contynueth a priest for euer.

But consider how greates a man this was, to whom the Patriarke Abraham gaue riches of the spoyle. And verely the children eue, whan they receaue the presthode, many demerit accordynge to the riches of the people, that their brethren, though they also came out of the loynes of Abraham.

But he whose kynred is not counted amonge them, receaued riches of Abraham, and blessed him that had the promes. Now is it so without all naysayenge, that the lesser ceaueth blessing of & better. And here men that dye, receaue riches. But there he receaue riches, of whom it is witnessed that he lyueth. And to saye the truer, I am myselfe also which receaue riches, payed riches in Abraham: for he was yet in the loynes of his father Abraham, whan Melchisedech met him.

If now therfore persecucion came by the presthode of the Leuites (for vnder the same (presthode) the people receaued the lawe) what neded it then further more, that another priest shulde ryse after the order of Melchisedech, and not after the order of Aaron? For yf the presthode be translated, the necessite must the lawe be translated also. For he of whom these thinges are spoken of another trybe, of the which neuer man is used at the altare.

For it is euident, that oure LORDE sprang of the trybe of Juda, to the which trybe Moses spake no thinge concerninge presthode. And it is yet a more euident thinge, yf after the similitude of Melchisedech there arise another priest, which is not made after & lawe of the carnall commandement, but after the power of the endlessse life (for he testifieth: Thou art a priest for euer after the order of Melchisedech) then the commandement that wente before, is disannulled, because of his weaknesse, and vnprofitableness. For the lawe made no thinge perfecte, but was an introduccion of a better hope, by & which hope we drawe nye vnto God. And for this cause is it a better hope, & it was not promysed without an ooth. Those prestes were made without an ooth, but this priest with an ooth, by him that sayde vnto him: The LORDE swaie, and wyl not repent: Thou art a priest for euer after the order of Melchisedech. Thus is Jesus become a stablysher of so much a better Testament.

And amonge them many were made prestes, because they were not suffred to endure by the reason of death. But this man, because that he endureth euer, hath an euerslashing presthode. Wherefore he is able also eue to saue them, that come vnto God by him: & lyueth euer, to make intercession for vs.

For it became vs to haue soch an hye priest as is holy, innocent, vndefyled, separated from synners, and made hyer then heauen:

which nedeth not daylie (as yonder hye prestes do offere vp sacrifice first for his awne synnes, and then for the peoples synnes. For that dyd he once for all, whan he offered vp him selfe. For the lawe maketh men prestes which haue infirmitie: but the worde of the ooth, that came sence the lawe, maketh the some prest, which is perfecte for euer more.

The VIII. Chapter.

The thinges which we haue spoken, this is the pyth: We haue soch an hye prest, that is set on & righte hande of the seate of maiestie in heauen: and is a mynister of holy thinges, and of the true Tabernacle, which God pitched, & not man. For every hye prest is ordered to offere giftes and sacrifices: Wherefore it is of necessite, & this man haue somewhat also to offer. For he were not a prest, yf he were vpon earth, where are prestes & accordynge to the lawe offer giftes (which prestes serue vnto the ensample and shadowe of heauily thinges, euen as the answer of God was geuen vnto Moses, whan he was aboute to synnise the Tabernacle: Take heede (sayde he) that thou make all thinges accordynge to the pattern shewed the in the mount.) But now hath he optayned a more excellent office, in as much as he is the mediator of a better Testament, which was made by better promyses. For yf that first (Testament) had bene faulces, then shulde no place haue bene soughte for the secōde. For in rebuynge the he sayeth: Beholde, the dayes wyl come (sayeth the LORDE) that I wyl synnise vnto the house of Israel, and vpon the house off Juda, a new Testament: not as the Testament which I made with their fathers, in that daye whan I toke them by the handes, to ledethem out of the lande of Egypte: for they contynued not in my Testament, and I regarded them not, sayeth the LORDE.

For this is the Testament, that I wil make to the house of Israel after those dayes, sayeth the LORDE. I wyl geue my lawes in their mynde, and in their hertes wyl I wyte them: And I wil be their God, and they shal be my people: and they shal not teach euery mā his neghbour, and euery man his brother, sayenge: I knowe & LORDE, for they shal knowe me from the least to the most of them: for I wil be mercifull ouer their vnrighteousnesses: And on their synnes & on their iniquities wyl I not thynke eny more. In that he sayeth: A new, he weereth out &

The IX. Chapter.

That first Tabernacle verely had ordinaunces, and seruynges off God and outwarde holynes. For there was made a foietabernacle, wherein was & candilstick, and the table, and the shewe bread: and this is called & holy. But behyn the secōde vayne was the Tabernacle which is called holiest of all, which had the golden censor, and the Arke of the Testament overlaid rounde aboute with golde, wherein was the golden pot with Manna, and Aarons rodd that floushed, and the tables of the Testament: Above therin were the Cherubins off glory overshadowynge the Mercyseate: Of which thinges it is not now to speake particularly.

When these thinges were thus ordeyned, the prestes wente allwayes in to the first Tabernacle, and executed & seruyce of God. But in to the secōde wente the hye priest alone once in the yeare, not without bloude, which he offred for himselfe and for the ignorance of the people. Wherewith the holy goost this signifieth, that the waye of holynes was not yet opened, whyle as yet the first Tabernacle was stondynge. Which was a similitude for the tyme then present, in the which were offred giftes and sacrifices, and coulde not make perfecte (as partaynyng to the conscience) him, that dyd the Gods seruyce onely with meates and drynkes, and dyuerse washinges, and iustifienges of the flesh, which were ordeyned vnto the tyme of reformation.

But Christ beyng an hye priest of good thinges to come, came by a greater and a more perfecte Tabernacle, not made with handes, that is to saye, not of this maner buyldynge: nether by the bloude of goates or calves: but by his owne bloude entred he once for all in to the holy place, and hath founde eternall redemption. For yf the bloude off oxen and off goates, and the ashes off the cowe whan it is sprentled, haloweth the vncleane as touchynge the purificacion of the flesh, how much more shal the bloude of Christ (which thorow the eternall sprete offred him selfe without spot vnto God) pouge oure conscience from deed workes, for to serue the geuyng God: And for this cause is, & powerfull diatour of the new Testament, his cost thorow death which chauned for our redemption of those transgressions (that were vnder the first Testament) they which were called might receaue the promes of eternall inheritance. For where soeuer is a Testament, there must also be the death of him that maketh the testament.

Gal. 3.6

For a Testament taketh auctorite when men are deed: for it is of no value, as long as he that made it is alive. For the which causeth that first Testament also was not ordeined without bloude. For when all the commandementes (acordinge to the lawe) were red of Moses vnto all the people, he toke of bloude of calves and of goates, with water and purple wolle and ysope, and sprentled the booke and all the people, sayenge: This is the bloude of the Testament, which God hath appoynted vnto you. And the Tabernacle and all the vessels of the Gods seruyce sprentled he with bloude likewise. And almost all thinges are purged with bloude after the lawe: and without shedding of bloude is no remission. It is necessary then, that the similitude of heavenly thinges be purified with soche: but if heavenly thinges themselves are purified with better sacrifices, then are those.

Leu. 16. 2

For Christ is not entred into the holy places by are made with handes (which are but similitudes of true thinges) but in to the very heauen, for to appeare now before the face of God for us: Not to offer himselfe offe as the hye priest entreth in to the holy place every yeare with straunge bloude: for the must he often haue suffred since the worlde beganne. But now in the ende of the worlde hath he appeared once, to put synne to flight, by the offeringe up of himselfe. And as it is appoynted vnto me & they shal once dye, and then cometh the iudgment: For so Christ was once offered, to take awaye the synnes of many. And vnto them that loke for him, shal he appeare agayne without synne vnto saluacion.

Rom. 8. 2
Pet. 1. 2

The X. Chapter.

Of the lawe which hath but the shadowe off good thinges to come, and not the thinges in their awne fashion, can neuer by the sacrifices which they offer yeare by yeare continually, make the commers there vnto perfecte: For shal they haue ceased to haue bene offered, because that the offerers once purged, shal haue no more conscience of synnes. For in those sacrifices there is made but a min. For the bloude of oxen and of goates shal take awaye synnes.

Wherefore when he cometh in to the worlde, he sayeth: Sacrifice & offeringe thou woldest not haue, but a body hast thou ordeined me. Burnt offerings and synne offerings hast thou not allowed. Then sayde I: Lo, I come. The begynnyng of the booke it is wrytten of me, that I shal do the will of God. Aboue whā he had sayde: Sacrifice and offeringe, and burnt sacrifices & synne offerings thou woldest not haue, neither hast allowed (which yet are offered after the lawe). The sayde he: Lo, I come to do the will of God: there taketh he awaye the first, to stablysh the latter: In the which will we are sanctified by the offeringe up of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.

And every priest is ready daylie mynistringe, and of synnes offereth one maner of offeringes, which can neuer take awaye synnes. But this man when he had offered for synnes, one sacrifice which is of value for ever, sat him downe on the righte hande of God, and from hence forth tareth, & till his foes be made his foete stole. For with one offeringe hath he made perfecte for ever, the which are sanctified. And the holy goost also beareth vs recorde of this, even when he sayde before: This is the Testament, that I will make vnto them after those dayes, sayeth the LORDE: I will geue my lawes in their hartes, and their synnes and iniquities will I remember no more. And where remission of these thinges is, there is no more offeringe for synne.

Seynge now brethre, that we haue a sure inuauce in to that holy place, by the bloude of Jesu (which he hath prepared vnto vs for a new and lyuynge waye, throughe the vayne, that is to saye, by his flesh) and seynge also that we haue an hye pastour the house of God, let vs drawe nye with a true hert in a full faith, sprentled in oure hartes from an euill conscience, and washed in oure bodies with pure water: and let vs kepe the profession of oure hope without wauerynge (for he is faithfull that hath promysed) and let vs confide one another to promotinge of loue and of good workes: and let vs not forsake the fellowship that we haue amonge oure selues, as the maner of some is: but let vs exhorre one another, and that so much the more, because ye see that the day draweth nye.

For if we synne wilfully after that we haue receaued the knowlege of the truth, there remaineth vnto vs no more sacrifici for synnes, but a fearfull lookinge for iudgment: and violente fyre, which shal deuoure the aduersaries. He & despyseth Moses lawe, dyeth without mercy vnder two or thre witnesses: Of how much sorer punishment (suppose ye) shal he be counted worthy, which treadeth vnder foete the sonne of God, and couereth the bloude of the Testament (whereby he is sanctified) an vnholly thinge, & doth dishonoure to the spere of grace? For we knowe him that hath sayde: Vengeance is myne, I will recompence, sayeth the LORDE. And agayne: The LORDE shal iudge his people. It is a fearfull thinge to fall in to the handes of the lyuynge God.

But call ye to remembrance & dayes & are past, & which after ye had receaued lighte, ye endured a greate sighte off aduersities: partly whyle all me wored & gased at you for the shame and tribulacion that was done vnto you: and partly whyle ye became companyons of them which so passed their tyme. For ye haue suffred with my bodys, and toke a worth & spoylinge of youre goodes, and that with gladnes, knowynge in youre selues, how that ye haue in heauen a better & an enduringe substance. Cast not awaye therfore ye confidence, which hath so greata reward. For ye haue nede of patience, that after ye haue done the will of God, ye might receaue the promes. For yet ouer a litle whyle, and then he that shal come, wyl come, and wyl not tary. But the first shal lyue by his faith: And if he withdraue himselfe awaye, my soule shal haue no pleasure in him. As for vs, we are not of those which withdraue them selues to damnacion: but of them that beleue to the wynnynge of the soule.

The XI. Chapter.

Which is a sure confidence of thinges which are hoped for, and a certayntie of thinges which are not sene. By it & Elders were well reported of. Thow faith we vnderstonde, that the worlde and all the thinges which are sene, were made of naughte by the worde of God.

By faith offered Abell vnto God a more plenteous sacrifice: by the which he obtayned wytnesse, that he was righteous: God testifyinge of his giftes, by the which also he beyng deed, yet speaketh.

By faith was Enoch takē awaye, that he shulde not se death: and was not founde, because God had taken him awaye. For afore he was taken awaye, he had recorde that he pleased God. But without faith it is vnpossible to please God. For he that cometh vnto God, must beleue that God is, & that he is a rewarder of them that seke him.

By faith Noe honoured God, after he was warned of thinges which were not sene, & prepared the Arke, to the sauynge of his household: thow the which Arke he condemned the worlde, and became heire of the righteousness, which cometh by faith.

By faith Abraham (whā he was called) obeyed, to go out in to the place, which he shulde afterwarde receaue to inheritance: and he wente out, not knowynge whither he shulde go.

By faith was he a straunger in the lode of promes as in a straunge countre, & dwelt in tabernacles: and so byd Isaac & Jacob, heires with him of the same promes: for he looted for a cite which hath a foundation, whose bylder and maker is God.

By faith Sara also receaued strengthe to be with childe, and was deliuered of a childe when she was past age, because she iudged him to be faithfull which had promysed. And therfore spronge there of one (ye euen off one which was as good as deed conceyninge the body) so many in multitude as the starres off the heuē, and as the sander off the see shore, which is innumerable.

All these dyed acordinge to faith, and receaued not the promyses, but sawe the a farre off, and beleued them, and saluted them: and confessed, that they were strangers & pilgrims vpon earth. For they that saye soch thinges, declare, that they seke a naturall countre. And doubtles if they had benemyn defull off that countre from whence they came out, they had leysure to haue returned agayne. But now they desyre a better, that is to saye, a heauēly. Wherefore God is not ashamed of the, euen to be called their God: for he hath prepared a cite for them.

By faith Abraham offered up Isaac, whā he was tempted, and gaue ouer his onely begotten sonne, in whom he had receaued the promyses, of whom it was sayde: In Isaac shal thy sēde be called: For he considered, & God was able to rayse up agayne from the deed. Therfore receaued he him for an ensample.

By faith Isaac blessed Jacob and Esau, concerninge thinges to come.

By faith Jacob, when he was a byenge, blessed both the sonnes off Joseph, & bowed himselfe towarde the roppe of his cepter.

By faith Joseph when he dyed, remembred of departynge of the childe of Israel, &

The XII. Chapter.

Wherfore seynge we haue so grette multitude of witnessess aboute vs. let vs also laye awaye all þe pfecth downe, and the syme that hangeth on, and let vs runne with patience vnto the bayl that is set before vs, lo kyng vnto Jesus y auctor and fynisher of faith: which whan the ioye was layed before him, abode the crosse, and despyed the shame, and is set downe on y righte hande of y throne of God. Considre him therfore that endured such speakinge agaynst hi of synners, lest ye be weary and saynte in youre myndes: for ye haue not yet resisted vnto bloude, stryvinge agaynst synne, and haue forgotten the consolacion, which speaketh vnto you as vnto children: My sonne, despyse not the chastenynge of the LORDE, necher saynte whan thou art rebuked of him: for whosche LORDE lonch, him he chasteneth, yee and he scourgeth eury sonne that he receaureth.

If ye endure chastenynge, God offereth y himselfe vnto you as vnto sonnes. What sonne is that, whom the father chasteneth not? If ye be not vnder correccion (whos all are partakers) then are ye bastards and not sonnes. Morouer seynge we haue had fathers off oure flesh which corrected vs, z we gaue them reuerence, shulde we not then moche rather be in subieccion vnto y father of spirituall giftes, y we mighte lyue? And they verely for a few dayes nurtered vs after their awne pleasure: but he lerneth vs vnto y which is profitable, that we mighte receaue of his holynes. To maner chastisynge for the present tyme semeth to be ioyous, but greuous: neuertheles afterwarde it bringeth the quyet frute of righteounes, vnto them which are exercysed therby. Lift vp therfore the handes which were let downe, and the weake knees, and se that ye haue straight steppes vnto youre fete, lest eny haltinge turne you out of the waye, yett it it ther be healed.

Solowe after peace with all men, and holynes, without the which no man shal se the LORDE. And loke well, that no mā be destitute of the grace of God, lest there sprynge vpon eny bytter rote, and cause disquietnes, and therby many be defyled: that there be no whoremonger, or vnclane person, as Elias, which for one meate sake solde his byth righte. For ye knowe, how that afterwarde whan he wolde haue inhereted the blessinge, he was put by: for he founde no place of repetaunce, though he desyred y blessinge.

with teares. For ye are not come to y mount that can be touched, and burneth with fyre, necher yet to myst and darcknes, and tempest of wedder, necher to the sounde of the trompe, and y voyce of wordes: which they that herde, wysshed awaye, that the worde shulde not be spoken to them, for they were not able to abyde that which was spoken. And yf a beest had touched the mountayne, it must haue bene stoned, or thrust thorow with a dart. And so terrible was the sighte which appeared, that Moses sayde: I feare and quake. But ye are come to the mount Sion, and to the cite of the lynynge God, to the celestiall Ierusalem, and to the multitude of many thousande angels, and vnto the congregacion of the first borne, which are wrytten in heauen, and to God the iudge of all, and to the spretes of iust and perfecte men, and to Jesus the mediator of the new Testament, and to the sprentlynge off bloude, that speaketh better then the bloude of Abel.

Se that ye despyse not him that speaketh vnto you: for yf they escaped not which refused him that spake on earth, moche more shal we not escape, yf we turne awaye from him that speaketh from heauē: whose voyce shoke the earth at that tyme. But now promyseth he, z sayeth: Yet once more wyl I shake, not the earth onely, but also heauen. No doute that same that he sayeth yett once more, signifieth the remouynge awaye of those thinges which are shaken, as off thinges which are made: that y thinges which are not shaken, maye remayne. Wherfore, seynge we receaue the vnmoueable kyngdome, we haue grace, wherby we maye serue God, z please him, with reuerence and godly feare. For oure God is a consumynge fyre.

The XIII. Chapter.

Let brotherly loue cōynne. Be not forgetfull to lodge straungers: for therby haue dyuerse receaued angels in to their houses vnawares. Remember them that are in bondes, enē as though ye were bounde with them: and be mynde- full off them which are in aduersite, as ye which are also in the bodye. Let wedlocke be had in prync in all poyntes, z let y chamber be vndefyled. For whoremongers and aduoucers God wil iudge. Let youre conuersacion be without couetousnes, and be content with that ye haue already, for he hath sayde: I wyl not sayle the nether for ake the, so that we maye boldly saye: The LORDE is my helper, and I wyl not feare.

what man maye do vnto me. Remember the which haue the ouersight of you, which haue declared vnto you the worde of God. The ende of whose conuersacion se that ye loke vpon, and folowe their faith.

Jesus Christ yesterdaye and Todaye, z the same cōtinueth forever. Be not caried aboute w dyuerse and straunge lernynge: for it is a good thinge that the herre bestablisshed with grace, and not with meates, which haue not profited them, that haue had their pastyme in them. We haue an altare, wherof they haue no power to eate, which serue in the Tabernacle. For the bodies of those beestes, whose bloude is brought in to the holy place by y hye prest to poure synne, are brynt without the tētes. Therfore Jesus also, to sanctifye y people by his awne bloude, suffred without y gate. Let vs go forth therfore out of the tentes, and suffre rebuke with him: for here haue we no contynynge cite, but we seke one to come.

Let vs therfore by him offre allwayes vnto God the sacrifice of prayse: that is to saye, the frute of those lippes which confesse his name. To do good and to distribute forget not, for w such sacrifices God is pleased. Obey them that haue the ouersight off you, and submytte youre selues vnto them: for they watch for youre soules, enen as they that must geue accōptes therfore, that they maye do it with ioye, and not with grete for that is an vnprofitable thinge for you. Praye for vs. We haue confidence, because we haue a good cōscience in all thinges, and desyre to lyue honestly. But I desyre you yf more abundantly, that ye so do, y I maye be restored vnto you the more quyetly.

The God of peace (that broughte agayn vnto frō the deed oure LORDE Jesus the grea te shepheard of the shepe thorow the bloude of the euerlastinge Testament) make you perfecte in all good woikes, to do his wyll, workynge in you that which is pleasaunt in his sighte thorow Jesus Christ, to whom be prayse for ener and ever Amen. I besete you brethren, suffre the worde of exhortacion, for I haue wrytten vnto you in few wordes. Knowe o brother Timotheus, whom we haue sent from vs, with whom yf he come shortly I wyl se you. Salute the that haue the ouersight of you and all y sayntes. The brethren of Italy salute you. Grace be with you all, Amen.

Sent from Italy by Timotheus.

The Epistle The Epistle of S. James.

The summe of this epistle.

Chap. I. Ze exhorte to reioyce in trouble, to be feruent in prayer with stedfast beleue, to lofe for all good thinges from above, to forsake all vyce: and thankfully to receaue the worde of God, nor onely hearynge it and speakynge of it, but to do thereafter in dede. True religion is deuotion what it is.

Chap. II. Ze forbyddeth to haue any respecte of personnes, but to regarde the poore as well as the ryche, to be lowyng and mercifull, and not to boast of faith where no dedes are: for it is but a dede faith, where good woordes folowe not.

Chap. III. What good and euell cometh thorow the tounge. The durye of such as be lerned. The difference betwixte the wysdome of the gospel and the wysdome of the worlde.

Chap. IIII. Warre and fightinge cometh of voluptuousnesse. The frendshipe of the worlde is enemye before God. An exhortacion to flye flaunter and the vanite of this life.

Chap. V. Ze threateneth the wicked ryche man, exhorteth vnto pacience, to beware of swearinge, one to knowlege his fautes to another, one to praye for another, and one to laboure to baynge another to the truerth.

The first Chapter.

Ames the seruante of God and of the LORDE Jesus Chust, sendeth gretinge to the xij. trybes which are scattered here & there. My brethren, counte it excedyng ioye whē ye fall in to diuers temptacions, for as moche as ye knowe, how & the tryinge of youre faith bringeth pacience: and let pacience haue her parfect worke, & ye maye be parfecte and sounde, lackinge nothinge.

* If eny of you lacke wysdome, let him aske of God, which giveth to all men indifferentlye, and casteth no man in the teth: and it shal be geue him. But let him aske in faith and wauer not. For he that doubteth, is lyke the wauers of & See, cost of the wynde, and caried w violence. Neether let & man thinke that he shal receaue eny thinge of & LORDE. A wauerynge mynded mā ys vnstable in all his waies.

B. Let the brother of lowe degre reioyce, in & he is exalted: and the rich, in & he is made lowe. For enē as the flō of & grasse shal he vanyshe awaye. The Sonne yseth to heat and the grasse wydereth, & his floure falleth awaye, and the beautie of the fassion of it of S. James.

perisheth: even so shal the ryche man perish with his abundaunce.

Happy is the man that endureth in temptation, for when he is tryed, he shal receaue the crowne of life, which the LORDE hath promised to them that loue him.

Let no man saye when he is tempted, & he is tempted of God. For God tempteth not vnto euell, nether tempteth he eny man. But every mā is tempted, drawne awaye, & terryed of his awne concupiscence. The whē lust hath conceaued, she bringeth forth synne, & synne when it is fynished, bringeth forth death.

Ette not my deare brethren. Every good gifte, & every parfait gifte, is from above, and cometh downe from & father of light, with whom is no variableness, nether is he chaunged vnto darcknes. Of his awne will begat he vs with the worde of life, that we shal be the fryst frutes of his creatures.

* Wherefore deare brethren, let every man be swifte to heare, slowe to speake, and slowe to wraith. For the wraith of mā worketh not that which is righteous before God.

Wherefore laye aparte all fylchines, all superfluite of malicioussnes, & receaue with meeknes & worde & is grafed in you, which is able to saue youre soules. * And se that ye be doers of & worde & not heares only decauinge youre awne selues. * For yf eny & the worde, and do it not, he is lyk vnto a mā that beholdeth his bodily face in a glasse. For assone as he hath looked on himselfe, he goeth his waye, and forgetteth immediately what his fasshion was. But who so looketh in & perfect lawe of libertie, and continueth therein (yf he be not a forgetfull hearer, but a doer of the worke) the same shal be happy in his dede.

If eny man amonge you seme deuout, & refrayne not his tōge: but deceaue his awne herte, this mannes deuotion is in vayne. pure deuotion and vndefiled before God the father, is this: to vſe the frendlesse and widowes in their aduersite, and to kepe himselfe vnspotted of the & worlde.

The II. Chapter.

Brethren, haue not the faith of our LORDE Jesus Chust & LORDE of glory in & respecte of persons. As the come in to yoſ cōpany a mā w a goldenginge and in goodly aparell, & ther come in also a poore man in vyle raymēt, & ye haue aspecte to him & weareth the gaye clothinge & saye vnto hi: Sit thou here i a good place, & saye vnto & poore, stonde thou there or sit here vnder my fote stole: are ye not parciall in youre selues, and haue iudged after euill thoughtes.

Harden my deare beloved brethren. Each not God chosen the poore of this worlde, which are ryche in faith, and heyres of the kyngdom which he promysed to the that loue him: But ye haue despised the poore. Are not the ryche they which oppresse you: & they which drawe you before iudges? Do not they speake euell of that good name after which ye be named.

B. If ye fulfill the royall lawe accordinge to the scripture which saith: Thou shalt loue thyne neighbour as thy selfe, ye do well. But yf ye regarde one person more then another, ye comit synne, and are rebuked of the lawe as transgressours. Whosoever shal kepe the whole lawe, and yet faile in one point, he is gyltie in all. For he that saye: Thou shalt not commit adulterie, sayed also: thou shalt not kyll. Though thou do none adulterie, yet yf thou kyll, thou art a transgressor of the lawe. So speake ye, and so do as they that shal be iudged by the lawe of libertie. * For ther shal be iudgement merciles to him that sheweth no mercy, & mercy reioiceth against iudgment.

* What a wayleth it my brethren, though a man saye he hath faith, when he hath no dedes? Can faith saue him? If a brother or a sister be naked or destitute of dayly fode, & one of you saye vnto them: Departe in peace, God sende you warmnes and fode: not withstandinge ye geue them not the thinges which are nedfull to the body: what helpeth it them? Euen so faith, yf it haue no dedes, is deed in it selfe.

C. Ye & a man might saye: Thou hast faith, and I haue dedes: Shewe me thy faith by thy dedes: and I wil shewe the my faith by my dedes. Beleuest thou & ther is & God? Thou doest well. The deuils also beleue and tremble.

Wilt thou vnderstōde o thou vayne man that saith with out dedes is deed: Was not Abraham oure father iustified thorow woordes when he offered Isaac his sonne vpon the auter? Thou seist how & faith wrought with his dedes, and through & dedes was the faith made perfect: & the scripture was fulfilled which saith: Abraham beleued God and it was reputed vnto him for righteuesnes: and he was called & frende of God. Re se then how that of dedes a man is iustified, and not of faith only. Likewise also was not Raab the harlot iustified thorow woordes, when she receaued the messengers, and sent them out another waye? For as the body, with out the spere is deed, euen so faith without dedes is deed.

of S. James. Ho. cr.

The III. Chapter.

B. Brethren, be not every man a & master, remembryng how that we shall receaue the more damnacion: for in many thinges we synne all. If a man synne not in worde, the same is a parfecte man, & able to tame all the body. Beholde, we put bittes into the horses mouthes & they shal be obeye vs, and we turne aboute all the body. Beholde also & shypes, which though they be so gret, and are dryuen of searce win des, yet are they turned about with a very synale helme, whiche soeuer the violence of the gouerner wyll. Euen so the tōge is a lytell member, and bosteth great thinges.

Beholde how gret a thinge a lytell fyre kyndleth, and the tounge is fyre, and a worlde of wyckednes. So is the tounge set amonge oure membres, that it defileth the whole body, and setteth a fyre all that we haue of nature, and is it selfe set a fyre euen of hell.

All the natures of beastes, and of byrdes, and of serpentes, and thinges of the see, are meked and tamed of the nature of mā. But the tōge can no man tame. It is an vnruely euell full of deadly poyson. Therwith blesse we God the father, and therwith curſe we men which are made after the similitude of God. Out of one mouth proceedeth blessinge and cursynge. My brethren these thinges ought not so to be. Doth a fountayne sende forth at one place swete water and bytter also? Can the fygge tree, my Brethren, beare oliue beries: ether a vyne beare fygges? So can no fountayne geue bothe salt water and freshe also. If eny man be wyse and endued with learnynge amonge you, let him shewe the woordes of his good cōuersacion in meeknes that is coupled with wysdome.

But yf ye haue bitter enuyenge and stryfe in yoſ hertes, reioyce not: nether be lyars agaynst the truerth. This wysdome descendeth not from above: but is erthy, and natural, and dyuelishe. For where enuyenge and stryfe is, there is vnstables and all māner of euell woordes. But the wysdome that is frō above, is fyist pure, the peasable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good frutes, without iudgyng, and without simulation: yee, and the frute of rightewesnes is sown in peace, of the that mayntene peace.

The IIII. Chapter.

From whence cometh warre and fightynge amonge you: come they not here hence: even of y^e voluptuousnesses that rayne in youre meebres: Lust, and haue not. Ye envie and haue indignacion, and can not obtayne. Ye fight & warre, and haue not, because ye are not. Ye are & receave not because ye are amysse: eue to consume it vpo y^e voluptuousnes. Ye aduouterars, & weime that breke matrimonie: knowe ye not how that the frenshippe of y^e woulde is enmited to godwarde: Whosoever wilbe a frende of the woulde, is made y^e enemye of god. Ethe do ye thinke y^e the scripture sayth in wayne. The spere y^e dwelleth in you, lusteth even contrary to emie: but geuech more grace.

Submit youre selues to God, and resist the deuill, & he wil fye frō you. Draw nye to God & he wil draw nye to you. Cense y^e bondes ye synners, and pouge youre herres ye wauerynge mynded. Suffre afflictions: forowe ye and wepe. Let youre laughter be turned to momynge, and youre ioye to heuynes. Cast downe youre selues before the LORDE, and he shal lift you vp. Backbyte not one another, brethien. He that backbyeteth his brother, and he y^e iudgeth his brother, backbyeteth the lawe, and iudgeth the lawe. But and yf thou iudge the lawe, thou art not an obseruer of the lawe: but a iudge. There is one lawe geuer, which is able to saue and to dystroye. What art thou that iudgeth another man?

* Go to now ye that saye: to daye & to morow let vs go into soche a citie and continue there a yeaer, and bye and sell, and wyne: & yet ca not tell what shal happē to morowe. For what thinge is youre life? It is euen a vapoure that apereth for a lytell tyme, and the varysheth awaye: For that ye ought to say: yf the LORDE wil, and yf we liue, let vs do this or that. But now ye reioyce in youre bostinges. All soche reioysynge is euell. Therfore to him that knoweth how to do good, and doth it not, to him it is synne.

The V. Chapter.

Go to now ye riche men. Wepe, and howle on y^e wretchednes that shal come vpon you. Your riches is corrupte, youre garnytes are motheaten. Your golde & y^e siluer are cancred, & the rust of them shalbe a witness vnto you, & shal eate youre fleshe, as it were fyre. Ye haue heaped treasure togedder in y^e last dayes: Beholde, the hye of the labourers which haue reaped downe youre felde (which hyer is of you kept backe by frande) cryeth: and the cryes of the which haue reaped, are entred in to the eares of the LORDE Sabaoth. Ye ha nelined in pleasure on the earth and in wantannes. Ye haue noryshed youre herres, as in adaye of slaughter. Ye haue cōdemned and haue killed the iust, and he hath not resisted you.

Be pacient therfore brethien, vnto the comynge of the LORDE. Beholde, the husbāde man wayteth for the precious frute of f earth, and hath longe pacience there vpon, vntill he receaue the erly and the latter rayne. Be ye also pacient therfore, and settle youre herres, for the comynge of the LORDE draweth nye. Brodge not one agaynst another brethien, lest ye be damned. Beholde, the iudge stoneth before the doore. Take (my brethien) the prophetes for an ensample of sufferynge aduersitie, and of longe pacience, which spake in the name of the LORDE. Beholde we counthe them happy which endure. Ye haue hearde of y^e paciēce of Job, and haue knowen what ende the LORDE made. For the LORDE is very pitifull and mercifull.

But aboue all thinges my brethie sweare not, nether by heauē, nether by earth, nether by eny other othe. Let youre ye be ye, and y^e naye naye: lest ye faule in to ypocricy. If eny of you be euell vered, let hi praye. If eny of you be mery, let him singe psalmes. If eny be diseased amonge you, let him call for the elders of the congregacion, & let the praye ouer him, and anoynte him with oyle in the name of the LORDE: and y^e prayer of faith shal saue the sicke, and the LORDE shal raise him vp: and yf he haue committed synnes, they shalbe forgiven him.

Knowlege youre fautes one to another: and praye one for another, that ye maye be healed. The prayer of a righteous man may lech moche, yf it be seruet. * Elias was a mortall euen as we are, and he prayed in his prayer, that it might not rayne: & it rayned not on the earth by the space of thre yeaers and sire monethes. And he prayed agayn, and y^e heauē gaue rayne, & f earth brought forth her frute.

Brethien, yf eny of you erre frō the truth and another conuert him, let y^e same know that he which conuerted the synner from goynge astraye out off his waye, shal saue a soule frō death, and shal hyde the multitude of synnes.

The ende of the epistle of S. James.

The Epistle of S. Jude.

The summe of this epistle.

He rebuketh such as beyng blynded with there owne lustes, resist the truth, & that we maye knowe them the better, he sayeth they be such as synne beastly agaynst nature, and despise rulers &c. He exhorteth vs to edifie one another, to praye in the holy goost, to continue in loue, to lofe for the comynge of the LORDE, and one to helpe another out of the fyre.

Was the seruante of Jesus Christ, the brother off James. To the which are called, and sanctified in God the father, and preferred in Jesu Christ. Mercy vnto you, and peace and loue be multiplied.

Beloued, when I gaue all diligence to wyte vnto you of the common saluacion: it was nedefull for me to wyte vnto you, to exhorthe you, that ye shulde continually labour in the faith which was once geue vnto the sayntes. * For there are certayne craftily crept in, of which it was wyrtten afore tyme vnto soche iudgement. They are vngodly, and turne the grace of oure God vnto wantānes, and denye God the onely LORDE, and oure LORDE Jesus Christ.

My minde is therfore to put you in remembrance, for as moche as ye once knowe this, how that y^e LORDE (after that he had deliuered the people out of Egypt) destroyed them which afterwarde beloued not. * The angels also which kept not their first estate: but lefte their awne habitation, he hath reserved in euilastinge chaynes vnder darkness vnto the iudgement of the greates daye: euen as Sodom and Gomor, and the cities aboute them (which in lyke maner defiled them selues with fornicacion and folowed straunge fleshe) are set forth for an ensample, and suffre the vengeance of eternall fyre. * Yf ye wyse these dreamers desyle the fleshe, despise rulers, and speake euell of them that are in auctoritie.

* Yet Michael the archangell when he strone agaynst the deuill, & disputed aboute the body of Moses, durst not geue a plinge sentence, but sayde: the LORDE rebuke the. * But these speake euell off those thinges which they knowe not: and what thinges

they knowe naturally, as beastes which are without reason, in the thinges they corrupte them selues. Wo be vnto the, for they haue folowed the waye of Cain, and are vtterly genē to the erreure of Balaam for luters sake, and peryshe in the treason of Core.

These are spottes which of youre kindnes feast togedder, without feare, fedynge the selues. Cloudes they are withouten water, caried about of wyndes, and trees without frute at gadinge tyme, twyse deed and plucked vp by the rotes. They are the ragynge waues of the see, fominge out their awne shame. They are wandrynge starres, to whō is reserved the myst of darkness for euer.

* Enoch the seuenth from Adam prophesied before of suche, sayenge: Beholde, the LORDE shal come with thousandes of sayntes, to geue iudgement agaynst all men, and to rebuke all that are vngodly amonge the, of all their vngodly dedes, which they haue vngodly committed, and of all their cruell speakynges, which vngodly synners haue spoken agaynst him.

These are murmurers, complainers, waltinge after their awne lustes, whose mouthes speake proude thynges. They haue me in greate reuerence because of auantage. But ye beloued, remēber the wordes which were spoken before of the Apostles of oure LORDE Jesus Christ, how that they tolde you y^e their shulde be begylers in the last tyme, which shulde walke after their awne vngodly lustes. These are makers off secretes fleshe, hauynge no spere.

But ye derlye beloued, edifye youre selues in youre most holy faith, prayenge in the holy goost, and kepe youre selues in the loue of God, lookinge for the mercy of oure LORDE Jesus Christ, vnto eternall life. And haue compassion on some, separatinge the: and other saue with feare, pullinge them out of the fyre, and hate the fylthy vesture of the fleshe.

Vnto him that is able to kepe you, thas ye faule not, and to present you faultlesse before y^e presence of his glory with ioye, y^e is to saye, to God oure sauoure which only is wyse, be glory, maiestie, domination, & power, now and for euer. Amen.

The first Chapter.

In the reuelacion of Iesus Christ, which God gaue vnto him, for to shewe vnto his seruantes thinges which muste shortly come to passe. And he sent and shewed by his angell vnto his seruante Ihon, which bare the corde of the woordes of God, and of the testimony of Iesus Christe, and of all thinges that he sawe. Happy is he & reader, and they that heare the wordes of the prophasy and kepe thoo thinges which are wyrteth therein. For the tyme is at hande.

Ihon to the seuen congregacions in Asia. Grace be with you & peace, fro him which is and which was, and which is to come: fro the seuen spircs which are present beside his throne, and from Iesus Christ which is a faithfull witnes, and first begotten of the deede: & LORD ouer y Kinges of the earth. Vnto him that loued vs and washed vs fro synnes in his awne blood, and made vs kynges & prestes vnto God his father, by glory and dominion for ever more. Amen. Beholde, he cometh with cloudes, and al eyes shall se him: & they also which pierced him. And all kinredes of the earth shal wayle. Euen so. Amen. I am Alpha and Omega, the begynninge and the endinge, sayeth the LORD almighty, which is and which was and which is to come.

The Reuelacion

of S. Ihon. Ho. ciii.

Ihon youre brother and copanyon in tribulacion, and in the kyngdome and pacie which is in Iesu Christe, was in the yle of pathmos for the woordes of God, and for & witnessyng of Iesu Christe. I was in the spirc on a sonda ye, and herde behynde me, a gret voyce, as it had bene of a trompe, sayenge: I am Alpha and Omega, the first and & laste. That thou seist, write in a booke, and sende it vnto the congregacions which are in Asia, vnto Ephesus and vnto Smyrna, and vnto Pargamos, and vnto Thyatira, and vnto Sardis, and vnto Philadelphia, and vnto Laodicia.

And I turned backe to se the voyce that spake to me. And whē I was turned: I sawe seuen goldē candestycles, and in the myddes of the candestycles, one like vnto the sonne of man clothed with a lynnin garnēt downe to the ground, and gyrd aboute the brest with a golden gyrdle. His heed, and his heares were whyte, as whyte woll, & as snowe: and his eyes were as a flamme of fyre: and his feete like vnto brasse, as though they were in a somace: and his voyce as the sounde of many waters. And he had in his right honde seuen starres. And out of his mouth went a sharpe two edged swerde. And his face shone euen as the sonne in his strength.

And when I sawe him, I fell at his feet, as dead. And he layde his right honde vpon me, sayenge vnto me: feare not. I am the first, and the laste, and am alyue, and was deede. And beholde, I am alyue for ever more: and haue the keyes of hell & of deeth. Wyte therfore the thinges which thou hast sene, and the thinges which are, and & thinges which shalbe fulfylled here after: & the mistery of the seuen starres which thou sawest in my right honde, and the seuen goldē candestycles. The seuen starres are the angels of the seuen congregacions: And the seuen candestycles which thou sawest, are the seuen congregacions.

The II. Chapter.

To the angell of the congregacion of Ephesus wyte: These thinges sayth he that holdeth the seuen starres in his right honde, and walketh in the myddes of the seuen goldē candestycles: I knowe thy woites, and thy labour, and thy pacience, & howe thou cannest not forbear them which are euell: and examynest them which saye they are Apostles, and are not: & hast founde the lyars and hast suffred. And hast paciēce: and for my names sake hast laboured and hast not saynted. Neuerthelesse

I haue somwhat agaynst the, for thou hast lefte thy first loue. Remember therfore fro whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first woites. Or elles I wil come vnto the shortly, and wil remoue thy candestycle out of his place, excepte thou repent. But this thou hast because thou hast & dedes of the Nicolaitans, which dedes I also hate. Let him & hath eares, heare, what the spirc saith vnto the congregacions. To him that ouercommeth, will I geue to eate of the tree of life, which is in the myddes of & paradise of God.

And vnto the angell of the congregacion of Smyrna wyte: These thinges sayth he that is first, and the laste, which was deede, and is alyue: I knowe thy woites and tribulacion and pouerte, but thou art ryche: And I knowe the blasphemie of them which call them selues Jewes and are not: but are the congregacion of Sathan. Feare none of the thinges which thou shalt soffre. Beholde, & deuell shal cast of you in to prison, to tempte you, and ye shal haue tribulacion x. dayes. Be faithfull vnto the deeth, and I wil geue y a crowne of life. Let him that hath eares, heare, what the spirc saith to the congregacions: & that ouercometh, shal not be hurte of the seconde deeth.

And to the angell of the congregacion in Pargamos wyte: This sayth he which hath the sharpe swerde with two edges: I knowe thy woites, and where thou dwellest, even where Sathans seat is, and thou kepest my name, & hast not denyed my faith. And in my dayes Antipas was a faithfull witnes of myne, which was slayne amonge you, where Sathan dwelleth. But I haue a fewe thinges agaynst the: that thou hast there, the that manyntayne the doctryne of Balaam, which taughte in Balak, to put occasion off syn before the children of Israell, that they shulde eate of meate dedicat vnto ydoles, and to commyt fornicacion. Euen so hast thou the: that manyntayne y doctryne of the Nicolaitans, which thinge I hate. But be couerted, or elles I wil come vnto the shortly, and wil fight agaynst the with the swerde of my mouth. Let him & hath eares, heare, what the spirc saith vnto the congregacions: To him that ouercommeth, wil I geue to eate māna that is hyd, and wil geue him a whyte stone, & in the stone a newe name wyrtē, which no man knoweth, savinge he that receaueyth it.

And vnto the angell of the congregacion of Thyatira wyte: This sayth the sonne of

Apoc. 1. c
19. 6

God, which hath his eyes lyke vnto a flame of fyre, whose feet are like brasse: I knowe thy workes and thy loue, seruaice, and faith and thy pacience, and thy dedes, which are mo at the last then at the firste. For withstandinge I haue a feawe thinges agaynst the, that thou sufferest that woman * Jesabel (which called her selfe a prophetisse) to teache and to deceaue my seruantes, to make them committe fornicacion, and to eate meates offered vpon ydoles. And I gaue her space to repēt of her fornicacion, and she repented not. Beholde, I wil cast her into a bed, and them that commit fornicacion with her, in to gret aduersite, excepte they turne from their dedes. And I wil kyll her childre with deeth. And all the cōgregaciōs shal knowe, & I am he which searcheth the reynes and hertes. And I wil geue vnto euery one of you acordyng vnto youre workes.

Vnto you I saye, and vnto other of the of Thiatrya, as many as haue not this lernynge and which haue not knowen the depnes of Sathan (as they saye) I wil put vpon you none other burthen, but & which ye haue already. Holde fast tyll I come, and who soener ouercometh and kepeth my workes vnto & ende, to him wil I geue power ouer nacions, and he shal rule them with a rodde of yron: and as the vessels of a potter, shal he breake them to shewers. And as I receaued of my father, so wil I geue him & mornynge starre. Let him & hath eares, heare, what the spere sayth to the cōgregaciōs.

The III. Chapter.

And wryte vnto the angell of the cōgregacion off Sardis: this sayth he that hath the seven spieres of God, & the seven starres. I knowe thy workes, thou hast a name that thou lyuest, and thou art deed. Be awake, and strength the thinges which remayne, that are redy to dye. For I haue not founde thy workes perfecte before God. Remember therfore how thou hast receaued and hearde, and holde fast, and repent. If thou shalt not watche, I wil come on the as a thefe, and thou shalt not knowe what houre I wil come vpon & Thou hast a fewe names in Sardis, which haue not defyled their garmentes: and they shal walke with me in whyte, for they are worthy. He that ouercometh, shalbe clothed in whyte aray, and I wil not put out his name out of the booke of life, and I wil cōfesse his name before my father, and before his angels. Let him & hath eares, heare, what the spere sayth vnto the congregaciōs. And wryte vnto & angell of the cōgregaciō of Philadelphia: this sayth he & is he and true, which hath the keye of Dathan which openeth and no man shutteth, and shutteth and no man openeth. I knowe thy workes. Beholde, I haue set before the an open doore, and no man can shut it, for thou hast a lyttell strength and hast not denyed my name. Beholde, I shal geue some of the congregaciō of Sathan, which callen selues Jewes and are not, but do lyke. Beholde: I wil make them, that they shal come to worshippe before thy feet: and shal knowe that I haue loued the.

Because thou hast kept the wordes of my pacience, therfore wil I kepe the from the houre of temptacion, which will come vpon all the woulde, to tempte them that dwell vpon the earth. Beholde, I come shortly. Holde that which thou hast, that no man take awaye thy crowne. Him that ouercometh, wil I make a pyllar in the temple of my God, and he shal goe no more out.

And I will wryte vpon him, the name of my God, and the name of & cite of my God, newe Jerusalem, which cometh downe out of heauen from my God, and I will wryte vpon him my newe name. Let him that hath eares, heare, what the spere sayth vnto the congregaciōs.

And vnto the angell of the cōgregaciō which is in Laodicia wryte: This sayth Amen the faithfull and true witnes, the begynnyng of & creatures of God. I knowe thy workes, & thou art neither colde nor hot: I wolde thou were colde or hote. So thou because thou art bitwene bothe, and nether colde nether hote I wyll spew the out off my mouth: because thou sayst thou art riche and increysed with goodes and hast nede of nothinge, and knowest not how thou art wretched & miserable, poore, blynde, and naked. I counsell the to bye of me golde tryed in the fyre, that thou mayste be riche: and whyte rayment, that thou mayste be clothed, that thy fylethy nakednes do not apere: and to thine eyes with eye salve, & thou mayst see.

As many as I loue, I rebuke & chasten. Be seruent therfore and repent. Beholde, I stonde at the doore & knocke. If any man heare my voyce and open the doore, I wil come in vnto him and will suppe with him, & he with me. To him that ouercometh, wil I graunte to sytt with me on my seate, as I ouercome and haue sytten with my father on his seate. Let him that hath eares, heare, what the spere sayth vnto the cōgregaciōs.

The III. Chapter.

And I sawe I Iohē, and beholde, a doore was open in heauē, and the fyfthe voyce which I harde, was as it were of a trumpet talkinge with me, which sayde: come vpon hyder, and I wil shewe the thinges which must be fulfilled her after. And immediately I was in the spere: & beholde, a seate was set in heauen, and one sat on the seate. And he that sat, was to lōke vpon like vnto a laspastone, and a sardyne stone: And there was a rayne bowe aboute the seate, in syght lyke to a Smaragde. And aboute the seate were xxiij. seates. And vpon the seates xxiij. elders syttinge clothed in whyte rayment, and had on their heades crownes of golde.

And out of & seate proceded lightnynges, and thundrynges, & voyces, and there were seven lāpes of fyre, burninge before the seate, which are the seven spieres of God. And before the seate there was a see of glasse lyke vnto crysell, and in the myddes off the seate, and rounde aboute the seate, were four beastes full of eyes before and behynde. And the first best was like a lion, the seconde best lyke a calfe, and the thyrde best had a face as a man and the fourth best was like a flyng eagle. And the foure beestes had eche one off them viij. wynges aboute him, and they were full of eyes with in. And they had no rest daye nether nyght, sayenge: holy, holy, holy, is the LORD God almyghtry, which was, and is, and is to come.

And when those beestes gaue glory and honour and thankes to him that sat on the seate, which lyueth for ever and ever: & xxiij. elders fell downe before him that sat on the trone, and worshipped him & lyueth for ever, and cast their crownes before & trone, sayenge: thou art worthy LORD to receaue glory, and hono, and power, for thou hast created all thinges, and for thy willes sake they are, and were created.

The V. Chapter.

And I sawe in the right hōde off him, that sat in the trone, a booke wrytten with in & on the backside, sealed with seven scales. And I sawe a stronge angell preachinge with a loude voyce: Who is worthy to open the booke, and to loose the scales thereof? And no mā in heauē nether in earth, nether vnder & earth, was able to open & booke, nether to lōke thereon. And I wepte much, because no man was founde worthy to open and to lōke the booke, nether to lōke thereon.

And one of the elders sayde vnto me: wepe not: Beholde, the lyon which is off the trybe of Juda, & rote of David, hath obteyned to open the booke, and to loose the scales thereof. And I behelde, & lo, in the myddes of the seate, and of & foure beastes, and in the myddes of & elders, stode a lambe as though he had bene kyllēd, which had seven hounes and seven eyes, which are the seven spieres of God, sent in to all the woulde. And he came and toke the booke out of the right hōde of him that sat vpon the seate.

And when he had taken the booke, the foure beestes and the xxiij. elders fell downe before the lambe, hauinge harpes and golden vialles full of odoures (which are & prayers of the sayntes) and they songe a newe songe saynge: thou art worthy to take the booke & to open the scales thereof: for thou wast kyllēd, and hast redeemed vs by thy blood, out of all kynredes, and cōges, and people, and nacions, & hast made vs vnto & God, kynges and prestes, and we shal raygne on & earth.

And I behelde, and I herd the voyce of many angilles aboute the trone, and aboute the beestes and & elders, and I herde thousand thousandes, sayenge with a loude voyce: Worthy is the lambe that was killede, to receaue power, and riches & wysdome, and strength, and honoure and glory, and blessinge. And all creatures, which are in heauē, & on the earth, & vnder the earth, & in the see, & all & are in the, herd I sayenge: blessinge, honoure, glory, & power, be vnto him, & sytten vpon the seate, and vnto the lābe for evermore. And the foure beestes saide: Amen. And & xxiij. elders fell vpon their faces, and worshipped him that lyueth for evermore.

The VI. Chapter.

And I sawe when the lābe opened one of the scales, & I herde one of the foure beestes saye, as it were the noyse off thonder: come and se. And I sawe, and beholde: there was a whyte horse, and he & sat on him had a bowe, and a crowne was geuen vnto him, and he went forth conqueringe and for to ouercome. And when he opened the seconde scale, I herde the seconde best saye: come and se. And there went out another horse that was reed, & power was geuen to him that sat there on, to take peace from the earth, and that they shulde kyll one another. And there was geue vnto him a gret swearde.

And when he opened the thyrde scale, I herde the thyrde best saye: come & se. And I behelde, and lo, a blacke horse, and he that sat on him, had a payre of balances in his honde. And I herde a voyce in the myddes of the foure bestes saye: a measure of wheat for a peny, and thre measures of barley for a peny: and oyle and wyne shoulde be as cheape.

And when he opened the fourth scale, I herde the voyce of the fourth beste saye: come and se. And I looked, and beholde a pale horse, and his name that sat on him was death, and hell folowed after him, & power was geue vnto them ouer the fourth parte of the earth, to kyl with swerde, and with hunger, and with death, of the vermen of the earth.

And when he opened the fyfth scale, I sawe vnder the altire, the soules of them that were kyled for the worde of God, and for the testimony which they had, and they cryed with a lowde voyce sayenge: how longe taryest thou. LORDE holy and true, so iudge & to auenge our bloude on them that dwell on the earth. And longe whyte garmentes were geuen vnto euery one of them. And it was sayde vnto them, that they shoulde reste for a lytle season, vntill the number of their felowes, and brether, and of them that shoulde be kyled as they were, were fulfilled.

And I behelde when he opened the sixte scale, and loo, there was a grete earth quake, and y sonne was as blacke as sacke cloth made of heare. And the mone waxed euil as bloude: and the starres of heauen fell vnto the earth, euen as a fygge tree casteth from her her fygges, when she is shaken off a mighty wynde. And heauen varyshed awaye, as a scroll when it is rolled together. And all mountayns and yles, were moued out of their places. And the kynges of the earth, and the grete men, and the riche men, and the chiefe captaynes, and the myghtie men, and euery free man, hyd them selues in dens, and in rockes of hylls, and sayde to the hylls, and rockes: fall on vs, and hyde vs from the presence of him that sitteth on the seate, and from the wrath of the lambe, for the grete daye of his wrath is come. And who can endure it?

The VII. Chapter.

And after that sawe I foure angels stode on the foure corners of the earth, holdynge the foure wyndes of the earth, that the wyndes shoulde not blowe on the earth, ne ther on the see, ne ther on any tree. And I sawe another angel ascende fro the ryng of the sonne: which had the seale of the lyuinge God, and he cryed with a lowde voyce to the foure angelles (to whom power was geuen to hurt the earth and the see) sayenge: do not hurt the earth, ne ther the see, ne ther the trees, till we haue sealed the seruautes of our God in their foreheddes.

And I herde the nombre of them that were sealed, and there were sealed an c. and xliij. M. of all the trybes of the chyldren of Israell. Of the trybe of Iuda were sealed x. M. Of the trybe of Ruben were sealed vi. M. Of the trybe of Gad were sealed vi. M. Of the trybe of Asser were sealed vi. M. Of the trybe of Neptalym were sealed vi. M. Of the trybe of Manasses were sealed vi. M. Of the trybe of Symeon were sealed vi. M. Of the trybe of Levi were sealed x. M. Of the trybe of Isacar were sealed vi. M. Of the trybe of Zabulon were sealed vi. M. Of the trybe of Joseph were sealed vi. M. Of the trybe of Benjamin were sealed vi. M. thousande.

After this I behelde, and lo, a grete multitude (which no man coulde nombre) of nacions and people, and tonges, stode before the seate, and before the lambe, clothed in longe whyte garmentes, and palmes in their hondes, and cryed with a lowde voyce, sayenge: saluacion be ascribed to him that sitteth vpon the seate of oure God, and vnto the lambe. And all the angels stode in the cypse of the seate, and of the elders and of the foure bestes, and fell before the seate on their faces, and worshipped God, sayenge, amen. Blessynge and glory, wysdome and thankes, and honour, and power and might, be vnto oure God for evermore Amen.

And one of the elders answered, sayenge vnto me: what are these which are arrayed in longe whyte garmentes, and whence come they? And I sayde vnto him: LORDE thou wotest. And he sayde vnto me: these are they which cam out of grete tribulacion, and made their garmentes large, and made them whyte in the bloude of the lambe: these are they in the presence of the seate of God, and serue him daye and night in his temple, and he that sitteth in the seate, will dwelle amonge them. They shal hunger & thirst, ne ther chylde, ne ther shal the sonne drye them, ne ther any heate: for the labe which is in the myddes of the seate, shal fede them, and shal leade them vnto fountaynes of whyng water, and God shal wype awaye all teares from their eyes.

The VIII. Chapter.

And when he had opened the seventh scale, there was silence in heauen aboute the space of halfe an houre. And I shal reigne for evermore. And the foure and twenty Elders, which sat before God on their seatts, fell vpon their faces, and worshipped God sayenge: we geue the thankes LORDE God allmyghte: which art and wast, and art to come, for thou hast receaued thy grete might, and hast raygned. And the heythen were angry, & thy wrath is come, and the tyme of the dead that they shoulde be iudged, and that thou shouldest geue rewarde vnto thy seruautes the prophetes and sayntes, and to the that feare thy name, small & grete: and shouldest destroye them which destroye the earth. And the temple of God was opened in heauen, and there was sene in his temple the arcke of his testament: and there folowed lighenynge, and voyces, and thondrynges and earth quake, and a grete hayle.

And there appeared a grete token in heauen. A woman clothed with the sonne, and the mone vnder her fete, and vpon her heed a crowne of twelue starres. And she was with childe, and cryed travaillynge in byrth, and payned redy to be deliuered. And there appeared another token in heauen, and beholde a grete reed dragon, hauinge seven heades, and ten hornes and seuen crownes vpon his heades: and his tayle drew the thyrde parte of the starres, and cast them to the earth.

And the dragon stode before the womā, which was ready to be deliuered: for to deuoure her childe as sone as it were borne. And she brought forth a man childe, which shoulde rule all nacions with a rod of yron. And her sonne was taken vp vnto God, and to his seate. And the woman fled in to the wyldernes, where she had a place prepared off God, that they shoulde fede her there a M. iij. C. and lx. dayes.

And there was a grete batayll in heauen Michael and his angels foughte with the dragon, and the dragon foughte and his angels, and preuailed not, ne ther was their place founde any more in heauen. And the grete dragon that olde serpent (called the deuill and Sathanas) was cast out. Which disceined all the worlde. And he was cast in to the earth, and his angelles were cast out with him also.

And I herde a lowde voyce, which sayde in heauen: Now is saluacion, and strength and the kyngdome become ours Gods, and y power his Christes: for he is cast downe, which accused them before God daye and night. And they overcame him by the blou-

de of the lambe, and by the worde of their testimony, and they loved not their lyues vnto the death. Therefore reioyce ye heauens, and ye that dwell in them. Woe to the inhabytors of the earth, and of the see: for the deuill is come downe vnto you, which hath grete wrath, because he knoweth, that he hath but a short tyme.

And when the dragon sawe, that he was cast vnto the earth, he persecuted the woman, which brought forth the man childe. And to the woman were geue two wynges of a grete egle: that she might flye in to the wyldernes, in to her place, where she is noryshed for a tyme, two tymes, and halffe a tyme, from the presence of the serpent. And the dragon cast out of his mouth water after the womā, as it had bene a ryuer, that he might cause her to be caught of the flood. And the earth holpe the woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed vp the ryuer which the dragon cast out of his mouth. And the dragon was wroth with the womā: and went and made warre with the remnaunt of hyr seed, which kepe the commaundementes of God, and haue the testimony of Iesus Christ. And I stode on the see sonde.

The XIII. Chapter.

And I sawe a best rise out of the see, hauinge seven heades, and x. hornes, and vpon his hornes x. crownes, and vpon his heed, the names of blasphemy. And the best which I sawe was lyke a catt of the mountayne, and his fete were as the fete of a bear, and his mouth as the mouth of a lion. And the dragon gaue him his power and his seate, and grete auctorite: and I sawe one of his heades as it were wounded to death, and his deadly wounde was healed. And all the worlde wolded at the best, and they worshipped the dragon which gaue power vnto the best, and they worshipped the best, sayenge: who is lyke vnto the best: who is able to warre with him?

And there was geuen vnto him a mouth to speake grete thynges & blasphemies, and power was geuen vnto him, to do xliij. monethes. And he opened his mouth vnto blasphemy agaynst God, to blasphemie his name, and his tabernacle and them that dwell in heauen. And it was geuen vnto him to make warre with the sayntes, and to overcome them. And power was geuen him ouer all kynred, tonge, and nacion: and all that dwel upon the earth worshippe him: whose names are not wyrtten in the booke of life of the lambe, which was kylled from the begynnyng of the worlde. If any man haue an eare, let him heare. He that leaueh in to captiuite, shal go in to captiuite: he that killeth with a swearde, must be killed with y swearde. Here is the pacience, and the faith of the sayntes.

And I behelde another beest commynge vp out of the earth, and he had two hornes like a lambe, and he spake as dyd the drago. And he dyd all that the first beest coude do in his ptesence, and he caused the earth, and them which dwell therein, to worshippe the first beest, whose deedly wounde was healed. And he dyd greute wonders, so that he made fyre come downe from heauē in the sight of men. And deceaued them that dwell on the earth by y meanes of those signes which he had power to do in the sight of the beest, sayenge to them that dwell on the earth: that they shulde make an ymage vnto the beest, which had the wounde of a swearde and dyd lue.

And he had power to geue a spiete vnto the ymage of the beest, and that the ymage of the beest shulde speake, and shulde cause, that as many as wolde not worshippe the ymage of the beest, shulde be kylled. And he made all bothe smale and greute, ryche and poore, fre and bond, to receaue a marke in their right hondes, or in their foreheades. And that no man might by or sell, saue he y had y marke, or the name of the beest, ether the nombre of his name. Here is wysdome. Let him that hath wyt, count the nombre of the beest. For it is the nombre of a man, and his nombre is sixe hondred, thre score and sixe.

The XIII. Chapter.

¶ And I lokyd, and lo, a lambe stode on the moūt Syon, and with him C. and xliij. thousande hauynge his fathers name wyrtten in their foreheades. And I herde a voyce from heauen, as the sounde of many waters, and as the voyce of a greute thondre. And the voyce that I herde, was as the harpers that playe vpon their harpers. And they songe as it were a newe songe, before the seate, & before y foure beestes, and the elders, and no man coude learne y songe, but the hondred and xliij. M. which were redemed from the earth. These are they, which were not defyled with women, for they are virgyns. These folowe the lambe, whiche soeuer he goeth. These were redemed from men, beyng the first frutes to God and to the lambe, and in their mouthes was founde no gyle. For they are without spot before the trone of God.

And I sawe an angell flye in the myddes of heauen hauinge an euertlastinge Gospell, to preache vnto them that sit and dwell on the earth, and to all nations, kinredes, and toges and people, sayenge with a lowde voyce: Feare God, and geue honour to him, for the houre of his iudgement is come: and worshippe him: that made heauen and earth, and the see, and the fountaynes of water. And there folowed another angell, sayenge: She is fallen, she is fallen: euē Babilon that greute cite, for she made all nations drynke off the wyne off hyr whoredome.

And the thyrde angel folowed the sayenge with a lowde voyce: If any man worshippe the beest and his ymage, and receaue a marke in his forehead, or on his honde, the same shall drynke of the wyne of the wrath of God, which is powred in the cuppe of his wrath. And he shalbe punysshed in fyre and brymstone, before the holy Angels, and before the lambe.

And the smoke of their torment ascendeth vp evermore. And they haue no rest daye ner nyght, which worshippe the beest and his ymage, and whosoever receaueh the prynt of his name. Here is the pacience of sayntes. Heare are they that kepe the commaundementes and the faith of Iesu.

And I herde a voyce from heauen, sayenge vnto me: wyte: Blessed are y deed, which hereafter dye in the LORDE. See the spere sayeth, that they rest from their labours, for their workes folowe them. And I lokyd and behelde, a whyte cloude, and vpon y cloude one sittynge like vnto the sonne of man, hauinge on his heed a golden crowne, and in his hōde a sharpe sylle. And another angell came out of the temple, cryenge with a lowde voyce to him that sat on the cloude: Thruste in thy sylle and reepe: for the tyme is come to reepe, for the come of the earth is ripe. And he that sat on y cloude thrust in his sylle on the earth, and the earth was reaped.

And another angell came out of the temple, which is in heauen, hauinge also a sharpe sylle. And another angel came out from the altar, which had power ouer fyre, and cryed with a lowde crye vnto hym: that had the sharpe sylle, and sayde: Thruste in thy sharpe sylle, and gather the clustres of y earth, for hir grapes are ripe. And the angell thrust in his sylle on the earth, and cutt downe the grapes of the vynyarde of the earth, and cast them in to the greute wynefat of y wrath of God: & the wynefat was trodden without the cite, and bloude came out of the fat, euē vnto the horsses brydles by the space of a thousande and sixe hundred furlonges.

The XV. Chapter.

¶ And I sawe another signe in heuen grete & meruellous. vii. angells hauinge the seven laste plagis, for in the is fulfilled the wrath of god. And I sawe as it were a glassye see, mingled with fyre, and them that had gotten victory of the beest, and of his ymage, and of his marke, and of the nombre of his name, stonde on the glassye see, hauinge y harpes of God: and they songe the songe of Moses the seruaunt of God, and the songe of the lambe, sayenge: Greute and marvellous are thy workes LORDE God almyghty, iust and true are thy wayes, thou kyng of sayntes. Who shal not feare the LORDE and glorifye thy name? For thou only art holy, for all gentiles shall come and worshippe before the, for thy iudgements are made manifest.

And after that, I lokyd, and behelde, the temple of the Tabernacle of testimony was open in heauen, and the seven angelles came out of the temple, which had the seven plagis, clothed in pure and bryght lymē, and hauynge their buxtes gyrded with golden girdelles. And one of the foure beestes gaue vnto the seven angelles seven golden vialles, full of the wrath of God which liueth for evermore. And the temple was full of smoke for the glory off God, and for his power, and no man was able to entre in to the temple, till the seven plagis of the seven angelles were fulfilled.

The XVI. Chapter.

¶ And I herde a greute voyce out of the temple, sayenge to the seven angelles: go youre wayes, poure out youre vialles of wrath vpon the earth. And the first went, and poured out his viall vpon the earth, and there fell a noysson: for both upon the men which had the marke of the beest, and upon them that worshipped his ymage. And the seconde angel shed out his viall vpon the see, and it turned as it were in to the bloud of a deed man, and euery lyuynge thing dyed in the see. And the thyrde angel shed out his viall vpon the ryuers and fountaynes of waters, and they turned to bloude. And I herde an angel saye: LORDE which art and wast, thou art righteous and holy, because thou hast geue soche iudgements, for they shed the bloude of sayntes, and prophetes, and therfore hast thou geuen them bloude to drynke: for they are worthy. And I herde another angell out of the altar, saye: euē so LORDE God almyghty, true and righteous are thy iudgements.

And the fourth angel poured out his viall on the Sonne, and power was geuen vnto him to vexe men with heate of fyre. And the men raged in gret heate, and spake euell of the name of God, which had power ouer those plagis, and they repented not, to geue him glory. And the fyfte angel poured out his viall vpon the seate of the beest, and his kyngdome waxed derke, and they gnawe their tonges for sorowe, and blasphemed the God of heauē for sorowe, and payne of their sores, and repented not of their dedes.

And the sixte angel poured out his viall vpon the gret ryuer Euphrates, and the water dried vp, that the wayes of the kynges of the East shulde be prepared. And I sawe the vncleane spretes like frogges come out of the mouth of the dragon, and out off the mouth off the beest, and out off the mouth of the false prophet. For they are the spretes of deuils workynge myracles, to go out vnto the kynges of the earth and of the whole worlde, to gadder them to the battayle of that gret daye of God almyghty. Beholde, I come as a thefe. Happy is he that watcheth and kepeth his garmentes, lest he be founde naked, and man se his filchynes. And he gaddered them togedder in to a place, called in the hebreue tonge, Armagedon.

And the seventh angel poured out his viall in to the ayre. And there came a greute voyce out of heauen from the seate, sayenge: It is done. And there folowed voyces, thunders, and lightnynges, and there was gret earthquake, soch as was not sence were vpon the earth, so myghty an quake and so greute. And was deuyded in to thie parties. And the cities of nations fell. And greate Babilon came in remembrance before God, to geue vnto hye the cuppe of wyne of the scarcenes of his wrath. And every yle fled away, and the mountaynes were not founde. And there fell a greate hayle, as it had bene talentes, out of heauē vpon the men, and the men blasphemed God, because of the plage of the hayle, for it was greate, and the plage of it sore.

The XVII. Chapter.

After that cam one of the seuen angels, which had the seuen vialles, and talked with me, sayenge vnto me: Come, I wil shewe the the iudgment of the greates whore, that sitteth vpon many waters, with whom the kynges of the earth haue commytted whordome, and the inhabitants of the earth are drunken with the wyne of her fornicacion. And he caryed me awaye into the wilderness in y^e sperte. And I sawe a woman syt vpon a rose colored beest, full of names of blasphemie, which had seuen heades & ten homes. And y^e woman was arrayed in purple and rose color, and decked with golde, precious stone, and pearles, and had a cuppe of golde in her honde, full of abominacions, and fylchines of her whordome. And in her forehead was a name wyrtē, a mystery: greate Babilon the mother of whordome, and abominacions of the earth. And I sawe the wyse dronke with the bloude of sayntes, and with the bloude of the witnesses of Iesu. And when I sawe her, I wondred with greate mervayle.

And the angell sayde vnto me: wherfore mervayllest thou? I wil shewe the the mystery of the woman, and of the beest that beareth her, which hath seuen heades, and ten homes. The beest that thou seest, was, and is not, and shall ascende out of the bottomlesse pyte, and shall go in to perdition, and they that dwell on the earth shall wondre (whose names are not wyrtē in the booke of life from the begynnyng of the worlde) when they beholde the beest that was, and is not. And here is a mynde, that hath wisdom.

The seuen heades are seuen mountanes, which the woman sitteth: they are also kynges. Syue are fallen, and one is, and her is not yet come. When he cometh he continue a space. And the beest that was, and is not, is enē the eyght,

and is of the seuen, and shall go in to destruction. And y^e ten homes which thou sawest, are ten kynges, which haue not yet receyued the kyngdome, but shall receaue power as kynges at one houre with y^e beest. They haue one mynde, and shall geue their power and strenght vnto y^e beest. These shall syt with the lambe, and the labe shall overcome them: for he is. LORDE of all lordes, and kinge of all kynges: and they that are on his syde, are called, and chosen and faithfull.

And he saide vnto me: The waters which thou sawest, where y^e whore sitteth, are people, and folke, and nations, and congre. And the ten homes, which thou sawest vpon the beest, are they that shall hate the whore, and shall make her desolate, and naked, and shall eat hir flesh, and burne her with fyre. For God hath put in their hertes, to fulfill his wyll, and to do with one consent, for to geue hir kyngdome vnto the beest, vntill the wordes of God be fulfilled. And the woman which thou sawest, is that greates cite, which raigneth over the kynges of the earth.

The XVIII. Chapter.

After that I sawe another angel come downe fro heauē, hauinge grete power, and y^e earth was lyghtned with his bryghnes. And he cryed mightily with a stronge voyce, sayenge: She is fallen, she is fallen, euē greates Babilon, and is become the habitacon of deuils, and y^e habde of all foule spertes, and a cage of all cleane and hateful byrdes: for all nacōs haue drunken of the wyne of the wrath of her whordome. And the kynges of the earth haue committed fornicacion with her, and the marchauntes are wexed ryche of the abondaunce of her pleasures.

And I herde another voyce from heauē saye: come awaye from her my people, that ye be not partakers of her synnes, lest y^e receaue of her plages. For her synnes are gone vnto heauen, and the LORDE hath remembred her wickednes. Rewarde her euē as she rewarded you, and geue her double accordinge to her workes. And poure in dubble to her in the same cuppe, which she fylled vnto you. And as moche as she glorified herself, and lyled wantonly, so moche poure ye in, for her of punysshment, and sorowe, for she sayeth in her herte: I syt beinge a quene, and am no wyddowe, and shall see no sorowe. Therefore shall her plages come at one daye, death, and sorowe, and hunger, and she shall be brenned with fyre: for stronge is the LORDE God which shall iudge her.

And the kynges of the earth shall bewepe her and wayle ouer her, which haue committed fornicacion and lyled wantonly with her, when they shall see the smoke of her burnyng, and shall stonde a farre off for feare of her punysshment, sayenge: Alas, Alas, that greates cite Babilon, that mighty cite: for at one houre is thy iudgment come. And the marchauntes off the earth shall wepe and wayle in them selues, because no man will bye their wares any more, the wares of golde, and syluer, and of precious stones, off pearle, & sylke, and purple, and scarlet, & all thynges of wode, and all manner vessels of yvory, and all manner vessels of most precious wode, and of brasse, and of yron, & synomom and obours, and oymmentes, and frant ynsence, and wyne, and oyle, and fyne floure, and wheate, and catell, and shepe, and horses, and charrettes, and bodies and soles of men.

And the apples that thy soule lusted after, are departed from the. And all thynges which were deyntie, and had in pryce, are departed from the, and thou shalt synde them no more. The marchauntes of these thynges which were wexed ryche by her, shall stonde a farre off for feare of the punysshment of her, wepyng and waylinge, and sayenge: alas alas, that greates cite, that was clothed in sylke, and purple, and scarlet, and decked with golde, and precious stone, and pearles: for at one houre so greates ryches is come to naught.

And every shippe gouerner, and all they that decapie shippes, and shippmen which worke in the see, stode a farre off, and cryed, when they sawe the smoke of her burnyng, and sayde: what cite is like vnto this greates cite? And they cast dust on their heades, and cryed wepyng, and waylinge, and sayde: Alas, Alas the greates cite, wherein were made ryche all that had shippes in the see, by the reason of her wares: for at one houre is she made desolate.

Reioyce ouer her thou heauē, and ye holy Apostles, and prophetes: for God hath geuen youre iudgment on her. And a mighty angell toke vp a greates stone lyke a myllstone, and cast it in to the see, sayenge: with suche violence shall that greates cite Babilon be cast, and shall be founde nomore. And the voyce of harpers, and musiciens, and of pypers, and trompetters, shall be herde no more in the: and no craftes man (of what soeuer craft he be) shall be founde any more in the: and the sounde of a myll shall be herde no more in the: and the voyce of the brydegrome and of the bryde, shall be herde no more in the: for thy marchauntes were prynces of the earth. And with thyne inchaſtment were deceaued all nacōs: and in her was founde the bloude of the prophetes, and of the sayntes, and of all that were slayne vpon the earth.

The XIX. Chapter.

After that, I herde the voyce of much people in heauen, sayenge: Alleluia. Saluacion and glory and honour, and power be ascribed to the LORDE & God, for true and righteous are his iudgements, because he hath iudged the greates whore (which did corrupt y^e earth with her fornicacion) and hath auenged the bloude of his seruantes of her hond. And agayne they sayde: Alleluia. And smoke rose vp for euermore. And y^e xliij: elders, & the foure beestes fell downe, and worshipped God that sat on the seate, sayenge: Amen: Alleluia. And a voice came out of the seate, sayenge: prayse & LORDE God all ye that are his seruantes, & recheat feare him boch small and greates.

And I herde the voyce of much people, euē y^e voyce of many waters, & as y^e voyce of stronge thondrynges, sayenge: Alleluia, for God omnipotent raigneth. Let vs be glad and reioyce, and geue honour to him: for the mariage of the labe is come, and his wise made her selfe ready. And to her was graunted, that she shulde be arrayed with pure and goodly sylke. (As for the sylke, it is the rightewesnes of sayntes.) And he sayde vnto me: Blessed are they which are called vnto the Lambes supper. And he sayde vnto me: these are the true sayenges of God. And I fell at his fete, to worshippe him. And he sayde vnto me: Set thou do it not. For I am thy fellowe seruaunt, and one of thy brethien, and of them that haue the testimony of Iesus. Worshippe God: for the testimony of Iesus is y^e sperte of prophesy. And I sawe heauē open, & beholde, a whyte horse, and he that sat vpon him, was called faithfull and true, & in rightewesnes byd iudre make battayle. His eyes were fyre, and on his heade weren he had a name wyrtē, that was but him selfe. And he wavesture vipe in blonde, and his name is called, y^e wordes of God. And y^e warriors which were in heauen, folowed him vpon whyte horses, clothed with whyte and pure sylke

and, out of his mouth he wante a sharpe sward, that woth to be shulde synce the heichen. And he shall rule them with a rodde of yron, and he trode the wynefatte of the fearcenesse and wrath of allmyghtye God.
And hath on his vesture and on his thyghe
a name wrytten, Kyng of all kynges, and LORDE of all lordes.

And I sawe an angell stonde in the Sonne, and he cryed with a lowde voyce, sayenge to all the folkes that flye by them, vnder the heauen: Come and gaddie youre selues togedder vnto the supper of the great Wed, that ye maye eate the fleshe of kyn- ges, and of hye captaynes, and the fleshe of mighty men, and the fleshe of hoiffes, and of th^e that sye on them, and the fleshe of all free men and bond men, both of small and greate. And I sawe the beeste and the kynges of y^e earth, and their warriors gad- deth togedder, to make battayle agaynste him that sat vpon the hoiffe, and agaynste his souldiers.

And the beeste was taken, and with him that false prophet that wrought myracles
before him, with which he disceined them that receaued the beestes marke, and them that worshipped his ymage. * They which were cast in to a ponde of fyre burninge brymstone: and the remnant were slayne with the swearde of him that sat vpon the beeste, which swearde proceded out of his mouth, and all the foules were filled with their fleshe.

The XX. Chapter.

21 And I sawe an angell come downe from heauen, havinge the keye of the bottomlesse pyt, and a gret chayne in his hande. And he toke the dragon that olde serpent (which is the deuell and Sata-nas) and he bounde him a thousand yeares and cast him into the bottomlesse pyt, and he bounde him, and set a scale on him, that he shuld viscease the people nomore, tyll
the thousand yeares were fulfilled. And after that muste he be lowed for a littell sea-

seates, and they sat vpon

the soules of them that were beheaded for the witness of Iesus

for the worde of God: which had not worshipped the beast, neither his ymage, neither had taken his marke vpon their fore-heads, or on their handes: and they liued, and rayned with Christ a thousand years: but the other of the deed men liued not againe, vntill the thousand years were finished.
This is the first resurrection. Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection. On such hath the seconde death no power, but they shall be the prestes of God and of Christ, and shall rayne with him
a thousand years.

And when the thousand yeares are expy-red, Sathan shalbe loosed out of his prison and shal go out to deceaue the people which are in the foure quarters of the earth. Gog and Magog, to gadder them together in batayle, whose nombre is as the sande off the see: and they went vp on the playne of the earth, and compassed the tentes of the sayntes aboute, and the beloued cite. And fyrre cam downe from God out of heauen, and deuoured them: and the deuell that disceaued them, was cast into a lake of fyre
and brymstone, where the beest and the false prophet were, and shalbe tormented day and night for evermore.

And I sawe a gret whyte seate, and him
that sat on it, from whose face fled away
both the earth and heauen, and their place was nomore founde. And I sawe the deeth, both gret and small stonde before God: And the booke were opened, and another booke was opened, which is (the booke) of life, and the deeth were iudged of the thinges which were wrytten in the booke accordinge to their dedes: and the seagane vp hee deeth,
which were in her, and deeth and hell deli-uered vp the deeth, which were in them: and they were iudged every man accordyng to his dedes. And deeth and hell were cast in to the lake of fyre. This is that second deeth.
And whosoever was not founde wrytten
in the booke off life, was cast in to the lake of fyre.

The XXI. Chapter.

And I sawe a * newe heauen and a newe earth. For the fyfth heauen, and the fyfth earth were vanished away, and there was nomore See. And I then sawe that holy cite newe Ierusalem come downe from God out of heauen, prepared

e a greate voyce from the seare, sayen holde, the tabernacle of God is with and he wil dwell with them. And they e his people, and God himselſe shalbe with the, and shalbe their God. And God shal wipe awaye all teares from their eyes.
And there shalbe nomore deeth, nerher so-
rowe, nerher shal there be eny more payne, for, f olde thinges are gone. And he that sat vpon the seate, sayde: Beholde, I make all thing: s newe. And he sayde vnto me: wytee for these wordes are faithfull and true,

he sayde vnto them: it is done. I am begynnyng, and that is a thyse

hom: able, and murtherers, and wygdon-gers, and forcerers, and idolaters, & all yare,
shal haue their parte in the lake, whiche bur-neth with fyre and brymstone, which is the seconde deatch.

And there came vnto me one of the seven angels, which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues: and calked with me, sayenge: come hydder, I wil shewethe the bryde, y labes wyfe. And he caryed me a waye in y spierte to a greate and an hye mountayne, and he shewed me the greate cite, holy Ierusalē descendinge out of heauen from God, haunyngthe brightnes of God. And her shynyngewas lyke vnto a stone most precious, euen as Iaspas cleare as cristall: ⁊ had greate and hye walles, and had twolue gates, and at y gates twolue angels: and names awrytten, which are the twolue trybes of Iisrael: on the est parte thre gates, and on the north syde thre gates, and towarde the south thre gates, and from the west thre gates: and the wall of the cite had twolue founda cions, and in them the names of the lambes twolue Apostles.

¶ And he that talked with me, had a golden reede to measure the cite with all, and the gates therof, and the wall therof. And the cite was bylt foure square, and the length was as large as the bredth of it, and he measured the cite with the reede twolme III. furlonges: and the length and the bredth, and y^e heyth of it, were equall. And he measured the wall therof, an cxliiij. cubittes, after y^e measure of a man, which the angel had. And the buyldinge of the wall of it: was of of S. Iohn. 2^{do}. cxiij.

Jasper. And the cite was of pure golde, like unto cleare glasse: and y^e foundacions of the walles and of y^e cite were garnysht with all maner of precious stones. The first foundacion was a Jasper, the seconde a Saphyre, y^e thyrde a Calcedony, the fourth a Smaragde: the fyft a Sardonyx: the sixt a Sardos: the seuenth a Crysolite, the eyght berall: the nyynth a Topas: the tenth a Cryspasos: the eleventh a Jacynthe: the twelfte an Amatisst.

And the twelue gates were twelue pearles, and every gate was of one pearle, and yf strete of the cite was pure golde, as a thoroughshyninge glasse. And I sawe no temple therin. For the LORDE God allmyghty and the lambe is the temple of it, and the cite hath no nede of the Sonne, nether of the moone to lyghten it. For the bryghtnes of God doth light it: and the lambe is the lyght of it. And yf people which are saved, shal walke in the light of it: and the kynges of the earth shal brynge their glory vnto it. * And the gates of it shal not be shut by daye. For there shalbe no night there. And there shal entre in to it none vncleane thinge: nether what soeuer worketh abhominacion: nor maketh lyes: but they which are wrytten in the lamber booke of life.

The XXII. Chapter.

When he shewed me a pure ryuer of water of life clere as cristall: proceadinge out of the seate of God and of y lam be in the myddes of the strete of it, and of ether syde of the ryuer was there wod of life: which bare twolue maner of frutes: and gaue frute every moneth: and the leanes of the wods serued to heale the people with all.

And there shalbe no more curse, but the seate of God and y^e lābe shalbe in it: and his seruantes shal serue him: And shal se his face, and his name shalbe in their foreheades.
* And there shalbe no night there, and they nede no candle, neither light of the Sonne:
for the LORDE God giveth the light, and they shal reioyce for evermore.

And he saye vnto me these sayenges are 25
faithfull, and true. And the LORDE God of the holy prophetes sent his angell to shewe vnto me these sayenges, the thinges which muste shortly be fulfilled. Beholde, I come shortly. Happy is he that keepeth the sayenge of the prophesie of this booke. I am Iohn, which same these things and herbe them. And whe I had herde and sawe this, I fell downe to worshippinge before the feete of the angell which shewed me these thinges. And he saide vnto me: se thou do it not, for I am thy fellowe seruaunt and the fellowe seruaunt of thy brethren the prophetes, and of them which keepe the sayenges of this booke. Worshippe God.

And he sayde vnto me: seale not the sayences of the prophesy of this booke. For the tyme is at hande. He that doeth euell, let him do euell still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be more righteous: and he that is holy, let him be more holy. And beholde, I come shortly, and my rewarde with me, to geue every man accordinge as his dedes shalbe. I am Alpha and Omega, y. begynnyng and the ende, the first and the last. Blessed are they that keepe his commandementes, that their power maye be in the tree of life, and maye entre in thorow the gates into the cite. For without are dogges and inchaunters and whomongers, and murderers, and ydola-

ters, and whosoener loneth o: warges.

I Iesus haue sent myne angell, to
vnto you these thinges in the congregacion.
I am the rote and the generacion of and the bryghte morninge starre. And the spire and the bryde saye: Come. And let him that heareth, saye also: Come. And let him that is a thyrst, come. And let whosoever wyl, take of the water of life fre.

I testifie vnto every man that heareth
the wordes of prophesy of this booke, that man shal adde vnto these thinges, that adde vnto him the part that are in this booke. And whoso shall of the wordes of this booke, shall God shal take awaye his parte of the booke of life, and the holy cite, and the thinges which are written in this booke.
He which testifieth these thinges, sayeth:
yea I come quickly. Amen. The grace of our LORDE Iesu Christ be with you all. Amen.
